Letter To The Editor

Y Did Not Intend To Take Play Space

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

In the Ontario Intelligencer issue of May 20th, it was reported the "Y" requested to build their proposed new building on the East Hill Playground, perhaps giving the impression to some people that the building would do away with the present playground facilities.

The facts are that L.a president of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. Board of Management, invited the Public School Board, as a member of the Site Selection Committee, it was intended to be a preliminary meeting which would lead to official discussion on the possibility of this area being used as a proposed site.

In considering the east hill playground property, the "Y" board of directors gave no thought to interfere with playground activity; as a matter of fact, as part of the property being considered was the area, to the south of the present "Y" for that purpose. In addition, with the new building to be erected, the recreation facilities would be increased considerably, not only for the summer months, but the plans for the proposed "Y" building purpose of year round outside recreational activity.

The Y.M.C.A. fully appreciates the feeling of the Public School Board in this regard and it is anxious that the general public be aware of the facts as per concern the Public School Board and the Y.M.C.A., that only after the fullest co-operation at all times.

JACK LANGLAND,
President,
Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A recent Packsack which related how two foxes, running ahead of hounds, took turns in hiding in a hollow log, and ran in relays until they had completely exhausted the hounds, has brought a furore of letters from fox hunters all over the country. Their tone is derisive. This is a matter of pride. Skipper Howard and Dr. Reg Paul who told the story to the Packsack originally.

"So," says Skipper Howard, "there's another, and any fox hunter who disbelieves this simply hasn't ever been fox hunting."

"When a fox gets weary of being run by the hounds, he runs a stump or a rock in the middle of it. You will find plenty of such hummocks in old pastures and around the edges of woodlots." Dr. Paul explains this concept. As runs not once, but two or three times, leaping and clear heel trail in a circle. A ring."

"Then, with a colossal jump, the fox bounds into the air, right into the middle of the ring. And there it sits on the stump or rock and waits for the hounds to catch up. They run around the circle. They run around it again. And again, furiously tonguing."

"Now, it is the nature of hounds to run wide. So there they go, round and round, getting further all the time, and farther out, with the fox sitting pretty in the middle, laughing. And in a few minutes the hounds have run so wide they have lost the scent entirely, and give up and go home."

Now how about that!

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SPLEEN CAN BE REMOVED WITHOUT BAD AFFECTS

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son was in an accident and his spleen was punctured. The result was an immediate operation. He hasn't been feeling right since. How important is the spleen to the body? — Mrs. L. T."

The spleen is a useful but not a necessary organ. It is a reservoir, or storage place for some blood particles. It also creates some — but other organs (like bone marrow) also create them. Since it is so intimately connected with the circulatory system, it has to be removed (and the blood vessels tied) to prevent bleeding to death in surgery. If it is punctured, While it is useful, it is not vital to good health. Your son's uneasiness or feelings, whatever the cause, do not come from the fact that the spleen has been removed. The spleen can be removed without interfering with good health, comfort and happiness.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you read the enclosed article on increasing the size of the bust, and tell me whether it is possible or just some more baloney? — E. M."

I note that the article says that "American medical authorities would not express an opinion on the technique or its safety."

Include me in that group. Injecting bulky material into any part of the body is dangerous because sensitive glandular tissues like the breast, seems too risky to me. Perhaps I'm old-fashioned, wonder if you noted another article which I read just as I do. "The effect remains for a considerable time." It doesn't say that it "continues" indefinitely, but it sounds to me like another "you take your chances." Anyway, "what do you think? No, I'm sorry but I wouldn't want to recommend it to you as safe, and obviously other doctors in this country feel just as I do.

"Dear Dr. Molner: How safe is the use of milk right from a cow or a goat? Is it best to heat it to a certain degree before refrigeration? If there are reactions from raw milk, what are they? This is quite a heated question in our home. — G. C."

Most animals, like most people we meet, are healthy. But you never know when one of the cows carries a germ. Milk, as fine a food as it is, can carry germs. That is why we never approve the use of raw milk. Too often its use has led to tuberculosis, scarlet fever, diphtheria, strep throat, typhoid, undulant fever and other diseases.

All milk should be pasteurized! No exceptions. It is the only safe rule. There is "quick pasteurization" and "low temperature pasteurization," but many authoritative texts now make mention only of the latter, which involves bringing the milk to 150 degrees or cooler. You don't boil the milk, but you keep it for a long enough period at a temperature which will reduce the number of harmful germs to a safe level.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Lately I have been ruining all my clothing by perspiration. I never did this before. Some people tell me it's my nerves. I'm 18 and my nerves don't seem that bad. Some say it is over-action, but that can't be it. I can be sitting perfectly still and yet have this problem. Is this overactive sweat glands, or what? Is there something I can take? Or should I see a doctor? — Miss C. W."

Let's not get panicky, but this is something that deserves a check-up by your doctor, so go see him. If he finds you have no health problem, then ask him about an effective anti-perspirant. He may be able to give you appropriate medication to control perspiration.

Mrs. T. W.: No, conditions at home will not cause mental retardation. The child you're writing couldn't cause it. On the other hand, the older boy is old enough to have the situation explained to him. It's cruel to pick on a child who isn't quite bright."

Measles can be fatal to young children! For an explanation of the seriousness of this disease, write me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 65, Dundee, Ill., requesting the pamphlet, "Measles, the 'Harmless' Killer," and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

SYDNEY, NOVA SCOTIA

The origin of this city goes back to 1784, when the area was first settled. Just in the early history of the island the province's first governor, Lord Sydney, the name was changed to Sydney Bay. Benjamin Barres, governor of Cape Breton, selected the site of Sydney as the town site. That same year Sir Thomas Townsend became Viscount Sydney and governor Des Barres named the new settlement for him. On his arrival with a few months later, he expressed his keen enjoyment.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THAT INNER JOY

William James said of Wordsworth that "Wordsworth's life carried the burden of a significance that lies for the most of us scattered that joy far and wide. Phillips Brooks, the great Boston preacher, was of the same mind. scores of others from whom we have been guided to higher spiritual heights.

In nature there is displayed an abundance of beauty, hidden miracles, and lessons that men have learned, and which have inspired all of man's art and ingenuity. Nature is rich in ideas that have prompted the efforts of men and bird filled the ranks of the curious with the spirit of inspiring faith. There are truths in stones, in singing rivers and in every growing thing in the universe.

Who can fathom the silent eloquence of man's best friend, the dog? How obedient, faithful and under a variety of circumstances with more intelligence in its wagging tail than in the vacant brain of many a human.

Take the example of a bee, an ant, or a spider — these three. Each is an artist in its own right. Perhaps even in these small creatures there may be a secret joy. Man has been so busy cling-ing to money that many of life's wonders are thoughtlessly disregarded. — but not by John Burroughs, Edwin Way Teale or Fabre.

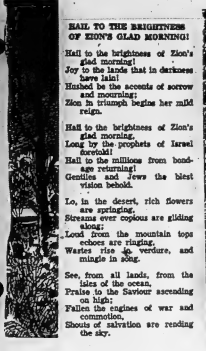
TAKE THOUGHT AND KEEP GOING

There was an old saying among the western miners: Never abandon a claim until you've taken fifty feet farther.



It's amazing how many fortunes have been discovered upon, or found by some chance incident. Edison failed with one thousand of the richest men in the whole westland picked up a rock one day and found a magnificent vein was trying to drive into a corral. He noted the stone's unusual appearance. Sure enough it was loaded with precious metal. Others staked out claims anywhere at all just to get one hundred feet sometimes — and always by any means, but sometimes — they turned out to be valuable.

But many shafts were sunk

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

HAIL TO THE BRIGHTNESS OF ZION'S GLAD MORNING!

Hail to the brightness of Zion's glad morning!
Joy to the lands that in darkness have lain!
Hushed be the accents of sorrow and mourning;
Zion in triumph begins her mild reign.

Hail to the brightness of Zion's glad morning,
Long by the prophets of Israel foretold!
Hail to the millions from bondage returning!
Gentiles and Jews the blest vision behold.

Lo, in the desert, rich flowers are springing,
Streams ever copious are gliding along:
Loud from the mountain tops echoes are ringing,
Wastes rise in joy, verdure, and mingle in song.

See, from all lands, from the isles of the ocean,
Pralse to the Saviour ascending on high;
Fallen the engines of war and commotion,
Shouts of salvation are reading the sky.

The Christian Church has provided with enthusiasm and widely endured many precious and wee stirring missionary hymns but none of them ever will surpass this gem which was written by Thomas Hastings in 1831.

That year, incidentally, was marked by a swelling tide of interest in world missions throughout Christendom. The Rev. Samuel Francis Smith, Baptist minister and author of "America", wrote his missionary hymn, "The Morning Light Is Breaking", and it too was accepted and widely used.

"Thomas Hastings' "Zion's Glad Morning" verses probably would have triumphed with any tune but fortunately they were set to music by Lowell Mason who is known for the magnificent musical settings which he composed for such outstanding hymns as "My Faith Looks Up To Thee", "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross", "Nearer, My God, To Thee", "How Gentle God's Commands!", and "Blest Be The Tie That Binds".

Mr. Hastings was born in Litchfield county, Connecticut in 1784. When he was a boy of 12, his family migrated "by sleigh and ox sledge" to Clinton, New York. At 18, he was directing a village choir and in 1817 he left the farm to devote his life to music.

That decision to change careers was to prove a great blessing to religious music. Through the years that followed, Mr. Hastings wrote more than 600 hymns and composed at least 1,000 tunes for religious songs. He published some 50 books of music.

Maryland a freedom which they did not enjoy in England under the control of the Anglican Church. And the Quakers, who settled in Pennsylvania, came out of persecutions and prisons almost everywhere. America was settled by those who wanted to be in heart and conscience free.

And, thank God, the principle of conscience free from ecclesiastical control has been pretty firmly established on the North American continent. The separation of church and state is a principle which no one dares challenge openly; but we must exercise and cultivated if it is to be trusted.

What is involved in exercising a conscience so that it is "void of offense toward God and toward man?" First of all, it must be kept free.

Freedom of conscience is one of our most highly boasted tenets. The settlers of this land had fled from countries where churches exerted pressure on men's thought and worship. The Pilgrims and Puritans had migrated from England where a state church made many difficulties for dissenters. The Huguenots came to the Carolinas from France where Roman Catholicism, the established religion, persecuted Protestants under heavy disabilities.

Keep Conscience in Condition

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Although the Creator puts a conscience in the original equipment of each person, God does not guarantee to keep it in condition.

A conscience, like our bodily organs, needs care and exercise to keep it fit. And the conscience must be watched even more closely than the body, because its illnesses do not always make themselves known by aches and pains. A sluggish liver gives one a dyspeptic feeling of discomfort, but a sluggish conscience may give us a kind of exhilaration. It may even make us feel that we are having the time of our lives, with no inhibitions to give us pause. It is shallow thinking to say glibly, "Let conscience be your guide." Conscience must be exercise ourselves lest it might be undermined in practice through popular prejudice or the local predominance of some one religious group.

But even if we can keep conscience free from both church and state domination, its freedom would not thereby be guaranteed. Some consciences which are unaffected by state and church influence are still not free. Their freedom is like that of a stray dog, which has no master, and therefore follows almost any passerby who whistles to it. So many persons fall in behind any passing prejudice or whistling crowd. Such are the persons of whom mobs are made. Such are the pliable weaklings who play into the hands of demagogues and charlatans and rabble-rousers. Yes, and such are the people who fall at the behest of any beckoning temptation.

TRUSTWORTHY STANDARD

Saint Paul tells us how he exercised his conscience to keep it free and trustworthy. He submitted his conscience to God in Christ and repeatedly tried to set it in line with God's will. It is which is to keep true time, it must be set by a trustworthy standard. Before I enter the pulpit on Sunday mornings, I compare time with my two colleagues. But we do not trust even a majority vote. One of us calls the telephone operator and gets the exact standard time. Ministers' watches are not absolutely reliable. Neither are their conferences. We all need a higher reference, a divine standard.

Yet people may think that they are following God's will and still do woeful things. The persecutors who stoned Saint Stephen to death, the Spanish Inquisitors who burned nonconformists at the stake, the Puritans who banished Roger Williams from Boston—these were all conscientious and yet they were cruel.

You see, since no man has ever seen God face to face, we can so easily mistake His will and what we make in our minds. That is why Saint Paul looked to God in Christ for guidance. Jesus Christ is a human figure. We have seen how He lived and loved and died. We cannot make Him fit our perverse desires. We test our wishes, our judgments, our ways by His.

Our basic anxiety about the "foreign ministers" conference at Geneva and any future summit conference is that there is no common conscience around these tables. Great Britain, France and America call themselves Christian countries. However far from Christ-like our judgments may be, we recognize the sacredness of will of God. But the Kremlin is looking for no power or will higher than itself.

What a long way would rize if consciences were tested in Moscow as in London and Washington. At least let us keep on saying our flag as that of a "nation under God". And praying!

MARY DEACON

Mary Deacon, Belleville com-poser was recently honored by the renowned Mendelssohn Glee Club of New York by having one of her songs "Follow the Road" performed by this distinguished vocal organization. The Mendelssohn Glee Club is now in its 32rd year and besides offering the standard repertoire of concerts, also includes the best of contemporary compositions. Mrs. Deacon, whose professional career started in 1941 has to date approximately twenty-five songs of both sacred and secular nature published by the five leading music publishers of the U.S.A. and one in Canada. At present about ten more of her compositions, including some choral works and educational material for children are under contract for publication by these publishers. She has been associated with Carl Deis, noted arranger of New York in the majority of her published works. — Eugene Lang.

Cdn. Shoes Getting Market In United States

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian-designed shoes for women are finding a good market in the United States says Montreal shoe designer Phillip DeLGrande.

In an interview here, he said pointed shoes for women are here to stay. "The pointed silhouette is the big thing for this fall, and black will be the outstanding color."

He scoffed at suggestions that the pointed style may be harmful to feet. "We have published 5-way pictures of feet inside pointed-toe shoes and they give every bit as much room as any other shoe."

About 42,000,000 pairs of women's shoes are sold in Canada each year, he said.

"A whole new market has opened up for shoe sales among teen-agers. Now, when a girl is 12 or 13, she wants to dress like a lady, and practically every teen-ager buys high-heeled shoes."

The Keys of Heaven

By Alma Mason

The words: "If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you; if all men count with you but none too much" from Kipling's "If". It should not be interpreted as the philosophy of a cold and calculating mind.

There are times when we are prone to idealize another human being; times when we direct a great wealth of affection towards one or two individuals thereby ignoring the need of many others about who are hungry for our love and thoughtful care.

This is not a healthy attitude. It is one which often destroys love instead of multiplying it and keeping its whole and beautiful.

Love is intensified and reaches the magnificent pinnacle it was ordained for only when it is sown lavishly over hillside and valley without thought of harvest returned.

Jesus has cautioned us to love one another; to show brotherly love and compassion to all other human beings — not to bestow on a few who belong to a privileged inner circle in our lives. He realized that the more love we radiate the more returns in abundance to illuminate our lives. Then all men count with us but none too much.

When we learn to bestow equal love on all human beings the words "If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you" become sharply significant. A loving heart has a protective film encompassing it always. Unkindness, spite and jealousy, cannot thrive unless two individuals foster them. When the destruction-missile of hatred is aimed at a heart overflowing with love, it falls far short of its target and disintegrates without accomplishing harm. Thus such a heart cannot be hurt by either foes or friends.

I heard a mother say recently that she was dreading the departure of her only son to serve as a foreign missionary. She felt that she had not grasped the true principles of the Christian faith or she would not "begrudge the Lord a worker in the vineyard." It was she who had taught John to have compassion on every human soul. She had poured a ceaseless love into the lives of countless people. She will never be really separated from her son for their love for each other is founded on a mutual affection that has an open heart for all of God's creatures.

The gorgeous bloom of wholesome love is never confined to a small isolated garden. The seeds are carried into myriad unknown places for a resting place.

When we utterly possess things we smother them. It is so with human beings. How well parents realize this fact as children grow older and leave the home nest. If we would keep their love — we must never clip their wings.

Those who serve in the Salvation Army — missionaries in foreign lands — social service workers in the slums of large cities have hearts that encirge all peoples and the world in tenderness and service. Men cannot hurt them as all men are counted as their brothers and none are set aside in a lofty shrine of worship.

The Heavenly Father traces every sparrow that falls. Every living breathing blade of grass lifts green fingers to the sunlight of His love. In His heart there is room for all that He has created. The human heart should mirror the grandeur of such all encompassing love.

If neither friends nor foes can hurt us because of the love and understanding we have wrapped our hearts in; if all men count with us but none too much — because we love all men equally — we will do the Lord's work as we were ordained to do it. Our voices will be blended in the Lord's magnificent oratorio. We will possess the very keys of Heaven.

Not enemy or loving friend
Can bruise a kindly heart,
For love is armor that will fend
A sharp and stealthy dart.

Who scatters love o'er field and town
With lavish hand and free
Will live to see his gift return
And bless abundantly.

For he who knows unselfish love
Wraps faith in each soft fold;
He holds the silver Keys of Heaven
That fits the Gates of Gold.

Planning a Holiday in Rome? Here's What You Can Expect

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Modern Rome's facilities are well organized for the visitor. The only exception is the common problem of all Europe — shortage of good hotel rooms. Aside from that the city's beautiful boulevards, fine shops, cookery that many prefer to the French and efficient tourist services all justify Italy's traditional reputation for making guests welcome.

Among the city's assets is the attitude of its people. Proud and independent, but more shy and less sophisticated than their counterparts in other European capitals, Romans hold a fascination for North Americans who see a challenge in drawing them out. Once accomplished, the result is rewarding. Romans are warm people with an appreciation of the good things to which most of us quickly respond.

Though prosperous, they are more concerned with living than making a living. Between 1 and 10 in the morning the sidewalk cafes fill up with businessmen who stop in a cup of coffee and be gets into the same swing. The late things for many people start more of her compositions, including some choral works and educational material for children are under contract for publication by these publishers. She has been associated with Carl Deis, noted arranger of New York in the majority of her published works. — Eugene Lang.

Coming from a civilization where the noonday meal is a hurried lunch, Americans we find ourselves gawking at the delights of the traditional Italian midday feast, with a fine Italian hand, huge plates of pasta followed by meat and potatoes and cheese and fruit all washed down by generous wine to make everything go smoother the table. No wonder Romans take siestas.

Local eating habits notwithstanding, we found the food a gratifying experience — typical Roman holiday. Less varied than the French but more substantial, it was also just similar enough to and different enough from the familiar Italian restaurant to appeal to us.

Garlic is unknown here, sauces are more to mushrooms and tomatoes than meat, and pastas more lighter, firmer and more flavorful than most American versions. Fettuccini — long flat strips — with butter and cheese is particularly good, and widely appreciated on this side of the ocean.

Antipasto, the Italian version of French hors d'oeuvres, is outstanding for its cold fish and pickled artichokes, olives dishes not properly recognized at home.

Charming outdoor terrace restaurants are a special Roman attraction. Our favorite in this category was Capricio, on the quiet, shady Via Lombardia just around the corner from the Via Veneto, the city's busiest street. The best solid, typical Italian food we found was at the old Original Alfredo alla Scrofa, and our discovery for real nonsophisticated food was Ernesto's in the Piazza Santi Apostoli.

Roman restaurants, even the little neighborhood joints are the most scrupulously clean we have seen in Europe. There are three kinds: ristorantes, which are what they sound like; trattorias, more like neighborhood taverns and similar to the French bistros; and pizzerias, a generic term for all Italian restaurants in America but the only type of restaurant in Rome that serves pizza. However, it may not be to the American taste as it is grilled instead of baked, as it is in many such places.

One of the most efficient travel organizations in Europe is the Compagnia Italiana Turismo, known universally as C.I.T. or "Cheet"), which can handle our sightseeing any time. We don't particularly go for the mass produced bus tours — a little too efficient — so if you can swing it you'll never go wrong by hiring a private car and guide through them.

The cost, of course, is considerably higher. But if you can share it with another couple or two you can cover so much more ground in less time and greater comfort that it's well worth it.

Should you do this in Rome, C.I.T. has the services of the most knowledgeable and gracious guide we have ever come across

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

"A porcelain factory is an indispensable accompaniment of splendor and magnificence." — Prince Carl Eugen, Duke of Wurtenberg.

"Common as clay" is a common expression. Yet, is clay really common?

Without clay, I'd be out of business," claims Mr. J. A. Colbourn, owner of Belleville's fine china shop filled with exquisite English bone china; Spode, Wedgewood, Royal Doulton, Minton, Coalport, dear to the hearts of all local and visiting china lovers.

"Working of clay is man's oldest and most enduring industry," he points out and states that bone china makes up one-third of the British exports of pottery, the rest being earthenware.

Man's penchant for clay is established "tradition, undeniably glorious as it is lively with exciting. Recent discoveries reveal pottery was used 5,000 years B.C. which so impressed Max Wykes-Joyce that he entitled his book "7,000 Years of Pottery and Porcelain" (published by Pelaw Publ. Ltd., London.) "It is equally certain," he writes, "that the potter craft developed independently but simultaneously in widely separated communities between the years 1500 and 200 B.C. in such places as Egypt, China, Peru and Greece."

The T'ang potters of China (A.D. 618-907), however, manufactured the first pure porcelain, claims the author, and says the Tang Polo gave their style its name, meaning little shell, from the Italian porcellana.

FIRST EUROPEAN FACTORY

Centuries later, Germany, (beginning of the eighteenth century) took the lead in the production of porcelain in Europe. When the secret was mastered by Johann Botiger, an alchemist in the service of the Elector of Saxony, who in 1710 opened the West's first porcelain factory at Meisen, near Dresden.

Here the Onion pattern was born. Or reborn rather, for the Meisen potters looked eastward to China for pattern inspiration as well. The Onion was the first dinnerware pattern used on true porcelain in Europe. The simplicity of the color scheme, just beautiful blue on clear white, makes this Chinese pattern most distinguished and admired. It never appears overwrought.

Not all Onion pattern china was made at Meissen for as its popularity spread, other factories "borrowed" the Onion from Meissen. The Royal Copenhagen factory of Denmark used it to such advantage that is is sometimes known as "Copenhagen" pattern.

The story behind many patterns is fascinating. Many are copied by hand, and in the china painting world, all outstanding artists are well and widely known.

"I had a young assistant here," the manager of a large china store in Toronto told me recently, "who was sent over to England on an officer in the army during the last war. A young cockney-speaking lad was assigned as his batman; a dreamy, unambitious sort of chap.

"One day he was overheard to say he worked in a certain English pottery and on being questioned, it was discovered he was one of the world's finest floral china painters."

Then the manager proceeded to bring out some hand painted service plates.

"There," he said, "are copies of Crown Derby masterpieces done by the great master of china painting, Percy Curnock of England. He is an incomparable artist and his, each with a different Crown Derby scene faithfully done by hand. They are priced at twelve hundred dollars."

"A hundred dollars a plate!"

"Yes. Signed pieces by him are valuable. Very. His series of Italian lake scenes which he did on the spot, are priceless. He is an incomparable artist and a self-made one at that. He rose to become one of the departments from an apprenticed painter. He died a few years after an English pottery at the age of 13. But, of course, he's retired now being well on in years."

Mr. Wykes-Joyce mentions in his book that in Germany about 400 people on its payroll and its budget is less than half the cost of health and welfare services for New York City.

The pamphlet explains why so little is stretched so far to help so many children. One shot of penicillin which costs UNICEF five cents can cure an eaten sore face of a child with yaws. As little as thirty cents will purchase enough ointment to cure a case of trachoma. One penny will buy enough vaccine to prevent a child against TB. One dollar will provide enough DDT to protect a family against malaria for one year, or enough sulphong tablets to treat a child with leprosy for three years. As a result, the pamphlet illustrates how "the low cost of living" in the worst areas plays a vital role in the amount of good accomplished by many at each minimum cost.

"As the one in which the idea that it was common sense for the nations of the world to use new inventions to help raise the standard of health and living throughout the world was first accepted as a matter of course."

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

In many countries of the world June the first is a day of thanksgiving. It is the day set aside as Children's Day. There are celebrations to honor children. This week we received a notice reminding us of Children's Day and attached to the notice was a pamphlet called "Mankind's Children, The Story of UNICEF." It is published by Public Affairs Pamphlets, 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, N.Y. USA. If schools or groups desire to secure these pamphlets they are cheaper in quantity.

Every normal person in the world is interested in children, and T and T knows its readers will be interested in a brief review of the story of UNICEF, the United Nation's International Children's Emergency Fund. It has been changed to a shorter title, The UN Children's Fund, but the original initials remain. One hungry little Italian girl said she knew what UNICEF meant, "It is the American word for cow".

Dag Hammarskjold, Secretary General of the UN wrote "Too often only the stories of achievement make headlines and the quiet efforts of people and nations working together in harmony for a common goal go unnoticed. Yet the health and happiness of millions of children have been made possible by just such an effort through the work of the UN Children's Fund. Today there is ever more hope than ever before in man's history for children all over the world. UNICEF, in particular, devotes its entire resources to help the world's children, grow strong and healthy and to become useful, productive adults."

Three children are born every second of the day, 260,000 more each day, and 30,000,000 each year. We are reminded that it is "almost beyond our powers of comprehension to realize that 630,000,000 of the world's children are faced with a short life, a rich life, a hungry life. "UNICEF began originally to look after the children of war-ravaged Europe and Asia but its life was built on the supplementary food supplied. It soon became apparent that the need of children was permanent and a world-wide need. For instance a survey of diets conducted by FAO revealed that 15 per cent of the world's population in 1852 had a "daily protein intake of less than that represented by a thick slice of ham."

The progress in the battle for children is a staggering accomplishment, yet all that remains to be done passes our understanding. Some figure for one single year of work done may assist our readers to realize the truth of Dag Hammarskjold's tribute: 18,400,000 children vaccinated against tuberculosis, 32,000,000 protected against malaria, 3,300,000 children (and parents) treated for yaws, 1-900,000 children treated for trachoma, 5,200,000 children and mothers given milk rations. UNICEF has only about 400 people on its payroll and its budget is less than half the cost of health and welfare services for New York City.

The pamphlet explains why so little is stretched so far to help so many children. One shot of penicillin which costs UNICEF five cents can cure an eaten sore face of a child with yaws. GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

WHEN IS WHITE ASHLE CARPET ROLLED DOWN BY USHERS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At our large formal church wedding please tell us if the ushers roll down the white carpet just before or just after my daughter is escorted up the aisle. Many thanks. — L. S.

Just before your mother comes up the aisle. That is, she is the first person to step on the white carpet after it has been rolled down the aisle by the ushers; (After your mother has been escorted to her seat, no other guests should be escort.d to their seats because the ushers will be busy taking their places at the head of the Processional, which should begin at once.)

THE BEST MAN'S TOAST TO BRIDE AND GROOM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the best man proposes the first toast "To the Bride and Groom," do the bride's parents and the groom's parents rise as well as all the other guests?

Helene R.

Yes.

Richard A. — I always believed that Betty knew underneath this mask of aloofness. He called me Dad and I treated him like a father. But I was so much in love with Betty I didn't want to go into all the details about Dad.

I don't want to put my boy in an orphanage. I think it will only make his problems worse. If Betty loved me enough she would wait for me. That's one thing. She would want to help me help my boy. I am sure he could become adjusted to her if she treated him a little nicer. Maybe Betty can't see so much to the idea of taking care of a home and child. She is too independent just because she happens to have a career. She doesn't go for these career women and I told her that before we got married. She said it was right.

The Council's Richard piles in on Betty. He seems to want to take his wife down a peg by ridiculing his child rearing. What a deal for mother and child!

Of course he was all wrong to hide the real facts of this case. It isn't the kind of a problem that should be left to an "understanding" or sympathetic husband. The child is a clear-cut responsibility. A woman about to marry is entitled to an exposé of her prospective husband's responsibilities — especially when they might involve her.

Richard was the offensive because he knows he is very much in the wrong. He knows very well he is projecting his child with behavior problems is a job-and-a-half for a mature, experienced mother, yet he brazens it out by accusing his wife of lack of love for not welcoming this heavy responsibility.

If Richard had used a different approach — if he had acknowledged his mistake and honestly expressed his hope that Betty would be able to rise to the extremely heavy responsibility that was being thrust upon her, he might have received a different response. Betty might have felt a desire to forgive and a certain sense of challenge in the responsibility.

However, even if Betty were 100 per cent willing to take on the job, she would need some expert outside advice on how to cope with the boy. We would suggest, therefore, that Richard now discuss this situation with social workers attached to any agency available to him. It may be wise to place this boy in a foster home, at least temporarily. Certainly, he should not be forced on anyone who is not prepared to receive him with open arms and heart.

The Bible Today

The most recent translation of the original Hebrew and Greek of the Bible into English is progressing in England under the leadership of Professor C. H. Dodd, Chairman of the Joint Committee on the translation of the Bible. Dr. Dodd has said that three or four years will be needed before the new Testament would be on sale, and at least eight or nine years before the whole Bible would be available. This indicates the long and careful scholarship being brought to bear so that the accuracy and intensity of the translation will be assured.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Betty A. — He should have gone to see the first place.

Richard A. — If she loved me she would be willing to take care of my son.

Betty A. — I am 20 and have been married a year in a man of 23. Recently I got the shock of my life. Dick's mother died suddenly and left a 12-year-old child boy whom I had believed was a foster child. Now Dick tells me the boy is his own illegitimate child and that we must take him in.

The boy is a terrible problem child. He is wild and profane and to be a regular hoodlum. I don't feel that I know how to cope with such a boy. I think he should be placed in a home.

I am furious with Dick for not having told me the truth in the first place. Now I have another person expected to have to take care of a child of that age. The boy has been a part for me. I wanted to wait a few more years before settling down to start a family.

QUESTION:

. . . I wonder if it would be possible for you to send me a good recipe for Jelly Doughnuts and also one for Honey Doughnuts — Mrs. J. M.

ANSWER:

I am mailing to you a release for Jelly Doughnuts. I hope you will find the following recipe for Honey Doughnuts satisfactory.

HONEY DOUGHNUTS:

Three-quarters cup milk, scalded, 1-4 cup shortening, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 package granular yeast, 1-2 cup (lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 4 to 5 cups sifted flour, 1-4 cup honey, 1 1-2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-8 teaspoon mace, 2 eggs, well beaten. Place scalded milk, shortening, salt and 1 tablespoon of honey in a large mixing bowl and cool until lukewarm. Add yeast which has been soaked for 5 minutes in the water with 1 teaspoon sugar and stirred well. Gradually add about 2 2-3 cups flour, or enough to make a soft batter. Beat well, then place in a warm place and allow to stand until full of bubbles. Mix honey with spices and eggs; stir into sponge when it has risen. Work in gradually add remaining flour, or enough to make a stiff batter which can be handled easily. Knead well on floured board, cover and let rise again in a warm place until doubled in size. Turn out on a lightly floured board and roll out 1-4 inch. Cut with floured doughnut cutter. Let rise on board uncovered until light. Fry in deep hot fat (365 deg. Fahr.) from 2 to 3 minutes, or until lightly browned. If dropped into the hot fat raised side down the top side will rise while the under side cooks and the doughnut will take up less fat. Drain on unglazed paper. Shake in a bag with granulated sugar while still warm if you wish sugared doughnuts. This recipe makes about 3 dozen medium-sized doughnuts which keep well.

QUESTION:

. . . recipe called Currant or English Tea Cakes. They weren't as short as a shortbread cookie, had no spice and currants and just citron peel in them. I thought I had put it away for safe keeping but couldn't find it anywhere before Christmas . . . Mrs. R. J. D.

ANSWER:

You are right. The following appeared December 3/57.

ENGLISH CURRANT TEA CAKES:

Two and three-quarters cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup soft shortening, 1-4 cup soft butter, 3-4 cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons milk, 1-3 cup chopped citron or walnuts, 1-2 cup currants or raisins, 1 egg white, slightly beaten, granulated sugar. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Mix shortening, butter, sugar and eggs till creamy. Add milk, citron, currants, and flour mixture. Mix well. Chill. Roll dough into balls size of walnuts. Dip top in egg white then sugar, (covered if desired). Place, sugared side up 2" apart on greased cookie sheet and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 12 to 15 minutes till golden. These keep well.

Mr. James McVicker, Jr., spent the holiday in Cayuga, Ont.

Mrs T. W. Topping was removed to the Kingston General Hospital on Monday.

The official opening of the Deseronto Lawn Bowling Club was held Monday, and a number of members and their guests took advantage of the bright weather for a bit of sport. There were two games bowled during the afternoon that saw some keen bowling for the first day.

The ladies served a pot-luck supper in the club house and afterward bowling was again resumed. The club is hoping for a busy and enjoyable season and invite the application of those wishing to join the club.

FIRE DESTROYS TRUCK

On Friday morning the Provincial Police called the local Fire Department to extinguish a blazing truck on Highway No. 2 about a mile east of Marysville. The truck had been blazing for some time. When the firemen arrived they found the truck was a total loss. They extinguished the blaze so the burning tires would not damage the pavement and the truck was towed into a garage in Deseronto. Most of the contents of the truck were a total loss.

STUDENTS VISIT SEAWAY

On Friday the students of the high school, under the supervision of the teaching staff and some parents, journeyed to Cornwall to view the seaway. Travelling by bus they left Deseronto shortly after 7 a.m. They toured many of the most interesting points of interest and returned to town about 10 p.m.

This trip to the seaway is a yearly educational feature of the school. The students have in the past enjoyed several trips, including a visit to Ottawa to see the House of Parliament and observe the members in action. The students enjoy the trip which is financed by the school board, and gain valuable information in this way.

Traffic Sign Is Amended, Still Good

RALEIGH N. C. -(AP)— Traffic officers erected a new sign at a busy street intersection on the North Carolina State College campus this week. It said: "Yield."

It bears a new message now. Someone appended: "Not to temptation."

SEAWAY PROPOSAL — The Eastern Ontario Development Association has repeated proposals for an Ottawa River seaway that would make it possible for ships of up to 10,000 tons to sail to Ottawa.

Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior, application president who raised the idea at the group's annual meeting, referred to Quebec government plans for a $300,000,000 hydro-electic plant at Carillon, Que., just across the border from Point Fortune, Ont.

The association is pressing for two locks at the dam and plans to oppose the projects if the locks are not included. The route to Ottawa from Montreal would also require deepening of the present lock at Ste. Anne which lifts ships to the level of Lake of Two Mountains before entering the Ottawa River.

The system, whose minimum depth is nine feet, carries mostly pleasure craft of which 630 passed through last summer. Some shallow-draught barges have carried oil up the Ottawa River in the past but there were none last year.

The seaway would involve deepening also the river except on the 70-mile stretch from Ottawa to Carillon which already is capable of accommodating such traffic. (CP Newsmap.)

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Owen Baker on the arrival of a baby daughter, a sister for Brenda and Michael, born in Trenton Memorial Hospital, on Wednesday, May 13th.

BONARLAW

Farmers' Union Meets In Springbrook

BONARLAW — The regular meeting of 171 Farmers Union met in Springbrook Orange hall on the evening of May 14th. The president, Morton Reid, presided.

A discussion followed regarding several letters which were read.

A list of resolutions from the head office proved interesting, but only half were dealt with; the rest were laid over until the next meeting, which on account of the election falling on the regular date, June 11, the meeting will be held on June 10th. Please remember this change.

One new family membership was added. The F. U. was sorry to report two of its members are in Belleville General Hospital.

After the meeting adjourned, the ladies served refreshments and all enjoyed a social evening.

Scoharie

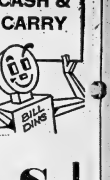
SCOHARIE — Miss Norma Foster visited Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Foster and family, Belleville, on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Foster have purchased a home at Massassaga.

Friends here regret the passing of Mrs. Everett Scott, of Bloomfield Road, and extend sympathy to the relatives.

The Bloomfield Young People's Union held its last regular meeting of the season Tuesday evening in the Sunday School rooms. A delicious pot-luck supper preceded the meeting and a social time was enjoyed. Mrs. L. Haigerman showed lovely slides.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lloyd are proud grandparents on the arrival of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Merton Bentley, Milford.

Messrs Will McGee and John Norman Leavitt spent the holiday on a fishing trip in the northern area.



Mrs. Ralph Stone and Mrs. Norman Leavitt attended the funeral service for Mrs. E. Scott at Whatsman's Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon.

What's most important in a DUMP TRUCK?

You may answer..."engine"..."transmission"..."rear axle"..."frame" or "body."
And taken one by one, these are all important factors. But remember...

BALANCED Truck Engineering

is the key to dependable truck performance

YOU'RE depending on the whole truck for long and profitable service.
Only when all components are balanced can a truck do your job as it should. For example, engine power can be put to work efficiently only if the transmission, propeller shaft and rear axle are matched to the engine's capacity.

How can you be sure of getting balanced truck engineering? Your best plan is to buy your trucks from truck specialists. INTERNATIONAL engineers have long experience in solving the special problems of truck design. INTERNATIONAL sales representatives are trained to analyze your job and recommend the balance of components that will be ideally matched to your job.

Just as important, INTERNATIONAL truck specialists offer prompt and efficient truck service to keep your trucks on the job.

The Mace-The Symbol of Parliamentary Power

When the Speaker of the House of Commons takes his seat the Sergeant-At-Arms places the Mace on its stand on top of the table and the House is ready to begin its business.

The House of Commons is an essential part, and perhaps the most important part, of Parliament, and the Mace is the symbol of its power, the highest power in Canada. The members of the House of Commons are elected by, and represent, the people of Canada, so that, in a sense, the Mace represents the power of the people, which is the supreme authority in a democratic goverment.

The Mace may occupy two other positions. It may be placed in the brackets which can be seen at end of the table, so that it is level with the table top, or it may be placed under the table, lengthwise and resting on a cushion. It may be seen in this latter position in photograph No. 6 and this is its position when the House is not sitting or until the Speaker takes his seat and the Session begins.

Sometimes the House turns itself into a Committee of the whole. For example in discussion of the details of a bill, a simpler and more informal procedure is desirable and the Speaker leaves his chair and a chairman of committee presides. At this time the Mace is placed in the brackets at the end of the table.

This concludes the series on "Commonwealth Day" which has been running for the past week.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

American Man, 65, Has It Rough, Should Have Been an Ear of Corn

By THOMAS COLLINS

How come I have to retire at 65?

That's a stupid question. Everybody retires at 65.

But how come?

Because you are old.

That's what a 15-year-old daughter tells her 40-year-old father. What is old?

Old is 65 years old.

Sixty-four and a half is not old!

No.

Sixty-four and 11 months is not old?

No.

But 65 is old?

Yes.

Who says so?

Let's change the subject.

O.K. We'll talk about money. When they retire me at 65 my income will be cut from $600 a month to $150 a month. That is a month. Will my landlord cut my rent to a fourth of what it has been?

You're being difficult.

I am not. You and my landlord, and my grocer, and the phone company, and the clothing store are being difficult. Don't you think they should cut their prices down one-fourth for me since my income has been cut one-fourth?

No.

Then how do I make it?

Get another job.

Now you're being stupid. I'm old. Remember? Nobody will give me a job.

Well, you should have saved some money for retirement.

Ha! That's the best joke yet. I save in 1920, in 1930, in 1940 and in 1950. You should have been around, sonny. Those dollars came hard. And do you know what those dollars are worth now? Have you heard about inflation? That was a pretty dirty trick to play on people who are retiring in 1959, don't you think?

Let's change the subject.

O.K. We'll talk about medical bills. Have you had arthritis lately? And what do you think about the price you pay to get it treated after 65?

That's a sensitive subject. It's off limits for discussion.

What do you mean? Who says it's off limits?

All right, smart guy. Just cool it off a bit and hand it back.

Yes, well. Since the business world says I can't work after 65, and since it will pay me only one-fourth of my income when it retires me, how come I can't get my arthritis cured for one-fourth the cost? And by the way, have you seen how much medicine costs — If you can scrape up enough cash to pay the doctor to prescribe some?

What do you mean getting arthritis?

I'm old. Remember? I worked through World War I, World War II, the Korean War, the Depression and Bath Tub Gin, I'm people. And people get arthritis, hardening of the arteries, bugs, gray hair, false teeth and indigestion. Do you think I made a mistake in being people?

No doubt about it. You should have been an ear of Iowa corn. Then America would have put you in a nice aluminum house, kept the bugs out of you and paid a premium to preserve you. You my friend, should have been corn, or butter, or wheat, or cotton. All of these have better votes with your Congressman than you have.

Britain Makes Behind Scene Pitch to Give Full Trial To Secret Talks at Geneva

GENEVA (AP) — Britain has made a new behind-scenes pitch to give secret diplomacy a full trial at the Big Four conference, here, Western officials reported today.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd moved shortly before his week-end return to London by urging U.S. State Secretary Christian A. Herter to take the lead.

At a luncheon Friday Lloyd suggested Herter should propose that the near-deadlocked foreign ministers switch from open to restricted sessions daily inside and outside their Palais des Nations conference room.

Herter's reaction has not been disclosed. The British request presumably is under study both in Geneva and Washington.

Lloyd started with the conferring this weekend in London with foreign office advisers by telephone with Prime Minister Macmillan, who is in Scotland.

Informants said Britain feels the Big Four ministers face three main problems.

The problems, along with the answers, as British officials see the situation:

1. How to get the Big Four talks formally into restricted session in order to end the public posturing by both sides?

Lloyd feels that he himself cannot or should not take the initiative because of French and West German discontent with the British role. Both the French and West Germans argue that it is up to the Russians to act first because they started the trouble. The Americans, in the middle, have feared a Western initiative might be taken by the Russians as readiness to make a concession.

But now Lloyd has asked Herter to reconsider this view.

2. What is the price Russia would be willing to pay to bring the United States to an East-West summit conference?

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, in the British view, is trying to conceal this price.

Britain thinks Gromyko's aim is to bring the East-West talks on ending nuclear weapon tests under the same roof as the main conference on Berlin and Germany. If that were to agree, then the Russians might make it easier — through concessions on other points—to set up top-level talks.

3. What is the minimum price of the U.S. for going along to the summit?

Britain thinks Herter wants an itemized statement of what the Russians consider to be the main differences between Russia and the West. This would enable the U.S. to deduce the issues that are negotiable.

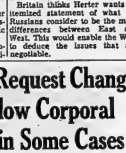
Police Chiefs Request Change In Code to Allow Corporal Punishments in Some Cases

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Ontario's police chiefs decided Friday to ask the federal government to amend the criminal code to allow corporal punishment of youths in a variety of juvenile crimes.

A resolution passed by the Ontario Chief Constables' Association said presently supervised corporal punishment should be imposed instead of sentencing young offenders to lengthy prison terms and confining them with hardened criminals.

The association also recommended the criminal code should provide that when a person under 21 is released on suspended sentence and a bond, an adult should also have to enter into a bond.

John Edwards, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Buffalo, told the chiefs 50 per cent of all crime in the United States is committed by persons under the age of 18 and the number of major crimes in the country is increasing.



He said it was time law enforcement was fully recognized as a profession with the same standing as law, medicine or engineering.

"The pay for police executives also should be brought up to the same standard as other professions."

Chief Wilmot Young of Brockville was elected president, succeeding Chief John Patrick of Kitchener.

Other officers include Chief George Kerr, Brantford, second vice-president, and Chief Jack Taylor, Trenton, secretary, treasurer.

Given 15 Years For Manslaughter In Calgary Court

CALGARY (CP) — Ronald Barry Dixon was sentenced Friday to 15 years in penitentiary on a reduced charge of manslaughter arising from the death of gambler Clyde Jack Baxter.

Dixon, 19, was originally charged with murder but a six-man jury found him guilty of manslaughter.

The other persons have also been charged with Baxter's murder, George Taylor, 20, will be tried in the Supreme Court of Alberta Monday and Wendy Devlin, 24, will be tried next fall.

Baxter, 65, was recognized as one of the largest bookmakers and gamblers in Calgary. His battered body was found in his luxury apartment Dec. 27.

The sentence was pronounced by Mr. Justice Neil Primrose, who told the jury the charge could be reduced to manslaughter if it found evidence of provocation. elt said there would be some inference of provocation if Dixon finding Miss Devlin on a bed kissing Baxter.

Evidence has been that Dixon was in love with Miss Devlin and that they intended to be married.

In other testimony Taylor said he Dixon and Miss Devlin had met in a downtown hotel to discuss plans to rob Baxter.

4 Women Hurt As Scaffold Falls in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Four women were injured Friday when an 85-foot long section of boarding around the new National Gallery building fell ◄ a downtown street.

Governor General Massey had laid the cornerstone of the new building less than an hour before the accident happened as he left the second floor of the partially-completed building following a reception.

A spokesman at Ottawa General Hospital said the condition of all four women is "fair". Laurlier Thibault, 28, of Wrightville, Que., suffered a large cut on her head. Alice Forster, 17, of Eastview, suffered an injured back. Frances Barrett, 46, and Mrs. Jacqeline Besserer, 39, both of Ottawa, had minor injuries.

The 12-foot high boarding surrounded the entire building. The boarding fell on the Albert St. side. Mr. Massey had officiated at a ceremony on the Slater Street side.

Cause of the accident was not immediately known.

The eight-storey building is expected to be completed late this fall as a temporary quarters for the National Gallery.

Annual Dinner Meeting Held By Home and School Council Of Belleville and District

The annual dinner meeting of the Belleville and District Home and School Council was held Thursday evening in the recreation room at Tabernacle United Church.

Approximately 50 Home and School members were in attendance. Included in this number were those at the head table, namely Mrs. W. Jones, president; Mrs. C. Powell, past president; Mr. W. Ironside and Mrs. E. Risto, vice-presidents, and the guest speakers, Mrs. S. Hall, past president of Peterborough Council; Mrs. W. R. Phillip, president of Peterborough Council, and Mrs. A. A. Gariepy, district organizer.

On the wall behind the head table hung an artistically designed scroll, on which the date and the name of the council was inscribed. These tables were beautifully decorated with small tri-colored tulips and blue and yellow candles, the Home and School colors.

After the dinner a short business session was held, during which time the nomination committee, chairman, Mr. C. Hutchinson, read the report of the committee and the answers of the officers elected for the coming year.

Mrs. Jones made reference to the annual reports, a mimeographed copy of which had been handed to each member. The president's report showed that during the past year the council membership had grown. There are now 20 active associations, with Glen Miller being the most recently organized.

SPEAKERS INTRODUCED

Mrs. A. J. Fort introduced the first speaker, Mrs. Raper, who spoke on the subject "The Forward Look in Home and School." Mrs. Raper said, in part: "In these days parents must look to the future, no matter how rough the going may be. We have very much work to do in training our children and giving them the encouragement they need to work for their goal in Home and School. We exchange ideas and seek to understand the school curriculum, parents and teachers co-operating one with the other.

In order to interest parents in what we are doing, and are going to do, a great deal depends on the way meetings are conducted, which of course should be in a business-like way."

Mrs. Raper suggested that the Federation handbook, the Guide Post, be used to a greater extent to obtain information pertaining to procedure and officers' duties. She then discussed the seven deadly sins of Home and School, president's organization when agenda not organized; lack of publicity; meetings not started on time; too much business at open meeting; introduction of speakers, that is much too long; minutes that are too long; taking faithful secretary for granted. Mrs. Raper finished by saying "in order to look forward, we must look backward first, and benefit from mistakes, making the same mistakes twice."

H-S AS A FAMILY

Mrs. Phillip was introduced and spoke of Home and School as a family, saying, "Home and School should be something bigger than ourselves, a power for good in the community" Mrs. Phillip likened Home and School to a big wheel — the outside rim, the Canadian Federation and the Ontario Federation; the spokes, the Councils, and the hub which contains many ball bearings, the 300,000 Home and School members across Canada. Variations are the working unit of Home and School, and it is at the ball bearing level that the work is accomplished. That is where we learn the needs of our child physically, mentally and spiritually."

Mrs. Phillip spoke of the Council as a clearing house to which the associations may come and exchange ideas. "Council is the link between the Associations and Federation, just as the spokes of the wheel are a link between the rim and the hub, and the Home and School wheel has a high mayor ing in the right direction."

ORGANIZATION

Mrs. Gariepy was the next speaker and mentioned the great demand for organization of Home and School Associations in the new housing sections, as well as in the city. "There seems to be a new demand for a common meeting ground," she stated.

Mr. F. Benson expressed the thanks of all present, to the ladies for their informative talks.

Mrs. G. E. Digby, delegate from council to the annual convention held at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, gave a comprehensive report on the activities at the convention.

Mrs. Jones thanked the past executive and committee chairmen and all those who have helped with the work of the council during the past year. She expressed the hope that next year would be an even more successful one, stating that every member is important and needed in order to fulfil this objective.

NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. Gariepy, district organizer, was then invited to install the new officers for 1959-60, as follows: Honorary, Mrs. W. A. Jones, president; Mrs. W. A. Irvine and Mr. Gordon Hutchison, vice-presidents; Mrs. B. Stenson, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Ferguson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. Winstanley, treasurer; Mrs. R. C. Lane, Mrs. D. McDonald, Mrs. G. E. Digby, Mrs. E. R. Beatty, and Mrs. H. G. Williams, executive members.

Mrs. Risto, on behalf of the council, extended a vote of thanks to Mrs. Jones for her excellent leadership she has given during the past year, and also wholeheartedly expressed the thanks of those present to Mrs. G. Like who had convened the dinner arrangement.

And Thursday he did it, pushing the drum from Lone Star Lake to Lawrence, Kan., in five hours, 20 minutes. He stopped only three times as he made the trip over back roads.

Little to Praise Says Adjudicator Drama Festival

TORONTO (CP)—The Diary of Anne Frank, a play born in a concentration camp where a Jewish family hid unsuccessfully from the Gestapo during the Second World War, drew the limited tribute "honest" Friday night from Michel St. Denis, adjudicator of the Dominion Drama Festival.

The graduate director of the Medicine Hat Civic Theatre in presenting the play, which he said "unfortunately requires skill" to produce. The problem is to stage the play physically, then make the audience forget those on the stage are actors.

The Ottawa Theatre Guild is to present William Saroyan's The Cave Dwellers this afternoon, with Montreal's La Compagnie des Masques acting as host. The 26-year-old Le Militaire Fanfaron by Titus Marcius Plautus, great Roman comic playwright, tonight.

PICKS WINNERS TONIGHT

Tonight Mr. St. Denis will choose the winners in the $1,000 first prize and award various secondary honors.

Starting with next year's festival, a new feature will be the competition — the Massey award for the playwright whose work is the best contribution to Canadian life in the series.

The announcement of the new award came Friday with the news that Governor-General Massey is to be succeeded by the governor of the festival. The honorary title and duties go to whoever it in his name, will commemorate the governor-general's contributions as honorary president, vice - president, chairman of the festival and patron since the DDF inception in 1933.

At the same time, it was announced that the zoning system of the festival will be revamped so every part of the country may be represented starting next season.

EIGHT ZONES

Canada will be divided into eight zones with the winning play of each zone moving into the finals.

Multiple adjudication will also go into effect next year. At each zone adjudicator has visited the 84 regional festivals.

The eight zones: British Columbia; Alberta and Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Northwestern Ontario; Western Ontario; Central Ontario; Eastern Ontario; Eastern Quebec and New Brunswick, Western Quebec; Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

"Mr. St. Denis has had little to praise outright at this year's festival. He said Friday night he would like to see "authentic progress of the amateur theatre" rather than the present attempting to imitate professionals.

Mrs. Col. Vera Bourassa of Montreal was elected president of the governors of the DDF.

Bullet-Riddled Body of Man Found in Alley

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —The bullet-riddled body of a man was found in an alley on the city's west side early today in what police said was a gangland slaying.

The victim was identified as Richard Battaglia, 29, who, police said, was awaiting trial on assault and robbery charges.

Powder burns on the body indicated that the victim had been shot twice at close range, police said.

The body was found hanging out the driver's side of an automobile.

Battaglia, who lived in nearby Tonawanda, apparently was forced to drive to the alley, then was shot as he attempted to get out of the car, said homicide chief Harry G. Klenk.

Police said they were questioning several friends of Battaglia's.

Residents of the area told investigators they heard one or more shots shortly after midnight. Two or three men were seen running from the alley.

New, Lighter Chevrolet to Be Built by General Motors to Compete in Small Car Field

WILMINGTON, Del., (AP) — General Motors has announced it will build a new, lighter Chevrolet this fall, thus joining its two chief competitors, Ford and Chrysler — for the small car market.

Disclosure of plans for the compact auto, to be called the Corvair, was made Friday at the annual stockholders' meeting by Frederic G. Donner, board chairman of the world's biggest automobile manufacturing firm. A similar car will be built at GM's Canadian affiliate at Oshawa.

Corvair details were kept secret—a competitive advantage all auto companies seek to retain — but Donner hinted the new car would have "certain features which are new to the American automotive industry."

Rumors, which officials here refused to confirm, say the Corvair will have a rear air-cooled aluminum engine.

Price-wise it will be the cheapest Chevrolet on the road—but how much cheaper was not disclosed. A GM spokesman said none of the 1960 models have been priced. They will be announced in October.

On Thursday both Ford and Chrysler announced plans for small cars. Ford said it would bring out a Falcon barring "changes in the economic or other circumstances." Chrysler said it will call its new model the Valiant.

The Corvair will compete with the Ford Falcon and the new American - produced Rambler and Larks. But Donner insisted it will be "different in design and "differ substantially" from the Falcon, Valiant and other firms produce abroad.

OSHAWA (CP)—A smaller and lighter car described as a new concept in automobile transportation will be built next fall at the Oshawa plant of General Motors of Canada, president C. Wilson announced Friday.

We have been studying the project at Oshawa for more than a year and construction of a 450,- 00 - square - foot addition to the passenger car plant to provide the required additional production facilities begun six weeks ago," Mr. Wilson said.

The Corvair "is not designed as a substitute for the more traditional type of vehicle but will add to the Chevrolet line a sedan of lighter weight, lower cost — and reduced operating expense," Mr. Wilson said.

"It will be substantially from the cars now being imported into Canada from abroad (by General Motors) or by other manufacturers and distributors.

The wheelbase and overall length of the Corvair will be different from those of cars manufactured by Chevrolet. Its interior dimensions will still be large enough to seat six passengers. Its price will be attractive and it will be economical to operate and maintain but in no sense will it be a so-called "stripped-down" model . . .

Resurgent Power of Germany Especially West, Being Felt

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One thing that is quietly recognized by all the Geneva conference of foreign ministers is the resurgent power of Germany, especially West Germany.

West Germany holds what amounts almost to veto power over important Western political decisions but only because it will be directly affected by the decisions and also because of its independent strength.

This was reflected at a Friday press conference when Herter von Brentano, the West German foreign minister, said bluntly that the United States, Britain and France should refuse any further negotiations unless the rights in Berlin are guaranteed by Russia beforehand.

It wasn't the first time that von Brentano got his view across in a strong way at Geneva, although he is operating on the sidelines. Western diplomats say many are represented only as advisers at the conference, not as full-fledged delegations.

All this follows from historic developments: The post-war recovery of the West German Republic to a position as the strongest economic country in Western Europe; and West Germany's new close friendship with a traditional foe, France.

By 1962, it's expected that the West German military force will be the strongest European element in NATO.

While these factors have enhanced the prestige of West Germany, the Communist East Germany has also climbed a rung or two on the international diplomatic ladder.

Big Three Plan Lighter Autos For Sale Here

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Big Three of the automotive industry have announced plans to produce compact, lighter cars to meet the growing market for a small car in North America.

General Motors of Canada says it will build its smaller car at its Oshawa plant to meet Canadian demand.

Ford Motor Company of Canada will distribute one small model and Chrysler Corporation Edsel dealers and a similar automobile will be produced for exclusive sale in Canada through Mercury - Lincoln - Meteor dealerships.

Chrysler Corporation of Canada limited says a new small car planned by the Chrysler company in the United States will be built in Canada should it be decided to offer the car for sale in this country.

Ford Motor GM made the described Friday by Company President H. Wallace as a deliberately new Chevrolet to be called the Corvair. It will be announced late this fall when GM announces its complete line of 1960 models.

Public Library Services May Be Investigated

WINDSOR (CP)—An investigation into public library services in Ontario was called for in a resolution passed Friday at the closing session of the convention of the Ontario Library Association.

The resolution asked the province to set up a commission to conduct the investigation.

The study would be made with a view to revising the Public Libraries Act and public libraries in such a way as to permit and encourage grouping of local governments into effective library systems," the resolution said.

The association also asked that if public librarian, preferably a member of the Ont's intellectual freedom committee, be appointed to the Ontario Film Institute's committee on obscene and indecent literature;

Mrs. Ruth Landon, elected president, succeeding J. D. Snell of Guelph.

Other officers elected Friday include Miss Louise Schryver of Chatham, second vice-president.

ODD BEDS

A bed fitted with a motor, which in the morning shakes the mattress until you are thrown out on to the floor, is now being made in Chicago. But novel beds are not a modern invention.

Warwick the King-maker ordered a bed 12 feet square and 7½ feet in height. As many as 11 people used to sleep in it at once. It is now known as "The Great Bed of Ware" and may be seen at the Victoria and Albert Museum in London England.

Nell Gwyn's bed was made entirely of 2,022 ounces of silver and was a most elaborate affair surmounted with a bust of the King, statues of Charles and — for no known reason — a mole-dancer!

Cardinal Richelieu used even to travel on his bed. It was so big and heavy that it needed six men to carry it and sometimes the windows of a house had to be broken in to admit it.

That kind of thing could never never happen if your bed were moved — not if you entrusted your moving to Fox Cartage and Storage Ltd. They have over 50 years of experience and are Agents of Allied Van Lines, the top name on the continent. Their dependability is attested by the Good Housekeeping Seal. More Talk About Fish and Noise

During the past several years a great deal of wordage in the public print has been devoted to the controversial question about whether or not outboard-motor noise frightens fish. Some of this prose has been both honest and informative. The great majority of it has been misleading misinformation and pure nonsense.

One of the outboard motor companies (which, incidentally, turns out about the best motor on the market today) hauls off and states flatly that outboard motor noise does not frighten fish. The company does not qualify the statement; rather, it applies the dictum right straight across the board, applicable to all fishing.

Another company, so help me, advocates using its motor for shore-line fishing for bass, running the motor in reverse to reduce speed of travel. Oh, brother!

Always it irritates me to find sophistry of this sort offered to the public by otherwise honest companies. The practice points to one of two conclusions the company in question has an unscrupulous advertising and or sales department or, more probable, they simply do not know what they are talking about.

In general, game fish-in deep water are not particularly alarmed by outboard-motor noise. This is not always true (try running a boat through a chum-slick while bluefishing and you will see what I mean) but generally it holds good. If that were not true there would be no fish caught by trolling with a motor.

GAME FISH

But it is equally true—that game fish, feeding in shallow water and thus exposed to natural enemies, simply will not stand for noise or disturbance of any kind and that includes outboard motors. From a secluded spot on a high bank I have watched smallmouth bass when disturbed in shallow water by the noise of an angler's feet on the stream bottom. There was no frantic flight; they simply drifted slowly and quietly out into deep water.

What, I ask, do they do when an outboard approaches?

Admittedly, largemouth bass, which have taken up summer residence under a bush or beside a stump on a deep-water shore line, often are not disturbed by motor noise and will strike a well-placed lure. Just the same, the angler's chances are far better if the boat were propelled quietly by oar or paddle.

Down in the Florida Keys the guides know about motor noise as do the guides in the Bahamas. Those fellows simply do not run their motors anywhere near a good bonefish flat. By the same token, any guide who runs his motor through a good tarpon "hatch" or "lake" earns for himself some well-deserved acid criticism.

This season we found an excellent answer to the problem of power propulsion and game fish. Poling a bonefish skiff over a sand flat or through a tarpon basin is a tiring job. In addition, it is a skill which must be acquired. The guides are used to it and don't mind it, but we, who do little physical labor, find it both difficult and tiring.

Last March our problem was intensified. We wanted, not only to fish but to take pictures as well. Thus, we towed a fishing skiff and a photographic skiff to the tarpon grounds. Now extra guides draw down from $25 to $40 per diem in the Keys. Thus, in the interests of economy, my son, Dick, and I planned to take turns poling the photographic skiff.

A TROLLING MOTOR

Then came the great idea. We secured a little electric trolling motor and that, plus a small gasoline outboard, was installed in the photographic skiff. The boat pole went along, of course, but was used only to hold the boat in one spot when needed.

This little motor is perfectly noiseless and we found that we could move our skiff up to within 15 or 20 feet of a tarpon basking near the surface without alarming the fish. The guides have a name for basking tarpon. When one of these big fish lies quietly at the surface, parts of tail and dorsal fin showing, he is "sibling" (pronounced "bibling"). We could move fairly close, well within casting range, of a sibling fish without alarming him.

But the real test came on bonefish. These speedsters, feeding and "tailing" in shallow water, are more shy than any brook trout. Noise of any kind (talking, moving a foot on the floor of the boat, etc.) sends them flying for deep water. You can imagine what outboard noise will do.

Well, that little electric troller will move a skiff up to within easy casting range of a school of tailing bonefish. For some reason, the vibration of the silent little propeller disturbs them not at all, even within easy reach of fly-rod tackle. And does it ever save wear and tear on tired arms and back! It looks as though the electric troller has come to stay in our equipment department.

To be sure, outboard-motor noise and its effect on fish no doubt always will be a controversial issue. I do wish, however, that the outboard companies would adopt a more realistic and truthful stand regarding the matter. Without doubt, everybody would be much happier and, incidentally, catch a lot more fish.

Stone quarry owner rates Chevrolet the toughest truck going

"Put a Chevy out there and it stays!"

At the Snyder Stone Quarry, you see Chevrolet trucks of all ages. "They get better and better every year," Mr. R. G. Snyder says. "My '59's keep going with no downtime at all for major service . . . moving more material at less cost per mile than any other make of truck I've had". The grades are steep from quarry to crushing mill, the loads are big and punishing. That's why Mr. Snyder specifies Chevrolet. "Put a Chevy out there and it stays," he says.

"You never do wear one out. You just get tired of looking at it and get a new one".

The truck you see up above is taking on a mountain of a payload — yet Mr. Snyder states, "It moves over the road like a light truck".

That kind of performance is a specialty of the house. Chevrolet turns out heavy-duty trucks that keep their poise no matter what you put in them. They're beating the big, oversized rigs at their own game, showing that precision-engineered chassis components and super-efficient V8 power make up for a locomotive-looking build any day of the week.

Today you sure can't assume that because a truck is trim-lined and good looking it doesn't work every bit as hard as those old-styled steam rollers. Put a Chevy on your run and see what a little pure efficiency can do. Your Chevrolet dealer will arrange the details.

Cuts gas costs by 20% on multi-stop schedule!
This bakery firm is sold on Chevrolet's "easy driving and fuel economy". Their Chevies keep at it 10 hours a day, averaging 78 stops, covering about 3,500 miles a month!

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck! CHEVROLET

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

With the more or less ignominious defeat at the 1956 Olympics still rankling in their manly bosoms, the moguls of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association decided to do something about strengthening Canada's entry in the 1960 hockey tournament at Squaw Valley.

That year the Kitchener Dutchmen (the same club in name which will represent Canada next year), were defeated in Cortina, Italy, by the Russians and not only that were humiliated by a United States squad.

The CAHA has taken steps to see that Canada's entry will be the strongest "amateur" club to wear the Maple Leaf. They have given permission for Manager Ernie Gosman to select fifteen players from other clubs (one from a team) with the provision he can retain ten if he thinks they can make the grade.

But in so doing isn't the CAHA doing the very thing indirectly at which some of its members and other Canadian hockey men threw up their hands in horror a few years ago. An all-star Canadian team.

If memory serves correctly these men would have no part of such an organization. Take one complete team, augment it with a few players—and that was it.

Assuming that Goman can dress only fifteen players, doesn't that mean if ten "outsiders" make the grade, only five of the original Dutchmen would be on the team. Or can he carry the ten over and above the full complement of his own club?

Goman is in a bit of a spot. He can make a lot of enemies overnight, in his final selection of players. Loyal Dutchmen fans won't take replacements of favorite hometeamers, even if Goman thinks they are better. "Outsiders" fans raised a helluva holler when it was remotely suggested that Davy Jones and Keith MacDonald be left off the world tournament club roster.

This "amateur" club is going to miss the old pros. And in case it's needed in the future, it will not be now't have an "amateur" according to Olympic standards, on the Canadian club. Those lumps in their cheeks when they take the farcical Olympic oath, won't be lumps, "cheers."

And at the risk of being called a disloyal Canadian, we do not believe the team that represents Canada at the 1960 Olympics will do better than finish second or third. More likely third.

We saw most of the series between the Whitby Dunlops, Dutchmen and Vernon Canadians, and have no hesitation in saying that the Russian crack squad would so saw play in world tournament competition, could spot any of them three goals and win.

A lot will depend on the referees. If European officials are used the Dutchmen will be exposed to some of the fanciest hooking and shoving ever saw. These European squads hook from the neck down and slash hard from the ankles up. And the Russians and Czechs can dish out some of the "poor-jarringest" bodychecks in existence.

If Goman can secure an exceptionally strong defence, Canada might stand a chance of copping the pentalon. For the European players are noticeably weak in front of the nets. They do not finish their plays like Canadian clubs, but are terrific shakers, passers and stickhandlers. And generally speaking, their goalkeeping is a little short of being sensational.

Russia and Czechoslovakia will be just as strong, if not stronger, than they were in the recent world tournament. And we'll be looking for a Swede to split pinned on this Swedish team. If they have Johansson and Nillson, plus a third slarry centre, whose name slips us for the moment, back in action, the Svenskas are going to make trouble for somebody.

What could be one of the fiercest, hardest-fought battles of the Olympics is the tussle or tussels between the Russ and the Czechs. These clubs went at it like a couple of honeys-on-wheels in Prague, the game ending in a brawl that saw four fights and 15 penalties. But that was in Czechoslovakia where the country cousins were the hosts. The Olympics will be played in the United States.

What, we believe is a horse of a different color. Besides it was a very interesting note, one remarked upon by all the western newsmen, that not a cheer rippled from the crowd of 12,000 Czech fans in the Prague stadium when it was announced over the P.A. system that the Russians had whipped the United States 7-2.

LIONS SIGN BACK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Billy Prescott Wells, 26-year-old halfback who played last year with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, has signed with British Columbia Lions of the western conference. Wells attended Michigan State before turning pro and in his last college year was named outstanding player in the 1956 Rose Bowl.

Wilhelm One-Hits Champions As Indians Take Two Hitter; 'Bums' Nip Giants 2-1 in 13

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

National League clubs brushed off Hoyt Wilhelm because they could tell when he was going to throw his money pitch, the knuckler. Now he holds the ball in his glove and American League batters in the palm of his hand.

Once a bullpen wonder for the Giants in the National League, Wilhelm drifted to the Cardinals and then into the American League with Cleveland before coming to roost with Baltimore. It was Orioles manager Paul Richards who suggested he hide the ball in his glove.

"I should have thought of it myself," Wilhelm concedes.

Coaches in the National League were tipping the batters whether it was going to throw a knuckler or not.

THROWS ONE-HITTER

Friday night Wilhelm came within one hit of becoming the first pitcher ever to no-hit the New York Yankees twice as he packed away his sixth victory against no defeats after Baltimore belted the champs deeper into the cellar 5-0. Wilhelm first no-hit the Yanks at last Sept. 20.

By winning Friday night, the third-place Orioles stayed within six games of the first place Cleveland Indians, who managed just two hits but beat Detroit 2-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Gary Bell. The second-place Chicago White Sox, a half - game back, defeated Kansas City 2-1. Boston beat Washington 4-3.

Wilhelm walked six and struck out two, losing his no-hitter on Jerry Lumpe's leadoff single off a knuckler—in the eighth. The Orioles chased Ryne Duren (3-2) with four runs in the first. The big blow was a two-run homer by Gus Triandos.

BAD MOMENT

The Indians got both their hits off starter Paul Foytack (1-6) in the seventh inning, scoring on Vic Power's double and Minnie Minoso's two-out two-bagger. Ray Narleski pitched a hitless final inning for the Tigers, who gave Bell (4-2) his only bad moment in the ninth with a single, a hit batter and a wild pitch.

Luis Aparicio led off with a single, stole second and scored on Nelli Fox's single in the first inning for the White Sox, then doubled and scored the clincher on an error on a third - inning grounder (6-4). The As had just four hits off Bob Shaw (4-0), who gave up a run in the sixth on Ray Boone's two-out single and Bob Cerv's double.

Ted Williams brought in the tying run for Boston with a sacrifice fly in the fifth, then doubled and scored the winning runs on Frank Malzone's double in the seventh. Dick Gernert's homer scored the other two Red Sox runs in the second against Camilo Pascual (3-4). Ike Delock (5-1) won in relief, despite Nat Peeples' Reno Bertoia and Jim Lemon.

Not Interested In Canadian TV Of Moore Fight

MONTREAL (CP) — Promoter Eddie Eagan says he is not interested in televising in Canada the Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle world light - heavyweight championship bout.

The bout is to be held in Montreal Forum July 15.

Quinn made his brief comment following a statement Thursday in Ottawa by CBC vice-president A. D. Bushnell. Mr. Bushnell was quoted as saying the CBC will take "a serious second look" at whether it will televise the fight if the promoters don't withdraw their offer for a TV blackout in certain areas.

The blackout places, in addition to Montreal, would take in Ottawa, Kingston, Quebec City and Sherbrooke.

Quinn repeated a previous statement that, with the blackout, he can sell an additional 2,000 or so tickets and offset what money he would get from TV.

The bout is to be televised nationally in the United States except for three American stations near the Quebec - U.S. border.

RUSSIA PROGRESSING

LONDON (AP)—Russia expects to field a Davis Cup tennis team "in a matter of a few years," Moscow radio said Friday in a broadcast beamed to British listeners.

Discussing the Soviet Union's successes at Wimbledon, commentator Viktor Kupriarov said Anna Dimitrieva, beaten finalist in last year's junior Wimbledon, was playing much better this year.

"At the rate the youngsters are coming up it will be a matter of only a few years before we begin thinking of Davis Cup participation," Kupriarov added.

Jets Defeat Leafs in 11; Royals Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Veteran pitcher Warren Hacker is really humming the horsehide in a bid to crack a major league pitching post and at the same time is bolstering Buffalo's pennant aspirations in the International League.

The 34 - year - old righthander won his third game without a loss as he limited league - leading Miami to five hits. The Bisons are now only seven percentage points and a half-game behind Miami.

Hacker, who has seen action in the majors with Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati and Philadelphia, is available to the parent Phils if the National League cellar-dwellers consider him solid choice to bolster a mediocre pitching staff.

In other games, Rochester edged Havana 9-8, Richmond nipped Montreal 6-5 and Columbus defeated Toronto 5-4 in 11 innings.

Buffalo scored what proved to be the clincher in the fourth when Ruben Amaro singled home Bobby Morgan. Lou Limmer homered for the Bisons, Bert Hamric for the Marlins.

Rochester's three-run eighth inning rally, capped by Billy Harrell's two-run double, gave the Red Wings a come-from-behind victory over Havana. The Cuban hurler, Luis Arroyo, was the loser, while Joe McCain, third of Rochester's four pitchers, upped his record to 3-3.

Larry Novak, Leo Skitzas and Carlos Pauls homered for the Cubans and Charley James had a pair for Rochester.

ROYALS' RALLY QUELLED

Richmond's four-run rally took over from Richmond starter Bill Short and quelled a ninth inning Montreal uprising. The Royals had pushed across two runs to make it 6-5 before Short stepped in.

The Jets put together four hits, a walk and a sacrifice fly off Pat Scaulebury in the 11th to hand Toronto its 12th loss in 16 games. Joe Gibbon won it for Columbus, holding the Leafs to eight hits through the 11 innings. Jim Hannigan banged 15. Mike Goliat hit a home run for Toronto.

Miteff Wins Over Bethea

NEW YORK (AP)—Alex Miteff likes jab, punch, jab-and-run best. But he forgets to do it sometimes.

He had a lapse of memory Friday night in his winning 10-round bout with substitute Wayne Bethea of New York at the Polo Grounds heavyweight from Argentina started like a waltz, in the middle rounds it turned down a walk and plodded home the winner on a unanimous decision.

"What happened to that jab you were using in the first rounds?," I asked.

"I just forgot about it," he said.

Miteff met with his head in the fourth and I had trouble breathing."

Bethea, a 3¼-lb-1 underdog, replaced high-rated Willie Pastrano had beaten Miteff in January. Foiley pulled out of the rematch when his doctor advised him not to box for a month because of a cracked bone in his hand.

Ten Teams Meet To Form Senior A Loop

KITCHENER (CP)—Ten teams are making a second try to establish a self-contained Senior A hockey League in Western Ontario.

The teams will send delegates to a senior hockey meeting in Waterloo Wednesday night. The proposed circuit would be formed to have a group of Senior B clubs move up in a body to play interlocking games with the present group of Windsor, Chatham and Kitchener-Waterloo.

An earlier meeting of seven clubs in Welland discussed the new league. Since then Woodstock and Galt have become interested.

The clubs involved are Welland, Niagara Falls, Oakville, Stratford and St. Thomas.

Manager Bid "Stinks" Says NYAC Chairman

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Athletic Commission has rejected the application of New York's Harry Davidow to become the "10-per-cent" manager of Swedish heavyweight challenger Ingemar Johansson.

Johansson meets world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in a title fight at Yankee Stadium June 25.

Davidow, a former manager who has been out of boxing 15 years, was recommended to Johansson by Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager.

In rejecting Davidow, former commission chairman Julius Helfand said the would-be manager was "acting only as a stooge for D'Amato." He added that "on the face of it the whole thing stinks to high heaven."

Johansson told the commission he did not think he would have got the fight with Patterson if he had not agreed to accept Davidow as his manager.

Davidow was to get 10 per cent of Johansson's purses.

THEY'RE REALLY IN THE CELLAR NOW — Defeated for the second time by the Detroit Tigers to become the cellar team of the American League, these four Yankees head for the showers in the basement of Yankee Stadium after yesterday's 13-6 defeat. They are, left to right, Johnny Kucks, Mary Throneberry, Tommy Kubek and Yogi Berra. (AP Wirephoto).

Says Russ Will Back Detroit For Olympics

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Informed sources say Soviet Russia has decided to throw its support to Detroit as the site for the 1964 Olympic Games.

Russia controls 10 to 12 votes in the International Olympic Committee, which opens its meetings here today. With the support the United States can muster, Detroit's endorsement might be enough to tip the scales for the host. Today, Detroit's chief rival.

Russia reportedly would like to display its athletes in the U.S. for propaganda reasons. By offering inducements, Russia defeated the United States at the last Olympics in Melbourne in 1956.

Brussels and Vienna also have entered bids for the 1964 Games. The decision on the site is made by a simple majority and there are 70 votes on the executive committee. The vote likely will be taken Wednesday.

Frick Certain Of Third Major League

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick says talk of a third major league is "no nebulous thing." He is certain such a league is being organized, but not Friday.

As ball parks would have to be built, players acquired and numerous other details completed, 1961 or 1962 probably would be the earliest possible date for operation, he noted.

Under the old rules, a city had to have a park with a capacity of 25,000. Under recently revised rules, it merely must be committed to build such a park.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Cec Talli, manager of Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, said Friday that Vancouver should be considered for a major league team.

Tallis said the Greater Vancouver area with a population of 750,000 and fan enthusiasm, "is ready for baseball."

"We have just as much right to be in the majors as Toronto and more than Montreal. We have a better weather than either of those cities and more fan enthusiasm than Seattle."

Montreal and Toronto, which have International League teams, and Seattle, in the PCL, have been mentioned as possible major league cities.

Yuke Finds Muk-Luks Handy Wins Fight, Loses Decision

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

They tell me Yukon Eric, as an after school prank, used to bounce Alaskan vultures and eagles off tall trees with sen-foot poles.

You can believe that by the way he knocked off a "couple of birds" in Memorial Arena last night with his trusty Alaskan mukluks.

A mukluk is a very reliable weapon, especially in the wild-swinging hands of a weakling like the Yuke.

Casey Stengel would have signed Eric on the spot. Every one of those swings, if connected with a baseball, was good for four bases.

As it was, they did a very effective job bouncing off the noggins of first Gene Kinisk then Bert Maxwell in rotund order.

In fact the Yuke went a trifle berserk in that third fall after he could get little or no help from the powers-that-be.

After all, you couldn't blame him. Kinisk, snarling and yelping was sinking a size-nineteen boot solidly-into the Alaskan midriff inside, outside and in between the ropes. When he tired of this playful pastime he used a ham-like fist.

Meanwhile Maxwell was going through his orchestra conducting routine, but the "beat" was lignorant of his beats. Kiniski paid no attention, but laid on the pressure and the punishment until the Yuke took matters in his own hands.

He took more than matters. He spotted his trusty muklaks in a ring corner. That was it.

He had them in a jiffy and the fun started. Yuke laid about him like a medieval private with his woodwork and Kiniski and Maxwell went down like polecaxed steers.

Kiniski recovered in sufficient time to grab Kiniski's arm and make his opponent's mukluk noggined him and he rooly-poleyed all over the ring. The referee had decided the first two falls.

That was enough for Kiniski. His Empire crown was still atop his brain, and he hustled for the exit. He was driven from the muklak fury and the cry of the spirit of the Yukon.

The Great Bolo almost got his come-uppance in the semi-final in a rough-and-tough with Jack Laskin. The handsome Italian from the Bronx, N.Y., gave punishment and easily had the best of the going until the referee, one anxious gave a wet jeet into his head-piece— and Laskin out colder than a three-day mackerel.

Popular Frank Jardine, the Canadian youngster, had his hands full with Bert Sabo, the roughie Kerl Kuiaski and the pole-vaulted in a thirty-minute stalemate.

It was announced between bouts that Little Beaver and his midgets will make their seasonal debut here next Friday.

Vernon Said Free of Debt

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Playing coach George Agar of Vernon Canadians of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League, says the club will be free of debt when the financial statement is released next week.

The 40-year-old Agar made this statement at a civic banquet recognizing the club's achievement in reaching the Allan Cup finals last spring. Vernon defeated the Whitby Dunlops in five games in the best-of-seven series.

After the series, played in Toronto Agar said the club had a debt of thousands of dollars in debt because of playoff trips. But he didn't say Thursday how the club had cleared its deficit.

Three years ago, Canadians became the first senior club in Canada to operate on a co-operative system wherein the players split any profits at the end of the season.

On the Tracks

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Vertex, the horse who literally translated his name into his performances, seeks his seventh straight stakes victory today in the $50,000-added Camden Handicap at Garden State Park.

Owned by Frank Pizarulli and J. J. Brunetti, Vertex has lived up to the meaning of his name—the top.

He is the leading money winner of 1959 with $221,607 and is rated America's No. 1 handicap star. He has a record of six straight stakes victories and he has won two $100,000 races on consecutive weekends.

NEW YORK (AP)—The 84th and richest running of the Withers Mile today at Belmont Park has drawn a field of nine, including one of the top three-year-old favorites of the spring.

Chariman Stable's Crafty Skipper was seen as a lukewarm favorite at about 3-2 over Atlas Field Farm's Intentionally, at 3 to 1.

Atoll, owned by the Mackle brothers and Lou Chesler of Toronto, rated third choice at 4-1.

If all 13 start, the race will be worth $58,072 to the winner and $18,072.

Bobcats Triumph 7-3 Over Trenton, Four Runs in Third Clinches Victory

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Bobcats used a four-run explosion in the third inning at CNRA Park last night to send them on their way to a 7-3 victory over Trenton Golts in a B and D softball league fixture.

This was the Cats' second victory in as many starts and gave Trenton an equal record in the lost column.

Trenton opened the scoring with one run in the initial frame while the homesters knotted the score in the second and broke the game open with their rally in the third. Another pair in the fourth completed their scoring while Trenton bagged a couple in the sixth.

Bobby Green registered his second complete-game victory on the baseball hilltop while scattering five hits. He struck out seven and caused most of his own trouble with half a dozen free passes to first.

Hero of the day for the rubber - Trenton, giving up nine hits, all of this total in the first four innings. He whiffed one batter while walking six.

Bob Temple's two-run fourth their batting orgies in the fourth after the first two batters were out. five consecutive hits told the story. Floyd Crawford[1]g- nicked the rally with a triple to left centre-field. "Winnie" Brown followed with a two-bagger. Ben Faulkner came through with another triple while J. P. Lamirande and Lou Smirke drove in a couple more runs with singles.

Earl Cousins picked up where his mates left off by doubling and taking an extra base on a bad throw from the left fielder on the next frame. A walk to Green, Ted Belchetz's fine sacrifice to second, another walk and Brown's fly ball made the scoreboard read 7-1.

Green lost his control briefly in the sixth. He walked three, made a couple of wild pitches and gave up a single to Billy Mitts before a double play ended him out with two runs across the plate. Mitts' single plated both runs.

A couple of walks, stolen base, wild pitch and a run- down between first and second permitted Trenton to score once in the first. A brace of doubles, by Lou Smirke and Earl Cousins, provided the Bobcats with the equalizer in the second frame.

While Cole did not allow a hit after the fourth he was in trouble twice. He had two runners on, via a walk and his batter, without giving up a run in the fifth. Again in the sixth he walked the first two men - ruled out unbeknown. Green on the winner's mound, spaced his hits well and gave up only two in the third inning. He fanned Alexander to leave both men stranded.

Earl Cousins had a brace of doubles while "Winner" Brown and Lou Smirke poking a double and single each to lead the Bobcat attack. Floyd Crawford and Bert Faulkner tripled and Jean-Paul Lamirande piled up a single to complete the nine-hit total.

Guy Austin's double was the lone extra base blow for Trenton while Billy Mitts drove home two runs with his single. Roger Drake, Don Cole and Syd Sullivan also hit safely.

The line-ups:

Trenton — Austin 2b; Drake 1b; Alexander ss; H. Cole p; Bell c; Gordon cf; Cousins c; Green p.

Umpires — "Shud" Ehler (p) and Al Kelleher. Time: 1.25.

Bobcats	014 203 00x—7	9	1

Juniors Open Tonight at CNRA Park

The Belleville Junior baseball team will play its opening game in the South Hastings League tonight with Bancroft supplying the opposition.

Contrary to previous reports and the Sports Calendar, tonight's game will be played at the CNRA Park here at 8:30 o'clock. A game was slated for first scheduled for the Fair-grounds but has been changed to the CNR. All of the Juniors' home games will be played here.

Coach "Cuffer" Noakes feels that tonight's opening game will prove a measuring stick for his young squad, both by and manager. Vic Morris are confident that the boys will come through with a victory and ask that local baseball fans turn out to support the club.

Yankees Eye Duke Snider

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees are eyeing the National League for help in their distress, with Duke Snider of Los Angeles the particular target, says the New York Daily News.

General manager George Weiss of the Yankees would like to have the Dodger outfielder and, as a last-place club, New York enjoys the chance of making a deal with the National League without the possibility of any of its American League rivals blocking it, the paper reports.

RANGERS TIE BRUINS

VIENNA (AP) — New York Rangers and Boston Bruins played to a 2-2 tie Friday night in an ice hockey exhibition witnessed by 6,000 fans. Eddie Lilesemberger and Bobby Hull scored for Rangers, Don McKenney and Bronco Horvath for the Bruins.

Hank Aaron Inserts Homer In Four Hits

By JOE REICHLER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manager Bobby Bragan today called his Milwaukee Braves a better club than the one which won the National League pennant last year.

"We've added to make compari sons, but at this time last year we didn't have [Bill] Bruton and [Wes] Covington. Both were out with bad legs. And even after Covington came back he played on one leg the second half of the season.

"Another thing, I think we have a stronger bench. Mickey Vernon has done a wonderful job for us and while Stan Lopata hasn't hit yet he's still a threat up there at the plate."

Haney didn't need any pinch-hitter Friday night as the Braves routed Robin Roberts in less than two innings en route to an 11-inch Philadelphia 10-5. The Braves have a comfortable lead in first place after the league race.

"The club has been going very well," Haney said. "On the days when we didn't hit, we were fortunate enough to get outstanding pitching."

Haney figures Hank Aaron is just coming into his own.

Aaron rapped four hits Friday night, including his 13th homer, and is hitting .468.

Packers Get Cards' McHan

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Lamar McHan was traded by Chicago Cardinals to Green Bay Packers of the National Football League Friday in return for a future high draft choice.

McHan, 28, came to the Cardinals after starring for the University of Arkansas and was the club's No. 1 quarterback until rookie Mr. Charles Johnny Unitas arrived here late last season.

McHan, 6-1 and 200 pounds, played for the Cardinals for five years, a period in which he completed 433 passes in 1,012 attempts for 6,578 yards and 50 touchdowns.

General manager Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts also had been interested in a trade with the Cardinals for McHan.

College Star Cracks World 100-Yard Mark

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)—Sprinter Charlie Campbell of Idaho State College cracked the world's record in the 100-yard dash Friday, but his time of 9.2 seconds probably won't count because he was running with a push wind at his back.

Two clocks timed him in 9.1 seconds and the other three hits 9.2. But the recognized world's record is 9.3 seconds.

Rain Deletes Golf Scores

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A rainstorm swept the second round of the $25,000 Memphis open golf tournament Friday, washing out all scores, including a seven-under-par 65 posted by Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla.

The washout came with 11 threesomes still on the course. Tee times will be replayed today. The delay moves the final round to Monday.

Tom Veech, a rookie pro from Milwaukee, remains the leader by virtue of his course record-equalling 64 posted in the first round.

Al Balding of Toronto remained among the leaders with his 32-36 68 on the first day.

Yankees Hit the Headlines But Cameras Get Brush-Off

BALTIMORE (AP)—Casey Stengel says he has nothing against photographers, reporters or anybody else. He just wants his team to start winning again.

The Yankee manager said he was mystified by reports that he intentionally brushed aside photographers at the train station before leaving New York Friday for Baltimore, where New York lost a 5-0 one-hitter to Hoyt Wilhelm and Baltimore Orioles.

"What the hell, I went to the station, didn't I?" he asked. "They got pictures, didn't they?

"Do you have to lose some ball games to have photographers follow you around, wherever you go, all over the country?" he asked with a trace of indignation.

"All I gotta say is this guy pitched a helluva good game and that's it," he summed up.

"We didn't hit too good but our fielding was all right, if you ask me."

Wilhelm, who pitched a no-hitter against the Yankees Sept. 20 and became the first American Leaguer to win six games without defeat this season, expressed little disappointment at missing a no-hitter Friday night.

"I guess one of those babies is enough for anybody," he shrugged.

He said every Lumpe's leadoff single in the eighth was his off his favorite pitch, a knuckleball.

Stengel, as if replying to suggestions that the Yankees have lost their championship poise and are bickering with umpires or himself, said:

"I'll tell ya something. There hasn't been a player on our team thrown out of a game this year. And nobody's been fined for league either. Now, what's wrong with that?

While the Yankee clubhouse held court in the visiting manager's office, the Yankees went matter-of-factly about the business of getting dressed without any usual display of emotion.

When Bob Turley, a 21-game winner for the Yanks last year, was stalled from the mound during a four-run Baltimore rally in the first inning, photographers followed him to the dugout taking pictures.

Someone in the dugout tossed a plastic helmet in the direction of a photographer. When a baseball also zoomed by, third base umpire Ed Runge waved a menacing finger at the New York bench.

Earlier, on the team's train station in New York, the Yankees snapped at photographers and refused into seclusion on the train that carried them to Baltimore.

Under an eight - column - front page headline reading "Yanks panicky? We-ll-l-l-l, the N.Y. Mirror described by The World-Telegram and Sun as "a weekly group of racier dwelling on champions," after the run-in with photographers, Mel Penn Stengel moved through the cameramen, waving them off as he entered his drawing room. Once inside, he pulled down the shades and locked the door.

The newspaper said only four players — Hank Bauer, Tony Kubek, Mary Throneberry and John Blanchard — paused to pose for the photographers.

Tempers Flare, Lawyers Feud In Robinson, Basilio Case

NEW YORK (AP) — Both Sugar Ray Robinson and Carmen Basilio have agreed to fight for the world middleweight title.

They made their statements Friday at a hearing before the New York Athletic Commission considering removal of Robinson's title. The hearing was adjourned until Wednesday.

Tempers rose with the temperature in the crowded meeting room as the lawyers bickered with one another and with the witnesses.

Martin Stuart, Robinson's lawyer, introduced a new contract for the Sept. 21 fight in Philadelphia. The commission had declared a previous contract invalid at a meeting last Wednesday. Under the new contract Basilio would receive a $225,000 minimum guarantee and Robinson 45 per cent.

Machat spent most of the afternoon questioning Basilio as to whether he actually had signed a contract to box Gene Gene Fullmer for the title, in case Robinson's crown is vacated. All Basilio would say was, "I'm not going to file with the New York commission for any fight. I'm free to fight Robinson."

Robinson flared back at Melvin Krulewitch, commission chairman when he was being questioned.

"I'm not going to argue with you," he said. "Go ahead and take the title away. You have been trying to take it away right along."

CHAMPS FETED

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Braves, 1959 Canadian Junior hockey champions, Friday were guests of honor at a luncheon tendered by the City of Winnipeg. Each member was presented with a ring bearing the city crest. The Braves beat Peterborough Petes for the Memorial Cup.

Larks Sign Alabama Star

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes announced today that Darrell Lester, 220-pound tackle from University of Alabama, has been signed to a try-out contract.

The Big Four football league club said Coleman is highly recommended by head coach Paul Strayard of Alabama as an "outstanding prospect for any pro club."

Coleman is 22 years old and stands six feet, one inch.

Keep Your Eye On What Ball?

TORONTO (CP) — Reckless golfers at Metropolitan Toronto courses may have an opportunity to protect themselves by purchasing insurance.

The metro legal department will study a plan that would meet claims arising as a result of personal injury or property damage resulting from misdirected golf balls.

Metro parks committee was told Friday by Controller Hennessy the plan would be studied by the Humber Valley course have been hit by stray balls and one woman in control of her car when the windshield was smashed by a ball.

Committee members suggested insurance ticket machines similar to those in airports, and that a part or all of the fee go for insurance.

Toronto Bowler Came Close

TORONTO (CP)—Ollie Lyons of Toronto rolled a 30-pin total of 1,741 Friday night to place third to date in the O'Connor open five - singles five - pin tournament.

Lyons was one of 64 Toronto bowlers who attempted to dislodge John Moyer of Waterloo from his leading position, worth $2,000 of the $10,250 prize money.

Moyer bowled a 10-game total of 2,761 early in the tournament and is yet to be surpassed. The open winds up this weekend when 200 more bowlers take to the alleys.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, May 23

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You are filled with inspired thoughts and ideas right now, and it would be to your benefit to discuss them with experts who can give good pointers. Decide upon the best one and put it in operation quickly. Meet important people, too.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — New avenue of success is open to you right now provided you impress the right people with the intelligent way in which you handle all obligations, paying bills, government records in order, house payments kept up-to-date.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Use that fine glib tongue of yours to impress associates favorably and cement better relations, set up better plans for making future operations more successful and remunerative. See that you carry through with agreements already in force.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A fellow worker comes up with some really good ideas for making work lighter, gaining greater efficiency and increasing productivity. Listen carefully, then full speed ahead with true cooperativeness. Then you both benefit.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Good day to show vital person in your life how much you really love them. . . Don't be off to sports alone, but dream nicely and enjoy your closest of kin; entertain them, play together, converse amiably. Make a fine impression.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Working conscientiously on whatever needs to be done at home will produce satisfactory results that will be pleasing to other members of the family also. Put all in fine order. P. M. entertain there, or just rest and be happy.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Get an early start this morning and do all the necessary shopping, stocking up for quite some time. Then relax about with the family and be amusing. Kill any feelings of ennui early in A. M.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Fix your home or any other real estate you own so that it will increase in value as well as attractiveness. Painting, plumbing, roofing, whatever is needed. Also, take any steps that insure your present security.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A day to think of own wishes and desires, what you like to do. Then follow your inclinations. A little trip would be ideal, or some sport that will be good exercise. Think big, too, and get big.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Better not go out this Saturday. Get all that work done that has been accumulating for so long. Also, concentrate on how to increase income through some really big and worthwhile outlet in the early future, confidentially.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A day to step out and visit with those whom you admire and want to keep within your sphere for a long time to come. Express your sincere affection for them and the future will be even more successful than it is now. Have fun.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Just the right day to attend to all of those outdoor activities that await your attention. Don't keep putting it off, any longer, but full speed ahead now. Get your shirt paid and be sure you attend to important civic duties.

If your child is born today he will have a very alert mind and will want to know about everything. However, there is the tendency early to be overly talkative. He'll be up to you to teach that silence is golden. A fine, all-around chart here, especially in the field of big business. So don't try to make your progeny genius material. Give us fine academic training as possible.

Sunday, May 24, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — By listening to fine spiritual sermons or reading fine literature, you expand your consciousness so that you become a better and happier being today. Put ideas on a very constructive and practical basis. P.M. be thoughtful to others.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Go out early to confer with that fine spiritual or personal adviser who can help you to live closer to God's laws in the future. Listen attentively to advice given and follow implicitly. Be ethical and upright in all that you do now.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Get into the so-called Silence now and let your intentions come through, for you will get the right answer to any perplexing situations you may be in. P.M. set up a schedule for the new week that will permit you to accomplish a great deal.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You are fortunate today in having a good and intelligent associate point out to you where you have made your mistakes in the past. Co-operate fully and cement better relations so that the future shows greater profits and benefits.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — See that your attitude is right in connection with your daily work and those with whom you work. Matters have not been operating properly, show more co-operation now and you will soon be truly successful and happy.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — The heaviness that has been pervading the atmosphere for some time now is lifting, so go about in a smiling manner and you soon charm all those people who are vital to your life. Then all will be brighter and happier for you.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Changing your attitude to a happier one where close kin are concerned will soon reach ideal harmony. P.M. have guests in for light entertainment and pleasant conversation. Be happy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Do not hesitate to impress serious spiritual advice with the kind of love you are willing to expend real effort in order to learn the higher truths, which will enrich your life. Ask questions and comprehend fully.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Good day to start combining the old established standards with all that is good in modern trends. Be most practical about talents and progress in your career. Just speaking about faith does no good. Act it and live it.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Think positively about exactly what it is you want out of life, for the plans of today can materialize tomorrow. Daydreaming alone never got anyone anywhere. Act. P.M. go about socially to your heart's desire. Have fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Look into constructive ways in which you may increase current success. Put your wonderful ideas on a workable basis and commercialize on them in early future. You have the habit of letting the grass grow under your feet.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Many of your comrades today offer fine suggestions that should be very incentive for you. But if you simply think about a better place and be out and about putting ideas in motion, you got along swiftly yet gradually as you should.

If your child is born today—the interesting little child born today will have a good deal of imagination and soon use all kinds of machinations to get what he or she desires. It is up to you to encourage but chicanery and safe way of so doing. However, the great inventive mentality and good education must be given, so that the colossal ideas can be brought down to a workable level and reach given the world.

VAUDEVILLE RETURNS TO QUINTE

Handlebar moustaches and blackleather jackets combined together to form the theme of C11B's assembly "Entertainment in the 20th Century." C11B were different! They had two M.C.'s, Joanne Waites and Terry Thompson put their heads together before each number to produce a terrific and "reely-reely big show."

The first number on the agenda was an act straight from vaudeville by Sherril Beeby and Lorne Hall, who donned a straw hat and cane and began to strut through "Hola."

CULLIGAN

Since this was the last public appearance of our band in assembly for the current year Mr. Schroder thanked his players for their co-operation in his past year and the school roared its approval.

"Gentlemen, be seated." These words rang out through the auditorium of Quinte as John "Mista' Inta'locka'te" Skinner drawled out instructions to his black company. First it was an "honest t' gosh" minstrel show put on by the class under the guidance of Miss McEwen and Mr. Bond.

The "darkies" equipped with top hats, tambourines and canes sang and shuffled their way through old favorites such as "Swanee", "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" and "Lil Liza Jane."

The group, aided by records and accompanied on the "ivories" by Mr. Bond succeeded in pleasing a difficult audience. Both students and teachers were entertained and amused immensely by the performance.

ON THE TRACK OF SPORTS

"Practice pays off" was certainly evident in Trenton on May 16 when Quinte placed second in the Bay of Quinte Track and Field meet and walked off with three individual championships. Sandra Langham and Lynne Fuzzen copped the Senior and Intermediate girls' championships respectively while Ricky Locke took the Senior boys'.

The panel of officers for the Girls' athletic association have established themselves in their new positions and are preparing for the forthcoming 1959-60 athletic program. Next year's president is Lynne Fuzzen, with Eva Dakar as a vice-president. Luane Waite as secretary, and Sheila Canning as treasurer.

AT YOUR GAZE

The passing of an era was noted at Quinte last week when that mysterious magic legend "At Your Gaze" disappeared from the wall at the head of the stairs on the second floor. Since the early days of the school, this enigmatic splendor, it has attracted the eyes and minds of Quinte students and teachers alike as they passed it in their daily routines. But now, a few lone spectators were on hand to watch it being slowly and unfeelingly obliterated by the reluctant brush of Art Ridley, the student who had been assigned the onerous task. Its history lost, many have pondered its meaning, but soons has deciphered it and so it has passed into oblivion with its secret. Like the legend of Shelley's "Ozymandias", "nothing remains" and another "thing of beauty" will wait stretches far away. The moving paintbrush paints, and having painted moves on to the demands of the present and future, for at Quinte this modern age, progress is our most important product.

STRATFORD SAFARI II

Plans for the second Stratford Safari are underway once more under the direction of the English Department. Last year's expedition was a tremendous success as anyone who was on it will attest. The play to be performed this year for the week of special school matinees (Sept. 14-19) will be "As You Like It". The total cost of the trip including return fares, meals and meals will be financed for under $10 a modest sum considering the thrill of seeing a Shakespearean play performed live in the famous Stratford Theatre and the fun of the trip. The response to the first announcement has been enthusiastic with over 100 names on the list already. So, if you don't want to be left behind next September, see Mr. Sloan soon, and follow the usual advertising channels of this second Stratford Safari. Pay Now, Go Later!!

The Dominion of Canada Rifle Association has released the results of the three winter competitions of the Cadet. Twenty eight Sea Cadet Units, 92 Air Cadet Units, and 239 Army Cadet Units representing 379 Cadet Corps in Canada completed the competitions; another 100 teams entered and failed to complete.

Westdale Secondary School of Hamilton again won the competition with an average of 98.777. Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School was eighteenth with an average of 94.916 on 51 targets. Brockville was 39th with 93.358 average. Port Hope was 47th average 92.971.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

SWALLOW FLIGHT

All swallows are strong, long distance fliers, the cliff swallow having the longest migration flight of any American land bird. Some individuals breeding in Alaska and wintering in Argentina. But never expect any swallow to win a race when time is the handicap factor. Not that swallows are slow moving, but for a good reason a devious course is always followed, adding many, many miles to the actual distance between starting point and goal.

This roundabout route is taken because unlike the majority of birds, swallows are able to accomplish two acts simultaneously — feed and fly. Twisting and turning as described, they capture their prey, catching it in mid air. Thus migrating and dining simultaneously, they have nothing to do but rest throughout the hours of darkness. Most birds are obliged to migrate by night.

Recognized by its distinctive, buoyant, undulating flight, the tree swallow reaches us first, the beginning of April, and frequently stays until late in October, when flying insects are scarce. Consequently, though other swallows are wholly insectivorous, the tree swallow sometimes lives on berries.

FRIEND OF FARMER

But because its general public and particular friend of the farmer is the barn swallow, that graceful flier which swoops low over our small northern lakes, skimming insects off the top, mounts to find the high flying variety, then dives gracefully to sail low over grain fields and barnyards. These swallows will nest alone or, as is usual, in colonies of 50 or 60 pairs to a building. Advice given in one of the popular bird books is that "every farm should have a dozen or two small openings to let them in to nest." There, occupying the barn, they bring up their families on flying farm pests.

The bank swallow generally flies low when feeding, constantly skimming the water and the overtake insects while rushing through the air in full speed. May be you have wondered about rows of holes that you have seen in embankments. These are the entrances to bank swallows' apartments.

That powerful flier and solitary hester, the rough-winged swallow, is the odd member of the family. It is found only in the southern section of our country and is rare even there. Moving through the air more in a straight line than do its relatives, the rough-winged swallow does considerable gliding and sailing as it scoops up insects flying over land or water. Of course the purple martin is another swallow.

If you want pets, keep swallows for insect control!

Little Things Can Lead to Big Troubles

By EUGENE MILMOE

Many so-called minor items affect safety and pleasure on the highway and certainly rate at least an occasional check-up.

Start with the horn. A light touch should sound it off every time without fail, and it should be clearly audible 200 feet away. The rear view mirror must be tightly positioned so that normal vibrations won't joggle it out of line or distort the reflection. It is cracked or discolored, replace it.

Tail lights, stoplights and turn signals may be in good working order, but it is also important to see that they are not 'handicapped' by dust, smoke a clicking and grinding noise, and the spinner bounced all over the dial. Now it doesn't work at all.

(A) A broken speedometer cable is probably the reason and neglected lubrication is the usual cause.

H. N. writes: "I can idle my engine for hours and it doesn't affect the battery drive on the highway, however, the temperature quickly rises to the boiling point. I've checked out the thermostat, fan belt and pressure cap, and there are no water leaks to b found."

(A) Check the radiator hose. A weak or rotting lower hose will collapse at higher speeds, blocking water circulation.

R. H. asks: "Noise comes from one of my front wheels and the brakes aggressively drag because the wheel is hesitating. Brake shoe, lining or wheel bearing trouble? Is there anything to what I've been told. Anything else?"

(A) Loose wheel bearings can cause this, too.

From: L.T.: "Outside of some starting trouble, my sedan hasn't given much trouble since I bought it last January . . . but now, it's running too hot. The garage checked it twice and finally decided I need a new fuel pump. Will this cure it?"

(A) Let's hope so. A weak pump will lean out the fuel mixture and cause overheating. It will also cause hard starting, especially in cold weather.

DEFT COURT ORDER

NEW YORK (AP)—A state supreme court justice Thursday ordered an immediate end to New York's 14 - day hospital strike. However, Retail Drug Employees Union sources said the strike will go on in defiance of ife court, but said it began May 8 in defiance of court orders not to strike. Local 1199 is demanding recognition as bargaining agent for such hospital orderlies, nurses' aides, elevator operators and maintenance employees.

PLAN 1962 CONFERENCE

TORONTO (CP) — Sponsoring organizations of the 1958 Canadian Conference on Education decided Thursday to call a second national conference — possibly in 1962. Dr. Wilfred Pentield, honorary chairman of the conference, told the more than 30 sponsors that the 1958 meet "did a great deal for education in Canada."

Garden Notes

Dahlias From Tubers and Seeds

By FLORA M. SAVAGE

Do you have your dahlias in pots? With the rush of spring work they have been neglected. To bring them along fast soak the tubers in a weak liquid fertilizer until the tubers are plump, this may be a few hours or 24. Use a fertilizer designed for hydroponics (soilless gardening) triple 20, 20, 20, balanced fertilizer. Use tepid water and keep in warm light place to induce sprouting.

When there is more than one sprout to the tuber you can separate them, use a sharp knife and see that there is a portion of the old stock to each sprout.

If the weather remains cool, or planting conditions are not right set up the tubers and grow in a light position indoors or out until they can be moved to their places in the garden. I have had dahlias in bloom by mid-June by potting up the tubers in April.

Dig the hole eight to ten inches deep and mix into the bottom half a pint of green sand half a cup of sheep manure. Set the tuber so that the top of the tuber is five or six inches below the soil surface. Cover with two inches of soil and plant at once at the same time. When the plants are 18 inches high they will need to be tied to the stake. The remaining soil can be filled in as the plants grow. Keep a shallow basin of soil around the plants to hold water when you water. Do not let it dry out. Soak the soil with liquid fertilizer at time of planting.

Dahlias need an open position where they can have the sun all day. They are not particular as to soil as long as they have good drainage. One year I grew them on what had been a cinder drive. They were the best ever.

Pinch out shoots growing up when 4 phlants are a foot high. This will cause the plants to form at lower leaf nodes. Nip back twice more during the growing season to keep the bloom coming and a thorough soaking once a week if season is dry. When frost blackens the foliage dig the tubers and cut off the tops. Turn upside down and allow to drain for a day. Have ready some digging tags to put on each as the top is cut off. When they have dried out dust with sulphur and store in plastic bags in a frost-free basement.

Leaf hoppers are a nuisance some years, for these pests a resmethrin spray is the only effective control.

To grow dahlias from seed plant in rows in the garden, pots or flats. When the plants have the third pair of leaves transplant to larger pots or set out in garden. Keep plants growing rapidly with plenty of water and fertiliser. This is slower than by tuber but with good care the smaller types will be in bloom by mid-July and go on blooming until frost. A package of mixed seed will give a wonderful selection of different types, from dwarf singles, pom pom, button, cacti-flowered to the big show types. Store the tubers from these as above.

Defence Chief Visits Land With Khrushchev

80th Birthday Being Observed By Beaverbrook

FREDERICTON, N. B. (CP)—Age hasn't dulled the wit or dampened the ardor of William Maxwell Aitken, Lord Beaverbrook, British publisher and peer and benefactor of New Brunswick.

He arrived here Friday for a visit to the province of his boyhood and to observe his 80th birthday. Today was the observance and he was to spend at least part of it watching an army pageant enabling soldiers of the Queen, re-enacting the early history of Acadia and the Fredericton area.

Lord Beaverbrook found reporters waiting to greet him with questions but he wasn't the least perturbed. His answers might be termed evasive, but no one was offended.

COMMONWEALTH FUTURE

What about the British Commonwealth?

"Hope for years to come if the U.S. doesn't do another Suez on us," was his answer to the British-French invasion of late 1956 when American objection brought about withdrawal of the British and French troops from Egypt.

What about Suez?

"Suez is a diplomatic problem, not a question for a journalism class."

Easy, pressing the button in New York Times Square editorial room, and sitting, through and through, every word of it."

He also had advice for today's reporters, faced with increasing competition from television and other media:

"In confidence but not in quiet ness shall be our strength."

HANGE PAINTINGS

Beaverbrook Art Gallery is the Lord Beaverbrook Art Gallery—his gift to the city—hanging paintings and studying the effects of natural and artificial light on them. The gallery will be officially opened this fall.

Although born in Beaverton, Ont., he came early in life to New Brunswick and has made generous gifts through the years to many municipalities in the province where he was reared.

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in Albania today to begin a 10-day official visit, the Albanian radio reported.

Khrushchev was accompanied by Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky.

Malinovsky's inclusion suggested to Moscow observers that the announced friendship visit might turn out to be more than just a courtesy call on a friendly state.

Some observers in Moscow believe Khrushchev may be planning to meet political leaders from other states during his absence from Moscow. They spoke of a possible meeting with President Tito of Yugoslavia, now engaged in an ideological dispute with Moscow, or leaders of Arab countries.

(Berlin reported that East German Premier Otto Grotewohl is now visiting in Albania at present, but foreign office sources in Bonn tonight confirm reports that Grotewohl will meet Khrushchev.

SEE ATOMIC THREAT

Observers theorized that Russia may intend to build a base there for a rocket-launching base if the West goes ahead with NATO plans to put rockets in Germany and Italy. Both these places lie within the missile reach of Albanian ramps.

Many experts believe Russia already has an extensive submarine base at Saseno, less than 30 miles across the water from Italy.

Some diplomats believe Khrushchev may propose a Balkan atom-free "peace zone."

Zeri i Popullit, the Albanian Communist daily, said in an editorial Sunday the Albanian people had learned "with deep indignation" that Greece intended to sign a rocket agreement.

MAY EASE TITO BATTLE

For the Yugoslavs, the main interest in Khrushchev's Albanian visit centres on whether it will lead to a relaxation of the Communist bloc's ideological battle against Tito.

Albania has played a major role in the campaign but the Yugoslavs have resisted Soviet pressure and East German courting in Belgrade say the Soviet leader may tone down the Albanian attacks.

Five Drowned In Maritimes

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Five persons in New Brunswick and two in Quebec were drowned or presumed drowned during the weekend.

A triple drowning occurred Saturday in the Matapedia River about 11 miles northwest of Campbellton, N.B., when a motor ice boat...

Three-year-old Jean-Guy Normandeau 18, Edmond, 6 and Yvon, 8, Normandeau's sons, were drowned while crossing to an island in the river upset.

RCMP said Jean-Guy drowned while trying to rescue the others.

Two other children, Marcel, 14, and Ginette, 12, swam safely to shore.

Mrs. Dulles Gets Message From Her Majesty

LONDON (AP) — The Queen today sent a message of condolence to Mrs. John Foster Dulles and to President Eisenhower on the death of the former secretary of state.

In her message to Mrs. Dulles the Queen said:

"I have learned with very great sorrow of the death of Mr. John Foster Dulles. I should like to join me in sending our heartfelt sympathy to you and your family in your great loss."

The Queen also requested Britain's Ambassador to Washington, Sir Harold Caccia, to convey to Eisenhower her sympathy in his "with the president and with the American people on the death of this distinguished and courageous secretary of state."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: The rising temperature trend that began on Saturday is expected to continue today. Temperatures should reach the mid-80s this afternoon in eastern and central regions. In Northern Ontario increasing cloudiness will herald the approach of scattered showers and thunderstorms. Colder air from the north will move into northwestern Ontario tonight. The remainder of the province can expect warm and more humid weather Tuesday with scattered showers or thunderstorms.

English Wife of Indian Prince Horribly Bored With Palace Life

LONDON (AP) — The blonde English wife of a maharaja has got bored with all that palace life. She's selling washing machines in London.

"Just call me an ordinary girl!" said the Maharani of Mysoresunday, who now watches pots of a 20-room mansion, a big staff of servants and five automobiles. "Forget the title. I'm Janet Hicks again."

The lovely 23-year - old was demonstrating a washing machine, but I've never seen her so pushed a shirt into the soap suds under the eyes of a crowd of cockney housewives.

"My days of luxury may be over, but I've never been happier," said Janet as the machine whirred like life.

Miss Hicks and the maharaja met three years ago in an English hotel. He was a guest, she the receptionist. They were married after a whirlwind courtship and Prince Dulu—as she called him—wished her off to high life in Calcutta.

"It was just one long round of parties and idleness," said the reformed maharanin.

"It got so boring I wanted to take a job. But Dulu wouldn't hear of it.

"Now at least I'm doing something useful and earning my own living."

The beauty who gave up a palace now shares a small apartment with a girl friend. Her budget doesn't allow her to buy rich clothes. Her hopes of being a queen have faded.

"I've given that up," she said, dropping another shirt into the spin dryer. "I have no more illusions about the stage. It's a precarious profession."

Miss Hicks is separated from the maharaja, but there has been no divorce.

"In the meantime, I'm just a working girl," she said.

"Sometimes, in the middle of doing some humdrum job, I remember the past and it seems like a dream . . . just like it never really happened."

She switched off the spin dryer and began on the shirt. The housewives drifted away.

BARRIE FAMILY HELD CAPTIVE, $20,000 TAKEN

Gunmen Carry Out Precision Robbery

BARRIE (CP) — Two gunmen pulled off a precision $20,000 robbery Saturday night by forcing a supermarket manager to give them the keys to his store and the combination to the safe.

Ernest Mason, 35, Dominion Stores manager, said the pair walked into his home with drawn revolvers and bound him, his wife and two daughters with adhesive tape.

While one man watched the family, his companion left for the supermarket and telephoned 10 minutes later to say the job was completed.

WIFE WATCHING TV

Mr. Mason said he and his wife Frances and youngest daughter, Debbie, were watching TV when the talk stocking-masked pair entered by the front door.

One of the men ordered Mason in the floor and held a gun to his head while the other combed him. Mrs. Mason and Delin were also bound.

Then the gunmen went into a bedroom and routed Doreen, 12, and brought her to the front room where she too was bound.

Mason said the gunmen left the weekend receipts from the store in the safe. The amount, he quoted one of them as saying, "If everyone co-operates, no one will get hurt."

TOOK VICTIM'S CAR

When the gunman, who drove off, stuck car to the store, phoned his accomplice, the latter left the family in the house after warning the family not to move.

Mrs. Mason was the first to untie her husband and contact police after she freed him.

The store manager and police found that the $20,000 receipts for Friday and Saturday had been taken.

Woman Abducts Toronto Tots, Phones Threat

TORONTO (CP)—Two young children of a tailoring firm executive were abducted and kidnapped today from their home in suburban North York Township by a woman who told a maid she had come to take them to a park.

Police said Mrs. Ricky Harris 2, and his sister Alana, 4, were taken from the home about 11 a.m.

The abductor, a brunette, who works for an advertising firm, went telephone to work by a woman who told her she would never see the children again. Police said the woman was saying the voice seemed to be that of a woman distraught.

The maid, Mrs. Irene Herska, said the father, Jack Harris, was in Montreal on business.

The Harrises have another child, Sharon, 10, who was at school.

Toll-Road Entrances to Help Pay Expansion Says Premier

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald is making an election issue out of the fact he has been unable to get Premier Frost to agree to a public debate.

Mr. MacDonald, who has been turned down three times in recent months, issued another challenge to the premier at a Sudbury dinner meeting Saturday.

It came after Mayor Joseph Fabbro of Sudbury told him that Mr. Frost and Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer were still scheduled to be in Sudbury June 3, eight days before the provincial election. The mayor invited Mr. MacDonald to come and "make it a real party."

The CCF leader said he would gladly change his schedule to accept the date if he could be assured of a debate with the premier.

"I challenged him in the legislature and he ignored me," Mr. Donald told 212 persons at the $5-a-plate event. "But when I hired Massey Hall he was there. When I offered to go to Lindsay he was there. When I went to Windsor last week he was there.

"The premier has begun a two day rest Sunday after'a full week of campaigning," he added sarcastically.

Thursday, Mr. Frost spoke at Welland and Cookville, explaining how United States visitors bedrooms and routed Doreen, 12, and brought her to the front room where she too was bound.

Mason said the gunmen left the weekend receipts from the store in the safe. The amount, he quoted one of them as saying, "If everyone co-operates, no one will get hurt."

TOOK VICTIM'S CAR

When the gunman, who drove off, stuck car to the store, phoned his accomplice, the latter left the family in the house after warning the family not to move.

The store manager and police found that the $20,000 receipts for Friday and Saturday had been taken.

Station 'Swamped' With Calls As Negro, White Girl Dance

TORONTO (CP)—A young Negro student was asked to stop dancing with a white girl in the Buffalo television program Dance Party Saturday when the station received telephone protest telephone calls.

Clayton Johnston, 15, of Toronto was dancing with schoolmate Patty Banks when the calls started. Patty and her parents had gone to Buffalo accompanied by two newspapermen to take part in the program.

Mrs. Muriel Schranks, one of the adults, said dozens of ceremonies Pat Fagan told her the station was being swamped with calls from angry viewers and asked her to help him with the situation.

She said she asked her son Donald, a television director, who to speak with Clayton. He did and Clayton walked off the set of the studio.

Mr. Fagan said the incident was a "slight misunderstanding." Negro youths often appeared on the show and there was TV but never danced with white girls, he said.

The students were angered.

"We lay the blame squarely on the Mrs. Do a job on Schranks. "He asked for three couples from the audience to join the spotlight dance and one of the couples picked included Johnston.

Leonard Johnston, Clayton's father, said he was surprised Clayton left rather than be put in his position.

Mr. Fagan said the station has no policy regarding Negro couples. "It's a matter of locality—they're making a mountain out of a mole hill," he said.

Van Bureen W. de Vries, the station's general manager, said he did not plan to take any action as a result of the incident.

Mr. Fagan, who said he consulted to go "into the colored section of Buffalo next week where I am to be honoured at a Pat Fagan night by members of the Negro club of the Elks Lodge."

Clayton's father, who watched the show with his wife, Dorothy, said he will ask the Toronto CPR division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters to look into the action. Mr. Johnston is a porter.

Stanley Grizzle, president of the brotherhood, said the matter will be taken up at membership and a protest will likely be made to CBC officials.

"Our organization is always against any form of discrimination because an individual — whether Negro or not—humiliation or place him in a position of inferiority," he added.

Five Drowned, In Lake St. Clair Boat Overturns

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Five young people were drowned today when their small boat overturned off Strawberry Point in Lake St. Clair. Three teen-aged girls were rescued.

Macomb County sheriff's office said three boys and two girls were in the boat.

Names of the victims all from the East Detroit and Harper Woods area were withheld pending family notification.

Sheriff Deputies Marilyn City, 17 of Detroit; Mary Lou Gonyea, 17, of Detroit; and Nancy Benedette, 17, of Detroit drowned. They were reported in good condition at St. Joseph Hospital in Mount Clemens.

The eight young people were on a picnic outing.

The scene of the tragedy is in Anchor Bay where a 19-year-old people from Grosse Pointe were minstring overnight and rescued. Another Grosse Pointe 22-foot railboat ran aground.

REPORTS GIRL MISSING

The coast guard said it got a call at 4 a.m. from the Gonyea girl's mother that her daughter was missing after going on a picnic.

Mrs. Gonyea said she knew the young people were in the Strawberry Point area where the 22-foot cruiser was aground. She didn't know how they planned to get there.

The coast guard notified the sheriff's office and a search boat was dispatched to investigate at 5:20 a.m. with the three girls clinging to it.

2 Boys Killed As Montreal Store Gutted

MONTREAL (CP)—Two boys were burned to death when a blowtorch started by exploding firecrackers, gutted a drug store and destroyed three floors of a shopping centre in suburban Jacques Cartier.

Gilles Roy, 17, and Michel Soucy, 11, both of Jacques Cartier, were in the store when the fire started.

Another boy, Real Jalbert, 14, was badly burned on both hands and face. He was to be released from hospital shortly. Police said they believed the boys who died and Jalbert were involved in starting the fire.

FULL-BLOODED MOHAWK MADE CHURCH DEACON

First to Be Raised In Anglican History

KINGSTON (CP) — Rev. R. Glendon Brant 24, a Mohawk Indian from Detroit, is the first of his race to be raised to deacon in the history of the Anglican Church of Canada.

He was one of three made deacons Sunday in ceremonies at the Cathedral Church of St. George.

The young Mohawk deacon was born in Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Brant, who moved to the Six Nations Indian reserve at the Mohawk reservation near Deseronto.

TO COMPLETE STUDIES

Mr. Brant will be temporary incumbent of Ameliasburg parish in Prince Edward County during the summer, later going to Trinity College, Toronto, to study for his bachelor degree in sacred theology.

Rev. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, Bishop of Ontario, said that when Mr. Brant is raised to the priesthood, his ordination will be held in the Mohawk church at the reserve near Deseronto. It is likely he will celebrate his first communion service in the church at the famous Queen Anne silver communion service kept there.

The service was a gift of Queen Anne to the Mohawk tribe when they moved from Connecticut to the Grand River in 1784.

The Mohawks brought the plate with them when they fled to Canada from New York at the time of the American Revolution. The service was divided between the Deseronto and the Mohawk reservation at Brantford.

Other clergymen made deacons Sunday were Rev. James Hlenwry of Brampton, Rev. Cyril Betts, who has been incumbent of the parish of Bow Valley, and Reginald of Smiths Falls.

Of four candidates raised to priest, Rev. George Swayne, assistant at St. George's Cathedral for three years, will continue his family to serve as clergyman at the Church of the Ascension of St. Mark's, Barriefield.

Rev. Hubert Masslah will be assistant in Christ Church, Belleville.

Rev. Alexander Wakeling is a native of Kingston and will continue to serve as assistant in St. George's Cathedral, Portsmouth.

Rev. Elmer Brown, who comes from Peterborough, will continue as incumbent of Marysburg, near Picton.

Airline Hostess Thought Pilot Was in Danger

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — An airliner hostess was arrested for excitement found enough Sunday to "last me for a lifetime" after she wrote the aid of a pilot she believed in danger of death.

Carolyn Hanna, 25, a former Frontier Airlines pilot and held on grimly when they thought he was being swept into the sky by suction from an open door.

Police Chief Ralph George Graham, 38, said, "I was not in danger at any time, from the outside rushed in and knocked me backward. The stewardess did a fine job in getting the passengers and there was no panic."

Convinced Color Bar Their Undoing Haitian Couple Leave Here for U.S.

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Orgeste Voltz and his wife have given up their fight to stay in Canada, convinced a "color bar" was their undoing.

The Haitian-born couple left by bus for the United States Sunday night with their Canadian-born infant daughter.

They plan to live in New York, where an aunt has arranged employment and a home for them.

"If we weren't colored I'm sure we would have been permitted to remain," the Quebec-born Mrs. Voltz told reporters at a reporter before leaving.

"I have confidence that the present government has racial prejudices. Other Haitians in the same position as ourselves were granted entry to Canada by the former Liberal government in Ottawa."

Voltz, and his wife, Andree Jeanne Louis, 22, a former night club singer, left after withdrawing an appeal against deportation.

They were to have been deported to Haiti Friday but their appeal delayed execution of the deportation order... A Canadian passport had been issued for their daughter.

"I can't afford to fight any more," said Voltz.

"We're tired of being watched by immigration officials and not knowing what would happen next. It hasn't been a life."

Several months ago, he wrote a personal appeal to Immigration Minister Fairclough, asking for permission to maintain residence in Canada.

He first came here eight years ago and met and married his wife in 1957 while she was here with a singing group from Haiti. Their daughter was born here in October, 1958.

Both he and his wife were able to remain here on temporary visitors permits, which they had renewed periodically.

Death of Dulles Brings Recess In Geneva Parley

Death Comes in Sleep To U.S. Foreign Expert

GENEVA (AP) — The East-West talks on Germany will be suspended Wednesday and Thursday while the Western foreign ministers fly to Washington for the funeral of John Foster Dulles.

U.S. State Secretary Christian A. Herter will take with him British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. They leave Geneva Tuesday after a brief session of the Big Four conference, and they return Friday.

Western diplomats speculated that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko also might go to the funeral, but there was no word from Soviet headquarters confirming or denying the speculation.

QUICKLY AGREES

Gromyko agreed in a telephone conversation with Herter to the Wednesday-Thursday conference. He said he fully understood the need for Western for the funeral and expressed condolences on the death of the former secretary of state.

The recess comes during a lull in the talks on the conference.

The Western ministers, apparently with some agreement on a conference agenda, Gromyko, are planning to engineer a gradual East-West detente debate over the mutually rejected Soviet and Western plans for Germany to active negotiations on more pliable issues.

Herter, Couve de Murville and Lloyd's deputy, Sir Anthony Rumbold, arranged a working meeting today to consider concrete ways of carrying on secret talks on the issues at an expected session for a summit meeting and other high level conferences.

Couve de Murville also was to lunch with Gromyko and to talk with him after the meal, one thing.

The West hoped to reduce the stretch agreement possibilities which now are beyond compromise.

Priority, so far as the West is concerned, is to find a way of delaying the powerful speed of Berlin.

The Western powers are firm in their resolve that any arrangement for a stopgap agreement on Berlin must not be worse off than they now are and must not be worse off than they now are and must not be worse off than they now are and

Capital Budget Report Given By Town Clerk

TRENTON — Town councillors have heard the first report on the preparation of a capital budget the town clerk-treasurer, O. W. Larry, was to draw up. The report was given at a meeting this by Councillor Vagn Lange, chairman of the town's finance committee. Mr. Larry's report is as follows:

"The preparation of a capital budget is proceeding.

"The greatest problem in preparing such a budget is to obtain the information from the groups responsible. I think this really proves the benefits to be secured from such a program which forces the various bodies involved to think in terms of the future and lay the groundwork.

"The obvious advantage is to arrange the various deposit of capital financing in such a way that the municipal finance structure remains sound.

"I think that I have stated to you before that we must impose more efficient financial administration results from accepting the need for a capital budget and planning its creation within the town's ability and with prudent timing so that the debt load may be spread evenly over the years

"I have outlined the first year as the chairman has stated we should be: Sidewalk Filtration Plant, $102,000; Fire Engine, $12,000; Bridge Repairs, $15,000; Public School, $230,000; Road Work (comp.) $17,379 and Sewage Treatment Plant, $100,000, total of $462,379.

"I have also undertaken Ontario Municipal Board Works contracts for $466,834, plus engineering fees and contingencies which will likely put it over $500,000. It is interesting to note that the sewerage and street lighting items of last year were not financed.

"As I have stated I can only finalize this on the basis of the information supplied to me. For example; are you going to build a new police station? Are you going to repair the old one? And in what year? Are you going to lease accommodation for road work? Sewer work? If so when and how much?

"I learn from the Public Utilities Commission there is a likelihood that they will require financing for water mains and possibly some electrical work. This is to be scheduled

"The hospital board expects it will need $100,000 in 1960.

"I hope that with the completion of the capital budget this year the Municipal Board may see it fit to approve the Sidney Street sewer within the next few years. There may then follow installation of services in the land assembly area.

"I trust you will give me your co-operation by providing the information required."

Purchase Offer Turned Over To Committee

TRENTON — The town council turned over the offer from Trenton Construction Company Limited to purchase 10 acres of land on the north side of the highway by a special committee for further investigation.

The committee will include Councillor Vagn Lange, chairman of finance; Councillor Lloyd Weese, chairman of public works, and Councillor William Reed, chairman of sanitation and waste. The committee will report back to council at the next meeting.

The Trenton Construction Company has been seeking to obtain land inside the town boundaries to use for the erection of a rock crushing and gravel plant. It is also understood such a plant would be located in the vicinity of 30 men and would cost a quarter of a million dollars.

The company first sought the land near the present gravel pit at Mount Pelissier and since then made an offer to trade the gravel pit for the land in the area immediately north of the 401.

On May 19 the company made a bid to about 10 acres and offered and requested the town to sell it to them. The offer was made thereby tip of the town-owned land on the north side of the highway between Dundas Street and the Trent River. The company has offered a price of $100 per acre for this land.

Speaking of the offer Mayor Harold Ketcheson said that the sale of the land at this price, which is about $40 per acre below the 1959 per acre by the Provincial Government for the land would be of a permanent nature. The councillor said, "this land is a long way out. I would not be overly interested selling it to you nor would I be entirely in favor of selling it for $100 per acre."

NON VALUABLE

Councillor Howard Aziz said he was of the opinion that this land was valuable to the town for this type of industry

Councillor Harold Bradshaw reminded the councillors that they should consider that the company is going to spend what would employ about 30 men and they must be sure what water to enable them to wash the gravel. He said he was not against selling the property to the firm but it was worth more than $100 per acre. He stated further negotiations with the company and that the town should have a figure on the size of buildings they plan to construct.

Councillor Vagn Lange said: "I cannot agree with selling the land for $100 per acre. We can't even buy poor farm land for that price today. There is about 150 acres above the 401 and in the future it will be ideal for large industries and not the type that will blend with the plans for that area." The councillor concluded that there should be some place in town that would be satisfactory to the company because the town has certain obligations towards the employment of the jobless."

The council was told this area is under the control of the fill law was laid aside for heavy industry.

Two New Flags Are Dedicated At Service

TRENTON — Golden and Brownies from Mary Trenton under the direction of Mrs. O. Hunsinger, District Girl Guide Commissioner, participated in a Flag Dedication Service held in Trinity United Church on Sunday afternoon. Leading the parade were Pipe Major C. McIlwaith, pipe major of the Quinte Pipe Band, and Piper Ed McFaul. Next came the band.

Six Persons On Fishing Trip Said Missing

CHIBOUGAMAU, Que. (CP)—Six persons who set out on a fishing trip Sunday have been reported missing in the lake-studded, wooded area near this mining community 250 miles north of Quebec City.

Missing are Leon Raclest, 23, and his 21 - year - old wife Jean-Charles Beaulieu, 16; Louis-Philippe Beaulieu, 14; Louis-Georges Beaulieu, 10; and Pierre-Paul Potvin, 18. The Beaulieu boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beaulieu of Chibougamau.

Mr. Beaulieu told police he drove the Raclests and the boys to within a mile of Lac Antoinette, about 2¼ miles northwest of Chibougamau. He then returned to Chibougamau for a canoe. When he again reached the spot the boys had left the Raclests and the boys they were nowhere in sight.

When they failed to return within eight hours he notified police and a search was started. Car horns were sounded during the night in an effort to direct the missing group to the highway.

A party of Indians from a nearby reserve was to organize a search today. The missing party was lightly clad and carried no food.

Strange Object Swimming in Bay Was Lone Beaver

A well - known Belleville resident, a confirmed teetotaler tells this story. And swears by it.

Last evening about seven o'clock he was bucking the choppy waves of the bay in the family put-putt when he saw a strange object swimming in the water.

He was paddling along nicely about thirty feet off the south shore of the bay west of the bridge, apparently heading for Bedneyville.

He drew near to the swimming animal and nearly fell overboard.

It was a full-grown beaver, weighing, he said, in the vicinity of sixty pounds.

He rubbed his eyes and looked again, thinking perhaps it was a muskrat.

It wasn't. It was a lonely old beaver, swimming to some quiet refuge along the shore.

He thinks it landed somewhere on the coastline of the Harry Adams farm.

That's what the man said. He swears by it.

dustry making cheap power available so northern secondary industries could compete on a footing with southern firms.

Addressing 75 persons Sunday in the uranium mining centre of Elliot Lake, Mr. MacDonald expanded on these proposals.

Mining and logging companies he said, should pay higher taxes to help support northern development. The mining tax industry last year produced $800,000,000 in wealth but paid less than $10,000,000 in taxes.

The government had rented public premises to the industry slashs with insufficient return. "Everyone is protected except the working man and the public investment."

Mr. MacDonald said the 22,500 people of Elliot Lake would be left "holding the bag" if mining companies pulled out after the completion of United States government contracts in 1965. His charged government policies were responsible for the situation.

A man in the audience said rumors in the north, where most of Ontario's French - Canadian population is located, indicated the CCF would abolish separate schools.

Mr. MacDonald said the CCF recognized the rights of the separate schools and had no intention of interfering with them.

Dr. Phillips, federal health minister in the former Liberal government took a swing at Premier Frost who had attacked him in a Windsor speech last week.

Campaigning for Mr. Wintermeyer, Mr. Martin, Liberal MP for Essex East, took issue with the premier's statements about seeking more power for new work for the A. V. Roe aircraft plants at Malton near Toronto.

"As a matter of fact, he did nothing in this respect," Mr. Martin said at a meeting of 100 in a schoolhouse at Marybill. The Liberal MP said Premier Diefenbaker whether Mr. Frost had consulted him regarding the new Avro rem. The reply was negative.

Romanian Refugee's Trouge Takes Top Drama Honors

TORONTO (CP) — Clasping the Calvert Trophy, the highest award of the Dominion Drama Festival, winning director Nina Diaconesco of Montreal tearfully thanked her "new country, Canada."

Her French-language production of La Compagnie Nina Diaconesco of Plautus' Le Militaire Fanfaron took the main trophy and $1,000 for the best presentation for the eight - play festival which ended Saturday night.

The former Romanian, who escaped from behind the Iron Curtain while touring with a troupe in Italy, came to Montreal 21 months ago. For her direction she earned the Louis Jouvet Challenge Trophy.

A second French troupe from Montreal, l'Atelier du Proscenium, captured four of the major awards for its presentation of Eugene Ionesco's Victimes du Devoir.

SIMCOE GETS AWARD

Simcoe Little Theatre was the only other winner with presentation of The Boy Friend, the first musical ever to reach the DDF finals.

The final festival winners chosen by adjudicator Michel St. Denis were:

Best presentation: Le Militaire Fanfaron.

Best presentation in English excluding the main winner: The Boy Friend presented by Simcoe Little Theatre.

Best presentation in French excluding the main winner: Victimes du Devoir.

The Martha Allan Challenge Trophy for the best visual presentation: Victimes du Devoir.

Louis Jouvet Challenge Trophy for the best director: Nina Diaconesco.

Henry Osborne Challenge Trophy for the best male performance: Uriel Luft of l'Atelier du Proscenium.

Nella Jefferies Challenge Trophy for the best female performance: Claude Brabant of l'Atelier du Proscenium.

The Saturday Night plaques for the best supporting male and female roles: Andre Montmorency and Mirielle Lachance, both of the Diaconesco Company.

REGIONAL AWARDS

Winners of regional festival awards chosen by regional adjudicator Richard Ainley, were:

The Beaubrough Trophy for outstanding achievement in the presentation of a classical play: The Port Arthur Mummers for Miss Julie.

The Sir Barry Jackson trophy for the best presentation of a play written by a Canadian: Les Compagnons de Notre-Dame de Trois-Rivieres for presentation of Les Oiseaux de Nuit and La Genevieve.

The festival committee prize of $100 to the Canadian author of the best play judged as a dramatic composition: Patricia Joudry for Teach Me How to Cry.

"Generally speaking the week was not good," said adjudicator St. Denis. He mused whether the decline was the result of growth in the professional field in Canada.

He also questioned the advisability of a musical in the festival.

GOOD FINALE

The final performance, Le Militaire Fanfaron, won the applause of the adjudicator and the audience.

"I think the festival, thanks to this show, ends on a very good note," Mr. St. Denis said.

The afternoon performance of William Saroyan's The Cave Dwellers by the Ottawa Theatre Art Guild received the same setoric criticism given the other winning productions.

"Again I find it is not the calibre of acting to be called to a final festival."

MONOH MASSEY

For his contribution to the festival, Governor - General Massey was made the first life governor of the DDF. He has served as president, honorary president, vice-president, chairman of the festival and patron since the DDF's inception in 1933.

The Masser award for the Canadian author whose play is judged the best in the festival will be presented annually starting next year. The 1960 festival will be in Vancouver.

TAILLESS DOG

The schipperke, long used as a guard on Belgian canal boats, is a small, black dog without a tail.

Dominion Drama Finals Put Two French Groups in Lead

By ROBERT TANNER

Probably the most controversial Dominion Drama Festival for many years, the adjudgings from across Canada presented at the Royal Alexandra Theatre in Toronto ended with a resounding victory for the two French-language entrants. Adjudicator Michel Saint-Denis has found it difficult to keep to his opening night promise to be "kind," since several of the entries have fallen considerably below the normal standard of acting and directing competence which over the years have come to be expected from the Final Festival. At least some of the blame for this alienation must be laid at the door of the Regional Adjudicator, Mr. Richard Ainley, whose selection of the plays to be presented in Toronto appears at times to have verged on the capricious. As a result, the only really worthy English entry was the musical comedy "The Boy Friend," presented by Simcoe Little Theatre, and this in itself caused further confusion, since it became a matter of argument whether this type of production has a place in a Drama Festival, and since M. Saint-Denis felt himself to be insufficiently qualified to judge a musical performance. It will therefore of considerable relief that the two French entries, both from Montreal, exhibited a really higher standard of performance.

After the historic presentation of the D.D.F.'s first Life Governorship of His Excellency the Governor General, the announcement of a new annual award to be named in honor of Mr. Massey, the last night audience waited expectancy for the adjudicator's decision. M. Saint-Denis followed tradition in announcing the lesser awards, first with Mirielle Lachance and Andre Montmorency, both from the cast of "La Militaire Fanfaron," named as best supporting players. The award for the best actress and actress in the Festival went to Uriel Luft and Claude Brabant for their performances in "Victimes du Devoir", and the latter together with Paul Desrochers of Montreal and Dan MacDonald of Halifax were nominated for the best acting apprenticeship at this summer's Stratford Festival. The award for the best director was awarded to Mme. Nina Diaconesco, whose production played "Le Militaire Fanfaron", and the best English presentation, excluding the winner of the Calvert Trophy, was declared "with some reservations" on the Adjudicator's part to be "The Boy Friend". In deciding between the two French plays M. Saint-Denis confessed that he had had a very difficult task, but he finally awarded the Festival Plaque to "Victimes du Devoir" and the coveted Calvert Trophy for the best presentation to the Festival to "Le Militaire Fanfaron".

Both the Governor-General and the Adjudicator spoke of the very great importance to Canada and to the professional theatre of a strong and flourishing amateur dramatic movement. M. Saint-Denis described the work of the British Drama League, and of a similar movement in France which had produced many of the leading directors and actors at present on the professional Paris stage. He told his listeners that they must not become discouraged by such temporary setbacks as the Festival represented, but must press on again to better things.

The Festival proceedings closed with a Gala Ball, held at H.M.C.S. York, at which both the happenings of the past week, and the plans for next year's gathering were discussed among the main topics of conversation.

LET THEM BE HAPPY

Intermittently, over the past several months, criticism has been voiced of the provision in the Canadian old-age pension law which prohibits pensioners from leaving Canada for more than six months at a time if they wish to continue receiving their pensions.

Maclean's Magazine has now added its powerful and persuasive voice to the outcry against this rule.

"It may be impossible to live in Canada on fifty-five dollars a month," says Maclean's in an editorial in its latest issue, "but in some parts of the world it is easy. In places like Majorca, or the islands in the eastern Mediterranean, or the less tourist-struck parts of the West Indies, a Canadian old-age pensioner would almost be classed among the rich. To let him go there, if he likes, would be to the Canadian taxpayer a net saving."

The objection that he would be spending his modest income abroad, instead of buying from Canadian merchants and paying rent to a Canadian landlord, strikes us as mean-minded petitioggery."

All this is so logical that we find ourselves tempted off the fence on which we have hitherto perched on this issue. We think our former reluctance to accept the argument that pensions should be paid to Canadian taxpayers to people residing outside of Canada was largely the result of the frequent contention by advocates of such a course that these pensions had been bought by these pensioners, in the same way in which one buys pensions through contributory plans. They have not -- the Canadian old-age pension scheme is not contributory in anything except perhaps in name. Maclean's puts it a little differently. "The old-age pension is not charity," it says. "It is an annuity from the state to which all contribute and have been contributing for some time -- no one gets it who has lived in Canada less than ten years." There can be no quarrel with the case put in those words -- but the right of future pensioners to payments is based not on their contributions earmarked for their own pensions but on their contributions to the general revenue. Once grant that point and we will concede that, in the words of Maclean's, "having paid for it, we ought to be free to take it and spend it where we choose."

If there remains any opposition to this viewpoint after the powerful editorial in Maclean's it must surely arise from a lingering feeling that people who receive aid from the state have no real right to enjoy themselves. From such an attitude we wish to dissociate ourselves.

GUARD AGAINST BIG LOSS

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, in a brief to the Commons industrial relations committee, has opposed the extension of the maximum benefit period for unemployment insurance from 36 weeks to 52 weeks. The Chamber says the true purpose of unemployment insurance is to protect against short work-less periods.

We can think of several features of our unemployment insurance regulations which tend to corroborate the Chamber's estimate of the purpose of the plan. All we can say, though, is that, if 'twere so 'twere a grievous thing and grievously may the nation answer for it at some future date.

The first function of any insurance scheme, it seems to us, should be to guard against disaster. A man should take out life insurance before he considers accident insurance. When the hospital insurance plan was being considered, there were suggestions that "catastrophic" insurance against illness lasting many months might meet the need without extending the benefits to include every brief illness. Similarly, the man who is out of work for years is in a worse plight than the man out of work for a few weeks.

INDIA PRODUCING URANIUM

India produced her first ingot of atomically pure uranium early in February. The construction of uranium metal plant had been completed and had successfully undergone trials. This large-scale achievement in the field of nuclear power must await the later stages of the third Plan, the Government of India has decided to install nuclear power plants to produce electricity of a minimum capacity of 250,000 kw. WHAT COUNTS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

This is the thing that counts in life,
Not the flourish or pomp or strife,
Not the medal bedecked outside;
These are symbols of earthly strife
Oft won by souls unsanctified;
This is the thing that counts, you'll find:
Did you give your best to your fellow kind?

Did you toil for those that you left behind?
Did you live for them, not for self alone?
In the hereafter where will you be known:
Where will the Master your record find,

On medals of gold and columns of stone,
Or graved on the tablets of memory
By the friends you made when you used to be?

Fortunes vanish and glories fade;
Medals are junk when their wearers die;
Pomp departs with the dawn-closed eye;
Simply then is the soul surveyed.
This is the thing that counts on high:
Did you live your life so that others here
Knew less of sorrow and more of cheer,

Authors and Professions

New York Times

Today's most interesting bit of literary news belongs as much among the television notes as it does in the columns devoted to the doings of the book trade.

"Earthquake", a novel jointly by Milton Bates and John Monteith, is published. While there is no advance indication that "Earthquake" is destined to be the literary sensation of the season, the very fact that it is a serious novel coming in part from a performer who long has been in the forefront of public attention to set it aside, from the dozens of novels competing for attention each week.

A novel by a performer is not completely unique. In the immediate past we have had novels by, among others, Ruth Chatterton, Ina Claire, Gypsy Rose Lee. More normal, though, does it seem to be for a performer to be author of his own life story, although the cyclical among us can remember that many such so-called autobiographies in actuality were ghosted by fiction created by ghostly collaborators.

From other professions, though, the literary world for generations has come to expect superlative contributions. Doctors-turned-writers date as far back as Rabelais, the celebrated medicine in Paris and got his medical degree there. Even centuries long before he ever started to put down on paper the legends of Gargantua and Pantagruel, Holmes Sr., famous father of a famous son, tried law for a year before he decided to make medicine his life work, and many consider his work as a medical practitioner and as professor second only to that of Harvard Medical School, to be as noteworthy as his literary efforts. He produced three novels, but today they are outshone by his "Old Ironsides" and other poems and by the essays that started with the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" papers for the Atlantic Monthly.

In our own day, the physician-writer has cut quite a literary swath. Somerset Maugham had a medical degree although he never practiced, and his life as a medical student is mirrored in his first novel, "Liza of Lambeth," published back in 1897. Both A. J. Cronin and Frank Slaughter, two of the most successful writers in recent years, came to fiction from medicine. Archie Cronin, who has been living in Switzerland after the great success of "Hatter's Castle" and first second, William Carlos Williams has continued to practice both poetry and medicine in Rutherford, N.J. Charles Dickens, somewhat the Horatio Alger of his day, had both medical training, in studying midwifery, and legal training, in working as a shorthand reporter.

At this moment, it is the writer trained in the law who seems to have won his way to the top of the literary heap. "Anatomy of a Murder," the confection of the Book-of-the-Month Club, Judge Traver, is the work of Eleazer Lipsky, a practicing member of the New York Bar. Lipsky, a graduate of the Honorable Bureau of Information, Inc., a successful novel titled "The Prosecutor," and he is preparing an adaption for the stage. And from Pennsylvania, a murder by the Supreme Court Justice Curtis Bok titled "Star Wormwood" is stirring new interest in the ever-recurring some problem of crime and punishment.

Court Acts To Aid Mouse

Hamilton Spectator

The whole apparatus of British justice was invoked the other day on behalf of a mouse.

A woman pet shop keeper in the town of Portsmouth was charged with cruelty in causing a mouse by putting it in a cage with a five-foot python.

Magistrates, after hearing in sensitivity and lack of imagination rather than deliberate intent to cause pain and fear.

Our consideration for animals is more recent sentiment than many of us are aware. Like so much other humane legislation, the law for grant-ed, laws protecting animals sprung out of the awakened Christian social conference or the early Victorian era. Before animals were given the dignity of man; baiting and torturing them was entertainment.

But that conscience was there before, even if it was not legislated into law. Boswell's account of one of Dr. Samuel Johnson's conversations.

If a man is in a leisurely journey, Johnson said, and the coachman whips the horses to death. If, however, the man is late for an appointment, and the coachman whip the horses, then it is quite a different matter.

In the case of the mouse, the woman was discharged because the prosecution could not prove she had guilt yknowledge. The mouse survived.

We might reflect that, at the heart, there cannot be much wrong with a person under the protection of the law.

New System Works Well

Brockville Recorder and Times.

The proof of the value of more punitive measures to curb fire offenders has never been more evident than it is in the first results of the province's demerit system. This system became effective April 1 and already it has cut down traffic accidents by 50 percent.

There was initial fear that the new system would crowd the court with offenders. It has not done so and appreciably fewer are in court cases to date.

Drivers apparently have become more careful of their driving habits. The province has gained one point by introducing the demerit system and in this regard newspapers have played a leading role.

Employable Personality

Financial Post

An interesting phrase has cropped up in the report of a commission which set out to investigate the social needs problems of Indians and Metis in Manitoba.

One of the needs of these groups it says, is help in developing an "employable personality."

An employable personality, it goes on, has nothing to do with grey flannel suits, toothpaste smiles and a knack for polishing apples. What's involved is an understanding that holding down a job means being punctual and capable of carrying through an assignment.

As far as the Metis and Indians are concerned, the point is that hunting and fishing, the traditional means of livelihood, provide little experience in work habits that are related to city employment.

As matters stand now, it's only after the painful experience of losing a job that even an otherwise capable person begins to realize what's required. The author of the Manitoba commission is that the Indian and Metis need the reservations should be helped to learn some of these things before he begins to face the "traumatic" adjustment to city ways.

The point is valid. But it may have an even wider application. The idea of developing an "employable personality" is one that might well be stressed in high schools all across the country. The qualities -- over and above job skills -- that make good employees should be clearly outlined to the young Canadians about to seek jobs.

The transition from high school to the labour force may not be as difficult as the transition from the Indian reservation to the cosmopolitan city. But having some notion of what constitutes an "employable personality" would do no harm in either case.

To Your Good Health

ECHO VIRUSES BEING PROBED INTO BY SCIENCE

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have met up with a new virus -- ECHO. The name is said to be the initials of the two doctors who discovered it. My son has had a particularly potent case, and I am curious about ECHO. -- Mrs. L. C."

ECHO viruses are quite newsy in recognition, that is. However, I'm sure they must have been around doing damage for a long, long time.

It is only in the 1950's that we have learned to know viruses -- I say "viruses" because they are a whole group. At least 72 varieties already are known, and maybe the experts have identified some more when it wasn't looking.

They were named after the discovery of ECHO stands for "enteric cytopathogenis human orphan" and understand the last the "orphan" part of the name, which has a good scientific ring to it, is a little too complicated to bother with now, may not be necessary later. But I suppose we'll keep on using the name.

We think of ECHO as a form of 8, or ECHO 6, to distinguish the different types, but generally speaking they are similar in that which have some of the characteristics of the common cold, the characteristics of diarrhea, the "enteric" part of the name which is Greek for intestine, and they cause a rash, sometimes not.

Depending on the variety of the virus, fevers may be moderate to high (as high as up to 106). There are some types that cause a sore throat, but the laboratories you have not yet caused any epidemics that we know of where have caused epidemics affecting thousands in a single community.

Victims range from very young and very premature babies to adults. There is no present reason to think the viruses are dead-ly but they certainly can make people very sick.

And I don't think there is any way for patients to know whether an ECHO virus, or some other virus, is causing their ill.

The diarrhea (or nausea and vomiting) in some varieties might also be caused by bacteria rather than virus. The running nose or other symptoms might be those of colds, flu, allergy.

The foregoing will give you a hasty notion of what the ECHO viruses are. Let me say I'll be over years and I dare say I'll be able to tell you that much more.

Will Not Sell Ties to Women

Montreal Gazette

Paul Ladoux of Brussels, subtitled the Beau 'Brummel of Belgium, has some strong opinions about women. He thinks He refuses to sell them to women, for women don't wear them. He only men's wear item left with which the man can exhibit his taste in clothes.

He offers these ratings, for the curiously-inclined:

"A cravat that is merely an attempt to match the suit shows poor taste.

"Solid colors stand for lack of imagination.

"Simple stripes mean conservative taste.

"Ties that are wild and nothing else indicate stupidity!

"Dots and plaids together reveal an appreciation of beautiful women, food, art and music."

Mr. Ladoux has obviously been limited to the clothes available in Europe. He hasn't seen the ties we (with the pocket batteries) that light up.

North America in summer would be more baffling than that. Anyway, no most vacationing males don't wear any ties at all.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE A CREATOR OF SOMETHING

The progress of the world is handed by Creators -- men and women of dreams and vision. Be a creator of something! Be sure it is something useful and you can be assured it will be welcomed.

How crude most inventions have been at the start! People laughed at the first automobiles and the first tests of the flying machines. The first phonograph of Edison looked crude, but they stirred the imagination of people who could see how it could perfect and make them useful. Even the telephone keeps adding some new idea for the benefit of the multitude.

W. K. Nelson, founder of the Kansas City Star, once said to me: "The secret of success in any idea may be there always is a better one." Yours visioned intelligently, the home of Thomas Jef-ferson. In it were many inventions he had created. Several, in a revised form, have been adapted today.

Nearly all gifted artists are creators. Some of their pictures upon their canvas, and writers put their lives into their books. People pay high prices for genuine antique furniture. The reason is that the designers put themselves into their creations. We do those who create anything beautiful. Children with inventive talent should be encouraged. Encourage them. Encourage artists in your home. Who is wise enough to measure the future?

I cannot enthuse over this so-called "Modern Art," but if it does not turn out of it, it is all right with me!

I shall not give up Nature and all her forms. Everything that the creative is a marvelous. I love every flower that grows.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Across the aisle in the crowded bus a large blushlids type blonde lady in her cantankerous forties was telling her shopping companion, in a rich baritone voice, about her troubles.

"I take the hammer," she said, "and I hammer on the ceiling. That finally stops them. They have one of these hi-fis, and it goes boom-boom, boom-boom all night long. If I hammer enough, they tone it down.

"Then the people down below me, they go for TV dramas. Never any music. Just drama, drama, drama. And all night long, nothing but voices going boom-boom. So I take the hammer and hammer on the floor. Sometimes, if they don't tone it down, I hammer on the radiator. That does it."

A passenger her weak-voiced companion asked her why she didn't complain to the apartment superintendent...

"I do I do!" assured Brunhilda. "I phone the superintendent on an average of three times a week. But what can he do? Nothing. Sometimes I even think they are all trying to get rid of me, but no! Not me. I just use the hammer."

She and her companion got off, with most of the passengers, at the main shopping corner. The stranger turned to me when the bus door closed, said mildly:

"Isn't it a blessing that people like that don't live together in bunches? Wouldn't it be awful if they were scattered around among the rest of us?"

Now that you come to think of it, trouble usually is bunched.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE'S GREAT INTEREST

Two men who were in a position to talk about world affairs with authority were talking with flashing eyes and a gesticulation and once a while a thump, engaged in a spirited conversation and exchange of ideas.

Certainly they must have been talking about great world problems and perhaps demeaned decided this. As a matter of fact, however, they were talking about their children and grandchildren. Each had something to tell the other about what his son or daughter had done. Each had a fund of stories and sayings about the grandchildren. When it was all over, they laughingly agreed that, after forty, people live for their children and grandchildren.

Very little else than the advancement of their children and, after that, their grandchildren, seems to interest them.

Is that so bad? I don't think so. I think it is a good thing. It is the thinking and talking about the children. Not at all. "Where are the boys?" he kept asking. The royal sons were scattered to the ends of the earth, they granted them brought home. He wanted to see them. A king? Yes, but a father first.

So whether it is Lorene or Abraham's bench, canoe or hovel, the human interest is the same the world over. And we can thank God that it is.

Hugh Barclay, Belleville, accelerates his Austin-Healey out of a garaging test and on to the next trial of driving skill in annual driving skill tests and acceleration, a national event, put on by the members of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club. Well over 125 persons lined the route to watch the drivers perform as competitors gathered from Montreal, Ottawa, Brockville and Toronto, as well as the local area.

Branch Honors Legion Worker For 29 Years

PICTON — A member of the Canadian Legion for the past 29 years and an untiring worker on behalf of veterans and their dependants, Frank Starr was given a life membership in the Canadian Legion. A special meeting was held at the Legion hall, Friday night with a large crowd of veterans in attendance. Reference was made to Mr. Starr's work in the early years of Branch 78 here, of his services as Past President, chairman of the Poppy fund and as padre.

Three past presidents of the branch, Len J. Foley, C.B. Widdifield, QC and Romer Shields were presented with Past Presidents pins.

Also unveiled and dedicated was a plaque which bears the names of all past presidents of the branch. This was donated by several interested persons and names of succeeding presidents will be inscribed. President C. McCalpin was in charge of the meeting.

MARKS ANNIVERSARY

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church marked its anniversary on Sunday with special services. The church is at present without a minister due to Rev. P. B. Reid accepting a call to London, Ontario. Guest speaker was Rev. I. Muchan of Toronto, a former missionary to India and British Guiana, who is now in charge of a downtown Toronto mission. Large congregations were present to hear interesting sermons.

MANY ATTEND CIRCUS

Nearly two thousand people attended the Garden Bros. Circus at the Exhibition Centre at the fairgrounds Thursday afternoon and evening. The event was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. The show was the best the Canadian Circus has ever presented here. Winning much applause were two young elephants, trained dogs and horses, and the acrobats. Headed by Ernest Smith the second, a native of Indiana presented a lively thrilling show with trained bull whips, knife throwing and shooting. Pink candy, popcorn and balloons helped make it a memorable day, especially for the children.

Three Injured As Motor Car Slams Into Tree

James Charles Johns, 24, of Frankford, suffered possible concussion and three passengers sustained lacerations and shock when their car slammed into a tree on College Street late Saturday night.

Suffering bruises to her leg and arm was May Sharpe, 19, of Frankford, while David J. Gibbs, 190 Bleecker Ave., suffered lacerations and Mrs. Betty Ann Gibbs suffered shock.

City police said the Johns car was northbound on Front Street and turned right onto College. The vehicle failed to straighten out in time and slammed into a tree on the south side of the street. The 1948 model car was said a complete wreck.

Camera Club Salon Prizes Awarded at Dinner Saturday

The Belleville Camera Club's second annual photographic salon dinner was held on Saturday evening. The award winners together with His Worship Mayor G. H. Hyde and Mrs. Hyde, Recreation Director L. G. Doran and Mrs. Doran, Club President H. James and Mrs. James, Salon Chairman Werner Eisele and a goodly number of interested amateur photographers from Peterboro, Kingston, Cobourg and Belleville enjoyed an excellent dinner and a splendid hour of fellowship.

During the course of the dinner Mr. Doran presented silver loving cups and merchandise prizes to Mrs. L. A. Verney of the Cobourg Camera Club in recognition of her color slide which placed third and Mr. Frank Atkinson of the Belleville Camera Club whose black and white print placed third in that division and was also raised as the most original print in the salon.

Mayor Hyde presented the second place cups and merchandise prizes for both the color and black and white sections to Mr. Norman Wells of Peterborough who achieved this honor in both sections of the salon.

Mayor Hyde then presented to Mr. Victor M. Hewson of the Cobourg Camera Club with the trophy emblematic of the best color slide in the show together with a suitable merchandise prize and to Mr. Peter Wade of Kingston the trophy for the best black and white print of the salon.

The dinner chairman then briefly acknowledge the help and assistance which had been given by various companies, organizations and persons which had assisted in the success of this second salon. He then adjourned the dinner to the new Belleville Recreation Commission offices on Pinnacle Street where the salon showing was in full swing.

On entering the auditorium on the second floor visitors were faced with an invitation panel by Rex Frost, F.P.S.A., A.R.P.S. Mr. Frost had been the salon judge and had on display seven prints of varied subject interest, chosen from his large collection. Around the walls of this first room were displayed some forty prints all of high technical excellence and of varied subject matter.

In the second room a color slide show was in progress with slides of every subject one could name and of very high calibre.

The success of the show is a foregone conclusion and as Mayor Hyde said as he left the exhibition "You certainly don't have to be a photographer to appreciate the work we have seen here tonight."

This exhibition opened on Friday night at 7 p.m. and will close on Monday evening at 10 p.m.

Driving Skill Tests Held on Unopened Road

The St. Lawrence Automobile Club held its annual driving skill tests on Sunday utilizing an unopened section of new highway in this area. This event which is a part of the National Event Calendar of the Canadian Automobile Sport Club is the first of two major events held by the local club. Over 100 persons were present to watch over 40 competing vehicles and drivers demonstrate their skill at parking, garaging, and manipulating their cars. Included in the tests were acceleration and braking events to test the ability of the driver to gauge his car's speed and safe stopping distance.

The event was enhanced by the large number of members of other motorsport clubs showing up to participate. The Motorsport Club of Ottawa entered its annual spring rally at the site of the tests and a large number of Ottawa members competed. Members from Cornwall, Brockville, Montreal, Kingston and Toronto clubs also competed.

The event was organized by Doug Fraser of Trenton, competition chairman of the local club. Members of the club from Kingston set up the pylons and course markings and started and timed the competitors. Other club members were stationed at strategic points along the road, which were run consecutively, to mark the progress of each entrant and check to see that proper procedure was being followed. Penalty points were assessed for improper execution of any test, such as going over the mark in a braking test and for knocking over any pylons which designated the limits of the course. The entire event was also timed and this factor was also figured in arriving at an assessment of an entrant's performance.

The vehicles used were allowed to enter one of three classes — large sedan, economy sedan or GT car and were judged on the performance within its class. Provisional results of the driving skill tests are not yet available due to the complications of marking.

The driving skill tests were followed by a quarter-mile acceleration run. Best time for this run was made by Jim Graham of Belleville in a Jaguar 3.4 sedan.

Army Parade Draws Crowd

PICTON — Saturday was marked as Army day in Picton. Many thousands packed the Main street to witness a parade which included 300 members of Picton Camp, the Picton Heights Club band a variety of military equipment. The salute was taken by Mayor H. J. McFarland.

Later, there was a display of missile equipment by the armouries and films on army activities. The display moved downtown was a departure from the open house held at the camp itself.

Police Blotter

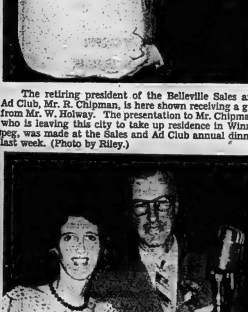
Property hall of $2,000 has been set for Richard Parker, 21, of Belleville, pay clerk for Melfarne Gendron Manufacturing Company, charged with theft from the company's payroll.

Mr. Parker was arrested by police constable Harold Reid of the city police late last week on the theft charge. Thefts from the company payroll are believed to date back to the first of the year.

Two juveniles were apprehended by the YMCA caretaker on Sunday night after trying to rifle the cash drawer at the canteen counter. The two young lads were said to have been in the office attempting to open the cash drawer when they were heard by the caretaker who detained them until the arrival of police.

Truck Follows Driver Into Cafe For Coffee

Arnold Petrino, Toronto, driver for a Smith Transport highway truck, had his vehicle follow him in for morning coffee when he stopped at Pete's Lunch on Dundas Street East Sunday morning.



The transport driver had left his vehicle parked on the Fina service station lot across the street leaving the motor running with only the air brakes set.

After a few moments the motor stopped and the air pressure on the brakes dropped allowing the heavy vehicle to roll across Church Street into the side of the restaurant. The wall of the restaurant immediately behind the stool where Mr. Petrino was seated was shoved in sending articles from shevles flying across the room.

No one was injured in the freak mishap.

4 Persons Hurt Near Bancroft

BANCROFT — Four persons were injured, one seriously, Sunday in a two-car collision on No. 62 Highway four miles south of here.

In critical condition in Peterborough Civic Hospital is Verna Welsh, 30, of Hamilton. She has a fractured skull, broken collar bone and pelvis and internal injuries.

She was a passenger in a car driven by John Wilson, 45, of Bancroft, which was struck by another car as it turned into Mr. Wilson's farm lane. Mr. Wilson was treated for cuts and released.

Mrs. Bella Trolley, 45, of Bancroft, was admitted to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital with two broken ribs.

Edward J. Corbett, 39, of Peterborough, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough with chest injuries and a broken right arm.

Fire Destroys Morven Church East of Napanee

NAPANEE — The 103-year old Morven United Church, five miles east of here, was razed this morning by a fire believed to have originated in the furnace.

Extensive repairs and improvements had been made to the frame church in recent years and the loss, partly covered by insurance is unestimated.

It was the second fire at the church within a year. Last summer a blaze started by faulty wiring caused some damage and new wiring was put in.

The church served 60 families and was a landmark in the area.

Smoke was noticed issuing from the building early this morning but the Ernestown fire brigade, hampered by lack of water, was unable to save it. Earl Craig, the caretaker, said he started the furnace Saturday evening and everything seemed in order.

Belleville firemen fight a barn fire which occurred on the north side of No. 2 Highway, just east of Smith's Transport warehouse, on Saturday at noon. The fire was out of control by the time it was noticed and the alarm turned in. With no hope of saving the building firemen brought the fire under control and prevented it from spreading to other buildings in the area. The alarm was turned in by a prospective wrecker of the barn who had stopped by to have a look at it. Firemen were recalled to the scene Sunday afternoon when a flare-up occurred from the embers.

Local Wrecker Beaten By Fire

Fire beat a local wrecker to the punch on Saturday and at the same time did him out of a job.

An old barn formerly owned by George Ellis in the eastern end of the city and recently sold along with other property to make way for a shopping centre was due for razing and a wrecker was on his way to inspect the building to give a price for tearing it down.

When he arrived the building was afire and soon nothing remained but the foundation.

City firemen reported that children had been seen running from the building earlier and it is believed they may have been responsible for the blaze.

Miscellaneous Shower Held For Bride-Elect

WEST HUNTINGDON — A miscellaneous shower was held recently at the home of Miss Ruth Morgan, in honor of Miss Donna Carlisle, bride of this month.

The guests arrived around 8.30 and assembled in the living room which was tastefully decorated with pink and white bells and matching streamers, and balloons filled with confetti for the occasion. About nine o'clock Miss Marlene Carlisle and Donna arrived, unaware anyone else was present. Donna was completely taken by surprise.

The guests consisted of Donna's classmates with whom she had attended high school and O.B.C., and friends and relatives.

The program started with a sing-song of old familiar songs followed by "Advice To the Bride," written on clothes pins; a silverware contest; a poem by Karen Moreton, "Thoughtfulness Of the May Bride"; contest, stores in Belleville; reading by Marilyn Reid, "The New Fangled BathRoom"; contest "Soap" after which an apt-creative address was read by Ruth Morgan, with Misses Shirley Manley, Marilyn Reid and Karen Morton presenting Donna with a large basket of assorted gifts for which she thanked everyone individually, as each gift was opened. Lady each view-ed the lovely gifts, including china, linen, glass and kitchen utensils.

Donna also thanked Mrs. Morgan and Ruth for their kindness and invited one and all to visit her in their new home.

Ruth and her mother served delicious refreshments of fancy sandwiches, pickles, fancy cookies, topped by a special cake, cut by Donna and served with ice cream.

After wishing Donna 'bon voyage,' all dispersed to their several homes.

Guests were present from Belleville, Halloway, Thomasburg, Foxboro, Stirling and West Huntingdon.

District W.I. Sent News of London Meet

RAWDON The public relations representative for West Hastings District Women's Institutes received the following news flash from headquarters of the Associated Country Women of the World. The event is in London, England, on Tuesday, by airmail.

"The A.C.W.W. executive convened at Kensington High Street on April 14 with Lady Sinney in the chair. There were conference delegates attending from Canada, Denmark, England, Finland, France, Germany, Holland, India, Italy, Malaya, New Zealand, Northern Ireland, Norway, Northern Rhodesia, Nyasaland, the Republic of Ireland, Scotland, South Africa, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States.

"Miss B. Hearnden was appointed press officer for the Triennial conference at Edinburgh, Scotland, in August. The study subjects for that meeting will be based on the theme, "Roads To A Better World," through understanding each other and various cultures; also understanding the youth of today by giving them technical assistance. A discursion on "The Most Worthwhile Project In My Society" will also be held.

"The executive decided to make arrangements to send each constituent society a first day cover of the new A.C.W.W. stamp, issued in Canada.

"The essay competition had 125 entries including several essays from Asiatic countries.

"A special 'at home' is being arranged in Sweden for three weeks in July. The home, 'they feel, is the cornerstone of family life and the economy of the home is the real basis of economy in the country. This 'at home' will be centred around the theme, 'We Appreciate Your Home'" and the exhibition will concern children, old people, and the family as a whole.

"Miss Sophia North gave a concise picture of all the arrangements which she had made for a group of South African women who are spending three months touring Europe, commencing in June. They will attend the A.C.W.W. conference in Edinburgh in August. Through letters she contacted the women in Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland, Denmark and Great Britain.

"The response was immediate and generous and all of these women, from South Africa will be billeted on farms in the homes of country women. Here they will get a first-hand glimpse of everyday life and working activities of their 'sisters' in other lands.

"The women of South Africa were anxious to make this contact and thus see for themselves how others live. These women are 6,000 miles from Europe and so this tour will be memorable for them."

"The representatives who serve on the A.C.W.W. executive will gladly arrange similar visits for institute women of other countries who are on tour in any country which has A.C.W.W. affiliations.

Beverage Alcohol Trade, One Of Power, Profit, Effects Largely A Record of Profligacy

The May meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, was held at the "Y" with the president, Mrs. E. Farnsworth, presiding.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. A. H. Fisher and was in keeping with "Family Week," set-resident Truman has said a good family life is the moral strength of the nation. It strengthens and fortifies the nation."

The cor. secretary, Mrs. G. Gorsline reported cards of thanks to the lodges of the posters, Mrs. Eastcott and Mrs. L. Andrews, graduate in art, also to Zellers for wrapping the posters.

Camp opens to juniors nine to 11 years on July 2nd and to the seniors 13 to 16 years on July 16th.

Highlights of the convention, held in Hamilton, were given. His Grace Gertrude Campbell, Provincial Field Worker, referred to the new film "Dope on Dope" one quart of gin or vodka costs to make, to produce but through the cocktail it may realize $14 a quart.

Drug addiction in England is a health problem. The addicts register with the government, go to a doctor and are given a shot. Dope sells for $10. a shot but through medical channels, actually costs only 18 cents. There are 350 registered addicts in England.

In the United States, dope control is under the Police system and there are about 9,000 addicts. Canada is studying the drug situation and is considering the English system of control.

Rev. J. R. Hutchmor, general secretary of Evangelism of the United Church, has written an article, "Monopoly Patterns in Beer, Liquor Trade". He says, "The extent and influence of today's liquor trade is both continental and world wide. By the largest base of its operations is in North America, it branches out from this continent to take control in South America, and into western Europe. It is also gaining a dominant position in Asia and Africa and is becoming increasingly powerful and monopolistic.

MONOPOLY CHARACTER

"The monopoly character is evident in now, just four big distillers, Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Windsor and two U.S.A. corporations.

"The brewing business known as 'Big Three', two in U.S. and Canadian Breweries, dominant in Canada, headquarters in Toronto, is on its way to be third-largest brewery in the world.

"The monopolistic trend of Canadian Breweries was reported by the Restrictive Trades Practices Commission, a Dominion Governmental body in Ottawa.

"This Commission's report was submitted to the Canadian Parliament May 1955. It erected danger signale about the powerful monopolistic trend in Canadian brewing business. The former Liberal administration did nothing to bring this matter to the courts.

"The Hon. Davie Fulton, Canada's new Minister of Justice, has referred this matter to the courts, with the result that the grand jury of the Supreme Court of Ontario returned a true bill February 6th, 1959.

"This case will be before the fall assizes of Ontario — more than four years after the alleged combine was reported to the Canadian Parliament.

The record of the beverage alcohol trade, one of power and profit and its effect largely a record of profligacy."

Stone for New Hospital in Turkey Laid

ISTANBUL (Reuters) — The foundation stone of a Florence Nightingale college and hospital has been laid at Sisli, near here. The hill called Scutari Freedom.

Turkey's President Celal Bayar was present at the ceremony and put the first mortar into the foundation.

The hospital will have 500 beds and modern medical equipment. The college will train 250 nurses a year.

The hospital and college are being built by the efforts of the Turkish Red Crescent Society, the Health ministry of health, the Organization of European Economic Co-operation, the medical faculty of the University of Istanbul and Columbia University, New York.

Uskudar, on the Asiatic shore of the Bosphorus, was the scene of Florence Nightingale's great heroism during the Crimean War. Her hospital and college bearing her name is being built on the opposite shore.

The determined Englishwoman laid the foundations of modern hospital nursing by her work among neglected British soldiers in the Crimea. Her work reduced the death rate from typhus, dysentery and cholera to two per cent. The wounded soldiers called her the Lady With the Lamp on account of her night watches over them.

Pictured above are five generations of the Wellman family. From right to left: Mr. George Francis Wellman; his mother, Mrs. Mary Wellman, who is in her 94th year; his daughter, Mrs. Bill (Mabel) Hewitt; her daughter, Mrs. Don (Sandra) Dunkley, and Mrs. Dunkley's little son, Jimmy, all of whom reside in Bonarlaw, Ontario.

Mrs. Wellman's people came to Bonarlaw to settle a number of years ago. They were United Empire Loyalists. She still resides on the same farm that she and her late husband settled on when they were married over 75 years ago.

Mentally Retarded Children Can Be Helped By Science

WINNIPEG (CP) — Science can do something for mentally-retarded children even though the condition is hereditary, a doctor said here.

Dr. Robert Gibson of the Manitoba school for the mentally retarded, addressing the Association for Retarded Children, said strides have been made in treating the body chemistry of such children.

"Even where the condition is essentially hereditary the outlook is changing," he said. "We may not be able to alter our heredity, but we can do something about its effects."

It had been found that certain patients were not able to make proper use of the protein in their diets, and this resulted in lack of pigmentation in hair, skin and eyes. The defect also meant that poisonous products were formed in the digestive tract which affected the nervous system and reduced intelligence.

DIET APPROACH

Dr. Gibson said this discovery was made in Norway in 1934, but that it was almost 20 years before a diet was found which contained a minimum of the harmful substance. Afflicted babies, fed with the diet, showed a disappearance of the "bleached" condition and improvement in intelligence.

Other mental defects could result from a person's inability to utilize properly the sugar and calcium in milk.

"In both instances, reducing or eliminating the offending article from the diet at the earliest age is offering genuine hope of improvement or prevention," he said.

Dr. Gibson said mental defectives could be divided into two main groups — those who cannot cope with an intricate industrial society and those who are wholly unable to look after themselves.

The first group formed 25 per-cent of all mental defectives, he said.

"Training and stimulation could raise the level of intelligence. "Concentration on this environmental training is equally marked in both the United States and the Soviet Union," he said. "And here is surely a field where competition can only be to our common advantage."

State Secret What Queen Will Wear on Coming Tour

By RAYMOND E. PALMER

LONDON (AP) — What kind of clothes will the Queen wear on her North American two-week month?

Well, it's sort of a state secret.

"My goodness," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman, "we don't talk about that sort of thing."

An official of Norman Hartnell's fashion house, which is making the clothes, repeated:

"We're terribly inhibited about what we can say."

But tradition gives a line on the sort of clothes the Queen will probably take when she leaves here June 18 for Canada and the United States.

PLAIN PLUS SENSIBLE

If tradition wins through—as it usually does—there will be some plain short-sleeved dresses, scooped at the neck and with a medium - full skirt dropping to mid-calf. There will be sensible suits and light tweed coats with rather large, sometimes even floppy, collars.

And she placed de resistance in all probability will be a stunning ballgown in white or some pastel color heavily embroidered and sparkling with thousands of seed pearls with a matching stole worn on by hand.

With these gowns the Queen almost invariably wears long white gloves that go just above the elbow a jeweled tiara, a fluffy white fur or wrap, and glittering evening slippers.

Hartnell invariably springs a surprise when preparing a collection for the Queen.

It might well be among those simple suits and dresses. Experts who keep an eye on what the Queen is wearing have noted that the current style in suits and coats is not always flattering to Her Majesty.

Loose coats, together with low-heeled shoes, tend to make her look rather matronly. The current longer, looser suit jackets have a similar effect.

So nobody would be very surprised if, for her North American car tour, the queen chose tight and narrow waisted suits and topcoats—harking back to a recent fashion that was more flattering to her figure.

Fabiani of Rome defines the ensemble now shape in this versatile frock. The lines are distinctive and, we think, should be for the tail, lean type.

The dress is a real miracle of workmanship, with its sleeves cut in one with the bodice, yielding a definite wide look through the shoulders and lending soft fullness through the bosom and hips. Most important of all, we are back to a natural waistline—marked emphatically by a wide leather belt.

Rudolph J. — Jean complains all the time.

Jean M. — They chickened out at the last moment.

Rudolph J. — We are having a feud in my family over the care of my aged, invalid mother.

My sister, Jean, whose children are grown, has taken care of mother the past eight years. She has been so devoted to her she'll rarely even take an evening off away from home. But she complains all the time about all she's sacrificing. When I offer to help out she says never mind and goes on complaining.

Recently I insisted upon taking Mother for a few weeks while Jean goes on a trip with her husband. At the last minute Jean's sister-in-law wife a long list of instructions that were completely unnecessary. My wife got no enjoyed and said she didn't like them. Jean then said she wouldn't go. Her husband came down on my wife and me like a ton of bricks and now nobody is on speaking terms.

Jean M. — I really believed Rudy and his wife when they said they would take over and do just as good a job as I would. At first they made all kinds of mistakes, but I could see them trying to chicken out when I began to tell them all the things that had to be done for Mom. I'm sure she got a little green around the gills when I showed her some of the details.

I haven't had a vacation or even a full day off in eight years. I've made myself a pledge never to desert Mother. She needs me and I'm not going to put her in any nursing home either. Nobody can care for her as I can.

Under the circumstances, it is natural for my husband to flare up as he did. He had looked forward to the vacation for years and we spent weeks getting ready for it. At the last minute he was snatched away.

Holloway Street Church W.A. covered for its May meeting in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. F. Wilson, presiding.

The business period consisted of reports from the various secretaries and group leaders reporting activities to date. Mrs. Wilson urged all to work for the fall bazaar and announced the W.A. Presbyterial, in Bridge Street Church on May 28. Delegates appointed were Mrs. Ayres and Mrs. Outdindyke and Mrs. Bertrand to the girls' work board.

Mrs. N. Brown and her group took charge of the devotional and program. Mrs. Brown gave a short message on "Consider the Lilies, and the Wonder of Spring."

Mrs. Ayres read the Scripture lesson, Romans 10, and Mrs. Welburn gave the meditation.

As it was Bible Week, Mrs. Welburn based her talk on the Bible and its messages, saying that "Everyone should have a Bible and know the story of Jesus' life. The One who has been written about, talked and sung about more than any other in all the world. Every one there are millions of copies of the Bible printed and sent out into the world in every language spoken on earth.

"We should all know the story of Jesus and as Christians we all want to see that others have a Bible and know of Jesus' love.

"If Jesus had done no more than teach the Lord's Prayer, beginning 'Our Father who art in Heaven,' He would have done enough to make us love Him. He showed the people that God is the Father of every one that every one in all the world and that God is a Father we may call on Him in every trouble and need. "For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation".

Mrs. Townsend closed this fine meditation with prayer. Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Canning received the offering.

Mrs. Brown introduced the soloist, Mrs. Demeza of the O.S.D., who favored with a lovely solo.

"If we all said a prayer for each other every day what a wonderful world it would be."

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Mrs. K. Yorke, matron of the Home for the Aged, was introduced and gave an informative talk on the workings of the County Home.

"The first home was started in 1904, and was put in use in 1906. The new home was built in 1948 with 60 in residence. Now, today, there are 200. The Home has a farm of 130 acres on which vegetables are grown.

"There is a church service every and Sunday and there is no chapel, this is held in the main dining room. The ministerial association looks after these Sunday services. Concerts are held every six weeks. Entertainment is provided for the residents by service clubs, church groups and community concerts.

"Residents are being taught handicrafts as busy hands keep alert minds. There is a permanent staff of 42, with two trained nurses. There are still two wards left in the home who were there when the first home was opened."

Mrs. Brown thanked the speaker and soloist and closed the meeting. A social half hour was enjoyed.

GOOD MANNERS

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP . . .
A "BEAUTIFIER" OF BEHAVIOR

"There is no beautifier of complexion, or form, or behavior, like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around us."

Ralph Waldo Emerson

NOT WISE TO TAKE SIDES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I quite often encounter this situation, and I'd like to have your advice about it. This is the situation: I mean two friends I'm with get into a heated discussion, often a real argument, and then one of them (or perhaps both of them) asks me who I think is right. I always try my best not to take any part in other people's disagreements or arguments, but, on the other hand, when I am asked to give my "honest opinion," I must confess I'm tempted to give it.

What say it is right. B gets hurt because I don't agree with her. And vice versa. Will you please suggest something tactful I could say to ease myself out of these situations? I'd like to memorize it! — Reader.

According to your own wise analysis of yourself, you've given a long way toward the solution. I suggest you say as nicely and as graciously as possible, "Please don't ask me to take sides. You two started this discussion all by your own little selves . . . now you have to settle it all by your own little selves!" Then please be firm, and don't ask me to take sides. Insist on keeping you both my friends!"

SPECIAL PROBLEM OF NAME FORM FOR DIVORCEE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My divorce will soon become final, and I am puzzled about the form of name to use after my divorce. I know that a divorcee should drop her ex-husband's first name and use instead her maiden surname. But this is certainly a problem for me, because my maiden name is also a man's first name, and so, in the combination with my married surname, it naturally gives the impression of being a man's first name instead of my maiden surname. Can you suggest a solution? — Reader.

My suggestion is that you use the initial of your first name before your maiden surname. For example, let's say your maiden name was Phillip Anthony; your married surname, Robinson. Then your name after your divorce: Mrs. P. Anthony Robinson.

MAN GUEST INQUIRES ABOUT RECEPTION PROCEDURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a lawyer, and I have been invited to the formal church wedding and reception (I imagine it will be very large wedding and reception) of the daughter of a professional friend of mine. For professional reasons I should like to plan to go to the wedding, but because I will probably know none of the guests, or anyway very few, and also because I really have no interest in staying any length of time at the reception, what I would like to do is just to put in an appearance, make the customary gestures and greetings, and then leave. Would it be considered correct procedure on my part, or could it be criticized? — Man Reader

No need for you to worry about this procedure. It is quite correct for you to leave the wedding reception after you have gone down the receiving-line, have graciously greeted the members of the bride's family who are in the line (the bride's mother, as hostess, will be the first to greet and welcome you and the members of the groom's family who are in the line, have offered your "best wishes" to the bride and your "congratulations" to the groom, and have greeted the bride's attendants, last in the line. These are the gestures of courtesy you must make at the reception.

It would, of course, be an excellent idea (if convenient to him) for you to have some conversation with your friend, the bride's father and the host of the occasion, thanking him for inviting you and telling him what a beautiful wedding it was, how lovely the bride was. (Also before you leave, be sure to sign the Guest Book, if there is one.)

COMMISSION FOR CANADA COUNCIL — Rebecca Sisler, 26-year-old sculptress, works at a block of walnut in her converted blacksmith shop studio. Winner of a $2,000 Canada Council award, the youngest artist to receive such an award she is fashioning a stylized figure of a mother and child for the Toronto Art Gallery. A graduate of the Ontario College of Art, she studied at the Royal Danish Academy then hit the sculptural highlights of Europe before coming home. Her work has been exhibited by the Ontario Society of Artists, the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts and the Sculptor Society of Canada. She lives with her parents about 25 miles west of Toronto.

Warms Studio With Chips From Carvings

TORONTO (CP)—Walnut chips, the waste from her carvings, warm the studio where Rebecca Sisler is fashioning an original figure for the Toronto Art Gallery's collection.

The chips burn in the fireplace of a converted blacksmith shop where the 26-year-old sculptor works.

Winner of a $2,000 Canada Council commission, Miss Sisler has begun work on a stylized figure of a mother and children from a 45-inch high, 250-pound block of walnut. The work, to be called Tree of Life, depicts one of her favorite themes.

Rebecca, the youngest artist to receive such a commission hopes to complete the sculpture by November. A six-inch plasticine figure is the model for her newest work.

She studied in Europe and returned to Canada to take up residence with her family at Terra Cotta, about 25 miles west of Toronto on the Credit River. The converted blacksmith shop with its cement floors provides an ideal studio.

In 1954, she went to the Royal Danish Academy at Copenhagen. Prior to that she studied at the Ontario College of Art. As a summer student she toured Turkey and Greece for three months. Later she visited Germany, Italy, Yugoslavia and France.

"Artists have a hard time in Canada, but sculptors have had it even harder", she says. "It is only in the last 10 years there has been any appreciation of sculpture."

Her work has been exhibited by the Ontario Society of Artists, the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts and the Sculptor Society of Canada. One piece was stolen from the Toronto Art Gallery.

Nevertheless for you girls who are battling children and husbands over a plateful of spinach I have good news. I have grandly called it.

SPINACH FLORENTINE

One pound spinach, 3 tablespoons each butter or margarine and flour, 1 cup milk, 1-4 pound (half of a 1-3-pound package) process cheese, 2 eggs-yolks and whites separated. Wash the spinach, drain it and cook covered over high heat, turning over twice until it is wilted. Chop and drain. Heat together butter and flour, stirring until smoothed, stir in milk until thick. Add sliced cheese and stir until melted over low heat. Remove from heat. Stir in drained chopped spinach, and beaten yolks. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Turn into medium casserole and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. about 1-2 hour. I know any spinach shunner who says this is a "cook-and-throw-out" and 'don't serve spinach to me any other way".

Another green vegetable magical trick is to braise outer celery stalks, adding a new chicken stock base.

SAVORY BRAISED CELERY:

Allow 2 or 3 outer stalks for each person to be served, washing and cutting each into 3" lengths. Suppose you have 6 big stalks to serve 2 people — prepare them and saute in 3 tablespoons butter for about 8 minutes. Stir well then sprinkle over 1 teaspoon powdered chicken stock base and add 1-2 cup boiling water. Reduce heat to simmer. Cover and cook about 15 or 20 minutes or until crisply tender, turning once or twice. Fried smoked back bacon and chicken livers with a parsley and chive cream sauce were served with this. It was good too.

EVER-PRESENT POT ROAST

I wanted to be downstairs in the recreation room working but at the same time keep my eye on a pot roast. How did I do it? I used my electric Dutch oven. With the automatic control set a 300 deg. Fahr. It was slick. 24 hours in advance I sprinkled the short rib pot roast with meat tenderizer. Four hours in advance I sprinkled it with salt, pepper, paprika and a little garlic powder. I covered it brown at 40 deg. Fahr. in the Dutch oven in a very little of its own fat on all sides. Then I added 1-2 cup water, closed it tightly, carried it downstairs and let it simmer at 200 deg. Fahr. for 4 hours, turning it over 3 times. One hour before serving I added whole new carrots and potatoes — one for each person to be served. At the last minute I made a gravy by stirring flour and water paste into the pan liquid until thick. There is no flavor to equal that of pot roast with good gravy.

Old Established Firm Holds Home Show In Sparkling New Quarters

NEW SHOWROOM OF ARTHUR A. SILLS & SON LTD.

PART OF LUMBER STOCKS IN NEW WAREHOUSE

Arthur A. Sills and Son Ltd. New Warehouse, Showroom To Open on Dundas St. East

A disastrous fire last winter wiped out the warehouse and offices of Arthur A. Sills & Son Ltd., who had been in business in the same location for over forty years.

Arthur A. Sills & Son started in a small way as specialists in the laying and finishing of hardwood floors. From this humble beginning the firm has grown steadily until now one of the leading suppliers of lumber and building materials for Belleville and district. During the temporary set-back caused by the fire, the firm carried on business at their other location on South Front Street.

The new warehouse, showroom and store, 405 Dundas St. East at Herchimer, is now ready for its official opening. This building is one of the most modern of its kind and is a credit to the untiring efforts of Mr. Jack Sills, the son of the original founder. The large, well lighted showroom is excellently suited to its purpose, providing ample room for the most fastidious customers to browse around and make their choice.

The architect used his ingenuity and took advantage of the natural slope of the land, so have the well laid out warehouse completely hidden by the attractive showroom. This warehouse is in two sections, one part heated and the other unheated section for lumber materials not affected by temperature. It is reached by a wide, modern stairway leading down from the showroom.

The Home Show, which it is understood will be the first of its kind to be held in Belleville, will be held in this heated portion of the warehouse. It is large and airy, well suited to an exhibition of this kind. The displays will be attractive and will include all the products that will be handled by the firm. Representatives from all the exhibitors will be on hand and will be able to supply visitors with all the latest in any building requirement they might be interested in.

Arthur A. Sills and Son have always had the name of handling quality products and they will continue this policy. The new and larger premises will allow much greater stocks to be carried and they assure their customers that the prices will be most competitive, while still maintaining their quality. They hope to have the privilege and pleasure of serving this community and district for the next forty years and more from this new location.

The showroom is well worth a visit whether you intend to buy or not.

No Assurance U.S. Small Cars Will Squeeze Out the Imports

DETROIT (AP)—When the big American companies start building smaller cars, who's going to buy them?

This is one of many problems facing General Motors, Ford and Chrysler as the time nears to put such cars into production.

There's no doubt that foreign-built small cars are selling like hotcakes in the American market. Just under 50,000 were sold in March. Five years ago there weren't that many foreign cars sold in the United States in a year.

But there is no assurance the U.S. models automatically will squeeze out the imports.

Most of the top - selling small foreign cars, like Volkswagen and Renault, are smaller and cheaper than anything the U.S. manufacturers are proposing to build.

A recent survey by the National Auto Dealers Association of buyers of imported cars showed the reason most often given for buying an import was economy of operation. There is no reason to suppose this will change, whereas the American models are as yet untested.

Buyers were asked whether they would have bought the imported car if a similar American-made car had been available for the same price. Sixty per cent said no.

And when these same people were asked if they thought their next new car also would be an imported car, 86 per cent said yes.

The survey turned up several other interesting observations about buyers of foreign cars which run counter to commonly held opinions.

For example, more people bought the small import for their only car, rather than as a second car.

The import is used just as almost any other car is used—with driving to work the main use.

Buyers who traded in a domestic make on their import said they drove the import a few more miles a month than they used to drive the domestic car. And almost everybody said he either had or intended to drive the little caron long trips averaging some 1,650 miles.

The big three are betting millions they can find a market for their compact cars just the same. Six months or so from now Americans will be able to judge whether they want to be part of that market.

FRANKFORD

Beautification Plan Discussed At Frankford

FRANKFORD — A meeting was held at Frankford Community hall on Thursday to lend support to a project for town beautification fostered by Frankford Lions Club. There was a program of films allied to horticulture and William Hogle of Campbellford was the guest speaker for the evening.

Mr. Bruce Servos, chairman, outlined the purpose of the meeting and the speaker was introduced by Raymond Rowe.

Mr. Hogle stated the basis of any town beautification plan was a simple one — with three important early steps. Clean-up, paint-up, light-up and then plant grass, shrubs and flowers. It is a project of long range that will bring real results if carefully planned from year to year.

Frankford, he said, has a natural scenic beauty that is enjoyed by many towns. The Trent Valley Waterway is recognized as one of the finest in Ontario and thousands of tourists take the scenic drive along its banks. Frankford, located as it is in the heart of the valley, is ideally located to take advantage of natural beauty and teamed with community spirit, Frankford might easily become a model community.

Others who spoke briefly were: Mr. Jack Finnigan, town clerk; Arnold Sibbick, secretary of Frankford Lions Club and Art Duncan, public relations officer of Bata Shoe Company. Mr. A. Storey, property manager of Batawa, where a program of town beautification is held each year, was also present and expressed interest in the proposal of the Frankford venture.

Scientists Will Penetrate Earth's Crust Beneath Ocean To Answer List of Riddles

EDITORS: What's it like inside the earth? Scientists plan to drill a hole miles deep in the ocean to find out. The only writer absent one of the duties setting out on preliminary explorations tells about the ambitious project in a story written exclusively for The Associated Press.

By LEONARD ENGEL
Written for The Associated Press
COPYRIGHT, 1959

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A flotilla of research ships will meet off San Juan, Puerto Rico, this week in the first step toward one of the greatest scientific adventures of history.

Out in the Atlantic 200 miles from Puerto Rico, the flotilla will begin searching for a place to drill a hole through the earth's crust.

The hole is to be several miles deep and will be drilled beneath reversal miles of water. Hopes are to drive it clear through a layer within the earth called the mohs and into the mantle — the thick, mysterious band of hot rock surrounding the earth's molten core.

The mohole—as the big hole has been named — will open man's efforts to explore the world and space about him in a new direction. It will furnish a window, man's first—into the interior of the earth.

Sponsoring scientists expect the mohole to provide clues or answers to a long list of fascinating riddles.

What is the interior of the earth made of? How did the earth originate? Is it cooling down or warming up? How do earthquakes come about? Is there any fossil record from the first billion years of life on earth, a period now almost a blank in the earth's history?

The mohole will be drilled out in the ocean because the earth's crust is thinner there and the mantle easier to reach than in continental areas. Nevertheless, not all the experts are convinced the mohole is feasible. Oil companies have drilled underwater wells as deep as 12,000 feet but only in sheltered, shallow water. No one has yet attempted to bore a hole—let alone a hole that may go down 18,000 feet—in the open sea beneath waters of true oc... ic depth.

The search for a site will be conducted by four survey ships. They will bring up samples from the ocean bottom and listen in on artificial earthquakes created by dropping explosive charges in the sea.

The ships will investigate an area 400 miles long from east to west and 150 miles wide known as the outer ridge. This a slight rise in the ocean floor north of Puerto Rico. The ridge comes to within 14,000 feet of the ocean surface and lies between the deep water of the Atlantic called the abyssal plain and the Puerto Rican trench.

The survey may be completed by mid-June but several months more may be needed to study the results and determine whether a likely site for the mohole has been found. The entire project will take several years and will cost $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Scientists of other nations are also being keen interest in the scheme. Last fall, the Soviet Academy of Sciences appointed a committee to study the possibility of the U.S.S.R. drilling a mohole, too.

Mohawk Indian Admits Killing State Trooper

BOMBAY, N.Y. (AP) — A gravely wounded Mohawk Indian, charged with first degree murder, has admitted he killed one state trooper and wounded another in a struggle on a fog-enveloped country road near the Canadian border, state police say.

Mohawk Indians from the St. Regis reservation, however, after a tribal conclave Sunday said they would demand ballistic proof that the two troopers did not shoot each other in the darkness Saturday night.

Chief Inspector Martin F. Dillon, who came here from Albany to direct the investigation called the idea "absolutely ridiculous."

SHOT WITH OWN GUN

Killed was Ronald J. Donahue, 25, who had been on the force for little less than a year. State police said Donahue was shot with his own gun when, they said, had been wrested from him by Alex Papineau, 38, the Mohawk Indian.

Trooper Harold K. O'Connell, 27, who suffered a high shoulder wound, was in satisfactory condition in hospital. Police said he shot Papineau in the head after Donahue was shot.

Papineau underwent a three hour brain operation at Albany Medical College and was in critical condition today.

State Police Inspector J. R. McDowell said the fatal shooting was started by the arrest of the Indian earlier on a speeding charge after a wedding party Saturday night.

McDowell said four other Indians, including Papineau, were arrested later and charged with whom the troopers emerged from the car. Also held was Leo Lyle of the Peace Leon W. Richards, where Albert Cook had been arraigned on a drunk charge.

REMARKS PASSED

Papineau made some remarks as the troopers passed by, Mc-Dowell said, and they told him he was under arrest for disorderly conduct.

The inspector reported that, when Papineau got out of the car, he kicked Donahue, knocked him down and began an interested after the Indian, grappled with him and both fell.

Papineau grabbed Donahue's .38-calibre service revolver and fired a bullet into the trooper's brain, McDowell said. Then, he related, Papineau turned and shot O'Connell. O'Connell's gun struck Papineau in the forehead.

Papineau is married, has a child from the St. Regis reservation, McDowell said.

CLAIM MISTREATMENT

They attended the tribal meeting Sunday to protest what they mistreated by some troopers.

Four Indians who were at the scene of the fight but witness the actual shooting because Papineau and the troopers had left the troopers followed.

All four displayed bruises they said were the result of being beaten by troopers at the troop barracks at Malone after the shooting.

Chief (Falling Wind) Rickmond, a spokesman for the Mohawks, said the Indians considered Dillon's visit to the B headquarters about treatment of Indians as an investigation is absolutely a falsehood."

RCAF Pipe Band in Europe Gives Residents Quite a Kick

MARVILLE, France, (CP) — French and German people get quite a kick out of the RCAF pipe band that operates from No. 1 Fighter Wing, based 10 miles outside this town in northeastern France.

"Sometimes it can even be embarrassing," says the band's drum major, Sergeant Les Cannon, 33, of Vancouver. "They want our autographs and everything—even the hair off our heads."

The band, whose pipe major is Sergeant Charles Russell, 34, of Calgary, gets as many as 50 invitations a week to appear at various civic functions throughout Europe. Most of these come from French and German towns.

When they appear decked out in their kilts, they skirl their way through the streets like pied pipers, gathering a bigger following of youngsters with each precision step.

"I've never seen anything like it," says Russell. "They seem to go crazy over the band."

The band members are volunteers who blow the pipes in their spare time. Sometimes they have spend all night on a bus returning from an engagement and then go to work at their regular jobs. Most of them had not held a set of pipes before coming to Marville.

But "we have no trouble getting fellows to join the band," says Russell, "and you couldn't find a outfit with higher morale."

The band was established in 1952 when No. 1 Win was stationed at North Luffenham, England. It's got a piper, Corporal Howe, organized the group. The boys moved to Marville in 1955 and Russell took over the band the following year.

Because air force personnel are usually serve only three years in Europe, the faces in the band change rapidly, and so does overall strength. There now are about 16 members, but it has often dropped to 10 or rises to 30.

When students volunteer for band duty, they are given a chanter—the fingerboard part of the pipes—and taught the fundamentals of music. If they want to become drummers, they start off by banging old drumsticks on a plank. A drummer may graduate into the band in six or seven months, says Russell, and a piper can make it in nine months or less.

"It can be pretty tough on a married man," he says, because he has to practise in married quarters and spend so much time away from home.

Single men—who make up half the band — can usually find a quiet corner on the base in which to practise. All the band members, with the exception of the pilot, are from non-commissioned ranks. Some are in their teens and others learn to play when they are about 40. The oldest student to go through the band was 42.

Russell says there are few failures among the students and this is because most of them have always wished to play the instrument.

Corporal Ray Bentley, 25, of Toronto is an air force policeman who plays with the band in off hours. He says he has wanted to play the pipes "for as long as I can remember, but I didn't have the opportunity until I came over here in 1957."

Leading Aircraftman Pat Sloan, 24, of Port Elgin, Ont., says the same thing. "And now that I can play the pipes, I think it's great."

65-Year Drive to Eradicate Bovine TB in Canada Will Reach Goal at End of Year

OTTAWA (CP) — A 65-year campaign to eradicate bovine tuberculosis in Canada, cause of much TB among humans, is expected to reach its long-range goal next year.

By then all of Canada's 11,000,000 cattle will have been tested and infected animals slaughtered. Only Prince Edward Island of the 10 provinces has completed this wedding-out process still remains in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland.

Recent figures by the agriculture department showed five per cent of cattle in Canada remained to be tested before the end of the disease, which can be transmitted to humans through unpasteurized milk is expected to be knocked beef.

Dr. R. J. McClenaghan, the department's chief veterinarian, said it is hoped the testing program will be completed by next year.

Meanwhile, bovine TB has almost disappeared from Canadian farms. Early tests found as many as 29 per cent of cattle infected in some areas. Now in the country as a whole fewer than two in every 1,000 cattle are found to have the disease.

The battle against the disease has been a small way in 1953 when free tests were made available to Canadian farmers.

The campaign moved into high gear in 1922 when the federal government adopted a new technique. Entire areas were declared restricted and movement of cattle in and out was controlled while herds in the area were tested. Infected animals were destroyed and their owners compensated by the government.

The final stage began some six years ago when all of Canada was declared a restricted area and the last drive against the disease was launched.

In the 12 months ended March 31, veterinarians tested 1,103,000 cattle and condemned nearly 1,000 animals that reacted to the tuberculin test. Most of the animals still untested are in Alberta and Saskatchewan, with a few in Newfoundland.

There are no reliable figures on the long-range effect of the program on the incidence of tuberculosis among Canadians. But officials here say that the incidence of human TB attributed to infection from cattle has practically disappeared."

Traffic and boating accidents accounted for 43 of the 44 fatalities reported in Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday counted 29 persons dice on highways, 13 by drowning, two in a fire and one when a racing car turned over.

The accidental death toll includes traffic, boating and swimming accidents and other violent deaths, connected with weekend activities.

Quebec led the fatality count with 17 deaths, pushed up by two multiple - fatality boating accidents. Three men in one family were drowned in the Matapedia River and four fishermen were drowned in Windsor Lake in Estrie-Lake Quevillon, Que.

ONTARIO'S FATALITIES

Twelve fatalities were recorded in Ontario. Traffic accidents accounted for five, two persons were drowned and an amateur racing driver was killed during a practice session.

The other provincial totals. Traffic fatalities in brackets: New Brunswick 6 (4); Saskatchewan 6 (2); Alberta 5 (5); British Columbia 3 (2).

Gerald Chinn, 23, Toronto driver of a car, was killed in a four car head-on collision, was killed Sunday at Victoria Harbor near Orillia. Two of his passengers, Paul Dubeau, 22, of Penetang, and Donald Lindsay, 24, of Midland, were seriously injured. Two occupants of the other car, Jean Grover, 18, of Hillsdale and Pat Gendron, 16, of Port Severn, are in hospital.

LEVEL CROSSING DEATHS

William Joseph Devlin and his wife were instantly killed Sunday when their car was struck by a train at a level crossing in North Bay.

Arnold Reid, 57 of Windsor was drowned Sunday when he fell into the Detroit River while fishing off the bank in the downtown area of the city.

Mrs. Violet Barnett, 59, of London, and her son-in-law, husband, Ralph, injured Saturday night when their car overturned into a utility pole in London.

Wilfred Thompson, Woodstock, was killed Saturday night when his car was struck by a train at a CNR level crossing. His death ended 1,000 fatality-free days in Woodstock.

In the Ottawa district men, Dungan J. McDonell, 21, and Vincent Gilbert Gallagher, 20, killed Wednesday night when their cars collided on Highway 31 near Wilmot.

Robert Arthur Sewchuk 19, of Ottawa, was killed Saturday when the truck he was driving went out of control on Highway 108. Two passengers, Jim Hickey, 19, and Clarence Hamilton, 17, both of Ottawa, were in the Pembroke hospital with injuries.

Olavia (Leo) Allteroski of Toronto was drowned Saturday in a boating accident Saturday on Lake Simcoe, near Roches Point.

Sheila Ewing, 3, was killed Friday night by a car near her home in the Ottawa suburb of Eastview.

Ronald Wild, 23, of Ottawa was killed Friday night when his racing car turned over at South Gloucester.

Home-Based Troops March In Ceremonial Dress Marking Army Day Throughout Land

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian home - based troops, resplendent in ceremonial dress and displaying up-to-date tactical weapons, paraded for ceremonial occasions in a series of Ontario centres during the weekend.

In London, Ont., the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment marched past city hall to open the city's third annual Army Day.

Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay presented new colors to the Lincoln and Welland Regiment in a ceremony at Queenston.

In Toronto militia units from the three services formed up in the annual garrison church parade and marched from the Exhibition Kent Scottish Regiment swung proudly to the stirring tune of the Royal Victoria Day services in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Detroit.

The 2nd Battalion, RCR displayed the latest in the British contemporary role as a fast-moving powerfully-armed force, its troop - carrying vehicles towing trailers and armed with a variety of anti-tank and anti-land weapons rolling swiftly through London's streets.

The Battalion stiffly to attention in the troop carriers were Ferret scout cars, FV/C11 armor in place of the time-honored Lee-Enfield.

Rain postponed the London garrison's "open house" until Sunday, when more than 10,000 visitors witnessed a full program which included the first Polaris Tattoo ever held before the Cenotaph World War.

Demonstrations by more than 1,000 men of the RCR—Canada's standard-bearer of the United Nations' force—included a helicopter assault, crash action by mounted patrol and motorcycle squad maneuvers.

The Royal Regiment of Canada, parading in colorful dress uniforms and magnificent bearskins, made a glistening focal point of the march past in Toronto.

Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, flanked by senior militia officers, took the salute at the 1,500-strong parade. Three Navy Avenger aircraft flew overhead as the Navy's contingent passed the saluting base.

The 1st. Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, marching the rifle regiment's British tempo at the minute; the 48th Highlanders and the Irish Regiment of Canada headed by the great, shaggy, 145-pound Irish wolf hound, Brian, were other highlights in the parade.

The Lincoln and Welland Regiment paraded their new colors Sunday on Queenston Heights where the Lincoln Militia, a predecessor of the regiment, fought with the British regulars and colonial troops in the war of 1812.

It was the first presentation of colors since the Lincoln and Welland regiments amalgamated in 1936.

Representatives of the three United States armed services laid wreaths at the Canada-Kent Scottish Regiment for the church parade in Detroit. Rev. Robert S. Rayson, president of Canterbury College, Assumption University of Windsor and Rev. S. M. Emrich, Episcopal Bishop of Michigan, took part in the services.

John Foster Dulles Was Man Of Ironclad Moral Opinions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foster Dulles never knew when he was defeated to drop the John—was a man of ironclad moral opinions. In his book—he was a staunch Presbyterian, and his book was the Bible—black was black and white was white.

This unshakably gave strength to the convictions of the former secretary of state who died of cancer Sunday at 71. It is for history to say whether, as some of his critics suggest, it also made him too unbending and self-righteous to see the other man's point of view in international negotiations.

"Brinkmanship" was a word often spoiled to Dulles, sometimes in praise and sometimes in blame.

Nobody denied he had energy. He flew the Atlantic and sometimes the Pacific on the way most people take a streetcar. He visited 46 countries, travelling about 600,000 miles in the process, during his six years as secretary. He worked incredibly long hours—often in great pain as his fatal illness developed.

He was born to be secretary of state, Dulles was.

He was a grandson of Gen. John Watson Foster, a civil war soldier who was secretary of state for President Benjamin Harrison.

He cut his diplomatic teeth at the Hague Conventions of 1907. He went there with grandfather Foster and saw international law in the making. At that time Dulles was a junior at Princeton University. He actually was away from foreign affairs for the rest of his life.

He was criticized in many quarters for his incessant travels. Some people thought he should stay in Washington, plan high policy and run the state department instead of gadding off to Paris or Timbuktu.

AT HOME ALONE

But Dulles, who could put on old-fashioned carpet slippers and be almost as comfortable in a transatlantic plane as in his own living room, seemed to be where the action was. And there he went.

Sometimes he needed time out. He headed then straight for his island retreat in Lake Ontario, where there was no telephone to ring. He sailed and thought and read and bird-watched, and if scientists stormed up ashore they could always be back in Washington in time to cope with it.

'One of Truly Great Men' Says Eisenhower of Dulles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Leaders of the non-Communist world today mourned the death of John Foster Dulles and paid tribute to the former secretary of State's fight for peace.

President Eisenhower called his former secretary "one of the truly great men of our time." His successor, Christian Herter, predicted in Geneva that Dulles' name will be "more than so valiantly will live on for the day of general acceptance."

Prime Minister Churchill broke his long-standing rule against making public statements to pay this tribute:

"Mr. Foster Dulles was a man of principle and integrity whose example should long be remembered by those who put their trust in freedom and fair dealing.

"His courage has commanded the admiration of the whole world. A great American has passed."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, expressing the sorrow of his government and Canada, said Mr. Dulles as "this man whose profound moral and spiritual beliefs, courage and devotion to the abiding principles of freedom called forth the best that was in mankind so that in truth his life was given to the cause of liberty for freedom - loving peoples everywhere in the world."

Said Opposition Leader Lester Pearson: "Free democracies have lost a great champion whose like shall not be seen again."

In London, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan praised Dulles as a true and great statesman.

Sir Anthony Eden, former prime minister whom Dulles opposed over the Anglo-French invasion of Suez in 1956, said he was "deeply grieved" to hear Dulles had died "after a long illness bravely borne."

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said he and Dulles had differed in the past but added it was "quite untrue to think of him as an inflexible person." He added: "His courage and steadfast devotion to duty and his place in history endure as a shining example."

In a message to Eisenhower, President Charles de Gaulle said: "I deeply feel the great loss which the death of John Foster Dulles constitutes for yourself, for your country and all men attached to freedom."

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who may attend the funeral in Washington, stated: "We honor his memory best if we continue along the road we set out together with him."

While the death dominated the news around the non-Communist world, Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported it in a 32-word dispatch without comment. Moscow Radio reported it as the first item in a 10-minute round-up of domestic news.

Bodies of Two Boys Recovered

OTTAWA (CP)—Bodies of two boys who were among four youngsters missing since May 9 were recovered Sunday from the Ottawa River.

Charles Jodoin, father of 15-year-old Robert Jodoin whose body was one of those found, Saturday night in a radio appeal had said he believed the four boys were alive and in Montreal or Toronto.

The bodies of Robert and Gerald Crozier, 11, of nearby Orleans. Still missing are James Dodds, 13, of Ottawa, and Ronald Lafleur, 12, of Pembroke.

The boys were last seen heading across the Ottawa River in a rowboat just above the Chaudiere Falls.

OWNER OF PLANE IN GUN-RUNNING PLOT — Dominic Edward Bartone was identified as the owner of the C74 transport plane that was seized in Miami, Fla., by Federal agents. The plane was loaded with guns and ammunition, believed destined for use in a counter-revolution in Cuba. Behind Bartone at right is Samuel Eugene Poole of Tampa, flight captain of the plane. Man in centre is an unidentified Federal deputy marshal. (AP Wirephoto).

"Jest a Second"

"You only said file it away, you didn't say anything about finding it again."

Sagency, ADN, coupled the announcement with an attack. It described Dulles as "one of the main instigators of the 'policy of cold war and brinkmanship' " and said his name was linked inseparably with "the creation of a new war danger in Europe through the armament of Bonn."

In Washington Vice - President Richard Nixon said Dulles was "one of the truly heroic figures of the 20th century."

"He was one of those rare individuals who lived to see the extent of history and made the very policies which seemed to be so unpopular at the time be adopted finally."

Former President Harry S. Truman commented: "He was just a good public servant and I'm as sorry as I can be."

The Chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, Senator William Fulbright from Democrat of Arkansas, described Dulles as "a dedicated and distinguished public servant" and added:

"I just wish we had more men as willing as Mr. Dulles to devote their time and effort to the welfare of their country."

Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 and 1956 Democratic candidate for president, said: "Personal integrity, patriotism and stern resolutions were the hallmarks of Dulles' legacies to the nation he served with such devotion."

CHEMICAL COMBATS CANCER

LONDON (AP)—British doctors reported Friday a major advance in combating breast cancer with a new chemical treatment aimed at halting the spread of tumors. The new process, which cannot cure but can control, is said to cure, uses a chemical called thiotepa, a derivative of mustard gas, and a hormone called testerone which exists in the human body.

Unique Logging Exhibit Set Up Near East Entrance Algonquin Park

ALGONQUIN PARK.— Reminiscent of the fabulous square timber era of early Ontario lumbering is the Ottawa Valley in the unique logging exhibit established here by the Parks Division of the province's Department of Lands and Forests. The exhibit, on the banks of Clarke Creek, is just inside the eastern entrance of Ontario's largest and most famous provincial park. It will recall for old-timers and recreate for the younger generation the colorful days of the river drivers of the last century — the loggers who moved up the Ottawa River into the great pine country that is now Algonquin Park; those were the days of the peavy, the alligator, the pointer — and the camboose.

A camboose log shanty of the type used to house loggers in the early days is a feature of the park exhibit. In the centre of the full-size building is a large fireplace bordered with stones and filled with sand. Above this is a log chimney opening in the roof.

The fireplace is the "camboose", a word of German origin referring to a ship's galley. The camboose served as kitchen, dining room, clothes dryer and the centre of social life of the lumber camp.

"One can easily picture the 'diddler' producing a lively tune by the open fire, and the noise of a step dancer's heavy boots on the hewn floor", says A. F. Helmsley, Parks Naturalist.

"Only part of the floor was covered with hewn logs. The remainder was bare earth.

TWENTY BUNKS

"The bunks for approximately 20 men occupy one end of the building. There were, of course, variations of this arrangement, and sometimes the bunks were placed along the sides of the shanty. In any case, each bunk provided for two men.

"The roof is covered with 'scoops', small cedar logs split and scooped out, laid at right angles to the ridge and placed alternately so that each is covered by its neighbor in the fashion of a tile roof.

"Approaching the exhibit area, the visitor may be dismayed to see a large smokestack rising incongruously against a background of spruce and balsam. This belongs to an 'alligator' or small double-decked paddle-wheel steamship equipped with a powerful winch and an enormous anchor.

"Alligators were used to move booms of logs across lakes. The cable was fastened to the boom formed of logs collected at the mouth of a river. The steamer then proceeded across the lake, paying out cable as it went. The end was then anchored there and the winch was brought into action to draw the boom. It might have taken several such 'winchings' to move the log boom across a large body of water.

"Another vessel typical of the early logging period is the pointer, a long, narrow boat pointed at each end. It was used for general purposes and especially in river driving.

"Opposite the 'alligator' and the camboose shanty, and reposing on a few yards of narrow gauge track, is the black bulk of a locomotive to remind us of the later logging operations when logs were taken out by rail.

EARLY PHOTOGRAPHS

"In addition to these exhibits, there will be display cases containing early photographs, sketches and texts to describe and explain this historic period in the Ottawa Valley. There will also be exhibits of implements and tools, and a large white pine log to show the scoring and hewing techniques. Early photographs will also show the enormous rafts of square timber which appeared at Quebec for shipment to Britain for use in the Royal Navy.

"This will tell the story of the early loggers, the men who moved into the camps for the winter, worked long and hard and drove the logs out in the spring. It was a period of exploitation. The end came in the early 1900's.

"Today, there are still a few reserved white pine stands in inaccessible places. Elsewhere, and particularly at the site of the exhibit, there are huge stumps to show the visitor the size of the white pine which produced the famous square or timber 'stick.'

"Trees were memorable days in the history of Ontario, and the Algonquin Park visitor's experience will be richer for having this period recalled with such reality."

FOR FASTER PIT STOPS — The Belond AP Special, which has won the last two 500-mile races at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, has an added feature this year which the car owner, George Salih, hopes will enable shorter pit stops, which has a lot to do with winning the race. Automatic jacks which are at right, lift the car immediately, enabling tires controlled by the tank of compressed nitrogen changes, and when the hose from the tank is disengaged the car drops again. In last year's race the Belond pitcrew was changing the tires and gassing up in less than thirty seconds.— (AP Wirephoto).

Junior Hockey Team Honored By Commission

PICTON—Members of Prince Edward County Senior OHA team were honored Saturday night when the players, coaches and friends were guests of the County Commission, which sponsored the team last season. The team won over all other teams in the County, but were eliminated by Fort Erie. Presentation of leather wickieeaters vests were made by the commission president, M. Finnegan. Plans on the McFarland hockey team to Prague were shown by Keith MacDonald, a local member of the team.

A special feature of the evening was the unveiling and dedication of a plaque in memory of Larry Abbott, a young athlete who met an untimely death in January, 1958. Friends had donated windows in the Centre hall, overlooking the ice surface, as a memorial. Rev. F. J. Whiteley conducted a short but impressive service.

Rangers Take Tour Series

VIENNA (AP) — New York Rangers and Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League played to a 4-4 tie before 1,000 here Sunday night in the final game of their European exhibition tour.

Of the 23 matches played the Rangers won 11, the Bruins nine and three were tied.

Several players received major penalties for fighting in Sunday's rough match, but all was serene afterward as Red Sullivan of the Rangers received a big cup for his team's series victory.

The teams leave for Switzerland today and after two days in Geneva will fly home.

Eddie Schack and Dean Prentice each scored two goals for the Rangers and Leo Labine scored twice and Johnny Bucyk and Don McKenney once each for the Bruins.

McKenney scored two goals for the Bruins in their 5-3 win in Saturday's game.

Other scorers for Boston were Labine, Dutch Reibel and Jerry Toppazzini. The Rangers' scorers were Eric Nesterenko, Dean and Bobby Hull.

Seven thousand fans, including members of Czechoslovakia's amateur team, saw the match.

World Wobbles While Soccer Goes on

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An earth tremor shook University Stadium Sunday as Mexico defeated England's touring soccer team 2-1.

The tremor came seven minutes after the start of the second half. The press box high above the stadium shivered. British correspondents were bewildered until the Mexicans explained what was happening.

The fans gasped, but play went on uninterrupted, the teams obviously unaware of the wobbling world around them.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Anyone for a fast buck?

All you need is an unlimited supply of mustard and relish; ditto hot dogs, ditto buns.

We will supply the idea, half the labor and seize half the profits.

We should clean up a half-million.

We will set up shop at the Olympic Games scheduled for Rome next year.

We will be opposed by such stomach-filling foemen as pizza pies, macaroni, spaghetti, ravioli and other Italian entries.

We'll knock the "when you're in Rome do as the Romans do," into a cocked hat, or a twelve-inch hot dog. Let the Romans act like Romans. They'll be millions who want to be themselves.

The Italians are big eaters. At an Italian dinner we attended overseas, we loaded up on spaghetti and ravioli, got ready to leave the table when we were informed there were more courses.

We'll let the Italians eat the Roman dishes. It is expected some 250,000 people will watch the games each day if all the seats are sold. About half are expected to be foreign visitors; about 30 per cent Italians from outside Rome and the remaining 20 per cent Romans.

We should have at least 125,000 potential hot-dog absorbers. Let's see, at a nickel profit . . .? Besides, the average European is a curious cuss. He will probably have heard of the American hot dog—and will invest a few lire. About a half-litre of chianti, ravioli and a few miles of spaghetti, everything tastes the same — so what's the difference.

The foreigners are expected to spend some 15,000,000, one lire (1,000 lire) in Rome during the games. We should get a cut of that chunk of money without moving.

Besides we could hire unscheduled track-and-field athletes to peddle the dogs in the stands. Out-of-work shot-putters could heave them into the twentieth tier of seats.

News despatches say that accommodation will be at a premier. We could operate a twenty-four hour service and give 'em dogs for the late-late show, or breakfast, depending on which way they were going at the time.

Four million tickets are being printed for the 250 events of the Olympic Games in Rome. Already 66 travel agencies throughout the world are selling seats for the games for those who can show they have secured accommodation in the city.

But we have no worry on that score. We have a second cousin living in Rome, one Michaele Angelus Cravenisco, who resided in the United States for a while before he was invited by Uncle Sam to revisit his home on a one-way ticket. We can trust him with any job but that of treasurer.

There will be no dearth of hot-dog addicts. Foreigners are now getting their passbooards. Travel agencies have been licensed that from now until January 1, 1960, they may sell tickets only outside Italy.

From the beginning of next year until August 25 when the games start, Italians outside Rome may buy seats. Only in July and August, next year, will tickets be on sale to Romans.

We could make a few bucks on the side by taking along a quota of army cots, or even lounge chairs. For at least 120,000 foreigners expected to be in Rome on each of the 18 days of the games, hotels are booked and boarding houses, now hastily expanding, will offer only 30,000 beds.

An additional 30,000 are expected to find rooms in private homes and still another 30,000 at camp sites around Rome. Some 10,000 will be lodged in religious institutions, while Olympic and city authorities also are making plans to take over schools and barracks with dormitory accommodations for some 15,000 fans.

With this set-up we could open a chain of dog-houses, providing we could negotiate a deal with the local gendarmerie.

It's an idea, anyway. Any takers?

Big Gene Scalps Braves 6-0 As Giants Dump Dodgers 6-1; Orioles Split With Champs

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Lanky Gene Conley finally has made believers out of the Milwaukee Braves.

It took the six-foot-eight right-hander more than a year to do it but the Braves must be convinced now. There is nothing more convincing than a shutout with the doubters as victims.

The new Philadelphia pitching ace shut out his former Braves' teammates 6-0 Sunday, doling out six hits while handcuffing Henry Aaron without a safety. Burt Hammerin' Hank rapped four hits in the nightcap and Milwaukee won 8-3.

Conley, traded by the Braves to the Phils just before the opening of the season, now has permitted only five earned runs in 42 1-3 innings. That's a spectacular 1.07 earned-run average, the best in the National League.

CUULDN'T WIN IN 1958

Conley, once a highly - prized Milwaukee starter, apparently forgot how to win last year. He was involved in six decisions and lost them all. Manager Fred Haney just, at times, could not figure out what was ailing his giant roundsman and used him sparingly during the last three months of the campaign. He saw no action at all in the world series against the New York Yankees.

Conley insisted all along he could win if given the opportunity. During the winter, while playing professional basketball with the Boston Celtics, the big fellow issued an ultimatum to the club.

"Pitch me or trade me to a club that will pitch me," he challenged.

It seems Mr.' Conley knew whereof he spoke.

PIRATES LEAP

The split reduced Milwaukee's first-place lead to three games over runner - up San Francisco Giants, who defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1. Pittsburgh jumped from fifth to third place, sweeping a doubleheader from Cincinnati 2-1 and 5-4 in 10 innings, and St. Louis whipped Chicago 7-3 for its seventh victory in its last eight games.

Saturday, the last-place Phillies whipped Milwaukee 4-2; Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 6-5, St. Louis downed the Cubs 5-1 and San Francisco beat Los Angeles 4-2.

The Anderson boys, Harry and Sparky, drove in two runs apiece in Conley's shutout triumph over the Braves. Aaron supported Carleton Willey's seven-hit pitching in the second game with a double and three singles that drove in three runs. He now is hitting .461.

HOMERS HELP

Home runs by Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda and Bob Schmidt who collected eight of the Giants' 12 hits among them, dropped the Los Angeles Dodgers into fourth place. Righthander Jack Sanford scattered five hits for his sixth victory in 10 decisions.

Pinchhitter Danny Kravitz and Smoky Burgess delivered final-inning blows as the Pirates came from behind to down Cincinnati twice, Kravitz doubled to drive in the winning run in the ninth of the opener after the Pirates had tied the score on singles by Bill Mazeroski and Don Hoak, and Ted Kluszewski's groundout. Burgess doubled in the 10th inning of the nightcap to drive in the winning run after Rocky Nelson tied the game for Pittsburgh in the ninth at 4-4 with a pinch single.

The Cards used three managers to down the Cubs. Coach Jerry Walker, a 20-year - old with the poise and control of a seasoned campaigner has thrown his hat in the ring for rookie-of-year honors.

The 6-1 righthander hasn't attracted the same amount of attention as Baltimore pitching phenom Hoyt Wilhelm, Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes, but the kid from Ada, Okla., has pitched as well as anybody in the American League this year.

Walker threw a five-hitter at New York Monday as Baltimore beat the Yankees 2-1 in the second game of a doubleheader. The loss prevented the defending champions from moving into a tie with Cleveland. Only Norm Sieben's seventh - inning home run kept Walker from registering his first Yankee shutout in his career.

It was Walker's fourth straight victory this season, and his fifth major triumph against without a setback. Signed as a bonus boy in June of 1957, he won his only start that year but in 1958 with Knoxville of the Sally League and turned in a full game record. The youngster currently has a 1.37 earned run average, has issued 31 walks and struck out six in 46 innings. He hasn't walked a batter in his last 57 2-3 innings.

Although held to a split in the doubleheader, the Yankees increased their first-place margin to a full game over Chicago White Sox. Cleveland was the opener 3-2 but lost the second game 6-3. Baltimore also downed the White Sox 8-6 and Washington whipped Boston 5-3.

YANKEE BATS START HITTING

The Yankees bounded out of their slump with a 13-5 rout of Baltimore Saturday but then got valuable relief from the bullpen as the Tigers, kept pace with a 6-0 victory over Cleveland.

Washington scored six runs in the 11th for a 10-4 victory over Red Sox and Kansas City beat Chicago White Sox 16-0 in other American League games.

Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra walloped three-run homers Sunday in the Yankees' first-game triumph over Baltimore which gave them a one - game lead over Detroit for the first time in two weeks. Ford made his record 4-3 with a two-hitter. Bob Nieman of both Baltimore hits. Gus Triandos' 10th homer of the season provided the Orioles with their winning margin in the second game.

SCORE, LARY WIN

Granny Hamner's ninth-inning single drove in Cleveland's winner Herb Score fanned 10 in his fifth victory. Frank Lary turned back the Indians with eight hits in the nightcap although he needed help from Dave Sisler in the ninth. Relievers Harvey Kuenn had six hits in the twin bill.

Kansas City whacked Billy Pierce and Jim Perry with 15 hits. Hec Lopez drove in four runs with a double and triple. Ray Herbert got the win.

Faye Throneberry, who had three hits and two runs with a triple as Washington's Bill Fischer won his fourth in five decisions.

Harry Walker was directing the club as the ninth other manager Solly Hemus was ejected in the fifth inning and Johnny Keane, his first lieutenant, was thumbed out five minutes later. The redbirds got the relief pitching by Lindy McDaniel to sweep the three-game series.

Jets Zooming, But Quickly, Leafs Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus manager Cal Kerner has only to point to his pitching staff to explain the sudden spurt of his Jets toward the upper reaches of the International League.

In the past week the Jets have vaulted from sixth place to fourth, winning six of seven games. A week ago they were six games behind the first - place Miami Marlins. Today, they are 2½ games back of the Marlins and only a half game behind third-place Montreal.

The Jets defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-3 in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday at Toronto, while the second game was suspended because of the Sunday curfew with the Leafs leading 5-3 in the sixth inning.

HAVANA SWEEPS TWO

In other games, Havana swept a doubleheader from Rochester, 8-3, 3-2, while Miami and Buffalo split. Miami won the first 7-5 and the Bisons took the second 8-4. Richmond's double-header at Montreal was postponed because of rain.

In the week, the Jets split the weekend between starters and relievers, each winning three. Winning three of four games against the Marlins provided the big surge for Columbus, whose victory Sunday marked a 2-0 sweep of Toronto, with a Saturday game being washed out.

The Jets have been the pinchhitting route for Columbus, scattering 24 hits in the season to Leafs. Nino Escalera homered in the second on the Jets' runs off loser Bob Chakales (3-4). Escalera also homered off Don Johnson in the suspended game. Lynn Lovenguth was on the mound for Columbus.

Havana, leaving Toronto all alone in last place, behind Ray Wiesad (2-6) as 8-0 lead in the first game, helped by a three-run first inning barrage Alvarez and a solo shot by Larry Novak. Luke Easter got Rochester's runs with a three-run, eighth-inning homer. Bob Miller (4-4) was the loser. Jose Gonzalez got credit for the clincher in the ninth inning of the second game on a single by Angel Arroyo. Arroyo (2-4) was the winner while Dick Ricketts (1-4) lost.

Homers by Woody Smith and Bob Bruins provided Buffalo with bombardment in Miami's 14-hit, 8-run attack. Bobby Adams chipped in with four straight hits and added a double in his first trip to the ballpark.

In the second game, a four-run in Cooley's fourth inning, topped by a two-run homer by Mickey Harrington and a single by Joe Vassie, helped get reliever Hank Mason his third victory in as many decisions.

Hockey Pros Have No Equal Says Austrian Sports Editor

Walter Schwarzl 35, is sports editor of Austria's largest circulation daily, News Kurier. He has covered many amateur hockey tournaments. He watched the first professional match last week when New York Rangers and Boston Bruins played a 2-2 tie.

By WALTER SCHWARZ
Written for The Associated Press

VIENNA, (AP) — The Russians would be chased out of the rink by these ice hockey players. As concerns speed, lighting - fast reaction, body control and the impetuous power, the North American professionals have no equals.

I did not have the impression, watching an exhibition game like that between New York Rangers and Boston Bruins that it was a friendly ball-juggling stint like the Harlem Globetrotters in basketball here some time ago. The ice hockey we saw was a real battle and no quarter was given.

I have seen Russians, Czechoslovaks and other hockey teams at work. They can not be compared with these teams, except as concerns one thing: The European teams probably play a more beautiful hockey.

These North American professionals are perfect stick-handlers, but the precision of passing, the variety of action bear-ing witness of ideal, gets somewhat lost with them due to the great speed of the game. Of course, the Russians, Czechoslovaks, etc. play a much slower hockey.

Of the Boston and New York players, I liked the two goalies Donald Simmons (Bruins) and Lorne Worsley (Rangers) best. They were simply fantastic. This explains the fact that, despite virtual bombardments of their two goals, only two scores were made against each.

There is no professional hockey in Austria and our amateur hockey is practically non-existing. Even the North American teams have shown us what hockey can be like.

EXHIBITION BOUT

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Yvon Durelle, the Bale Isle, Anne, N.B. light heavyweight who fights world champion Archie Moore in July, gave a four-round exhibition appearance here Saturday night against Don Jasper, Minnesota Duke heavyweight title-holder. Both boxers wore protective headgear and used 16-ounce gloves for the bout which ended in no decision.

Moves Into Quarter Finals

PARIS (AP) — Defending champion Suzy Kormoczy of Hungary advanced into the quarter - finals of the French tennis championships Sunday by defeating Mimi Arnold of the United States 6-3, 6-0. Sandra Reynolds of South Africa defeated the only other U.S. entry, Janet Hopps, 6-3, 6-3.

Christine Truman of Britain, Maria Bueno of Brazil and Mrs. Mary Reitano of Australia also moved into the quarter-finals.

Come, Come, Avery, What's An Amateur?

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee, has criticized political intriguers and boosters of money to allow professional athletes to participate in the Olympic Games.

In an address opening the IOC meeting Saturday night Brundage said:

"The Olympic Games must be kept strictly amateur, free from political intrigue and dollar signs, and without racial, religious or political discrimination."

"One of the silliest ideas which has been made is that the Olympic Games should be thrown open to professionals. A professional is one can be, and often is, just as good a sportsman as an amateur.

"The thing that is not understood is that amateurism is a philosophy of life, a consecration and devotion, to the actual thing at hand rather than to the payment or to the reward."

Then he took a slap at newspaper men and said:

"Modern journalism seeking sensation has taken over the careless, emphasized competitive sports features, overstressed record breaking and national rivalries, and, in general, ignored the noble and idealistic real objectives of the Olympic movement."

Yankees Get Montana Beef, And No Bull!

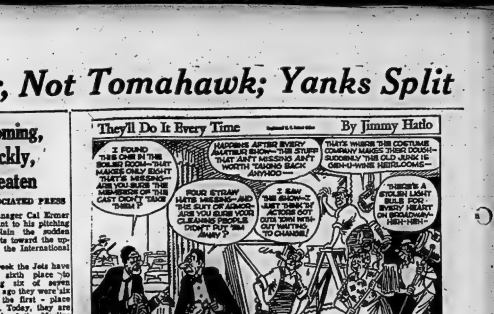
MILES CITY, Mont. (AP) Montana cattlemen have come to the aid of the New York Yankees.



They sent 50 steaks to the 1958 world baseball champions, now in last place in the American league. Each steak weighed two pounds 12 ounces.

The Montana Stockgrowers Association, the Montana Beef Council and the Livestock Auction Markets Association sent the steaks and passed a resolution expressing belief that steaks for breakfast would start the Yankees on their way back to the top.

REJECTS CALGARY BID

SARNIA (CP)—Don Mattingley, Ontario Rugby Football Conference all-star centre with the Golden Bears, has turned down an offer to play with Calgary Stampeders. Stampeders have contacted Mattingley and through general manager Jim Finks and backfield coach Frank Filchok. Filchok was head coach of the ORFU champion Bears last season. Mattingley played for Sarnia Imperials in 1949 and 1950 and was first-string centre with Winnipeg Blue Bombers in 1955. He injured a leg in Winnipeg and sat out the season. He was signed by the Imperials for next season and has been with Sarnia's ORFU team ever since.

John Moyer Wins O'Connor Bowling Title

TORONTO (CP) — John Moyer of Waterloo took first prize of $2,000 in the O'Connor Bowl open men's five-pin tournament which ended Sunday.

Moyer rolled a 10-pin total of 2,941 early in the big four-week event and his score remained unbeaten despite the onslaught of 1,274 other top bowlers from all over Ontario and from Western Canada.

Second with 2,732 was Toronto's Phil Garrard, who took $750 prize money. Ollie Lyons of Toronto was third with 2,741, worth $500.

Moyer, 1958 Canadian singles champion, won the crown from 1958 titleholder Gord Brown of Oshawa, who showed poorly because of a bout with pneumonia.

Ron Saylor of Belleville racked up a 464 high single of the series. The game was worth $50 to him.

Other outstanding singles were registered by Angelo Brunet, Cornwall, 383, and Bob Higgins, Ingersoll, 386.

Hillsdale Wins Rich Race From Amerigo

NEW YORK (CP) — Hillsdale, a big bay from Indiana, finally got beat off a last-stride challenge by Amerigo to win the $112,900 California at Hollywood Park in Inglewood, Calif.

It took a long look at the photo to separate the two. Hillsdale was the heavily-backed favorite. Ying and Yang, a long shot, was third and Herring, fourth.

The winship had 53,000 fans in near-hysteria as jockey Willie Shoemaker brought Amerigo from England, up on the outside to battle the rail-running Hillsdale to the wire.

Hillsdale paid $3.80, $2.80 and $2.60; Amerigo $4 and $3.40 and Ying and Yang $12.50.

BETTER HOME FIRST

At Camden, jockey Sam Boulmetis booted Vertex to victory in the $34,650 Camden Handicap. Vertex ($2.80) won by 1¼ lengths over Piano Lesson. Valet Show was third after winning a foul claim over Day Court who was fourth.

It was the seventh straight stakes victory for Vertex.

In New York, intentionally stirred overtook the pace-setting Crafty Skipper on the turn for home and went on to capture the Withers Mile at Belmont Park. The time was 1:35 3-5. Manager Mauler finished second and Bagdad came up from far back to collect third money.

In Chicago, Charlie's Song won the $29,625 Clang Handicap in Washington Park by one length. Charlie's Song ($11.60) ran the six furlongs in 1:10.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL, Que. (CP)—Two Ontario trotters paid good prices in weekend victories at Richelieu track.

Hal Bales from Atherton, near Brantford, gave driver Jack Williams, Jr., a win Sunday with prices of $10.80, $2.80 and $2.70. The mile race brought a $1,000 purse.

Saturday a Guelph horse, Linda's Gun, won a $500 event at $8.80, $4.80 and $3.80 for the backers. Driver was Bill Hasbrick.

HULL, Que., (CP) — Dusty Brook C won the invitation pace Saturday night opening the trotting season at Connaught Park. Owned by W. H. Perrin of Brockville, and driven by Allan Pacey, the seven-year-old came from behind the pace set by High Verres Rudy and Baroness Atom to win by three lengths.

Rusty-Cash came on to finish second and High Acres Rudy A Smiths Falls entry grabbed the show spot.

SOCCER SQUADS TIE

NEW YORK (CP) — West Bromwich Albion of England and Dundee of Scotland tied 2-2 Sunday at an exhibition soccer game. More than 21,300 fans crowded into Ebbets Field to watch.

Ontario Girls Clean Sweep Swim Events

MONTREAL (CP)—Sara Barber of Hamilton led Ontario women to a clean sweep of their events in the Quebec open swimming and diving championships Saturday night.

Miss Barber, rated a top contender for medals at the Pan-American Games in Chicago next August, won all three of her events, the 100-metre freestyle and backstroke and the 400-metre freestyle.

Her time in the three events was 1:08.6, 1:14.0 and 5:21.9 respectively.

Cameron Grout of Montreal was big winner in the men's events, with firsts in the 400-metre freestyle and 100 - metre breaststroke.

Bonnie Benson of Toronto captured the women's 200 - metre breaststroke and Eileen Jacques of Toronto the 100-metre butterfly.

The only Ontario winner in the men's events was Bill Vanderpool of Hamilton, in the 200-metre breastroke.

Whitt Leads Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A brilliant six-under-par 64 hoisted Don Whitt of Baregp Spring, Nev., into a one-stroke lead in the $25,000 Memphis open golf tournament Sunday.

Whitt's four birdies and an eagle gave him a 72-32 over the 6,501-yard course and a 54-hole total of 201.

Hard on his heels, big Tom Veech and Jay Hebert tied at 202. Veech, a 255-pound rookie, birdied the 18th hole for a 70. But he missed two shotties of less than three feet.

Two of the circuit's biggest threats, Art Wall Jr., and Al Besselink wound up at 204.

Top round of the day was a record-equalling seven - under-par 63 turned in by Jay Hebert's brother, Lionel. Bracketed with Lionel at 205 were South Africa's Gary Player, Al Balding of Markham, Ont., 168-lb-45 and Doug Ford.

The field of 71 pros was trimmed to 61 after the round.

CROSS-COUNTRY WINNER

TORONTO (CP) — Dick Carmichael of Toronto Olympic Club won through 5½ miles of mud Saturday to win the Gladstone Athletic Club's cross - country race by three seconds over Alan Claremont of Guelph. Carmichael ran the distance in 28:14.

Smiths Falls HS Track Winner

KINGSTON (CP) — Smiths Falls High School collected 85 points Saturday to edge Almonte High School by four points for the Queen's - University Trophy emblematic of Eastern Ontario Secondary School Association track and field championship.

A soft, damp track and cold weather held records to a minimum. In the junior section Cornwall Collegiate's Bob Klassen took firsts in the hurdles, 110, 220 and hop, step and jump to capture individual honors.

David Dormaz of Smiths Falls took the intermediate title and Paul Brady, Smiths Falls was outstanding senior.

Speedway Aces Away Back In Field

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former winners Jimmy Bryan and Pat Flaherty will start away back in the field Saturday when 33 cars blast away from the starting line in the 43rd 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

The 9-lap pullup of 10-mile qualifications Sunday left Bryan in the middle of the seventh row. He cars to pass before he can repeat last year's $105,000 victory. Flaherty, who took the 1956 Memorial Day event, qualified a shade faster than Bryan and will start in 18th place, in the sixth row.

Bryan nearly missed the program. His oil pump failed Friday and almost ruined the engine of the Belond Special that has won the last two 500s. Owner-builder George Salih and his crew completely rebuilt the power plant and Bryan qualified Saturday.

Weekend Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting — Danny Kravitz and Smoky Burgess, Pittsburgh, whose late-game pinch doubles gave the Pirates two victories over Cincinnati 2-0 and 5-4.

Pitching — Whitey Ford, New York, and Jerry Walker, Baltimore. Ford hurled a two-hitter in the Yankees' 9-0 victory over the Orioles, and Walker pitched a five-hitter in the Orioles' 3-1 second game triumph over the Yankees.

King High Over Ike Says Caddy

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)— A caddy who carried the golf clubs of President Eisenhower three years ago and was caddy Sunday for King Baudouin of Belgium says the king is a fine golfer. From a golfing standpoint, the king finished way out front.

"The king's a real good golfer," hailed the caddy, Turk Archdeacon.

"He has lots of power for such a slender man. He can hit the ball as long as anybody. He can outhit Ike by 40 to 50 yards."

Bobby Pearce, Jr. Places Third

WYANDOTTE, Mich. (CP)— Bobby Pearce Jr., son of a Canadian Olympic and Diamond Sculls champion, placed third in the junior championship single sculls race at the American scholastic rowing regatta Saturday.

It was the first appearance in the regatta for the 18-year-old Toronto schoolboy.

St. Catharines, Ont., Collegiate established a record of 3:20 in winning the junior four - oared race with coxwain. The former mark of 5:32 was set by Allen Park, Mich., in 1952.

USED CAR FACTS
By Ken Pinder
DON'T GAMBLE WITH STRANGERS
A used car is a big investment in safety as well as money which makes it most important to shop carefully and choose wisely for the sake of yourself and your family.
The wise car buyer should choose a dealer who makes a practice of honesty which saves time . . . and who handles locally owner cars. This makes it possible to check back on a car's history and to know for certain that you aren't buying an ex-taxi or ex-police car.
KEN PINDER, LTD., 149 Front St. specializes in locally owned—cars in many cases one owner vehicles which have had the best of care. When you buy from PINDER'S, you don't buy a "stranger", but a car from your own home town — from people who are particular about the car they drive. Phone WO 2-3408.
NEXT WEEK: "DODGING THE POLICE AND TAXIES".

This rocket ship isn't the only thing that's new!
Chances are you've bought a new TV, Hi-Fi set, or furniture since you last insured your home. Your old policy probably doesn't cover the present value of your possessions. Don't be caught without the protection you need. Call us for an up-to-date insurance checkup.

Ruth St. Denis at 80 Works To Bring Dance to Church

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Still a handsome and rhythmic at 80, dancer Ruth St. Denis is hard at work on her last great project—bringing the dance into churches.

For 50 years, Miss St. Denis has been a leading figure of the dance. And she isn't ready to quit now.

"The creative life—that is what keeps me going. I must continue creating, and that means to dance. I still do my yoga exercises every day — including the up-ending.

"Anyone who remains alert and alive after 70 must be vitally interested in something, whether it's art or golf or space. The ones who retire and start picking at their food and complaining because their grandchildren don't visit them more often—they are kidding down slowly and slowly and losing their grip on life."

CURRENT FAVORITE

Not so Miss St. Denis. The current passion of her life is creation [illegible] of a rhythmic chair in dance to religious music. A pioneer in liberating dance in the American theatre, she wants to crown her career by adding dancers to worship.

"This is the most important thing I have done in the past 25 years," she said. "We are composing a dance to the music of Gabriel, a writer of religious music who was pre-Bach. It is to be ready next year, and I already have had encouraging talks with leaders of the Methodist and Episcopal Churches.

"You see, the dance was an important part of worship from the earliest years of Christianity. Then in the ninth and 10th centuries, the people went to excess in dancing at celebrations and the dance was banned from the church. It never returned. The Protestants had none and even the Catholics, who fostered other forms of art, did not particip[illegible]ate."

David Brinkley Draws Raves For Journey to Mediterranean

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — As the television season draws to a close, I don't recall any personal triumphs connected with it. But I do have some regrets. For example:

I regret that I was not conducting this column a week ago when NBC Kaleidoscope presented Our Man in the Mediterranean and that I could have praised it as one of the best shows of the year.

In an age when a reporter's worrisome attitude is sometimes mistaken for profundity, David Brinkley and his camera crew (eight, largely — and profoundly — examined the westward course of so-called civilization through eight Mediterranean countries.

PROSE STYLIST

Charles Van Doren, the wise and pleasant host of NBC Kaleidoscope, rightfully pointed out that Brinkley is a prose stylist. Basically he is a first-rate writer who has the good fortune to speak clearly.

NBC should send its man Brinkley more places to bring us reports that make us know we've had a beneficial journey. Failing that, let's have a summer repeat of Our Man in the Mediterranean.

I regret that the future of Edward R. Murrow's conversational program, Small World, is uncertain next season. Television will be poorer medium if it does not return.

I regret that Desiu Playhouse not only lasted this season but seems fated to return for another. When you recall the great days of Studio One from New York and then think of some of the twaddle Desiu Playhouse has interpretated on the public this season under the name of drama you ask yourself what is happening to TV.

Kawartha Wins Field Trials

JUNGSTON (CP) — Kawartha district fishermen's club romped home with five of the 10 top places in the second annual Pontenac-District Foxhunters Association field trials Saturday.

The trials, run at Glenburnie, six miles north of here, saw six clubs from Ontario and Quebec fielding 50 dogs. The dogs were cast by master-of - hounds Bud Wilson of Brockville.

First place went to Sheffield Waste Lad, owned and handled by Emery Shea of Kawartha Club. Liner, owned by Bud Wilson was second and Dick owned by Clayton Bennett was third. Both are Kawartha Club members.

HAVANA BOLSTERED

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Saturday sent pitcher Don Rudolph to their farm club at Havana in the International League.

Marlene Ousted In 1st Round By Unknown

ASCOT, England (AP)—Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto was beaten by a golfing unknown in the first round of the ladies' British amateur golf championship here today.

She went out 4 and 3 to Mrs. Thelma Brown of the Bombay Presidency, India.

The championship is being held over the 6,319-yard par-70 Berkshire course near London.

Mrs. Streit, who won the title at Porthcawl in 1953, was strongly fancied for this year's title.

It was Mrs. Brown's first appearance in the championship. She chipped and putted brilliantly to win the first five holes.

"From The Earth To The Moon" and "Enchanted Island," 2 Action Technicolor Features

Today's headlines flashing the news of rockets-to-the-moon are reflected on the screen in one of the loneliest motion pictures of this generation. The front page film "From the Earth to the Moon," based on Jules Verne's spectacular forecast arrives today at the Belle Theatre, Joseph Cotten, George Sanders, Debra Paget and Don Dubbins are starred.

Verne's story, regarded as sheer fantasy in the Victoria era deals with the launching and speedflight of an enormous projectile.

Rivalry between the crafts inventor, Joseph Cotten and George Sanders, financier, brings a threat of disaster to the enterprise. Suspenseful romantic twist to the action is furnished by Miss Paget, seen as a stowaway on the fabulous moon-missile.

One of Hollywood's top ranking science-fiction authorities, Byron Haskin, directed the new picture. Haskin's recent screen successes include "War of the Worlds" and "Conquest of Space," Warner Bros. "From The Earth to The Moon" was produced in Technicolor.

"Enchanted Island," Exciting Herman Melville's novel "Typee," first authentic book to show civilization the exotic and savage aspects of life in the South Seas provided the exciting story basis of "Enchanted Island," the 2nd action feature offering tonight at the Belle Theatre.

Filmed in Technicolor and directed by Allan Dwan, the spectacular attraction stars Dana Andrews, Jane Powell and Don Dubbins, is welcomed as a true screen translation of Melville's classic story of a hundred years ago.

Arthur Shields, Ted de Corsia have other leading roles in the exciting Technicolor adventure story produced by Warner Bros.

Two performances will be presented daily, the daily matinees begin at 1.30, one complete show will be presented in the evening, beginning at 7.15.

"From The Earth to The Moon" begins daily at 1.30 and 8.30. "Enchanted Island" begins at 3.30, 7.00 and 9.55 at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

AT THE PARK—Rod Steiger, star of "Al Capone", gives co-star Fay Spain a rough time in this scene from the Burrows-Ackerman production for Allied Artists. The film opens tonight at the 20th Century Theatres, Park at Belleville and Century at Trenton. Both are air conditioned for your comfort.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, May 20, 1959.

DEATH OF DULLES

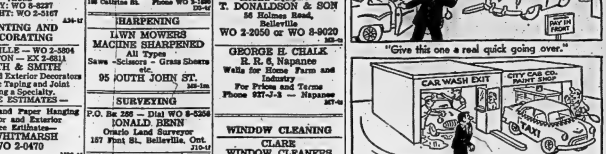
following day. An attack of pneumonia May 9 weakened his condition.



WILL ATTEND

The president and Mrs. Eisenhower will attend the Wednesday funeral services. Dr. Roswell P. Barnes of New York City, a secretary of the World Council of Churches, will officiate along with Dr. Paul Wolfe of the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York and Dr. Edward L. R. Elson of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington.

An official funeral, as directed by the president, differs in many ways from a state funeral. State funerals are usually reserved for presidents, vice-presidents or presidents-elect or vice-presidents-elect. One of the differences is that in a state funeral the body is transported from the state at the rotunda of the Capitol.

Mr. TWEEDY — by Ned Riddle

3rd Hillier

3RD HILLIER — Miss Florence Miller spent a couple of days with her aunt, Mrs. Alva Miller, of Christian Street, who is very ill.

The recve of Hillier township, Mr. Kenneth Wood, called at Niles Corners' School this past week and presented the children who took part in the public speaking contest at Hillier town hall on May 1st, with Glen Benway and Noreen Allison, with cups.

Mr and Mrs. Carl Wood spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benway.

The school children held a birthday party for their teacher, Mrs. Clifford McFaul, on Friday, and gave her a cup and saucer and an autographed card. "Happy Birthday" was sung. Mrs. McFaul was taken by surprise and thanked the children for their gift and thoughtfulness.

Mr. Herbert Lunn is still ill at his home.

The family of Mrs. George Alexander, who is a patient at Kingston General Hospital, called on her on Sunday afternoon.

The boys' hobby club of Christ Church will meet on Friday evening in the basement of the church, under the leadership of Mr. Alfred Best and Rev. J. J. Rodgers.

Church will be held at 11.00 a.m.; Sunday School at 10.00 a.m. on Sunday.

RECALLS DISASTER

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A plaque commemorating the Victoria disaster of May 24, 1881, in which nearly 200 lives were lost, was unveiled Sunday at Riverside Park. The Victoria, a flat-bottomed river wheeler, was used to ferry passengers between London and Springbank Park. She had made several trips when a homebound crowd of 600 surged aboard. Half way across she capsized and overturned.

BLUEPRINTS FOR GROWTH at the University of Toronto are studied by the university's president, Dr. C. T. Bissell, centre, shown in front of new women's residence at Victoria College. With him in workmen's hard hats are Neil J. McKinnon, right, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and M. Wallace McCutcheon, vice-president and managing director of the Angus Corporation, joint chairmen of national drive to raise $18,000,000 from public. The five-year university expansion, costing $53 million, will provide minimum facilities for the additional 10,000 students, now in Ontario's public and secondary schools, who will seek entrance to the university in the next few years. Present enrolment is 14,000.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO CAMPUS OF FUTURE — Gifts totalling $12,600,000 are sought by University of Toronto to help finance a $52,250,000 five-year expansion program. Building projects already financed and shown on the campus layout layout plan, are (No. 1 - No. 7): 1—Women's Athletics; 2—Emsley Hall, St. Michael's College; 3—Press Offices and bookstore; 4—Sub-critical nuclear assembly, interior; 5—Archives, addition; 6—Victoria College, alterations and services; 7—Forestry, relocation. Immediate projects for the University (No. 8 to No. 22): 8—Engineering; 9—Faculty of Arts; 10—Physics; 11—Zoology; 12—Chemistry; 13—Conservator of Music and auditorium; 14—Library addition; 15—Architecture; 16—Medicine, laboratory and research facilities; 17-18—Residential halls; 20—Whitney Hall addition; 21—Steam plant addition; 22—Superintendent's department addition. For the federated arts colleges (No. 23-No. 32): 23—Margaret Addison Hall, Victoria College; 24—Library, Victoria College; 25—Trinity College addition; 26—St. Hilda's College addition, Trinity College; 27—St. Michael's College Library addition; 28—Loretto College, St. Michael's College. University projects for 1964-1969 (No. 29 - No. 37): 29-32 Residential Halls; 33—Men's athletics; 34—Building for various other divisions, including business administration, law and social work; 35—Faculty Union; 36—Nursing addition; 37—Simcoe Hall addition. Among the buildings not shown are two projects already financed: the Dental building, Elm Street, and the Aerophysics laboratory, Dufferin St. Principal existing buildings are shown on the plan in light outline; shaded ones are among projects to be financed. Configuration of buildings is strictly impressionistic.

MARMORA

Holy Name Society Holds Banquet

MARMORA — The Holy Name Society of Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, held its annual banquet in the parish hall on Wednesday evening with around 100 attending. The ladies of the Catholic Women's League catered for the banquet. Mr. William Meehan, Sr., the new president, welcomed the out-of-town guests and members of the society. Out-of-town guests were: the Rev. J. S. Trainor of Madoc, the Rev. Fr. Bricefield of Stirling, the Rev. F. J. O'Neill, Stirling; Dean C. E. Baker of Tweed, the Rev. S. J. Ambrosie, Kingston, and the Rev. Fr. Heeney of Liverpool, England, who is at present visiting his brother in Stirling.

The Rev. S. J. Ambrosie, of Regiopolis College, Kingston, was the guest speaker and was introduced by Dean Baker of Tweed.

Mr. James Shannon thanked the speaker and Mr. Vincent Lynch thanked the ladies for their work in providing the repast.

2nd Sidney

2ND OF SIDNEY — Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson were callers of his grandmother, Mrs. Seldon Ketcheson, at the Belleville Hospital, on Sunday evening. They found her better and she will soon be home again.

Mrs. Ketcheson reached her 89th year on Sunday. She and her husband owned the farm on the 2nd concession of Sidney, building the house and barn where their grandson now lives (Mr. Arnold Ketcheson).

Mrs. Ketcheson came as a bride to the 2nd some 67 years ago, living here for 30 years and then she and her husband retired to Belleville, with their son Richard, and wife, Edna, taking over the farm.

Their son, Arnold and wife, Beatrice, are farming on the same place.

While living on the 2nd concession, Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Ketcheson attended White's Church. She played the organ and sang in the choir. She was quite interested in the Women's Missionary Society and was a chartered member of the Bay of Quinte Institute.

All send congratulations to this fine lady. Someone at Belleville Hospital made her a birthday cake with candles and all the trimmings and was she ever thrilled.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Garrison and Bob, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles St. Hilaire, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reid, were Saturday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pearson and Linda of Trenton, spent Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

Mr. Louis Mastin has had a major operation at Trenton Memorial Hospital. He is as well as can be expected.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert Casement, of Toronto, were visitors of Mrs. Sarah Acker and sons, on Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Genelle, of Picton, and Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Farrell of Trenton, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Alexander, on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reid, of West Hill, and Marilyn Reid of Toronto; Mr. Alfred Reid of Hilton, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Trice, Stephen and Cathy of Belleville, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dunkley and family, of Hamilton, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Clement.

Mr. and Mrs. Geert Vanschepen and Mr. Gilis Vanschepen spent the weekend at Stoney Creek with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Vanschepen, also meeting the former's sister and husband from Holland who are staying in Canada for six months.

Consecon

CONSECON — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miller, Toronto; Miss Marilyn Miller, Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Miller, Smiths Falls, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharpe. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. K. Johnston and family, Belleville, were dinner guests at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Walker and family; Mr. and Mrs. R. Chambers and family, and Miss Alberta Fox, of Toronto; Mrs. Beverley Peters, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Miss Juanita Fox, of Belleville, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. George LaRue spent the weekend at Foxboro the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. LaRue and family. They were tea hour guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Weymark, at Belleville.

Mrs. Max Gainforth and Joanne were Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dizen at Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bay Aitchison of Toronto have moved to their cottage for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Winter, Toronto, were Saturday evening callers of Mrs. Anson LaRue.

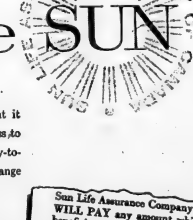
Mr. and Mrs. Roy Southorn and family, Toronto, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Southorn Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Peters, Toronto, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. George Peters.

Mr. and Mrs. Roden James have moved to their new home in Trenton.

The adult poly clinic was well attended on Tuesday night.

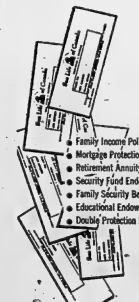
The Trinity Church Guild held a blossom tea in the Legion Hall on Friday afternoon.



TAKES SARNIA POST

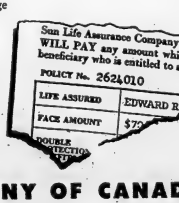
PETERSBOROUGH (CP)—Rachael D. Young, director of the Children's Aid Society here, has accepted a similar position in Sarnia. A native of Carleton Place, she has been society director here for 21 years.

$11,583 DAMAGE AWARD



TORONTO (CP)—A settlement of $11,583 was approved Thursday in the Ontario Supreme Court to two Simcoe County families injured in an automobile accident last October. Murray Gonneau of Waubaushene, his wife Janet and their nine-month-old boy were awarded $4,895. Gonneau's passengers, William Coles of Victoria Harbor, his wife Joyce, and their three children, were awarded $6,688. Driver of the other car was defendant John McDonald of Orillia.

There IS something new under the SUN



No company stands still—it forges ahead or it drops back.

The Sun Life's consistent 88-year record of growth is evidence that it continues to forge ahead. Contributing to this progress is its readiness to adopt worthwhile new ideas in all phases of its operations. Its new, easy-to-read policy contracts and its recent additions to an already wide range of life insurance and savings plans are just two of many examples.

There is a Sun Life representative near you, trained to help in planning security for your family and independence for your future years. He will gladly show you how the Company's plans, rates, and policy contracts are all "as modern as tomorrow." There's no obligation, of course.

Liberal Leader Outlines Plan To Speed North Development

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer carried his campaign into the North Monday and outlined the Liberal program to speed development of the northern resources.

Access roads, he said, can play the biggest role in opening up new mining and lumbering areas and expanding tourist traffic. A major road program would be the key project in Liberal plans for the northland.

Referring to the Conservatives' 20-year plan for provincial highway development, the Liberal leader told a Kenora audience:

"You need these roads now, not 20 years from now."

Mr. Wintermeyer was the only party leader on the hustings Monday with Ontario's June 11 election only 15½ days off.

Premier Frost and CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald each limited themselves to a 15-minute free-time CBC telecast and broadcast. Today the premier opens at the opening of a Toronto-area oil refinery and Mr. MacDonald opens a northwestern Ontario tour.

The list of candidates for the election reached 286 Monday with the nomination deadline two days off. Two new Liberal nominations brought each party's total to 90 as a candidate for every riding. The Progressive Conservatives are contesting all but 86 seats.

Barring last-minute withdrawals, there appeared little hope for acclamations. There hasn't been so acclamation in an Ontario general election since 1929, when there were eight.

Mr. Wintermeyer continued his electioneering at a brisk pace, flying from Kenora to Fort Frances and Fort William for speeches and a round of handshaking.

All the way along his route he stressed the Liberal proposal to establish a special department to promote northern development.

"It is more than coincidental that shortly after the Liberal party announced this intention the Conservative government announced it would set up a council to study the problems of the north," he said.

"They had 16 years in power during which to study the question. What we need now is action."

Mr. Wintermeyer told 75 persons at a Kingsmere luncheon that

Three Segregation Advocates Ousted From School Board

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Three advocates of racial segregation were ousted from the Little Rock school board Monday in a special election seen as a major defeat for the policies of Arkansas Governor Orval E. Faubus.

Faubus had put himself squarely behind the segregationists in the "recall" election, which grew out of protests over the firing of 44 teachers. Voters were asked to vote for or against retention of board members, and any member failing to receive an affirmative majority lost his place.

All three segregationists were defeated, including board president E.R. McKinley, ousted by a vote of 19,447 to 11,855.

At the same time the three moderates, who said they prefer token integration of pupils and Negroes to no schools, won a vote of confidence by retaining their seats.

It now is up to the county board of education to fill the vacancies. The board's five members, all pro-segregationists here, have kept their own counsel as to their plans.

Faubus himself went on television in the closing days of the campaign to plead for retention of the segregationists. He called the controversy over the firing of the teachers a "smokescreen" for integration.

The governor urged the ouster of three moderate members "their supporters had started the recall movement. The moderates walked out of a board meeting May 5 when the segregationists began their teacher purge.

Some of the dismissed teachers were Negroes active in NAACP work.

The only reason given for the firings by schools last fall under laws he had sponsored at a special legislative session a few months before.

He had called out the state militia in the fall of 1957 to stop nine Negroes from attending Central High School. Federal courts ordered him to stop interfering with integration. Eisenhower then sent more federal troops to enforce it the rest of the school year.

MAY STORE U.S. NUCLEAR ARMS IN THIS COUNTRY

Canada to Receive Some A-Secrets

OTTAWA (CP)—A draft agreement will go before the cabinet in a few weeks providing for storage in Canada of American nuclear warheads.

The agreement, when signed, will supplement a Canada-United States pact made public Monday under which this country's armed forces will get more information from the U.S. on defensive atomic weapons.

The agreement, announced in the Commons by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, will permit Canada to receive some previously restricted data concerning the use of atomic energy for military purposes.

It does not cover storage of American nuclear warheads in Canada. An agreement to make this possible now is being worked out by Canadian and American officials and a draft will be ready for cabinet consideration in a few weeks.

TO GET BOMARCS

Mr. Diefenbaker announced Feb. 20 that American Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles to be installed in Canada in 1960 will be fitted with atomic warheads. He also said the navy and army would eventually acquire such weapons but none would be made in Canada for the time.

The agreement announced Monday, Mr. Diefenbaker said, will set up the way for transfer to Canada "at some future time" of certain weapons and special fissionable materials required for them.

A military reactor is defined in the agreement as a reactor for the propulsion of naval vessels, aircraft or land vehicles and military forces as a source of power.

One of the special nuclear materials such reactors require is uranium-233, a concentrated form of natural uranium. It is produced in U.S. plants costing up to $1,000,000,000 to build.

STUDY FEASABILITY

A Canadian study now is in progress on the economic and military feasibility of building facilities for manufacturing such other vessels.

The new agreement is similar to one signed by the U.S. and Britain last year. It also is an extension of a U.S.-Canada pact signed in 1951.

Under the agreement the U.S. will supply Canada with information on the design, development of atomic defence plans, training of military personnel, and the use of atomic capabilities of potential enemies, development of atomic delivery systems, and research, development and design of military reactors.

Herter Proposes Interim Accord To Unite Berlin

Secret Big Four Talks Will Commence Friday

GENEVA (AP) — With secret Big Four talks on Germany scheduled to start Friday, U.S. Secretary Christian A. Herter urged Russia today to help create a Berlin settlement which would unite that divided city under its own constitution pending German unification.

Diplomatic informants said Herter spoke at the outset of today's brief session of the four-power foreign ministers conference in advance of his departure for Washington with the British and French ministers to attend the funeral of John Foster Dulles.

Russia was represented at the session by Valerian Zorin because Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko already had taken off for Washington.

Earlier, Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who represented the West, agreed that Friday when the conference resumes it will go into private sessions.

The private meetings are designed to permit more serious negotiation on Berlin, and possibly on a summit conference.

Herter spelled out details of the Western proposal previously presented by Britain, France and West Germany for German reunification. Europe cannot remain divided and disarmament. Gromyko has already rejected the Western plan.

Herter noted the connection between the Berlin problem and the package but did not stress it.

RUSS SEEK CONTROL

The U.S. secretary declared that Soviet action in 1948 broke the four-power control of Berlin and divided the city. This violated wartime and postwar allied agreements, he said, but did not remove Russia's obligation to work with the U.S., Britain and France in treating Berlin as a single entity.

The Soviet Union, Herter said, has no right whatever to treat Berlin as if the East Germans did and it cannot by any move of its own impair the rights of the Western powers in maintaining their forces in West Berlin and their access routes to the city.

Herter spoke amid indications that the rival Western and Eastern ideas for an interim solution in Berlin may be taking shape.

Russia and the Western powers had sparred for more than a week over the agenda for the talks, fog off the repetitious debate on German peace settlement and getting the conference into a position for active negotiations on the many issues involved. The interim arrangement to ease the Berlin crisis and agreement on a summit conference.

LIBERALS OBJECT TO POWER GIVEN ENERGY BOARD

Pearson Leads Opposition Debate

OTTAWA (CP)— Opposition Leader Pearson has suggested that cabinet power over all exports sought by the government in its national energy board legislation makes a mockery of all the "impassioned appeals to the rights and privileges of Parliament" by Progressive Conservatives in their opposition days.

Speaking in Monday's Commons debate on the proposed energy board, Mr. Pearson said his party opposes the principle of having such an agency to watch over the public interest in energy resources development.

But his party disagreed with many aspects of the bill, including activities that it would result in the new board duplicating activities of various existing government agencies already doing research into various energy resources.

He said there is danger that the energy board, in handling export licences for electric power, also will duplicate a duty now in the hands of the International Joint Commission — the Canada-United States body charged with working out arrangements for sharing water resources common to both countries.

CCF ATTEMPTS

At an earlier stage Monday, the CCF tried unsuccessfully to derail the energy board legislation in favor of public ownership.

Body of Dulles Will Be Taken To Cathedral

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of John Foster Dulles, in the flag-draped casket in which he died from his home today by six armed forces bearers and taken in a hearse to the National Cathedral.

Military officials of the diplomatic world in which Dulles travelled so extensively arranged to have the funeral similar to a state ordeal.

Dulles' body will lie in state there for 24 hours, with a guard of honor in attendance. Funeral services will be held Wednesday and a procession will follow to Arlington National Cemetery across the Potomac River in Virginia.

Political leaders of the world began to gather for the final tribute to the man who served his state who died Sunday of cancer at the age of 71.

Use of Import Quotas on Textiles Urged By Union Heads at Lunch With Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Use of import quotas to protect Canada's textile industry from an increasing flood of foreign goods—notably Japanese—has been urged on the Federal government.

In a luncheon meeting today with Prime Minister Diefenbaker officials of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CLC) said it is imperative that the government "control the "continued erosion" of Canadian mills' share of the domestic market.

Specifically, the 21,000-member union sought an outright ban on all textile imports exceeding the average import level of the 1946-50 period—a period "of more normal operations" in the Canadian industry, and generally one that preceded the heavier foreign inroads.

CITES UNEMPLOYMENT

The union, in a 4,500-word brief, cold estimated employment in the Canadian primary textile industry in February was 75,875, down 22,373—about 23 per cent—from the 1951 average. Since 1954, some 31 mills had closed, throwing 8,000 workers off their jobs.

Imports of Japanese apparel had skyrocketed from $1,200,000 worth in 1953 to $12,100 000 in 1958, and some Japanese imports had "played havoc with the domestic price structure." Meanwhile, in cotton textiles alone, Canadian mills' share of the domestic market dropped to 44.5 per cent last year from 61 per cent in 1950.

"The fundamental question at issue is whether the textile industry is to be fostered or permitted to become the victim of unfair international policies pursued by the government," the union brief said.

URGES QUOTAS

The brief continued:

"We therefore urge the government to give consideration to a program of quotas which would permit textile imports to enter this country in sufficient quantities to promote world trade and serve the interests of the nation without injuring the legitimate interests of a basic Canadian industry."

Member Hopes Wintry Frost Will Soon Leave

OTTAWA (CP)—Erhart Regier says he hopes the wintry Frost that will leave the minds of Ontario voters.

The CCF MP for Burnaby-Coquitlam injected the comment about the provincial election campaign into Commons debate Monday on the federal government's national energy board legislation.

He also said that leading Ontario residents got themselves unfortunately involved with the "buccaneers" behind Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited.

In his home province of British Columbia, he said, when cabinet ministers did wrong they end up behind bars, though it may take three years to get them there. But in Ontario apparently cabinet ministers who did wrong simply appealed to the voters at the next provincial election.

The reference to Ontario ministers apparently was to resignations from Premier Frost's cabinet by three ministers who benefitted from ownership of natural gas and pipeline stocks after federal and provincial governments granted Trans-Canada the right to construction of the gas pipeline from Alberta to Eastern Canada by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited.

Judge Rules Nine Strikers May Picket

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice S. N. Schatz of the Ontario Supreme Court Monday ruled nine striking workers may picket the W. C. Wood and Co. Limited plant in Guelph.

Mr. Justice Schatz at Wilson granted an order May 6 prohibiting striking members of Local 523, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CLC) from picketing the refrigeration unit manufacturing company's premises.

Mr. Justice A. G. Gale on May 11 ruled strikers could "peacefully" picket at premises.

Two days later, after hearing testimony of alleged violent pages of non-strikers entering the plant, he ordered picketing to cease.

Justice Schatz Monday ruled four strikers could picket each of two main gates and one a

Workers Liken Plastic Bags To Poisons, Sharp Instruments

Plastic bags, already labelled to say: Dan these bags."

a menace in the United States, have been likened by Canadian safety workers to poisons and sharp instruments with the warning "Keep away from children."

The United States National Safety Council recently reported 26 suffocations among small children in the last five months caused by the transparent bags. The score in Canada was touched off last week when a 10-month-old Windsor boy died while playing with one of the plastic bags. Four cleaning and dyeing firms in the area announced their decision to discontinue the use of plastic wrapplings and bags.

Ontario chief coroner Smirle Lawrence called for a ban on what he termed "suicidal" dry cleaning bags. He said: "I complained about these murderous bags once before and got my knuckles rapped by the plastic bag people. I don't care how much they complain, I'm going

The Dry-Cleaners' and Laundrers' Institute of Ontario, said, however, their members would be advised to stop using the bags as they were "too useful" to be banned altogether. The institute suggested that warning tags might be stapled to the wrappers.

A spokesman for the plastics division of Canadian Industries Limited warned parents of the danger to infants in the misuse of plastic films such as are used to package garments and vegetables. The spokesman said the bags should not be given to children as a plaything nor should they be used as a crib mattress or pillow cover.

In Vancouver, a British Columbia Safety Council official opposed suggestions that the containers be banned as a hazard to children.

Said Mrs. G. W. Kisick: "We have learned to live with electricity and other potential hazards, we should also learn to live with plastic bags."

Prairie Command Is Eliminated

OTTAWA (CP) — Elimination of the Prairie Command at Winnipeg and a widening of the Western Command at Edmonton were announced Monday by army headquarters.

The reorganization, effective Sept. 1, is part of the government's new policy on national survival, the army said.

The Prairie Command now includes Saskatchewan, Manitoba and the Lakehead. The Lakehead area will become part of Central Command, with headquarters at Oakville, Ont.

The Manitoba area, with headquarters at Winnipeg, and the Saskatchewan area, with headquarters at Regina, will come under the Edmonton command.

System Leading To Many Abuses Says Lawyer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Magistrates' courts across Canada have a "very-like atmosphere, of dealing with cases on a non-judicial basis, and the system is leading to many abuses, a distinguished lawyer said here Monday.

Arthur Maloney, MP for Toronto-Parkdale and parliamentary secretary to the justice minister, made the comment to the Canadian Congress of Corrections.

Mr. Maloney said 700 delegates listened in the hard-hitting speech when he:

1. Warned that over-loaded prisons are "a luxury Canada cannot afford."

2. Told magistrates they should respect legal rules and laws.

3. Criticized some lawyers for "ambulance chasing" and "touting" for business.

Mr. Maloney said magistrates have a huge volume of business, and results in a lack of individual attention to the needs and requirements of each accused person.

"This is not criticism of magistrates, but sympathy with them."

Mr. Maloney suggested that governments should expand court facilities and appoint more magistrates.

Find It Hard to Tell Difference Between Christian, Non-Christian

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) Judging by their actions, it's getting hard to tell the difference between a Christian and a non-Christian, says a report presented today to the 175th general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church.

"There is not a sufficient difference in behavior between the goals, purposes, morals and aspirations of the average church member and those of the non-Christian friends," the analysis said.

The study, drawn up by a commission on evangelism headed by Dr. Hyman Appelman, pastor of Amarillo, Texas, said some ministers also have taken on traits of society in general — rather than being distinctively Christian.

"Some in their private lives in too many instances have interpreted their vocation in secular terms — being too much concerned with salary, prestige and fringe benefits.

"In their pulpits they have at times been afraid to get into culture rather than a voice for Christ in the midst of their culture."

And the church itself, the report added, has shown a tendency to appraise strength in terms of "size of membership, buildings, budgets and swelling memberships."

The assembly, governing body of the 3,000,000-member denomination, began a week's study and road slant on the question of Communism today.

The 975 delegates approved resolution voicing hope that "the day may soon come when free countries can establish normal relations with China, and urged Christians to "pray increasingly for the Chinese people and for more mutual understanding."

Earlier the assembly turned down a proposed call for immediate recognition of the Chinese government and for admission to the United Nations.

Fishing Party Spent 30 Hours In Dense Bush

CHIBOUGAMAU, Que. (CP)—Cold and tired, a six-member fishing party was plucked from the Northern Ontario bush Monday night after spending 30 hours lost without food.

The party, including a 10-year-old boy and a mother of three weeks, became lost while trying to hike 1½ miles to Lac Aninsh-ete to fish.

They took a wrong path, later realized they were lost and made a crude camp for the night.

Four prospectors, in a Canso amphibian aircraft piloted by Claude Gagnon, spotted the six frantically jumping and waving in a clearing at Lac David. The plane dropped onto the lake, fed the party, and flew them home.

The party included: Mrs. Leon Leroy Lecot, 31, her husband, 36; Jean-Charles Beaulieu, 16, his brother; Louis-Georges, 10, and Louis-Philippe, 14, sons of Pierre-Paul Potvin, 18.

Jack Lundberg Talks to Liberal Party Workers

Jack C. Lundberg, Liberal candidate for West Hastings, made a speech to a meeting of Belleville party organizers last week.

Yesterday evening following a campaign organizational meeting for this city, Mr. Lundberg outlined Mr. Wintermeyer's policies concerning education and housing.

Making available a university education to all those academically qualified students is one of the central planks in his platform. The qualified student in Ontario should be denied a university education because of financial reasons", stated Mr. Lundberg. He proposed the extension of scholarships, bursaries and loans to make available the funds necessary for able students to further their education. He also proposed a capital grant amounting to $300 is to be provided for all Ontario students who graduate from high school and from home, added the West Hastings Liberal candidate.

A vigorous campaign to recruit and train qualified teachers for primary and secondary schools is another point in the Liberal party platform. Due to the tremendous burden of building new schools and meeting the basic need of education, Mr. Wintermeyer's policy that the provincial government absorb its multiple tax sources, should assume the basic cost of education the former claims. This will leave the local municipalities free to develop and improve them their local autonomy and responsibility for their school systems, stated Mr. Lundberg.

The Liberals also intended to introduce a low cost housing scheme to promote home ownership with down payments as little as $500 "if a man can pay for a car, whose value quickly depreciates, on low down payments plans he can afford low down payment plans for homes", stated Mr. Lundberg.

Reduction of sites for low cost homes under a land assembly scheme, coupled with the lowering down payment scheme, should help to eliminate the unrealistic prices of the land, high rates and bonuses in the field of second mortgages, stated the Liberal candidate veteran.

The organization meeting, under the direction of Maurice Vaughan, went along very smoothly and a full campaign will get underway tomorrow morning, the campaign are expected to be concluded by the end of the week. "We are very much impressed with the enthusiasm shown by ward chairmen in their workers", stated Mr. Lundberg at the conclusion of the meeting.

Activate Signal With Long Trains But No Blockage

Criticism of the Canadian National Railways in the use of unusually long passenger trains which went into effect when Canadian Road crossing while Belleville was operating the ward station was heard in city council last night.

Council passed a recommendation which directed city police to take steps against those who for blocking the crossing for more than the five minutes allowed.

Railway officials today explained that the trains were not actually being blocked by the stopped trains but that the string of cars sometimes as many as 21 or 22 coaches, was so long that the crossing signal was being activated by the last cars. As result because of the danger of fire, the long trains of trains possibly approaching from the opposite direction, motorists do not cross against the signals.

To overcome the difficulty it is suggested that a policeman man the crossing to pass motorists over the tracks when the crossing signal is being activated by standing passenger trains.

Traffic Safety School Will Officially Open Next Monday

TRENTON — Trenton's Traffic Safety School will officially open next Monday, June 1, and during this week the police officers under Sgt. Gordon Steenburg are preparing the various types of lectures for use.

The Traffic Safety School was made possible in Trenton through monies donated by the Trenton Rotary Club and work of Police Chief Jack Taylor who organized the school. Sgt. Gordon Steenburg will also be in charge of the lectures and instructions.

The opening of the Trenton Traffic Safety School will be followed by the same type of classes in Belleville, where Police Chief Phinney said the equipment for their school has arrived and that their school will be in operation in the week following the opening of the Trenton school.

The work of the Traffic Safety School under the supervision of the classes is revealed in the following report released by the Trenton Police Force: Office of Police Chief Jack Taylor.

Among the specialized equipment to be used for the instruction of the children are two reaction timer. This machine will show the time lapse between a driver's reaction time is when an emergency arises.

There is also a driver evaluator which tests the driver for his alertness, depth perception judgement and visual acuity.

NIGHT METER USED

A night sight meter will also be in use which tests for glare vision, vision contrast, night vision and glare recovery. A slide projector will be used to project slides of all kinds and ways of driving.

A movie projector has also been supplied for the showing of safety films. In addition, a special machine has been made with magnetic cars to set up different traffic situations for the benefit of the students.

The school will be open one month a week in the city, moving over the police station and will we for two and one-half hours each day. The course will be for two nights.

Persons attending will be volunteers who want to improve their driving by education. Only persons 16 years of age applying for a driver's licence must attend. It is not compulsory to send any person who is before his court whom he feels the school needs training.

TO ASSIST DRIVERS

The school is not being operated with the intent to prevent anyone of his driving privileges but is to assist them to become safer drivers and so cut our accident rate. It has been shown in other towns and cities where Safety Schools are operated that it does cut their accident rate. Not at the start but the benefits of the school are quite evident after a period of time.

In addition to the students being tested on the various pieces of equipment, lectures are given on the Highway Traffic Act and local traffic by-laws. Slides are shown with the instructor giving a brief talk on what each slide shows. Then a film on driving is shown.

At the completion of the course an examination is given based on the subjects covered.

It is felt that a large percentage of our accidents are caused through ignorance of the laws and that very few persons once they are taught the laws, will deliberately go out and break them.

The schools will be opened on the night of June 1st, 1959, and classes will be started a few days later.

All interested persons are invited to drop in at the court house between 2 p.m. and 9 p.m. one June 1st, 1959, to see the Traffic School arrangements and enrolment will be accepted at that time.

Council Will Consider Proposal Next Week

Belleville city council held its regular meeting Monday evening with business of next week's two committee meetings being ratified. Little new business was dealt with.

With one exception recommendations from the two committee meetings were approved the one exception being the delaying of the by-law providing for expropriation proceedings to acquire property for the proposed extension of Pine Street.

Expropriation proceedings covering the acquisition of property for the extension of Bridge Street and Victoria Avenue will go ahead as planned but on the suggestion of Alderman Ralph Graham the Pine Street extension was expropriated.

The alderman claimed the Pine Street extension was premature as no one knew yet exactly where the street would go.

KEEP CONTROL PLAN

Recommendations for the deletion of recommendations in the committee report setting up the building section to a neighbouring municipality and the newly annexed area in the Thurlow Township and the city and for the old section of the city were defeated.

The by-law to provide moved for deletion of the recommendation providing that the by-law would have to be registered against every lot in the city.

He said controls and restrictions "are bad enough as they are" and that soon a resident would have to go to the planning board "to get permission to grow a garden.

Alderman Les Digby denied that the covering by-law would have to be registered against every lot in the city and the by-law would be registered against only those lots where it was possible and would not preclude sale of lots.

The reason for sub-division control would be to prevent two houses being built and only leaving a residence on a lot with less than 40 feet frontage. If it is desirable to erect a new house to be on a lot with 40 feet frontage then it should be desirable to have an old house remain on a 40-foot lot," he said.

Alderman Ralph Graham added that the amendment of the by-law was good but said that the practical effect would block the sale of land to a neighbor for use as a driveway or garden or to have a building.

"We got advice from our city solicitor on the matter," noted Alderman Dr. Anita Fitzgerald "just whose advice are we expected to accept?"

Both amendments calling for deletion of recommendations on the committee reports were lost on tie votes.

The city committee recommendations seeing ratification, despite amendments for their withdrawal, included the sale of the city's old asphalt distributor to the town of Trenton, and another holding up the installation of traffic lights at the corner of North Front Street and College for 30 days.

ENQUIRY TO COUNCIL LATER

Granting of the city's applications for a judicial enquiry into the city's finances can not be expected by the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs for at least several weeks.

The question was asked by Alderman Robert Temple who was told that no order for the enquiry could be expected until after the completion of the special city audit. Mayor Gerald Hyde replied that he expected it would take from three to four weeks from May 9 to complete study of the books.

Mayor Hyde said he had no objection to the enquiry asked for would be held.

The Belleville council corrected a one million dollar error in its annual borrowing by-law. The by-law was corrected to allow borrowing of up to $1,459,234, or 90 per cent of the amount levied in taxes.

But a typographical error in the by-law raised the amount in the by-law raised to $1,459,234.

Last night saw the original by-law rescinded and the new one for the correct amount passed.

Final 3 Posts On Executive Of Assoc. Filled

TRENTON — The final three posts on the executive of the newly-formed Air Force Association Wing in Trenton were filled as the club held their first general meeting in the Winter Gardens at the RCAF Station in Trenton recently.

They were 2nd vice-president, Jas. Williamson; Entertainment and Program, Lee Phinney; House and Welfare, Bob Moffat.

Other officers of the newly-formed group had been elected at a previous meeting which elected Len McGaughey as president, Mr. McGaughey had previously acted as temporary president to bring the Wing into formation and to its present status. It is known as the 413 (Trenton) Wing of the RCAF Association.

During the business session of the meeting several projects were suggested and they were all compiled and handed over to the executive for review to study and present the ones they felt best to the next general meeting.

Following the business portion of the meeting a film "War in the Air" was shown, after which a lunch was served to round out the evening for the many members who turned out to the meeting.

TORONTO STOCKS.

TORONTO (CP)—Base metals led the stock market lower today amid the lightest first-hour trading in almost two weeks.

The 11 a.m. volume was 850,000 shares, compared with Monday's 960,000 at the same hour. Tombill added 9 cents at 97 cents but Radiore and Can-Erin slipped off around 3 cents.

Banks were strong among industrials. Losses were less than 1 point. Ford A led winners, ahead 1, at 171½.

On the downside Algoma Steel eased ¼ at 36¼.

Seniors were the big losers in base metals. Noranda dipped ½ at 31.

Consolidated Denison lost ¼ at 13¾ among uranium.

Hollinger gave up ¼ at 32¾ while Campbell Red Lake and Kerr - Addison each lost ½ in golds.

On Monday the market showed a moderate decline.

Trading was the heaviest in four session. Final volume was 3,237,000 shares,compared with 2,885,000 Friday.

A typical pattern was offered by Ford A, which was up as much as 1¼ points but closed down 1 point at 170½. Banks were excellous. They held firm with Royal and Nova Scotia closed 1½ points ,higher with other banks generally ahead.

Industrial losses were mostly fractional but, besides Ford, there were a few declines ranging to 2½ points.

In mines, coppers had a wide gain and Can-Erin the most active stock at 292,633 shares led with a 22-cent gain to $1.97. Paudash featured golds, adding 45 cents at $1.80 in active trading.

Oils were quiet on a solid line but changes were generally small.

Index changes: Industrials off 1.13 to 525.02; golds off .04 to 94.13; base metals up .45 to 174.32; western oils off 1.03 to 127.80.

Japanese Student Speaks To Rotarians on Homeland

Local Rotarians, assembling in the Hotel Quinte yesterday afternoon for their weekly dinner meeting, heard Miss Seiko Takahashi, a Rotary Foundation Fellow attending University of Toronto, speak on her home country, Japan, and her impressions of North America.

Previous to her introduction by Rube Freeman, Joe Demeza explained to those present the scope and working of the Rotary Foundation Fellowships. They are the result of a project by individual Rotarians and Rotary clubs around the world to sponsor study abroad, in post-graduate work by a student. Those chosen are to be ambassadors of good will to the country they visit and, on their return to their homeland, are to act as interpreters of the visited foreign country to their own citizens. This exchange system, which allows each participating Rotary Club to send one student abroad every two years, is conducted only between communities in which there are Rotarians. The finances are obtained by special voluntary contributions by individual Rotarians or by a "100 per cent contributing club".

NATIVE OF TOKYO

Miss Takahashi, a native of Tokyo, spoke on her country in general, discussing various features of its society. Stressing the point that Japan within history dates from about the sixth century, she explained that there has now accumulated a tremendous wealth of culture in literature, architecture and customs. Together with this vast cultural reserve there is a trend towards westernization which is very much evident in the cities of Japan.

The graduate Bachelor of Arts from the International Christian University also explained that due to the scarcity of natural resources, the small usable land area (Japan is about the size of Newfoundland) and the large population, some 90 million, make for many social problems but one of the population density — 620 persons per square mile as compared with Canada's 2 to 3 per square mile.

There is very little interest or activity in social work, however, stated Miss Takahashi, who this year graduates from the University of Toronto with a Bachelor of Social Science degree.

NOT SELF-SUFFICIENT

Japan is not self-sufficient, stated the pretty graduate psychologist, the country's economy depends upon her import-export trade for both raw materials and food. Coal and hydro-electric power are the only industries in which Japan is self-sufficient. A low birth rate is beginning to help the dense population problem and a high level of education is helping to promote Japan's advancement. There are some 495 universities and colleges in Japan. The good Japanese student has a 16-year education course available. This includes the six years of primary school, three years each of junior and senior secondary school, and four years of university.

In commenting on North America and Canada, the Rotary Foundation Fellow stated that she was first impressed with the size of things — in everything from hamburgers to land area. The wastage of food and the advanced social security benefits also impressed her. The richness in material things, such as houses of good quality, were offset a bit by the lack of cultural advancement and wealth. Miss Takahashi feels that Canada could be the start of many new international trends due to the country's crossing-section of many peoples and the resultant interest in many different things. The student, however, seem to be quite uninterested in politics, commented the guest speaker.

STILL DYING

Commenting on the Japanese outlook upon the world situation, Miss Takahashi explained that Japan has been the only country to experience the effects of the atom bomb. People are still dying from the effects of the atom bombs in Japan.

The people of Japan are against war, having experienced the worst of the horrors of war, and feel that this is Japan's special mission to the world, explained the speaker.

Knox David thanked the speaker.

Steve Tripp reported that the Easter Seal campaign had accumulated $2,700 to date, which is $300 short of the objective. Chairman Fred Wilson announced that the campaign for sales manager of Dr. Jack Guthridge and the installation of Virgil James the club now has a Rotary banner, doplicates of which may be used for presentation on special occasions.

Harold Mott introduced the guests and the club was honored with the presence of Mr. H. A. Gray of Toronto, who, with his attendance at the meeting, was completing a 25-year perfect attendance record. Birthdays were celebrated by Clare Morgan, Leo Gilchrist, Enos David, Andy MacKenzie and Roger Bovey. Ernie Burnham and Joe Shortt provided the requisites for a sing song. Ladies night tickets for the June 22nd meeting were inaugurated. Grace was given by the Reverend Harry Davis.

Magistrate's Court

Pleading guilty to seven charges of breaking and entering, Allston Plewis of Belleville was given one year definite and six months indeterminate in the Belleville Magistrate's Court by Magistrate T. V. Wills in city magistrate's court this morning.

Another youth, Howard F. Radway, 16, was given suspended sentence and placed on probation for breaking and entering the Clarke and Miles butcher store on Front Street. He was also given suspended sentence on a charge of possession of housebreaking tools. The youth will be sent back to training school from where he was on parole.

Jack Rushlow, appearing on a charge of joy-riding, which had been reduced from car theft was also given a year's suspended sentence. Police said the youth had taken the car of Arthur Brown without the owner's permission.

Two Montreal youths Jacques Beaudet and Andre Daudelin, charged with stealing a car owned by hockey player "Mac" Benoit, were remanded to June 2nd, while Richard Parker, payroll clerk with McFarlane Gradon Manufacturing Company, had his case in a trial date set for a theft charge. The young man is free on bail.

Local Chapter Of Driving Club Cops Top Awards

Results of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club's annual National Driving Skill Event displayed that members of the Belleville Chapter have copped a number of the awards. Two first places and a second, a third, and a fifth place award were carned by local drivers.

Jim Graham, driving a Jaguar 3.4 sedan, won the best-time-of-the-day award in the quartermile acceleration runs with a time of 17.4 seconds. He was closely followed by a Cornwall entrant, Paul Joncas with a time of 17.9 seconds in a much-modified Triumph TR3 sports car.

Doug Phippen took first place in the small car class for the driving skill section with a Morris Minor, followed by James McCaw of Kingston in a similar car. Pat Perry, another Belleville club member, took third place with his DKW.

In large car class Ron Donohue of Kingston came first, driving a Ford, followed by Jim Graham of Belleville. In the Sports car class Vic Yachuk of Kingston placed first with an Austin Healey, followed by two Ottawa entrants, Stuart Reid and R. Biggs. J. Cornwall constable, Paul Joncas, and Wayne Reid of Belleville. This class was the most heavily contested class with many of the entrants taking second runs in order to improve their standing.

Competitors and spectators from Ottawa, Montreal, Cornwall, Belleville, Toronto, Kingston, and Belleville were present with a crowd of over 125 persons present along the unopened section of highway.

Harsh Methods Will Not Be Used In Strike Area

OTTAWA (CP) — No harsh methods will be followed by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in dealing with striking workers at the Crown - owned Polymer Corporation at Sarnia who are in arears on rent, Works Minister Green says.

Replying in the Commons Monday to A. W. Murphy (PC—Lambton West), he said no eviction notices have been served by the federal housing agency on workers who own their homes.

Notices that had been given were for termination of tenancy by persons renting homes from CMHC. Any evictions would have to follow expiration of the notice of termination. These cases would be examined carefully on an individual basis.

Mr. Green said a special representative had been sent to Sarnia to assist CMHC officials to interview tenants in arrears. He was hopeful a settlement could be reached.

Approximately 1,700 Polymer employees, members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union CLC), went on strike March 19 over demands for a 10-per-cent wage increase.

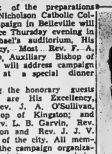
Nicholson Catholic College Fund Workers to Attend Special Dinner



Climax of the preparations for the Nicholson Catholic College campaign in Belleville will take place Thursday evening in St. Michael's auditorium. His Excellency, Most. Rev. F. A. Marrocco, auxiliary bishop of Toronto, will address campaign workers at a special dinner meeting.

Among the honorary guests invited are His Excellency, Most. Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan, Archbishop of Kingston; and Very Rev. L. B. Garvin, Rev. M. Simson and Rev. J. J. V. Buckley of the military. Members of the campaign organization, top chairmen, group chairmen, team chairmen and team members, are expected to attend.

This organization has been in the process of formation for the past eight weeks. It was set up under the chairmanship of Frank Dennis-Jenkins with H. J. Trepanier as vice-chairman. General secretary was Rev. F. Murphy.

The framework of the organization is patterned on the Marian Year program. Initially, six directors of the organization were chosen by the chairmen, and at a meeting of this body, 30 group captains were appointed. One week later the directors and the captains met, when each group captain selected four team captains. At the following meeting, which included the directors, group captains and team captains, the number of persons involved had grown from two to 138. At that meeting each team captain selected three team members from lists supplied by all the parishes, and to bring the total number of organization workers to 414 people. By the time of the campaign dinner, over 400 people will have been actively involved in promoting the new high school.

The dinner will be convened by Mrs. E. Logan, assisted by members of St. Michael's Catholic Women's League.

Most Rev. F. A. Marrocco, Toronto, will be guest speaker.

Release Boy 16, Held After Two Perish in Fire

MONTREAL (CP) — Police have released a 16-year-old boy detained on a coroner's warrant following the death of two of his companions Sunday in a fire set off by a firecracker.

Police said the boy was released Monday after the opening of a coroner's inquest. The inquest was adjourned to June 2.

The fire was the result of what police described as a prank to frighten victims. It destroyed a drug store and damaged two other stores.

The firecracker landed among fireworks stock, also igniting combustible insect spray bombs.

Interest.

"I haven't any idea what new information Dr Marigny could possibly give," the harness told a reporter Monday night.

Nancy Oakes Will Not Return To Bahamas

LONDON (AP)—The daughter of Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian millionaire who was bludgeoned to death in his bed in Nassau in 1943, said Monday she was unable to help any new inquiry into the unsolved murder mystery.

Baroness Ernst Lyssard Von Hoyningen - Huene, formerly Nancy Oakes, said she has not a clear memory or bit of evidence which could help in clearing up the case.

In Nassau, the Bahaman House of Assembly voted to reopen the case. In Havana, Cuba, Nancy's former husband, Count Alfred de Marigny, said he was willing to return to Nassau "to help clear up this matter once and for all."

De Marigny, now 51, was accused of the murder of Sir Harry in-law and was acquitted after a trial that excited international

WHY THIS AMNESTY?

If we were a gangster, we should enthusiastically campaign for regular visits to Canada by the Queen. Indeed, the underworld would be well advised to consider the possibility of setting up a foundation, under a respectable front, to underwrite the public expenditures involved in such visits and thereby to allay that criticism which is sometimes heard about the drain on the public purse resulting from visits by royalty. Such a foundation would be excellent insurance for criminals.

If any reader believes these remarks are all in jest, or if he thinks that they imply any disrespect for royalty, he is in error on both counts.

It nevertheless remains a fact that no element of the Canadian population derives such benefits from a visit to Canada by the Queen as those which accrue to the criminal classes.

Hon. Davie Fulton, Minister of Justice, has announced that next month convicts serving terms of six months or more in Canadian jails and prisons will be granted an amnesty, to mark the visit of our gracious Queen. Prisoners will have their sentences reduced on the basis of 30 days off for each year remaining to be served in their sentence.

If any person can explain to us in what way such an amnesty serves the cause of justice, we shall be delighted to listen - - and shall be amazed if the explanation seems to us to be sound.

Amnesties of this type seem to us archaic. In a day when sentences were harsh, when poverty was as often the cause of a jail sentence as dishonesty, when the king needed stout arms around his person, granting of amnesty probably served a good purpose. That day, though, has long since passed.

Recognition of this fact appears to have invaded Ottawa. Mr. Fulton is reported to have said that "it is not anticipated that a general amnesty will be considered on the occasion of future visits of Her Majesty to Canada." Why, then, grant amnesty on this occasion?

SHORTER CAMPAIGNS NO ASSET

Nelson Castonguay, Federal chief electoral officer, says that the length of Federal election campaigns could be cut in half if a permanent list of eligible voters were maintained.

We can think of several advantages to be gained from maintaining a permanent list of voters, but a shorter election campaign is not one of them.

Snap judgments are dangerous. An election campaign ought to cover a period of several weeks. Otherwise there would arise the danger that voters might be asked to go to the polls before they had time to carefully weigh all the issues.

We do not hold with those who maintain that election campaigns never decide any votes. True, once a voter has made up his or her mind, no amount of electioneering is likely to alter this decision. At the start of every election campaign, though, a large proportion of the vote could be uncommitted. That some of the uncommitted have failed to reach a decision because of lack of interest in political affairs, we do not deny. But the uncommitted also include a number of our most intelligent citizens, people who do not follow any political party blindly but endeavor to cast their votes in the light of prevailing conditions and the programs of the different parties. With the nation's affairs becoming steadily more complex, it is ridiculous to suggest that the national welfare would be best served by shortening the period during which these affairs are actively debated on the public platform, over the airwaves and in the newspapers.

C'EST LA VIE

We see by an Associated Press news release that France is attempting to overcome its income tax difficulties by levying luxury taxes against a citizen's standard of living rather than against his declared income. Every evidence of affluence is given an arbitrary value by which the tax collector may determine the amount of tax due the government.

Gallic (or Gaulic) gallantry is not to be crushed however: cars made over 60 years of age are exempted from this system. On the other hand a person owning an automobile over ten years old is not to be considered affluent either. We might predict a breakdown in the age-old habit of a woman to demur at giving out her age once she is over 21 and an increase in the sales of used high quality automobiles which have a reputation of only just getting "broken in" by the time they are ten years old.

The taxpayers are allowed to live 30 per cent above their declared income without being challenged by the local tax collector. This must be a concession for those who "can get it wholesale."

GOOD TIMES

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Good times behind us,
And good times 'ahead;
Past is full o' mem'ries bright,
Future's dawnin' red.
Always something cheerful
For us all to see,
Age keeps lookin' backwards;
Youth is joys to be.

Good times, aye, and laughter;
Happiness for all,
Whether August or autumn,
Winter grim, or fall.

Age keeps livin' over
Joys that went before;
Youth is 'wishful, waitin'
By the open door.

Oh, the world is merry!
Everywhere you go
Many hearts are happy,
Mighty few in woe.
Hand and heart in fellowship
No use to be glum.
Turn your eyes with gentle youth
To the joys that are so come.

Need Facts On Jobless

Montreal Gazette

A report from Ottawa recently gave encouraging figures concerning employment in Canada. The number of Canadians without jobs dropped by 80,000 between March and mid-April. The number of unemployed in mid-April was 771,000 — the figure for mid-April of 1958.

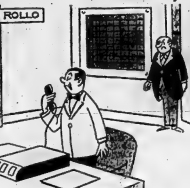
It would be easier to assess these figures if all the possible permanent factors were known. The nearest things to permanent factors are the numbers who are looking for work for the first time, and therefore not unemployed in the usual sense: those who are temporarily unemployed because they are changing from one job to another; and those who, because of illness, age, or mental handicaps, or lack of training, are "unemployable."

A recent study in the United States revealed that out of every 100 persons who are unemployed some three million could be classified as new workers, those changing jobs, the temporarily laid off, the temporarily sick, and the unemployables. This the survey discovered is a fairly constant figure, good times or bad.

The survey also discovered that out of the three million total only 1.7 million are heads of families and out of these 500,000 have wives who are working, 200,000 have sons, daughters or other family members who are working.

Similar figures for Canadian unemployment would be worthwhile having. Their existence would not change the fact that unemployment is a serious problem requiring constant study and continuous action, but they would make it possible for such action to be more intelligently planned.

Contributory Pension Myth



Hamilton Spectator

The Income Tax Department has announced it will be able to put up a fairly logical argument against the so-called ceiling in payment of the Social Security Tax. The 1959 increase in this ceiling from $60 a year to $90 a year however will inevitably result in more questioning. There has never been any complaint but this social security tax from the lower income groups except for the continuous demand for higher benefits. The married man paying $60 a year for which he will receive $51 a month at the age of seventy has very little to kick about. He is going to be subsidized in any event by the other taxpayers but why should the man with a $7,500 income pay $90 in social security tax, when pension is over ten years, when the man with a $200,000 income pays exactly precisely the same amount and the same increase?

Now it can be told, of course, that this contributory scheme by which both the $7,500 man and the $200,000 man are participating to receive equal benefits, with a $200,000 man will have about 80 per cent of his $51 pension back in his pocket by ordinary income tax. The myth of a contributory universal pension however, is so obvious that it needs no comment and only as a flat contributory insurance but a plan based on actuarial need we still find it difficult to see why the man with $7,500 a year should pay one and a half per cent of it for the purpose and the man with $200,000 contribute 0.045 per cent of his income.

A parking by-law was passed at the last meeting of the city council which prohibits automobiles being left at the corner of Front Street and parts of Campbell Street and Victoria Avenue for a period longer than thirty minutes.

The merchants who do a large share of business with out of town people who come to the city in automobiles, are of the opinion that some provision should be made for the parking of cars belonging to persons from out of town. The most convenient place for parking would be the market square and the civic authorities could arrange to have this space set aside for the purpose with a caretaker in charge. Saturday evening is the only time when the congestion of automobiles becomes a serious problem and arrangements could be made easily to have use of the market square for that evening for parking purposes. All the trade which can possibly be attracted to the city will be a result in the general good and out-of-town buyers, who are in the city on that day, should be encouraged.

Letter To The Editor

Voices Appreciation Of Reception Here

Editor,

Ontario Intelligencer:

My husband and I came to Canada from England in August last and spent several months in Montreal and Ottawa. We are now on route to Newfoundland after spending five weeks in Belleville, and we would like, if you can find room in your columns, to send our sincere thanks to the very many people we have met during our visit, who, by their kindness and consideration have made our stay so pleasant.

Such friendliness, combined with the great natural beauty of Belleville, have made it a very most memorable, and we only hope that we have the opportunity to return at a future date.

Yours sincerely,
Mary Margaret Rush.

Strawberry Type of Rose

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Gertrude Stein might have disagreed. But any member of the Garden set can tell you that the strawberry and the mountain ash are among some 2,000 species of trees, shrubs and herbs that comprise the rose family.

Now that spring has started green thumbs itching, the most celebrated member of the family — called the "Queen of Flowers" because of the royal treatment in gardens throughout the country. And with good reason. The World Book Encyclopedia reports that roses account for more than 50 per cent of the value of all cut flowers sold in the United States.

The popularity of the rose is further verified by the fact that four States, Georgia, Iowa, New York, and North Dakota — and the District of Columbia have adopted it as their State flower.

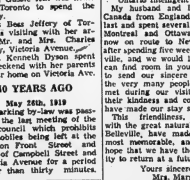
The rose has even worked into our language. Life is a "bed of roses" for the man who is doing well for himself. The ancient Greeks defeated the Persian King Xerxes in 480 B.C. supposedly after planning the battle secretly in a bower of roses. Hence the term "sub rosa" used to describe anything hush-hush.

Both saints and sinners have claimed the roses for their own.

Hindu mythology relates that one of the gods of Vishnu — the preserver of the world, in their religion — was born from a rose. Turks believe the rose originated from the sweat of Mohammed. And the Christmas rose is said to have first grown from the tears of a shepherd's daughter who had no gift to present to the Christ Child.

On the other hand, Cleopatra is said to have covered the floor of her palace with roses a foot and a half deep when she entertained Mark Antony.

And Eve reportedly chose a white rosebud as her first gift when she was banished from the Garden of Eden.



Finns Like Cold Water

Finlandia Pictorial

One of the attractions of Helsinki in summer is the sea bathing. There are rowing clubs with so many beaches so easily reached. All this has been well advertised. But who would dream of putting forward bathing in the cold sea water attraction in these latitudes? Not a few, these days, extraordinary cures are effected by the open air treatment.

The first enthusiasts of winter bathing were mostly invalids and the sick, looking for a tonic or a radical cure. Physicians are now full of enthusiasm about the benefits of winter bathing. A dip through a hole in the ice stimulates the function of the adrenal gland and pumps natural cortisone into the bather's blood. Rheumatics have been finding relief in bathing. Migraine, insomnia and general lassitude are also considered to be complaints which might well be treated by a cold bathe. The cure was not to be hurried, however, are simply persons who want to be hardy and avoid colds. A swim in the hole in the ice gives the bather a great sense of well being. The sudden change in temperature makes his blood race. First there is a moment of cold. Then, after a thorough rub-down and a few deep breaths, comes a feeling of warmth.

The craze has spread all over Finland. It is reckoned that there are now at least 10,000 winter bathers in Helsinki alone and Ten years ago there were only a few. The winter bathers do not combine their bathes with a sauna. They just march straight out from the dressing room on to the ice. There a hole, a rectangle about 60 by 30 feet, is cut in the ice. It is important to have the hole about this size so that the bather can really have a swim and not just wriggle his toes while he sits on the edge.

And Miss Wilson, remind me to give that nice Rollo a raise."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Out on the grass at the last evening was gathered a group of neighbors practising casting with their fishing rods. They were in three parties. The fly fishers were waving their eight foot long delicate fly rods with great vigor, laying out forty and fifty feet of line on the grass. The bait casters, with their five foot rods, were casting short, sharp arcs and shooting their weighted practise plugs slightly and a little farther. And the spin-casters, members of the newest and extremely popular cult of spinning, were armed with six and seven foot rods of great delicacy, and with a flip of the flip were projecting their miniature practise weights far across the lawn.

When I sat down on a bench to watch the scene, there was already and elderly man there, his head just clasped on the top of his cane.

"What an enormous increase there has been," I said to him in the sport of fishing! I bet there are a hundred today for one angler twenty years ago."

"Even so," said the old gentleman, "a good fisherman can still get all the fish he wants. These aren't fishermen. They're casters."

"How do you mean?" I asked. "These fishers," he said, "don't go fishing and spend most of their time casting. It's like golf. They just want to cast, the way a golfer likes to hit a ball. But casting is fish, isn't the casting that counts. It's the way you bring the bait in, the way you fish til I bet not two of those men know enough to leave the lure in the water as long as possible, and give it a seductive action "in the sport of fishing! I bet there are a hundred today for one angler twenty years ago."

"Why there's one now, casting whilst it back in, full speed, so as to make another cast."

Maybe the old man was safer than might be supposed.

FOOD PRESERVATIVES ARE APPROVED BY THE GOVERNMENT

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am enclosing a strip from a package of rice and you will note it says, 'BHT added as preservative.' Up to now I thought rice escaped preservatives. Of course I don't know what BHT is, nor do most housewives. Would you discuss preservatives?

O.A.K."

BHT means "butylated hydroxy-toluexne," which gets us no farther, I suppose, except that this is an anti- oxidant. It keeps the food from oxydizing, or shorbing oxygen. (When metal rusts, it "oxidizes.") In foods, preventing oxydization means, essentially, that you keep it from becoming rancid.

I receive a great many questions about food preservatives, of one kind or another. I won't say that I "know all about" food preservatives, but I do know more than most people as I have spent by the Food and Drug Administration in administering the chemical used for this purpose. It is tremendous. So, for the health of my own body, I think all of the approved preservatives to be both useful and safe. I don't worry; I don't think you should.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it still possible to sell one's body to the medical profession for experiment now? — Mrs. M.A."

No, and it never was possible, but I know how frequently this story has been repeated, and I don't blame you for believing it. Still, it isn't so, and wasn't. It would be a bit less so, or more reasonable, when you think it over, than saying, "You can't get paid now for going to do some work for something. By your very nature you don't know exactly when?" Anyway, medical centres have no trouble at all, these days, in obtaining otherwise unclaimed bodies. And, besides, many of an unclaimed body has contributed, in his own way, to the welfare of the living.

"Dear Dr. Molner: As a manicurist I often get nailbiters with a fungus infection on the nail. There's a thickening. Green growth under the nail and the nail is loosening. I have taught in beauty school not to handle a diseased nail. As a rule the treatment never is in isn't contagious and their doctors told them so. Please tell me: Is it contagious?

L.L."

On this question I appealed to one of the experts, and here is the answer he gave me: "There is a feeble amount of contagion potential, but the danger is not great. However, since the possibilities of contaminating instruments and of infecting other customers does exist, I think it would be advisable for the manicurist to refuse service to persons with infected nails. It has been shown that the fungus-infected nail fingers are difficult to eliminate from the general area where they have been deposited.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Two years ago I had a large ovarian cyst removed as well as the left ovary and part of the right. I have felt fine ever since but wonder if I should take hormones. G. F."

No, there's no reason for hormones. First, part of one ovary remains, and is secreting hormones. Second, some women require hormones temporarily if both ovaries have been removed (or at menopause) but a many cases find even these their systems adjust to the change so readily that no medication at all is needed. Hormones are given only if requisite to make the patient comfortable. Since you feel fine, there is no reason in the world for taking them.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I had an osteochondroma removed from my hand a month ago. Now I notice one on the other hand. Should I have it removed? What are they? What makes them come? — Mrs. H."

An osteochondroma is a tumorous growth at the juncture of cartilage and bone. It is not any tumor, it is a faulty growth of tissue. It is not malignant. It rarely known. Osteochondromas usually are removed because they interfere with the action of a joint, or because they mar appearance, or because they are painful.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! TOWERS OF FAITH

Towers are something — often beautiful — that we look up to. When the tall tower of the Empire Building was completed it attracted notice far and wide. It immediately became one of the great wonders to be visited while the stranger was to be in New York. It was small when I first rode to the top.

Since then, however, there has been building a cluster of great sky scrapers that is indeed amazing. They are a feature of the world. Like mammoth arms reach for the blue of the sky. You walk among them. Inspired by their grandeur you climb. Think of the dreams that made each one possible. As I look up at the tall spire of the church that has made them towers of faith, for it has taken faith to erect them possible.

I have dreamings of my own as I look up at the church of the building where I have been so happy, planning the birth of ideas, and looking out upon the dreams of others. Towers of hopes these buildings are towers of faith because faith is an essential for the creation of such towers.

From one of my windows I have a splendid view of the beautiful St. Patrick's Cathedral. This, too, is a thing of faith, with its smaller towers and massive spires to worshipers and in the silence of faith. Down the avenues streams of cars move night and day, and planes move out to the distant cities of the world. What a right to slit the Soul! Among these great towers are shown the changes of the old into the new.

Perhaps the heavenly rest means a material order of things in which there is no motion whatsoever. If this be true, we may well imagine what effect it would have upon both our bodies and our souls. This world would be heaven indeed. Of course, we would have to be utterly changed in order to be adaptable to such conditions.

Sale of Animal Products Boosts Farmers' Income

OTTAWA (CP)—Larger returns from the sale of livestock and animal products boosted farmers' cash income in 1958 to a near-record of $2,847,000,000, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The year's income was eight per cent higher than the total of $2,577,000,000 in 1957 and only slightly below the record of $2,900,000,000 in 1952.

The bureau said farm cash income was higher in all provinces as receipts from eastern field crops and livestock and animal products and from western livestock contributed to the increase.

A decline in returns for Prairie field crops were more than offset by higher income from the similar source in Eastern Canada.

Wheat returns last year were estimated at $427,000,000, up by almost $50,000,000 from the previous year. The increase was due to higher marketings, especially exports, the bureau said. Average prices also were higher.

Higher returns in Eastern Canada for field crops were attributed mainly to potatoes, tobacco and sugar beets.

Livestock returns, estimated at $1,744,000,000 in 1958, were 11 per cent higher than in 1957, mainly due to larger returns from sales of cattle and calves.

Larger hog marketings offset lower prices, thus boosting hog breeders' income to $325,000,000 from $292,000,000.

Dairy products sales brought an estimated $466,000,000, almost eight per cent more than in 1957. The increase was attributed to both larger marketings and higher prices.

Farm cash income for Ontario was $863,409,000, compared with $789,237,000 in 1957.

Sandys Meets Greek Leaders

ATHENS (Reuters) — British Defence Minister Duncan Sandys met Greek leaders today in a series of formal calls opening a week-long "goodwill and courtesy" visit.

Sandys, first British cabinet minister to visit here since British and Greece settled their Cyprus dispute last February, will begin political and military conferences Wednesday.

What is to be discussed has not been stated but it is expected one subject will be Britain's military base on Cyprus.

Four Surviving Quints Have Real Loathing for Limelight

MONTREAL (CP) — The four surviving Dionne quintuplets, once Canada's most publicized babies, now are young women with a healthy loathing for the limelight.

They want to be left alone, they say, but people keep pestering them for details of their private lives.

Every event—births, birthdays and marriages—means an onslaught by reporters. The quints make themselves scarce by living quietly, with unlisted telephone numbers. Their husband's names don't appear in Montreal's city directory.

Only once in the last months has one of the quints ventured a public appearance. That was when Cecile appeared in a picket line in front of the CBC building in downtown Montreal during the television producer's strike that ended March 7. Her husband, Philippe Langlois is a CBC television technician.

CHANCES SLIGHT

The quints' chances of complete escape from publicity are slight: Their births—a one-in-50,000,000 chance—ranks them with the best known and most photographed of Canadians.

"Let's face it," an editor has said, "The quints were big news when they were born and they'll continue to make news as long as they are living."

Their 25th birthday comes up Thursday, and the quints wish people would forget it.

A reporter reached Cecile by telephone and asked her about their birthday plans.

A party is planned, Cecile admitted. But it will be an extremely small and intimate one. The sisters will exchange gifts.

IN MONTREAL AREA

She said the four sisters continue to live in the Montreal area near Marie, now Mrs. Florian Houle, is Cecile's neighbor in a suburb.

That was as close as she came to saying where the sisters live, although they visited often. Then she closed the interview.

"That will be all, thank you," said Cecile, and dropped the receiver.

The quints' father, Oliva Dionne, said Monday in Callander, Ont., that it is unlikely he and Mrs. Dionne will go to Montreal for the birthday party.

Neither of the parents had been feeling well lately Mr. Dionne said, but they had mailed their daughters birthday cards.

Cecile was the first of the quints to have a child of her own. A son, named Claude, was born hxxaaaaaa£?%£?%£?%£?%% to her and her husband last Sept. 13.

ALSO HAD BOY

Annette, now Mrs. Germain Allard, wife of a loan company executive, also had a boy, Jean Francois, last Nov. 2.

Marie was married last August. Her husband is a provincial government clerk.

Yvonne, a nurse, is still single. The fifth quint, Emilie, died when she was 20, in 1955, during an epileptic seizure at a rest home in the Laurentian Mountains north of Montreal.

The quints have one big consolation for the publicity that dogs them. It brought each of them a comfortable fortune of $250,000 when they reached their 21st birthday.

Albanian Reds And Khrushchev In Agreement

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Albanian Communist leaders reached "complete unity of views" on all questions discussed at their first meeting, the Albanian news agency ATA reported today from Tirana.

The agency, in a transmission monitored here, said Khrushchev and Gen. Enver Hoxha, the Albanian party leader, and Premier Mehmet Shehu discussed a "number of different problems" at their first meeting Monday, soon after Khrushchev's arrival on a 12-day visit.

The agency did not disclose the nature of the problems discussed.

FIREMEN STRIKE

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (Reuters) — The local fire brigade went on strike Monday because members on duty are not allowed to go home for lunch. Police took over the brigade's duties and moved all appliances to the police station.

High Cost of Private Land Discourages New Industry

High cost of private property zoned for industrial use is discouraging potential industry from locating in the city, members of Belleville city council were told Monday evening by Alderman Jack Ireland, vice-chairman of the local industrial committee.

Mr. Ireland noted that this land was one of the obstacles land was one o fthe obstacles which must be overcome if industry was to be secured.

He noted that since the first of the year representatives of four subsetntial industries had been in the city gathering information with the view of locating here.

In at least one instance a site had been chosen but the price asked had been so high that no purchase was made.

Mr. Ireland said the industrial committee of the board was doing a good job with many good prospects having been brought in the city.

Mayor Gerald Hyde complimented Alderman Ireland on his recent appointment as vice-chairman of the Lake Ontario Development Association, while Alderman Effie McCabe added a vote of commendation for the local industrial committee for the job which it was doing.

RESTORE CONFIDENCE

Alderman Walter Elliott called for council to "clear up" the municipality's financial picture as soon as possible in order that confidence be re-established in the city.

Alderman George Wishart referred more directly to the heavy accumulated deficit of the Belleville Memorial Arena and the McFarlands Senior Hockey team and said this should be cleared up by a single levy and not spread over several years as had been suggested.

At the same time Alderman Wishart noted that the levy should not be made against owners in the newly-annexed area as these people had no part in the organization or operation of the hockey team.

Mr. Wishart said he had brought the matter up because he would be away from council for the next two months and would have no later opportunity of expressing his views.

He said it was a matter of public record that he had not been in favor of operation of a hockey team by the municipality. However, he said, council should possibly have been more critical of the operation.

TRUCK HITS MINE

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Five persons were killed and four injured Monday when a truck was blown up by a mine near Mallot, south of Algiers.

Belgian Ex-King Offers to Leave Royal Palace

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The Belgian cabinet announced today that ex-King Leopold has expressed a wish to leave the royal palace at Laeken, where he now stays with his son, King Baudouin, and live elsewhere.

Sources close to the government said this would preserve the king from "influences which might be questionable."

Leopold recently was accused of interfering in state affairs. His presence and that of his second wife, Princess Lilliane, at the royal palace also has been criticized.

GEORGE PATRICK BEAVERS, Morrisburg, who was Monday night nominated Liberal candidate in the riding of Prince Edward-Lennox. Mr. Beavers, who turned 31 three weeks ago, will be the youngest candidate of any party contesting a seat in the provincial election of June 11. A graduate of the University of Western Ontario and law student at Osgoode Hall, he is a grand nephew of the late Senator Frank O'Connor.

WEDDINGS

BLACKBURN — BIRD

Baskets of white chrysanthemums and pink gladioli adorned the chancel rail in Cooper United Church, Cooper, Ontario, on Saturday, May 16, at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty spring-time wedding when Lillian Maxine Bird, of Madoc, R.R. 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bird, became the bride of Donald Arthur Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Blackburn. The Rev. R. A. Milley, of Madoc, officiated.

Mrs. H. Hollins presided for the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Theima Delyea, who sang, "The Wedding Prayer," before the ceremony and "Because," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over taffeta, fashioned with fitted sequin and rhinestone-trimmed bodice and sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of white nylon net, with embroidered shining threads, was held by a white headdress of simulated pearls and rhinestones, and she carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses centred by a white cabbage rose.

Miss Marijane Phillips, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing periwinkle-blue nylon over taffeta in ankle-length with three-quarter - length sleeves. She carried a nosegay of pink, feathered carnations.

Mr. Allan Blackburn, of Elgin, Ontario, attended his brother, while Mr. Ivan Blackburn, also a brother, of Eldorado, and Mr. Wayne Bird, of Trenton, a cousin of the bride, ushered in the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the bride's home, which was adorned with pink and white streamers and pink and white wedding bells, and baskets of white and pink mums and gladioli.

A lovely traditional wedding cake centred the damask covered bridal table, topped by a crystal basket of lily-of-the-valley and fern, and misted about the base with white tulle.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing navy blue subtly-flecked rayon with coral hat and white accessories, and corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom' mother, attired in pastel-blue flowered nylon satin, with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Rochester, Watertown, and other United States' points, the bride chose a navy shutter-dress ensemble in light blue nylon satin, with white accessories, and corsage of white carnations. Upon their return, they will reside in Cobourg.

Guests were present from Ottawa; Toronto; Trenton; Belleville; Camilton; Eldorado; Peterborough; Bridgenorth; Orillia; Tweed; Madoc; Remington, and Cooper.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Rex Rollins, of Cooper; at a miscellaneous shower held at the apartment of Miss Thelma Delyea, of Belleville; at a presentation of an electric pop-up toaster from the office staff of the Metropolitan Life Insurance in Belleville, where the bride is an employee, and at the presentation of a carving set, and coffee-maker and warmer from the Kingston district Metropolitan office.

FINCH — COLDEN

St. Mark's Anglican Church, Bonarlaw, Ontario, was the setting on Saturday, May 16, at 11.30 a.m. for a lovely spring wedding when the , Reverend Richard M. Fleming of Marmora, united in marriage Joyce Lela Colden, of Harold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Colden, to Roy Thomas Finch of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Finch, of Springbrook.

Tulips, chrysanthemums, in shades of mauve, and baby tears adorned the sanctuary and the white satin bows the guest pews.

The traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Richard Fleming of Marmora.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Edward B. Colden, the bride was radiant in her white embossed taffeta street-length bridal gown featuring a molded bodice with cap sleeves and round neckline buttoned down the front with self-covered buttons and bouffant skirt pleated around the hemline. She wore a straw floral hat with white trim of velvet, short gloves, pearl trimmed, and carried a nosegay of red roses mingled with white carnations.

Mrs. John Myall, of Peterborough, attended her sister, wearing a turquoise gown in street-length made of lines similar to that of the bride. She carried a nosegay of 'mums and pale pink carnations.

Mr. Lloyd Finch of Oshawa attended his brother as groomsman, while Mr. Clarence Colden, of Bridgenorth, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception which followed the ceremony was held in the church hall where the bride's mother, wearing navy benealine with white accessories, and corsage of white carnations received. The bridegroom's mother, attired in pale blue nylon with white accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, assisted in receiving line.

The bride's table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and flanked by white candles in silver holders with the bridal bouquets adding a lovely nuptial note.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride chose a white and beige suit with white accessories and corsage of white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Finch will reside in Oshawa.

Guests attended from Oshawa; Peterborough, Campbellford and Toronto.

Prior to her marriage the bride was feted by a personal shower held at the home of Miss Marlene Adams of Peterborough; at a miscellaneous shower in the home of Miss Carol Sine of Harold, and at a presentation of an electric tea kettle from the Royal Bank of Canada in Peterborough, and a set of crystal glassware by the Royal Bank in Oshawa, where the bride is now employed.

The bridegroom was presented with an electric fry pan from his fellow employees at General Motors, Oshawa.

Women's Institute

MADOC W. I.

MADOC — The May meeting of the Madoc Branch of W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. F. H. Nayler with 21 members and four visitors present.

Mrs. E. T. Nayler, president, was in charge.

Several items of business were discussed and $25. being sent to the Salvation Army. Thank you notes read; $25. was also donated to the Teen-Town club and flowers sent to the sick in the hospital. It was decided that 100 souvenir spoons re the Queen's visit be ordered and sold to the members with Mrs. K. Nicol in charge.

Mrs. A. Empey gave a paper on current events. Members were reminded of the district-annual being held at Springbrook on May 27th, all wishing to go to meet at the rest room at 9.00 a.m.

Mrs. George McCrimmon, who attended the 'Officers Rally' at Guelph, gave a fine account of the proceedings.

Mrs. A. Herrington, who had composed a song won first prize. It was also sung by the members with Mrs. Reid at the piano, Mrs. Herrington is to be commended on her success.

A "Grandmother's Program," with Mrs. Reynohan, Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. W. Stewart in charge, proved interesting with Mrs. Tanner giving a reading, "Grandmother's Thoughts On Grandmother's Day." Mrs. W. Stewart and Mrs. Rose had an interesting display of antique dishes and clothing worn in Grandmother's day.

Mrs. K. Nicol gave a reading "God's Choicest Blessings Are Close To Home." She also passed along thanks to the hostess and all who assisted in making the program so worth while. A jolly social half hour followed.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY HINT: SAYING YOUR TELEPHONE "HELLO"

It is important, Margaret, give serious thought to how you say "Hello" when you answer the telephone. Do you always say "Hello" with courtesy? Is there too often a certain impatience or brusqueness in your tone of voice? Too many people say this word "Hello" as if it were packed in dry ice.

NAME OF CHURCH FIRST IN THIS NEWSPAPER ANNOUNCEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have an unusual question to ask you, and I do hope you won't think me too immature in asking it. Quite soon I am to be married to a wonderful clergyman who has been called to be pastor of our church, to take the post in a few months. Our church is not large, but is famous for its architectural beauty, for its history, and for its traditions. The outgoing rector, who is a very close friend of my fiance, is officiate at our marriage. My fiance and I have always been members of this church, and also have been close friends of the outgoing rector and his wife.

Because of all these reasons I would like to emphasize the name of the church in the announcement of our marriage when my parents send this announcement to our three local newspapers. I am not sure you can approve of this idea, but if you can would you think of a possible way we could do this? Thank you for any suggestions. (You are the only one I'm telling of my idea.)

— Reader

I believe I do understand your wish and the sincerity of the reasons for your wish. And I hope I may have a possible solution that is, in the formal announcement to be sent to the newspapers, I suggest you put the name of the church first. For example: "The Grace Church pastor-ate afternoon, Miss Elizabeth Livingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Livingston of 122 Park Street, was married to The Rev. Paul Delafield Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blake of Trenton, New Jersey. The rector, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Ames Mor-ris, officiated." Then continue with the other details.

HOW MOTHER SIGNS NOTE TO TEACHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my child is absent from school, I must write a note to her teacher explaining her absence. I'm not ever sure just how I should sign this note. Will you tell me, please? — Mother

Sign your note:

Sincerely yours,
Margaret Smith Brown
(or Margaret S. Brown, or Margaret Brown)
Mrs. Thomas Brown

PROCEDURE WITH INDIVIDUAL OPEN SALT DISH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a dinner, when each guest has above his or her place, an individual open salt dish, is it then proper to dip your celery or radish or carrot stick into the open dish? We've been discussing this. — S. and R.

No . . . no dipping into the open salt dish. Instead, take a little of the salt in the saltspoon, or with the end of a clean knife or spoon, and put it on the side of the bread-and-butter plate. If there is no bread-and-butter plate, put it on side of your dinner plate.

TRINITY UNITED W.A.

MADOC — Mrs. Will Parks was hostess for Trinity United W.A. meeting on Wednesday afternoon with a splendid attendance of members.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Fred Rodgers, the Presbyterial president, Mrs. R. C. Jackson, took charge and opened the meeting by reading a poem, "The World's Bible".

For the worship period Mrs. C. Holmes read Bible passages from two of the Psalms, Mrs. Jackson gave a brief commentary. Invitations were received from St. John's United W.A., Tweed, to visit them on June 18th. Also from Trinity W.M.S. to meet with them on June 8th when Miss Joyce Fleming will be the guest speaker and show slides taken while she resided in Soest, Germany.

Mrs. E. Moore dedicated the offering and Mrs. Ken Gordon recited on calls and cards.

Mrs. Bennett was in charge of the program and gave a reading, "Penance in the Parsonage". A skit "Dr. W. A. Meets the President", with Mesdames Bennett, R. C. Jackson, W. McCoy, A. Empey, Gordon Drinkwalter, Sterling Holmes taking part, was much enjoyed by the members.

The hostesses and her assistants served tea and sandwiches.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Frank S. — My wife drives the kids.

Anne S. — They can do better.

Frank S. — My wife and I are having a serious disagreement about the way our children are brought up.

We have three school-age youngsters and they are all doing about average work in school. They are good kids, no special troubles — except that my wife keeps driving them to do better.

The oldest boy recently started to develop a stammer and I think it could be as a result of my wife's making too many demands on him. I feel that she is making him nervous.

I don't see anything so terrible in being only average in school. I was and I know I'm happier in my life than some of the guys who always came out on top.

Anne S. — I certainly don't see anything so terrible in being average — if you really are that. But our kids all have high IQ's. One of the teachers told me that when I asked her about it. The oldest boy, particularly, has a very high IQ.

I ask myself all the time why my smart children somehow don't make out too well at school. The oldest boy is on the lazy side and is bit of a dreamer, but the other five are very alert. They both say they get very nervous before tests and can't do well.

I would not drive the children if I weren't sure they could do better. It just riles me to see other kids get ahead of them when I know it's not necessary.

The Council: If it is true that these children have superior IQ's we can find one good reason why they would do only average work and that is their mother's driving ambition for them.

Educators agree that one of the biggest factors in a child's doing schoolwork that is up to the peak of his ability is the comfort of feeling completely secure in the love of his parents. When a parent places too great a stress upon achievement the child gets the idea that he isn't loved very much for himself.

This idea is no illusion either. A parent who wants his child to be outstanding is looking for some reflected glory. It is one thing to want a child to bring out the best in himself for the sake of his own greatest happiness and quite another to want to see that child covered with glory. Every child has some assets that can be brought out and that will win a degree of recognition. However the mother who gets "riled" when other children get ahead of hers may not only defeat her own ends, but takes all the joy out of doing and learning.

Anne should consider the possibility that her excessive interest in having the children shine may have resulted in her getting a false impression. A teacher, responsive to her maternal pride and ambition, may have said that the IQ's were high when she meant high enough for average-high. The "very high" of the oldest boy indicates something more, but it is most unfair to him to set a rigid standard for performance. This boy might be the kind of "dreamer" who finds school too dull and routine, but who will eventually find something that captures his interest and will then prove his mettle.

It is quite possible that the stammer has been caused by his mother's pressure. His parents should put all attention to it or—ask him to repeat words. They should seek help from a child guidance clinic.

Black 'n White

By VERA WINSTON

Put it down in black and white that black and white is a huge success in every fashion category. Black and white plaid cotton makes a useful daytime dress, with a fringe-edged collar giving an extra touch to the casual open neckline. The skirt has a box-pleated effect at the waist, is unpressed lower down. A black leather belt and black buttons complete the picture.

Low Calorie Fruit Desserts For Dieters

by Mary Moore

Just before the news at 6.00 a.m. the radio announcer told me (and thousands of others) that one of the causes of osteo-arthritis was overweight.

Since I occasionally have twinges of pain in my right knee and shoulder and wonder if rust is setting in, I'm glad I'm perpetually on a reducing diet.

One of the unspoken hopes of most reducers comes after a Spartan main course such as a small portion of lean meat, 1 unbuttered beet, small serving unbuttered green beans a salad with low calorie dressing. The reducer's imagination flies to dessert. Will it be filling and enough of a satisfaction to push away from the table filled and ready to go about the next business?

I have worked on this dessert idea for reducers and think I have some soothing answers. In fruit desserts I am about to describe look beautiful, taste sweet and good and are almost as low in calories as the fresh fruit itself. They give me and my sisters reducers a satisfied feeling — even a smug feeling for being so disciplined.

CANTALOUPE AND STRAWBERRIES

Note: Both of these fruits are high in Vitamin A and good in Vitamin C. Wash, stem and slice 1½ halves 1 quart strawberries (320 calories). As you slice them sprinkle the layers with 1 measured tablespoon sugar (97 calories). Cut a medium cantaloupe (100 calories) in quarter sections and remove the seeds. Allow ¼ cantaloupe to each dessert serving and fill each to overflowing with one-fourth of the strawberries. Calories per serving 110.

PINEAPPLE

Shred a ripe medium-size pineapple (approximately 400 calories) using a strong fork like a wood meat fork. Dissolve 2½-grain sucaryl tablets in 1 cup boiling water, as soon as they are dissolved, pour this sweetened liquid over the shredded pineapple and stir well. The hot liquid mellows the fruit and tames its sharpness. Approximately 5 servings at 80 calories each.

BROILED GRAPEFRUIT

Select large grapefruits and cut them in halves. Loosen each section carefully from the membrane with a sharp pointed knife and snip out pulpy centre with scissors. For 4 large halves mix 1 tablespoon maraschino cherry juice with 1 tablespoon honey and pour this sweet mixture over grapefruits. Place under hot broiler and broil until hot and beginning to brown. Decorate centre with green or red half cherry. Approximately 110 calories per serving.

Other satisfying but low calorie fruits available now are fresh pears, (1 medium — 65 calories) grapes (125 Malagas — 90 calories), oranges 1 medium — 80 calories) and apple (1 medium — 75 calories).

So when you have a gnawing feeling in your stomach and are just about to snatch a piece of frosted chocolate cake (300 calories!) switch to one of these lovely fruits and stay slim.

Tweed

C.G.I.T. BANQUET

TWEED — Apple and cherry blossoms were the setting for a beautiful C.G.I.T. Mother and Daughter banquet at St. John's United Church Hall, Friday evening. Sixty-four persons were present, the tables were decorated in C.G.I.T. motif and each of the place cards in the form of a little C.G.I.T. girl.

Special guests for the dinner were the members of the W.M.S. of St. John's Church and special guest speaker the Rev. R. A. Milley, and his wife, of Trinity United Church in Madoc.

Mr. W. A. Paul and his wife left Monday for a two months vacation. They will visit first the British Isles and then several countries on the continent.

A number of members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion of Tweed will be attending the district rally in Deseronto on May 28.

Miss Betty Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Montgomery sailed for Europe on Thursday for a three-months' tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex MacLellan and family will be moving to their new home on Victoria Street next Saturday.

Mr. Otto Nesbitt is recovering satisfactorily at his home on Mary St. after a bad fall last Sunday.

BOY GASHES LEG AFTER SWIM

Hubert Clarke age 16 of Tweed having just come out of Sloco Lake at Memorial Park after swimming with his chums, seriously gashed the back of his right leg while attempting to jump a fence during a game of tag. First aid was applied to the injured boy by Chief of Police, Walter Higgins, who took him to Dr. S. T. Berry where a considerable number of stitches were necessary to close the wound.

CAR DROPS DOWN EMBANKMENT

While Miss Morna Lalonde, Victoria Street, was attending St. Carthagh's Church, her 1952 Pontiac car parked in the church parking lot started to roll down a slight incline gathering speed and then over and down a 70 foot embankment coming finally to a stop in the playground of the Separate School situated below the Church. Damage to the Lalonde car has been estimated at $400.

Miss Lalonde was first unaware of what had happened when she found her car missing from the parking lot. After coming from church, she searched the parking area but could find no trace of the car. Then coming back where she had parked she noticed tire marks leading down towards a steep embankment, walking over and peering down she was startled to see her car in the school playground at the foot of the 70 foot drop. Constable Allan Allore, who investigated the incident, stated that the emergency brake which had been applied before Miss Lalonde got out of the car must have given away.

TEN GREAT YEARS OF ONTARIO'S PROGRESS WITH PREMIER FROST

"... Our dynamic economic creed has been, and is, more people, more industry, more jobs, more wages, more opportunity and from these more productivity and revenue to do the job."

"This is our policy. This is our objective. Although Ontario's advances of the last decade are unprecedented in this country, or in any country in the world, we believe that ...

... EVEN GREATER PROGRESS LIES AHEAD"

from Premier Frost's Report to the People of Ontario

LIBERAL LEADER

the Liberals would finance an expanded road program out of current revenues without need for a tax increase.

"There may not be the population in this area at present to raise the revenue needed for roads. But if we wait for such population growth we will wait forever." Roads would eb the greatest spur to new population.

An audience of 325 which nearly filled a Fort William hall heard of Liberal plans to provide capital loans for the development of the tourist industry. The party was confident that the industry, particularly in northwestern Ontario, was capable of growing quickly and repaying government loans in reasonable time.

While Mr. Wintermeyer toured Kenora and nearby Keewatin, meeting scores of residents, his wife toured the area separately with members of the local Liberal women's association.

Mr. MacDonald appeared on a telecast with Ken Bryden, provincial secretary of the CCF, who accused him of spurring the government into penal reform and exposing "the scandalous situation" surrounding natural gas distribution.

HOPEFUL OUTLOOK

The CCF leader, sometimes called a one-man band in the legislature, said his party would no longer be a small show after the election.3

"After June 11 the one - man band is going to be replaced by a symphony — with woodwinds from the north, brass from the industrial areas of the south and a few fiddlers from out on the farm."

He said the Conservatives were "smug and arrogant" and the Liberals were campaigning on the theory of election gimmicks designed to catch votes.

Woman's Role In Marriage

Husbands should avoid criticism and threats, says this article; "The Special Nature of Women" in June Reader's Digest. Pursuing as it may seem, women often need help in accepting their sexual role as woman. Here's how both partners can learn the true meaning of femininity and happiness from discontent. Get Reader's Digest: 37 articles of lasting interest.

HUMAN BETTERMENT

Ontario's advances in health, education and welfare are unequalled. Investment in human betterment has risen from $104 million to $329 million a year—about half of Ontario's total revenues. Personal income has risen much faster than living cost.

HOUSING

Vigorous government action has abated the acute housing shortage. In 10 years, 425,000 new dwelling units have been completed, a record without equal on this continent. 1958 saw an all-time high of 64,000 completions.

MUNICIPAL AID

P-C Government policies have lightened the burden on every municipal taxpayer. Provincial aid has increased from $82 million to $310 million annually in ten years.

AGRICULTURE

Farm cash income in Ontario reached an all-time high last year. Great strides forward have been made in the orderly marketing of farm products. Price supports are a reality.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

90% of Ontario's farmers now have power. Provincial grants totalling $100 million have increased rural power customers from 220,000 to 473,000 in ten years.

HIGHWAYS

In ten years, Ontario's investment in our vast provincial highway system has risen from $65 million to $238 million a year. Road grants for the improvement of municipal roads are up from $15 million to $64 million a year.

Refugee Kurds Report 6,000 Oppose Kassem and Leftists

SEMDINLI, Turkey (AP) — Refugee Kurds say 6,000 of their tribe are opposing the forces of Premier Abdul Karim Kassem and their own leftist tribesmen in Iraq.

They are concentrated in the vicinity of the Mezar Pass on the Turkish-Iranian-Iraq borders under the leadership of Sheik Rashid.

Refugees who have fled into Turkey say religion, communism, kidnappings and feuds are all factors behind the fighting in the remote mountain passes near the borders of Turkey and Iran. They say there have been at least two pitched battles near the Turkish border.

The Kurds are semi-nomadic tribesmen who live in parts of Iraq, Iran, Syria, Turkey and the Soviet Union.

Here at the southeastern tip of Turkey, in villages one can reach only by trudging along mountain paths at times less than a foot wide, Kurdish refugees gave their account of events in Iraq.

"The trouble started soon after Kassem came to power," said Khan Abdal, a 55-year-old tribal chief.

"Kassem told all the sheiks and tribe leaders to come to Baghdad to show their obedience. Sheik Raschid—our sheik — would not go."

In the regime of the late king Faisal, before the 1958 revolution, Raschid was the most powerful of several leaders of Iraq's Kurds. Favored by the old regime, he was an aged and ultra-conservative Moslem who ruled his followers like a semi - independent prince. He balked at yielding that power to Kassem.

Twice Kassem summoned him and twice he refused. Finally Raschid sent two of his grandsons as emissaries. Both were jailed.

SOUGHT REVENGE

Their father, Khaliph Mahmud Beg, attacked a government police station and captured several officers to be held as hostages for his son. In return, government forces attacked Mahmud Beg's village, seized his wives and six other children, and carted them off to Baghdad.

This occurred in March. Pressure against the conservative Kurds increased, and late in April Raschid ordered one of his tribes into Turkey from their border village of Bessaun.

Moving in the primitive, rough region, they were stopped by a river. But they bridged it in two days with fallen trees and made good their escape.

It was a minor epic of a journey. About 1,200 Kurds, most of them women and children, came into Turkey to stay. They brought with them 878 horses, 370 cows, 12 mules, 4,000 sheep, 900 goats, their primitive household goods, gold jewelry and two portable radios.

Most of the young men did not stay. They turned back to join the 6,000 Kurds gathering around Raschid.

In interviews with the Kurds it became apparent that while the main trouble in Iraq stemmed from Raschid's refusal to submit to Kassem, there were many contributing causes.

One has been the opposition of the conservative sheiks to the leftward trend of Kassem's government. Khan Abdal said: "Communist rule in Iraq has become unbearable." He said the government has been prosecuting religious leaders and sheiks with the aim of breaking their power in the northern part of the country.

Biggest Wheat Farmer Urges Give-Away Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who grows more wheat than anybody else in the United States recommends that 750,000,000 bushels of government-owned wheat be given away to India, China and other under-developed nations.

"There's no surplus of wheat in the world when you put it within reach of all hungry people," Thomas D. Campbell said in a copyrighted interview published today in the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

The 77-year-old Harding, Mont., farmer acknowledged, however, that it would take "a lot of political courage" to do it.

Something drastic should be done to reduce the serious pileup of surplus wheat, said Campbell, who operates 45,000 plowed acres in the Big Horn country of Montana.

CAN'T AFFORD TO PAY

"I'm for giving it away to the people of India and China and countries like that which cannot afford to pay anything for it," the farmer said.

Campbell said this giveaway program might cost the U.S. taxpayer $2,000,000,000, an amount he called "a drop in the bucket" compared to the billions in war surpluses that the United States gave away after the war.

Asked whether he thought the government should get out of the farm support program, Campbell replied:

"No. We went through that before back in the 1930s and early 1930s. . . . If we didn't have some guarantee of a government loan today . . . we would all be bankrupt again."

Policy Would Leave Eskimos To Hunting While Families Could Live Closer to Towns

OTTAWA (CP) — The lure of city lights—northern style — is threatening to depopulate the Arctic countryside. But schemes are afoot to make it "worth the Eskimo's while to stay where he is.

Life in such Arctic "big towns" as Rankin Inlet, Frobisher Bay and Aklavik has a certain attraction for Eskimos fallen on hard times, the government's advisory committee on Eskimo affairs was told Monday by Eskimos.

Many want to leave the land because trapping has been so bad and game so scarce, the northern native delegates said at the one-day meeting.

Many like the city life, too.

In reply, government officials explained that co-operative ventures in Northern Quebec, augmenting income in the depressed Ungava area through commercial sales of fish, berries and other items, are being tried to improve matters.

Envisaged as a result of more housing aid, education, training and better wage-earning jobs is an economy that lets the Eskimo live where he wants to live if he wants, while his wife and children live in a permanent settlement close to good medical care.

Also in Ottawa are government representatives, the RCMP, Roman Catholic and Anglican missions and the Hudson's Bay Company their forthcoming views on northern problems.

Too many people are being lured in the north, said Abraham Ogpik.

Mr. Ogpik, 30, from the Mackenzie delta town of Aklavik, said Eskimos should have equal rights — including liquor privileges — with the whites.

George Konek, 29, from Fort Chimo, Que., said his district is desperately short of game, so ready gone to Frobisher and more intended to go until the government-backed co-operative schemes came along.

Mr. Ogpik agreed with Elijah Menarik, an Eskimo employed by the government, who said it's that despite mission schools the education level was inadequate to give Eskimos a grounding for economic advancement.

Mr. Menarik, Schoenukuk, 55, and John Ayaruark, 51, represented the two white and 6,000 natives who have entered a new way of life. Both are employed by the Hudson Bay with North Rankin Nickel Mines.

Springhill Gets Special Medal For Heroism

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Heroism of miners, mine officials, doctors and other rescuers in the Oct. 23, 1958 mine disaster at Springhill, N.S., was singled out by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission Monday for a special gold medal citation.

The only other such mass award in the 56 years since the last steel tycoon Andrew Carnegie established the commission was to the heroes of the Titanic sinking in 1912.

An earth movement deep underground in the Springhill mine May 1958 caught more than 150 men at work. After eight days of rescue efforts, much of it carried on under extremely dangerous conditions, the rescuers had freed 14 dead removed from the mine, one man who died later and 99 men saved.

The special award cited "officials and workers of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation Limited and local citizens who risked their lives." The commission said a total of 379 men participated in the rescue operations.

HIGHEST HEROISM

"The courage and determination of these men who were willing to sacrifice their lives that others might live is the highest and highest degree of heroism to the people throughout the world," the commission said.

It ordered that a special gold medal be struck to commemorate the act. It is to be mounted at the top of a bronze plaque presented to the Provincial Museum of Nova Scotia in Halifax for permanent display.

The Titanic medal, recognizing "the sublime self-sacrifice displayed by passengers, officers and crew" is similarly mounted and exhibited in the U.S. National Museum in Washington.

The Springhill citation brings to 21 the number of gold medals awarded by the commission since Carnegie established it in 1904.

'Summit Meeting of the Many' Called for by Senate Leader

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The call of Senator Lyndon Johnson, United States Senate majority leader, for a "summit meeting of the many" is echoed in some ways with an earlier proposal by President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Nasser and President Tito of Yugoslavia have reported already working on a plan for a "little summit" meeting of the so-called neutralist bloc. They have invited Prime Minister Nehru of India and President Sukarno of Indonesia.

The Arab chief and Tito are worried that the General Conference of Big Four foreign ministers, and a possible Eastern-Western summit meeting to follow, may make decisions against the interests of unconsulted smaller countries.

And apparently they are unwilling to concede to the great power rivals sufficient wisdom to avoid stumbling into a war they would engulf all.

STRONG VOICE

The reasoning is that a meeting of India, Indonesia, Yugoslavia and the U.A.R. — three united population totals 500,000,000 —could speak in a voice strong enough to make the great powers listen.

Diplomats mention other possible motives for Nasser. His propaganda campaigns against such rival figures as Premier Kassem of Iraq and King Hussein of Jordan have not dislodged those Arab leaders and he may see in a "little summit" an opportunity to reduce his sagging prestige.

Johnson's proposal, made during the weekend in a speech in Texas his home state, was outlined as a blow to Soviet diplomacy and a pitch for support from the uncommitted countries as well as from anti-Communist smaller powers.

Johnson, too, is interested by history, and commented that two-thirds of the world's peoples are "almost committed to oppose it or uncommitted to our support."

He said:

"Where the Soviets have sought a meeting of the few, let is insist a meeting of the many. Let us—as a new dimension of our foreign policy—regard ourselves working on a plan for a "little summit" meeting of the so-called neutralist bloc. I have reported already working on a plan for a "little summit" meeting of the so-called neutralist bloc. I have invited Prime Minister Nehru of India and President Sukarno of Indonesia.

Bomarc Missile Development Now Uncertain

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence authorities say that a shaky aspect of Canadian adoption of the American Bomarc anti - aircraft missile is that this country has no control over development or production of the weapon.

If development of the Bomarc-B, the solid - fuel missile which Canada is scheduled to put into operation in late 1961, were slowed in the U.S., Canada would have to wait longer for the missile.

And if the U.S. decided against the Bomarc-B project, this country would be left without an air defence weapon.

U.S. CONTROVERSY

This problem has come to the forefront in recent weeks because of the controversy between the U.S. Army and U.S. Air Force over air defence missiles. The former is reported dead set against continued major investments in the Bomarc.

The U.S. Army has an axe to grind, however, because it wants to see continued development and production of its Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft missile.

The RCAF likes the Bomarc and is convinced it will attain its advertised performance: a range of more than 400 miles and effective operation from sea level to 90,000 feet.

STILL WANT FIGHTERS

The RCAF, however, does not regard Bomarc as an exclusive weapon and still feels it should have a supersonic manned interceptor.

Officials said Canada will not get the first Bomarc missiles and it is not likely but is possible that all Bomarc bases in the U.S. might be equipped with the weapon before Canada got any of them.

Bomarc squadrons are to be established near North Bay, and Mont Laurier, Que.

Principal Left In Position At Saltfleet

HAMILTON (CP)—The nearby Saltfleet District High School principal was reported decided to demote V. L. Belyea as principal of its 1,000-student school.

Board chairman Reid Smith announced the decision Monday night at a meeting of the Ontario School Trustees' Council and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Association met in camera.

In a statement, Mr. Smith said the differences of opinion between the school and the board has been resolved. Mr. Belyea recalled, Mr. Belyea will continue as principal.

The controversy became public May 12 when it was disclosed Mr. Belyea had been asked by the board to step down at the end of the current term. He was offered a job on the regular teaching staff, "at a salary commensurate with his qualifications and experience."

When it offered for a new principal the board was told by the Secondary School Teachers' Federation it could not accept any application until the reasons for Mr. Belyea's demotion had been given.

On May 13 students at the school called off a protest walkout on Mr. Belyea's advice. Meanwhile letters of protest from parents and former students poured into the school.

Mr. Belyea made headlines last year when he introduced a detention system designed to weed out "drones."

HISTORY MADE — Four Eskimos yesterday gave their views to a one-day meeting of the committee on Eskimo affairs. The Eskimos, first ever to speak to a meeting of their committees, wasted little time in getting down to the basic examples of what they think should be done and they stressed the need for more education to allow Eskimos to discuss with the white man his problems and plans. Here the Eskimos look at a map of the Arctic with Indian Affairs Minister Fortenbaker who gave the meeting a sendoff. (CP Wirephoto).

Police Chief Says Stepanoff Offered to Return Securities

MONTREAL (CP) — James Anderson, police chief of St. Catharines, testified Monday that Peter (the Russian) Stepanoff offered to arrange the return of $585,000 worth of securities and cash eight days after they were stolen from the Provincial Trust Company in St. Catharines.

The 39-year-old Stepanoff is on trial with three others charged of $9,000 worth of securities stolen in the January 30 weekend robbery.

Chief Anderson said he talked with Stepanoff in St. Catharines February 10 after he had been arrested in Montreal and taken there on a charge of breaking into the Premier Trust building. Later he was released on his own recognizance and the charge was dropped.

He said Stepanoff seemed anxious to have a co-accused, Mike Yaschuk, ex-convict Montreal shopkeeper, released on bail. He said that if he too were released could arrange the return of the securities.

He quoted Stepanoff as saying "I have friends in Montreal, who owe me a favor."

Testifying for the Crown, Yackinin said he received a call from Stepanoff February 5 saying he would bring over some securities the next day to see if they were worth anything.

The next morning, he said, a "tall, skinny guy" he had never seen before gave him a package containing 25 stock certificates. He denied agreeing to dispose of the certificates for Stepanoff and said he marked down the names and number of the stock.

"I was scared and nervous when the police came in and I realized there was something wrong," he said.

Police witnesses testified Stepanoff was arrested February 7, the day of the delivery, in a left Yackinin's shop and stepped into a waiting car.

When he arrived at headquarters, the arresting officers said, a sheet of paper containing a list of the 25 certificates found later in Yackinin's pocket, fell from Stepanoff's pocket.

An RCMP fingerprint expert testified Stepanoff's prints were found on the certificates identified as part of the loot in the robbery.

The name of an underworld figure slain shortly after the robbery entered the testimony when Raymon Galarneau, 19, said he delivered the stocks to Yackinin at the request of Kenneth (China Boy) Winefield whom he met in a tavern the same morning.

Winefield died of bullet wounds last March several days after his body was found in a ditch on the outskirts of the city. He refused to identify his associates.

Dismissed Maid Took Children Out for Picnic

TORONTO (CP)—Two suburban North York children were back at their home late Monday following a picnic they had unsupervised when the children were reported missing with their nurse-maid.

Inspector Bernard Loveridge located Ricky Harris, 4, and his brother Peter, 5, having a picnic with Bertha Whillen, 44, on the Toronto Islands a house two miles west of their home.

"They were laughing and having a swell time," the inspector said, "some kidnapping."

The children were those of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harris. Their mother, a secretary at a modelling agency, was at work when Miss Whillen called at the house and told the maid she had come to take the children to a park.

IN OSHAWA

Mr. Harris, treasurer of the Oshawa Y.M.C.A., was reported in Oshawa on business.

A misunderstanding resulted in a kidnapping scare and police put 30 patrol cars into action, scoured streets and High Park in the city's west end.

Police said Miss Whillen had worked for the Harris family for a month and was given her notice to leave following an argument Saturday night.

Inspector Loveridge said at the height of the search he picked up an address book at the children's home and began dialing. He reached the nursemaid on the second number.

"The nursemaid said she had taken the kids to see a niece and that they were all having a wonderful time," he said.

Bill Defining Obscenity Nearly Ready for House

OTTAWA (CP)—The Criminal Code probably will be amended in a committee of Parliament to define as illegally obscene any book, picture, movie or other printed material that unduly exploits sex or crime.

Informed sources say legislation the government intends to introduce to this effect is being put before Parliament for consideration.

Under the code says only that anyone commits a criminal offence, punishable by a maximum of two years' imprisonment, who "makes, prints, publishes, distributes, circulates or has in his possession for the purpose of publication, distribution or circulation any obscene written matter, picture, model, phonograph record or other thing whatsoever."

Since Confederation in 1867, it has been left to the courts to decide where art leaves off and obscenity begins. This has led to a certain variety of interpretation.

The government is trying, informed sources say to make its new definition as objective test of obscenity. Its definition would use qualifying words like "undue exploitation" of sex or crime so that legitimate works of art would not become illegal.

Informants say one of the problems in drafting a suitable definition has been how to exempt certain medical or art text books from its application.

Medical Council Plans Complete Fee Schedule

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Medical Association Council met to write a complete fee schedule.

The schedule is expected to include several hundred items and will take "about a year" to write, Dr. M. O. Klotz, of Ottawa, tariff committee chairman, announced at a press conference following Monday's first meeting of the association's two-day convention.

The relative value of the services will be the basis of the schedule and will make for a more equal distribution of fees to medical services. The schedule will also aid insurance companies in determining payments.

Dr. Klotz, pathologist at Ottawa Civic Hospital, said it is unlikely the public will note any change in fee schedules for quite some time. "Our main reason for the plan was to get the schedule established on a firmer basis."

TOUGH POINT

Biggest task will be relating surgical procedures to non-surgical procedures. "Operation is opposed to consultation," said committee member Dr. J. C. C. Dewson, formerly of Peterborough and now assistant registrar of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

Other tariff committee members who will work on the new schedule include Dr. J. H. Cook, medical officer of health for Sudbury and Dr. Roger Kennedy, who practised for a time in Belleville and now is medical officer of health for Oshawa.

MEETING CLOSED

About 2,000 doctors are registered for the 79th annual meeting with about twenty-five hundred expected to attend.

Dr. William W. Wigle of Dryden—Monday night was named president-elect of the OMA. He succeeds Dr. Jean Beemish, of Hamilton, who will serve throughout Ontario obtaining information from members of the association's branches.

Dr. Ian W. Davidson of Sudbury was elected chairman of the council for the year 1959-1960.

Dr. R. H. McCreary of Arnprior was re-elected honorary treasurer.

Outgoing president is Dr. Lorne Whitaker of Toronto, elected in 1950 president is Dr. W. W. Baldwin of Brooklin.

Boy Awarded $15000 Damages For Loss of Eye

TORONTO (CP)—A Cornwall boy lost an eye in a schoolyard playground ball game was awarded $15,000 damages in the Supreme Court of Ontario Monday.

Pierre Gatien, 6, and his father, Bernard, sued the Cornwall separate school board after the boy was hurt in the yard of St. Jean Bosco School in June, 1958.

The boy was apparently pitching to another schoolmate who was using a broken broom handle with a sharp point for a bat. The point struck the boy and the bat flew through the air, piercing the Gratien boy's eye.

Mr. Justice Aylen, in awarding damages, said school authorities had allowed the boys to play ball in forbidden part of the yard and had failed to exert proper supervision.

Mr. Gatien was awarded $536 special damages to cover medical expenses.

Drug Smugglers Have New Problems to Solve as Result Of World Police Conference

PARIS (Reuters) — International drug smugglers, among the world's most highly organized and skilful criminals and backed by financial resources derived from huge profits, will have new problems to solve as a result of a recent conference of world police officials here.

Sixty police, customs and medical experts on drug traffic representing 33 countries held a three-week conference during which they drew up new plans to stop the increasingly profitable and sinister trade.

Almost all the illicit international traffic in drugs now is directed towards the high-income markets in the United States and Canada, Drugs largely produced in the Chinese border areas and the Middle East, reach North America by way of the Middle East and Europe. Some come in from South America.

SET PATTERNS

The international conference was held under the auspices of the international police organization, Interpol, at its Paris headquarters, and is only one example of the way in which national police organizations are uniting on the international level to combat crime.

Marcel Sicot, secretary-general of Interpol, and his deputy, Jean Nepote, say that the world drug trade today fits into several definite patterns.

The use of many drugs today may be classified by national or regional groups. For example, some of the cocaine family, once the monopoly of the rich, are now almost solely in the regions of South America where the coca plant grows. Heroin is little "export" trade.

The hashish-marijuana group of drugs now constitutes the growing problem. Used largely by musicians, they have the effect of producing a sense of exhilaration, but are much more likely to produce criminal tendencies than the opium drugs, which are soporific in nature. Statistics show that between 80 and 90 per cent of young people who start smoking marijuana or hashish are likely to commit crimes of violence.

However, the opium poppy's products present the greatest problem to international authorities. The largest source is China's Yunnan region, where farmers gather beads of raw opium from slit buds in huge fields of poppies.

SMUGGLED OUT

Local consumption there is little but the drug is smuggled across to authorities for legal uses in Europe and America. Large quantities also are smuggled out and find their way into the hands of the international crime rings.

The poppy latex first is refined into morphine, which has five times as much narcotic effect as opium and is consequently easier to transport. Much of the latex refining is done in white powder 20 times as potent as raw opium, in Middle East and Indochinese laboratories in the Middle East or Italy.

Strangely, Europe has almost no drug problems. In all of France there are only a few hundred addicts. As in many other countries today, alcohol seems to have replaced drugs as the major problem.

Interpol, through its worldwide facilities, its radio network linking police in Europe with those in Canada and its central file of thousands of known international drug traffickers, plays a role in the fight against the drug traffic. Its experts have spent many studying millions of telegrams sent around the world every year by police each year used by criminals for messages on the movement of drugs and the persons moving them.

JORDAN CELEBRATES

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)— Some 25,000 persons Monday marched through the city's streets as armed forces near here in celebration of the 12th anniversary of the country's independence. King Hussein, supreme commander of the Jordan Army, was given a 21-gun salute. The heads of Arab and other foreign diplomatic missions in Jordan attended.

Housing Starts Sharply Below Govt. Prediction

OTTAWA (CP)—An independent survey forecasts that housing starts in Canada this year will be sharply below a federal government prediction of 140,000.

The survey, conducted by the 2,500 - member National House Builders Association, places starts at 63,000, about 35 per cent below the federal forecast.

J. C. Smith of Toronto, executive vice-president of the association, told its national executive Monday that the reduction will be "drastic."

Housing starts in Canada last year were 164,532, another unprecedented government leading for housing of $373,000,000. Earlier this year Parliament also boosted the lending powers of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation by $250,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

NO MORTGAGE MONEY

However, association officials at their one - day meeting expressed concern that large and parent lack of mortgage money would hamper building. They said there is a dearth of funds even though the federal government is in the housing picture.

Lex Wade of Calgary said the only money available is government money. Canadian banks did not participate because of the low interest rate.

The executive approved preliminary plans for the formation of an association mortgage corporation to provide a secondary mortgage market in an attempt to stabilize mortgages and give builders a wider choice of funds on construction.

The corporation would work like a stock exchange and could protect builders when it was difficult to obtain mortgage money for housing.

Association officials also discussed a plan to improve homes under a "pedigree registered house" deal. Mr. Smith said the project could mean something in the building of quality homes.

Eight-Month-Old Holstein Calf Sells for $5,700

OAKVILLE (CP) — An eight-month-old heifer calf was the centrepiece at the Howard Holstein sale here Monday. It sold for $5,700.

The national is the oldest established annual livestock sale in Canada and this was the 50th in its 61-year history ever exceeded this price.

The sale was in 1920 when Riverdale Rose brought $6,000. She was a member of the famous Hornsby's sale topper, Rosafe Sovereign Vale, sold by W. R. Macdonald of Disraeli, Que., and bought by Bad Jelion of Healdsburg, Calif., for a cash.

Mr. Macleod bought her dam for $7,000 at the Rosafe dispersal sale in Ottawa last year.

Ray Ormiston, Brooklin, paid $1,000 for the junior champion, for the eight-year-old Excellent cow Windyleys Nancy Lou who was a member whereas Hornsby's sale topper, Rosafe Sovereign Vale, sold by W. R. Macdonald of Disraeli, Que., and bought by Bad Jelion of Healdsburg, Calif., for a cash.

Altogether 80 head realized $29,150 for an average of $364.62 per animal, the highest at a Canadian sale so far this year.

Only four bulls were sold, bringing an average of $2,700 per head. Top price was $4,000 paid by Lionel Barti, Princeville, Que., to Glenafton Farms, Oakville, for the eight-month-old bull calf Glenafton Stalwart.

Top price for a bred heifer was $1,950 paid by Angelo Agro of Hamilton, to C. C. Hewer and sons of Welland, for the junior champion of the Welland fair last fall. Hewer Farms, Clover Bar, Alta., bought a pair of bred heifers, one from R. D. Graham of Ailsa Craig and one from Marshall Brothers Welland, at $1,150.

Eight bred heifers averaged $1,733 each and 49 bred heifers $688 each.

Austria Gets Winter Games Summer Program to Japan

MUNICH, Germany (CP) — The Austrian town of Innsbruck was chosen today over the Canadian city of Calgary and the Finnish site of Lahti as the site for the 1964 Winter Olympic games. Tokyo was chosen for the Summer Games.

The games will be held in the Orient for the first time in 1964.

The Olympic committee, as is its custom, declined to announce which of the 58 voting members voted for which contending city.

The selection of Tokyo was a popular decision. Most delegates appeared to sympathize with the Japanese argument that Oriental nations have been going west for years to take part in Olympic Games but that the Western countries never have gone to the Orient.

CALGARY NOT CLOSE

Calgary collected nine votes in its losing bid for the Winter Games while Innsbruck received 49 of the 58 ballots.

Tokyo said it has an Olympic village ready made at a place called Asaka, 15 miles from the main Olympic stadium.

The Japanese promised to include a full slate of events and proposed the addition of either judo or kendo, which is Japanese fencing, and either rugby, baseball, table tennis or badminton.

Tokyo suggested that the 1964 Games be held between July 25 and Aug. 9 when, it said, the weather is at its best. An alternative dates it proposed Oct. 11 to Nov. 1.

Detroit, Brussels and Vienna were unsuccessful contenders for the Summer Games as Tokyo was chosen on the first ballot.

Latta Wins SHBL Opener Over Foxboro

Latta and Shannonville won the opening games of the South Hastings baseball league on the weekend while a third opener was postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

Shannonville squeezed by Canniflton 1-0, Latta downed Foxboro 5-1 while the Read at Belleville fixture was washed out.

Stan Reid buried a neat fourhitter to provide Latta with its 5-1 win over Foxboro.

Place and Mann shared the sound duties for Foxboro, touched for eight hits between them.

Latta opened the scoring with a single run in the top of the first and increased the margin to 2-0 in the third. They blasted across three more in the seventh and final frame before Foxboro bagged its lone run in the bottom of the inning.

Gary Gow, Wayne Gow and Ross Parks sparked the winners at the plate with two hits apiece. Don Harris and Doug. Hollins had the other pair.

Foxboro hiiters were Jack Stewart with a double, Gerry Mann, John Robinson and Roland Belanger with singles.

Three games are scheduled for Wednesday night. The Belleville Juniors play at Read, Foxboro is at Latta and Shannonville meets Canniflon on the Foxboro diamond. All Canniflon home games will be played at Foxboro.

Wings Blank Miami 10-0; Bisons Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana Sugar Kings, racked by rumors of a franchise shift and the lower environs of the International League's second division, finally have a shouting piece.

He's Wilco Amor, a 26-year-old righthanded pitcher who has helped keep them from falling out of contention in the league race.

Amor shined up a neat season pitching performance Monday with a one-hit, 2-0 shutout over Buffalo Bisons to run his season mark to 6-2. Rochester Red Wings lambasted the league-leading Miami Marlins 10-0 in the only other game.

Amor, who owns almost a third of the Cubans' 20 victories, gave only Joe Caffie's second inning single. He walked three men, hit a batter and struck out three in getting his second shutout.

In 66 2-3 innings he has allowed only 43 hits, walked 17 and struck out 24.

After posting a mediocre 3-3 record and 5.18 earned run average for the Sugar Kings last year, Amor won his first four in 1959 as his team wallowed in last place for the first four weeks of the season. The Kings now are only four games out of first place and only two out of the first division.

Doubles by Tony Gonzalez and Lou Sikzas, sandwiched between two singles got Havana its runs in the fourth inning off loser Chris Short (2-1).

Lefthander Marshall Bridges (2-3) walloped a three-run homer and held Miami to five hits as his mates knocked out loser Jack Fisher (6-1) for the first time in seven starts. Fisher was tagged for nine hits and five runs in seven innings before giving way to a pinch hitter. Bridges struck out five and walked two.

COURAGE CONQUERS HANDICAP — Gary Craig, 11-year-old little leaguer, takes a swing at the ball as the season opens in Vancouver. Gary, once the youngest amputee in Canada, has had an artificial leg since his right leg was amputated below the knee when he was 2½ because of a deformed foot. His courage and enthusiasm have carried him along in the team with no special favors. He is an accomplished swimmer and diver and would also like to ice skate but is forbidden because of the risk of serious injury on the crowded rinks. (CP Photo).

Youngest Amputee in Canada At One Time, Gary Craig Making Good on Ball Field

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gary Craig is an average, unspectacular baseball player who takes turn now and then in right field working his way through his first year as a Little Leaguer and seeking to establish himself as a first-stringer for next year.

That's the normal process in the operation of Daniel Poitevin, who coaches Gary's team.

Just as any other first-year player, Gary hits a few and misses some and at the time of the interview was still trying for his first home run.

But certain traits set him apart from many of his teammates, including the regulars.

COURAGEOUS BOY

He is filled with desire and enthusiasm that rubs off on nearly all who associate with him. Most of all, 11-year-old Gary Craig has courage.

The slightly - built Grade 6 youngster at one time was the youngest amputee in Canada. To-day, with a sparkling personality and a seemingly unlimited supply of energy, he is an outstanding example of complete adjustment.

Gary was born in Vancouver, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Craig. His right foot was deformed and when he was 2½ years old, his doctor recommended amputation of the limb a little below the knee.

Just before his third birthday, Gary walked out of a shop with a specially-fitted artificial limb and he has been walking and running on it ever since.

For the 1st three or four years he has played some baseball in grade school and with the cub pack to which he belongs. He has also become an accomplished swimmer for his age and shows no fear as he dives from the high tower with ease.

SKATING FORBIDDEN

He had a great desire to ice skate but this was forbidden because his mother feared the risk of injury in a fall among a crowd of skaters was too great in Vancouver's two public skating rinks.

This spring Gary registered with the Little League and was chosen as a member of Poitevin's team.

"He made it on his own" said the coach, "and we're pretty sure he'll make it the rest of the way on his own. He's got more desire and courage than many boys and we're glad to have him on the team."

Among his teammates, he's just another boy — no special treatment, no special sympathies or privileges.

"It is so easy to pity these circumstances," Mrs. Craig said. "But we did not want him to be self-conscious about his handicap nor we've had to discipline ourselves a great deal. That probably has been the hardest part."

PROUD OF SON

Mrs. Craig told of Gary's swimming and baseball, of his bubbling personality and his determination to accomplish whatever he undertakes.

Ir his family a. the moment, he is the outstanding athlete while his brother Bobby, 12, is an ambitious boy scout and his sister Mary, 5, one of his strongest supporters.

Gary, whose thoughts now are aimed at the immediate rather than the distant future, thinks more of socking a home run out of the Little League park than of ever becoming a big-league ball player.

"He's promised me $1 for every home run I hit," he says of his father, an electrical contractor who turns up at every practice and every game in which Gary takes part, "and one of these days I'm going to hit one."

MONTREAL (CP) — Light will be shed this season on Montreal Alouettes — last of the nine professional football clubs in Canada to play under the big lamps.

The Big Four team hopes to attract several thousand extra fans to each of the five night games — three pre-season exhibition games and two regular schedule games.

McGill University announced some time ago it would install the full-scale lighting system in Molson Stadium, home of the tenant Alouettes. The Als' management now is assessing the possibilities.

Hilberto the Als have played their early games, particularly the exhibition games, as twilight affairs starting late in the afternoon.

TWILIGHT RUSH

There were complaints from fans that there was too much rushing around involved — to get home first for supper or wait until later — to say nothing of the usual late-afternoon traffic jams.

There were also fans still away for summer holidays, many of whom hadn't made up their minds about season tickets.

The club has found there was an average of 5,000 to 6,000 seats available, exclusive of season-ticketholders, for early games. The stadium capacity is 28,318, and the Als sell no standing-room tickets.

The club has found also that after the first exhibition game 400 to 500 fans became new season-ticketholders. Season-ticket privilege has been kept open usually until after two league games.

When the fans are satisfied with their look-see at the team in early games, the list of season-ticketholders swells.

The Als have also taken steps whereby they hope to have full-season capacity crowds. There is to be no television, as heretofore, at the Als' home games from the Sherbrooke Channel 7 station. Montreal TV owners with outside antenna can receive the Sherbrooke station.

MAINLY FOR ALS

The new lighting system at Molson Stadium was installed by McGill primarily for benefit of the pro football tenants. The college season does not get under way until around Oct. 1.

The new lights replace a mediocre system that was unsuitable for regular games. It sufficed for practices of McGill's Redmen—the Als have another practice field—and for various minor out-door events.

There is another current problem facing the Als. They and Hamilton Tiger-Cats want to continue the little Big Four League, which had its inaugural season last year. Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders are reported wanting to drop out.

The Als feel the league serves an invaluable purpose in developing Canadian talent. Toronto and Ottawa have said the investment is too great for the returns.

In this connection, Red Fisher comments in his column in the Montreal Star: "They will spend thousands of dollars on American imports, many of whom have flopped with terrible thuds.

"Yet the teams won't invest what amounts to a few miserable dollars to develop players in a league which has a 25-year-old age limit."

"My boy friend sure recommended a good spot. He's the game warden, you know!"

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Two eligibles for the 100th running of the Queen's plate won the split features of Monday's racing at Old Woodbine.

Page Service, for owner H. J. Carmichael of St. Catharines, won the sixth race handily from Speedy Warrior with Doug's Serenade third.

The seventh race, the other half of the feature attractions, went to Regal Look, which was a handy winner over Pay Attention and Sir Choo.

Harness Racing

BATAVIA N.Y. (CP) — Kilte Lasalle, owned by William C. Woods of Chesley, Ont., and driven by Ed Arthur, captured the trotting feature on Monday nights' Batavia Downs program with a 2:06 mile and paid $23.90 to win. The pacing feature went to Tom Row Gil of Elba, N.Y., each was raced for $1,200 with class B performers.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Two of the canniest financial heads of hockeydom swapped dandruff in a money-tossing get-together the other day —and the outcome was the possibility of the Whitby Dunlops touring Europe next early winter.

One resided on the shoulders of that wily world tournament travel arranger, J. F. "Bunny" Ahearne, the other belonged to Wren Blair, whose recent fitness has not dulled the sharpness of his mental machinery.

"Bunny" had the proposed tour laid out in the best approved Ahearne manner, before he pulled on the gloves for the preliminary round. Blair, who is never out of training, was in his corner waiting for the opening gong.

Ahearne met with the proposal that the Allan Cup champions fly from Toronto to Stockholm to West Berlin, then to Prague, Zurich, Munich and Dusseldorf. He followed through with the suggestion the Dunnies visit Moscow and London.

He lightly jabbed with the additional proposal the Dunlops make the tour between October 20 and December 20.

Blair apparently is a strong believer in the operation of the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" league next winter. For he countered by pointing out his team had league commitments at home and a long overseas jaunt would be apt to put the league schedule out.

No sirree! The boys at home deserve some consideration. So nothing longer than a month, that of November, for the Dunnies to give the European fans another Canadian treat.

Then Ahearne shot across a financial right. He offered Blair 10,000 Swiss francs for a three hour tour of five countries, representing 50,000 francs for the four games planned for each country.

Blair took a five-count on this shot, probably to get time to figure how much was what at 4.25 Swiss francs to the dollar.

When his head cleared he countered sharply. He said he would consider 32,000 francs (roughly $8,000) for the four games in each country, or at least 120,000 francs, on a provincially likeable and a big western-game package series. He followed this up with the reiteration that he could not consider leaving Canada for more than one month.

And the city Dunnies' maestro, probably rolling his tongue over the fact that the National Anthem hasn't busted any European stadium walls with exuberant fans, suggested that the Dunnies, in view of their performance three years ago, such be a greater attraction than any other Canadian team.

Ahearne didn't duck that one. He rolled with the punch and countered with the statement that European fans were eager and anxious to see the Dunnies in action again.

However, the bout ended with a "no-decision" verdict.

Mr. Ahearne, in view of the 120,000 francs laid on the tour by Mr. Blair, decided he had better wait until he returned to Europe next week. There he will negotiate with the various interested parties to see what can be done about getting that $30,000 guarantee.

He left with the assurance, however, that if the guarantee is forthcoming, there would be little doubt about the Dunnies making the junket.

There is little doubt in this corner's mind that the guarantee will be available. The border-line success of the recent Rangers-Bruins professional tour can be attributed in part to the fact that the home-town boys were not playing.

The Dunnies, who like the McFarlands, made fine reputations for themselves and Canadian amateur hockey overseas, will pack 'em in in Prague, Zurich and Stockholm. And they won't be playing to empty pews in other centres either.

However, a tip of the chapeau to Marse Blair for his insistence in being away 3 months only—and in November. Senior hockey in Eastern Ontario is in a hazy mist at the present, but in case it emerges in some sort of organized form, friend Wren won't be doing it too much, if any, harm, by being absent-with-leave for the month of November.

Tigers Leave Janitor Job To Yankees Or Bosox

Leap up Ladder to No. 6 Spot After Whipping Kansas 4-3; 'Bums' Podres Blanks Giants

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

It looks as though Detroit Tigers have had their fill of the American League cellar, leaving it as a booby prize in a two-game Boston-New York series opening tonight at Yankee Stadium.

The Tigers, who closed a 38-day stay in eighth place by plunking the Yankees into the cellar last week, slipped back to the bottom by losing the first game of a Sunday doubleheader at Cleveland. But they gave it back to New York's world champions by winning the nightcap.

Monday night they could have crashed it again with a defeat, but instead, jumped to sixth place for the first time since the second day of the season with a three-run seventh-inning rally that beat Kansas City 4-3.

SHUFFLE STANDINGS

It was the only game scheduled in the league, but shook up the middle of the standings. While slipping Boston to seventh, the Detroit victory also dipped Kansas City to eighth in the six Washington-Baltimore games.

Gail Harris' two-run homer capped the Detroit rally that cracked a 13 tie over Ray Narleski, then came on in the ninth to save rookie Jerry Davie's first major league victory.

Dick Williams, who had three of the Athletics' hits, singled and scored on Harry Chiti's pinch triple that chased Davie. Narleski put the lead run on base by walking Hal Smith, then struck out Bill Tuttle and added it by getting Whitey Herzog on a pop up.

Hector Lopez gave the Athletics the lead with a solo home run in the fourth, but contributed an error as the Tigers broke through the shutout string of Roy Sievers-man (6-3) in the fifth. Detroit's catch-it-&-tie it on Red Wilson's single, Lopez' throwing the ball out, then won it in the seventh on a walk, an infield out, Rocky Bridges' single and Harris' fourth homer.

Whitt Defeats Balding, Player In Golf Playoff

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (CP) — Don Whitt shrugged under pressure to win the $25,000 Memphis Open golf tournament Monday by beating Canada's Al Balding and Gary Player of South Africa in a sudden-death playoff.

Whitt, from Borrego Springs, Calif., broke a four-year jinx in disposing of Balding on the first hole and Player on the second to grab $3,500 first-place money. It was the first time he had won a Professional Golfers' Association tournament since he joined the pro circuit in 1953.

Whitt, in trouble all the way on the course after losing his lead, fired a clutch birdie on the 18th hole to wind up tied with Player and Balding with a 72-hole total of 272.

MISSES 20-FOOTER

In the playoff Balding's second shot left him a 20-foot putt that he missed to go par four. Whitt and Player were down in birdie threes.

On the second hole, Player's approach went into a sand trap. He blasted out but missed a 10-foot putt and had a one-over-par five. Whitt was on in two, down in two.

"I knew I had to make that birdie on it," said Whitt. "When Player missed, I picked up there about three feet from the pin, I got that lucky feeling . . . boy, it's nice to win one."

Whitt came close to not winning once with a 67-71 over the 6,501-yard, 36-36-70 Colonial Country Club course. Player, from Johannesburg, and Balding from Toronto, shot three-under 67s to overtake him. They won $2,050 each.

Legion Plans Track Meet Regardless

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP) — The Legionaires of St. Lambert are going ahead with their monster track and field meet June 26-27 with or without official blessing as to its Canadian championship status.

The meet this year is to be tied in with the official opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, with distributions of special commemorative prizes.

General manager George Clark said Monday the track and field branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada now has directed that the meet be held July 4 if it is to have championship recognition.

The legion had expected, as heretofore, recognition in the junior, juvenile and midget classifications.

At the 85th annual meeting last Dec. 3 in Vancouver, the AAU awarded these championships to St. Lambert:

"We have always had this recognition for our track and field meets and we have always held it the last Friday and Saturday in June," Clark said.

"We see no reason to change now, especially since we have planned to open the seaway opening when the Queen and President Eisenhower will be in St. Lambert only a few hours before the meet starts. We'll have a head table and seats and other commemorative celebrations.

The meet is held annually by the Canadian Legion branch in St. Lambert, busy little city directly across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal.

In Hamilton, an AAU official said age-class championships in track and field events are held after July 10 to allow student competitors time to travel to the meet.

Neil Farrell of Hamilton, national track and field chairman, said the Legionnaires' meet could not be blessed with championship status unless the meet is held July 3-4.

Farrell said the annual meeting of the AAU in Vancouver last December awarded the championship to the Quebec branch of the union and not to St. Lambert.

Bosox Working On Player Deal

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox general manager Bucky Harris Friday said he is working on a five-for-five player trade but declined to name the players or team involved.

He did say, however, thats the trade involves front-line players.

"Nobody goes in a trade unless the stringers and second stringers aren't going to do anybody any good," he said.

The proposed shakeup came on the heels of Boston's worst home stand since the war. The Red Sox completed their home stand Sunday night, and finished with a 3-9 mark that dropped them to fifth in a tight scramble of the American League cellar.

Grant O'Reilly Loses Verdict

TORONTO (CP)—Klaus Bottcher of Toronto won a split decision Monday night over Grant O'Reilly of Oshawa in amateur boxing at Palace Pier.

It was revenge for the German-born lightweight — O'Reilly won by a technical knockout in their bout last week.

Crowds Vary In Baseball Major Leagues

NEW YORK (CP) — With approximately one-fourth of the season completed, all National League clubs except San Francisco Giants and Philadelphia Phillies are running behind their 1958 home attendance figures.

Through Sunday's games, the Giants showed an increase of 44,000 and the Phillies were down 20,000. The overall league decline was 243,000.

The American League, led by Cleveland Indians, is 142,000 ahead of last year. The Indians have drawn 266,004 customers compared with 118,361 in as many home dates in 1958.

Also ahead of last season are New York Yankees, Baltimore Orioles and Kansas City Athletics.

Marlene Under Physical Par After Winning First Tourney

ASCOT, England (CP) — Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit, pride of Canada's golfing women, was too tired to play her best Monday when she was defeated in the first round of the British women's amateur golf tournament, the captain of the Canadian team says.

Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Toronto disclosed shortly after Marlene's upset that the tiny shot-maker still was feeling the effects of her hard play last week in a handicap tournament at Wentworth last week.

But, she said, the rest of the Canadian team played well.

Mrs. McCarter, who had a bye in the first round and then advanced into the third by default, faces teammate Miss Milligan today.

"At least that will ensure there'll be a Canadian in the quarter-finals," she said.

Marlene Streit Wins First Tourney

On the other hand, played steady pressure golf against Marlene to sweep to a 4 and 3 win.

Five other Canadians moved into the third round — Roma Neundorf of Toronto, Mary Gay of Calgary, Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., Mrs. McCarter and Judy Darling of Montreal.

Veteran Ada Mackenzie won her opening round match but was defeated in the afternoon's second round 3 and 1 by Belle McKinlay of Britain.

"TIRED GOLF"

"Marlene was playing tired golf," said Mrs. McCarter. "She was tired out after her win in the handicap tournament at Wentworth last week."

But, she said, the rest of the Canadian team played well.

Mrs. McCarter, who had a bye in the first round and then advanced into the third by default, faces teammate Miss Milligan today.

STARTED SLOWLY

But Marlene got off to a slow start against Mrs. Thelma Brown of Bombay, India and never had a chance to recover. Mrs. Brown, fourth round," she said.

Europeans Liked Pro Hockey But Too Many Stayed Away

VIENNA, Austria (CP)—Murray Patrick says that the just-concluded European hockey tour of the New York Rangers and Boston Bruins was a "sportive success" but financially it was not altogether satisfactory.

The general manager of the Rangers told reporters that the National Hockey Leaguers are tired, "and they've got a right to be."

Of the 23 games played in Britain and on the continent, the Rangers won 11 and the Bruins nine. Three were ties. The tough part, both clubs found, was playing the whole exhibition in 27 days.

The games here last weekend wound up the tour and the teams will leave for home Wednesday after a brief respite in Switzerland.

"We think the tour was a sportive success," Patrick said Monday. "The boys played good hockey and the Europeans, who have little if any professional material, were impressed."

Among those most impressed were a group of Czechoslovak amateur players who came out from behind the Iron Curtain for eight hours to see the Rangers and Bruins work out in Vienna. The Czechs said the two NHL clubs would sweep European amateur teams off the ice.

As for the financial end of the tour, Patrick said:

"There were good crowds in Germany and Switzerland. But in other places, as in Vienna, the mild spring weather and out-of-season hockey didn't seem to have exerted much of a pull."

But the disappointing gate receipts didn't hurt the two teams in the pocketbook since they had been guaranteed $1,00 a player plus expenses for the tour.

The promoter of the tour, Omar Deinon of Switzerland, plans to bring over two more NHL clubs next spring. Deinon, a former European amateur hockey player for 15 years, blamed the unreasonable weather for poor turnouts that ranged from 11,000 to less than 500.

Others including members of the clubs have blamed poor advance publicity and high prices, ranging up to $7 for the best seats in Berlin.

The Europeans were a bit surprised at our kind of hockey with tough bodychecking," Patrick said. "But they soon realized that it was not unfair. The two teams had lots of fun with the series and there was plenty of rivalry between them, even though there were no bonuses for the winning side.

"We got plenty of crowd support though. We had the public address system announcer ask one side of the hall to cheer the Bruins, the other for the Rangers. Everyone loved it."

George (Red) Sullivan, broad-shouldered captain of the Rangers, said all the players enjoyed the junket and many of them felt they would like to spend a vacation in Europe "instead of rushing all over the place."

Sullivan, a native of Peterborough, said there was little time to really get to know the countries of their tour: England, Belgium, France, West Germany, Switzerland and Austria.

"But what we saw was pleasant. Girls are pretty and have good figures, the food was good and the crowds were friendly. They appeared to like us fine.

Outdoor Writers Would Ban Fishing Derbies

THESSALON (CP) — Canadian Outdoor Writers, meeting here at their annual convention Monday said commercial fishing derbies for prizes were contrary to the recreation and sport.

The writers, at the three-day outdoor writers of Canada convention, said the derbies should be halted because they were being held at the expense of game fish populations.

The group reorganized its association and formed provincial divisions.

Herb Smith, Waterloo Chronicle publisher, was re-elected to a third term as president. John McMurchy of Collingwood was named vice-president.

Directors include: Kit Kitney, Winnipeg Tribune; Joe Masko, Windsor Star; Pete McGillan, Toronto Telegram; Bob Turnbull, Toronto Globe and Mail; King Whyte, Toronto radio and television outdoors broadcaster; Les Morrow, Montreal, Rod and Gun Magazine, and Reg Fife, Boating Guide Magazine.

Five other directors will be named later.

RACING CAREER OVER

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—Vertex, handicap horse racing champion of the 1959 season, fractured a sesamoid bone in his left front ankle while winning the Camden Handicap Saturday and never will race again.

The injury is basically the same as the one which caused premature retirement of 1958 Kentucky Derby champion Tim Tam.

Vertex, five years old, had 25 races. He won 17, finished second three times, third once and had two fourths and two fifths. The big son of Rhymer-Kanace won a total of $454,714 of which $264,- went to co-owners Frank Piarulli and J.G. Brunetti this year alone.

Basilio Won't Fight Sept. 21 Says Robinson

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, trying to retain his middleweight crown until he can get an opponent in a ring, was quoted Monday as saying he was "absolutely positive" Carmen Basilio won't fight him here Sept. 21.

Robinson has signed a contract with a Philadelphia promoter and posted $10 000 forfeit money with the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission for a Basilio fight.

But the Syracuse, N.Y., battler who once wrested the title from Robinson hasn't agreed to terms, even though Sugar Ray and his backers have agreed to guarantee Carmen a minimum of $275,- 000.

Robinson said he'd fight Tiger Jones in a championship bout if Basilio refuses to sign. Jones beat Sugar Ray in 1955 when Robinson was on the comeback trail.

The National Boxing Commission already has stripped Robinson of his title and directed that Basilio and Gene Fullmer fight for the title.

Whip, Kiniski Little Beaver Here Friday

The question is what skullduggery will win it this time.

The point in question is the third set in the current duel for the British Empire wrestling crown between Whipper Billy Watson and Gene Kiniski.

The two tangle in their third Belleville meeting on Friday night, providing Little Beaver and his company of midgets leave enough of the referee to make the bout legal.

Whipper lost the first two decisions. One by being unable to whip two men at once on the second by sheer helzery and connivance on the part of Kiniski.

Friday night, the Whip said grimly, "It's going to be my way of doing business."

Little Beaver and his pal the Brown Panther team up against those fearsome halfpints Ski-Lo-Lo and Fuzzy Cupid in thirty minutes of high jinx while Hard-Boiled Haggerty is back to tangle with popular Wally Selber.

Credits Change-up Pitches For Best Effort of Career

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Left-hander Johnny Podres, the 1955 hero of Flatbush, credits increased use of a change-up pitch for the best performance of his career.

The 26-year-old Los Angeles Dodger southpaw didn't give San Francisco Giants a hit until one batter was out in the eighth Monday and went on to blank them 8-0, yielding just two singles.

That brought reminiscences of the world series of 1955 when the 190-pounder turned back the Yankees 8-3 after the American Leaguers had won the first two games. Then in the finale, Podres blanked the Yanks 2-0 on an eight-hitter, bringing Brooklyn its only world title.

SAYS ITS HIS BEST

Last year after the Dodgers moved to Los Angeles, Podres posted a 13-15 record but already this season he's 5-2 of the two-hitter, he says:

"That just had to be the best game I ever pitched. I threw the ball where I wanted it to go. I changed speeds real good."

Podres said manager Walt Alston and the coaching staff had urged him to use his change-up more often.

"I'd been firing mostly fast balls earlier this season and getting tired," declared the left-hander who had finished only one previous game. "So I decided to use the change of pace a lot, and it worked."

But with Willie Mays, he used only fast balls and retired him three straight times, once getting him to ch-hit into a double play.

FANS ALOU

Johnny blanked San Francisco lead-off hitter Felipe Alou four straight times and three other Giants went down on strikes.

"When I got Jack Brandt trying to bunt in the eighth, I really thought I had a no - hitter," Podres said afterward.

But Daryl Spencer, who against Podres had three hits in four times at bat, lined left field for a single and Bob Schmidt hit a one-base blow to left. Still Podres registered the first two-hitter of a career that started in 1953.

All told, the Dodger hurler faced just 29 batters.

Britain's Big Golf Weapons Swing Into Defensive Action

SANDWICH, Eng. (CP) — The big guns of Britain's golfing world swing into action today to try to keep the British amateur championship within the British Isles.

Defending champion Joe Carr of Ireland and English champion Guy Wolstenholme both had byes through Monday's first round, in which most of the attention necessarily centred on the play of the strong American contingent.

The main hope of the U.S. to overcome the power of Carr or Wolstenholme for the title lies with the players who made up the U.S. Walker Cup team that recently defeated Britain in that international tournament.

Charlie Coe, U.S. champion and captain of the Walker Cup team, and three of his teammates scored first-round victories—Jack Nicklaus, Billy Joe Patton and Bill Hyndman.

Tommy Aaron was the only U.S. Walker Cupper to lose. A surprising loss was Britain's Gerald Micklem's defeat.

Micklem was captain of Britain's Walker Cup team, but has had little chance to practise recently.

Leafs Make Mound Swap

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, last-place team in the International League, Monday picked up one pitcher and lost another.

Signed was George Susce of Detroit Tigers, 26-year-old veteran of four years in the majors who was cut by Detroit but refused to report to their Charleston farm team.

Called back up to Cleveland to be sent on to Washington Senators of the American League was Hal Woodeshick, a lefthander with a 3-1 record with Leafs this season.

Woodeshick was optioned here by Cleveland Indians at the end of the season. Indians are sending him and catcher Hal Naragon to Washington for catcher Ed FitzGerald.

Hammerin' Hank Has Blistering .461 Average

NEW YORK — Hank Aaron Braves outfielder, holds a whopping 93-point over Smoky Burgess of Pittsburgh in the National League batting race. After 36 games, Aaron has a blistering .461 average against .368 for Burgess.

Harvey Kuena of Detroit paces the American League with an even .400 average. Nellie Fox of Chicago White Sox remained in second place with .363.

Eddie Mathews of the Braves leads the National League in homers with 14. Aaron is second with 12. Harmon Killebrew of Washington leads the American League home-run hitters with 15, two more than Cleveland's Rocky Colavito.

Former French Tennis Hero Still Active

PARIS (AP) — France's oldest tennis hero, Jean Borotra, still is bouncing around the clay courts of Roland Garros Stadium where he dominated French international tournaments in the 1920s.

The 60-year-old veteran, who admits "I only play well about half the time," has teamed with young Marie-Odile Bonnet to reach the third round of the mixed doubles of the French tennis championships. His precise placements combined with his partner's vigor for a winning combination.

Doubles are the only big-time competition for Borotra, who still favors long flannels and pauses between games to wipe off his glasses.

"Stand just 20 inches from the net; repeat it over and over to yourself," he told his pigtailed partner.

Borotra says he will keep playing until a doctor tells him to quit. His record stretches back to 1924 when he first won the French and Wimbledon titles. He has played 30 Davis Cup matches for France, helping his country win the cup six years in a row from 1927 to 1932.

LIBERALS OBJECT

ship of interprovincial gas and oil pipelines. Speaker Roland Michener ruled the motion out of order.

In moving the motion, Murdo Martin (CCF-Timmins) said the board will be like a Punch and Judy show—the board will be out front doing the dancing and the government will be behind pulling the strings."

There was nothing in the legislation by which Parliament could deal with "Texas and Atlantic types" of the latter being in the Progressive Conservative cabinet of that province.

How could the board act independently when the bill had provisions that the cabinet would have final authority to approve or disapprove certificates permitting construction and operation of pipelines and exports and import of gas and electricity?

EXPLAINS REASON

Trade Minister Churchill during debate on the bill last week had said the government wanted the power for the cabinet in case it had to act quickly on that matter, although it felt no need for such action at present.

At Monday's opening, a hassle arose over the government's decision against producing minutes of last August's advisory committee despite the fact —as Paul Martin (C-Essex East) had made a point of bringing up — that Labor Minister Starr last week said the request was "unreasonable."

During the ruckus, Prime Minister Diefenbaker rose to protest a remark by J. W. Pickersgill (Bonavista-Twillingate). He, went on protesting that even after Speaker Michener —the arbiter of debate—asked the prime minister to wait until all talks.

In another Commons development H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) suggested — and Works Minister Green agreed to introduce the enabling legislation at this session if unanimous consent—that a lurid purious summer home at Harrington Lake, 18 miles north of the capital in the Gatineau Hills, be provided as an official country residence for Canadian prime ministers.

Two Action Technicolor Features—"From The Earth To The Moon" and "Enchanted Island"

Today's headlines flashing the news of rocket-to-the-moon are reflected on the screen, in one of the timeliest motion pictures of this generation. The front page film, "From The Earth To The Moon" is based on Jules Verne's spectacular forecast.

Joseph Cotten, George Sanders and Debra Paget are co-starred in the new Technicolor picture from Warner Bros.

Verne's story, regarded as sheer fantasy in the Victorian era, deals with the launching and space flight of a projectile. Rivalry between the earth's inventors, Joseph Cotten and George Sanders, financier, brings a threat of disaster to the enterprise. Suspenseful romantic twist to the action is furnished by Miss Paget, seen as a stowaway on the fabulous moon-missile.

"From the Earth To the Moon" is one of two action Technicolor features playing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

ENCHANTED ISLAND

Color Thriller

Another great Herman Melville novel, "Typee", is the story Warner Bros. production in Technicolor, the 2nd Feature attraction at the Belle Theatre, Patricia Neal and Don Dubbins, are co-starred in the lush Technicolor adventure drama.

Directed by Allan Dwan, the picture is filled with suspense, told by the plot of the famous book "Enchanted Island", deals with the exotic adventuring of two American seamen, who desert a whaling ship in South Pacific Port".

One complete show will be presented tonight. "From The Earth To The Moon" beginning at 8.35 at the Belle Theatre.

Remarkably Few Bloopers By Executives During Strike

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The recent strike of television technicians against NBC-TV found many a network executive handling cameras and audio with remarkably few bloopers.

True, there was the morning religious-service on the network's New York station when solemn religious music was supposed to come on—and instead the audience heard the commercial for a product, that unplugs stopped sinks.

But old hands reminisce about many more embarrassing moments in television's history.

Whatever became of the weather announcer who forecast "Portions of this film were on this program"? Or the fellow who said "in 10 seconds NBC presents Pinky Lee"?

A good man always triumphs over a faulty prop or lingering camera, however.

DIDN'T STOP HIM

Art Carney refused to be frustrated on a Jackie Gleason show when the door to the Gleason apartment wouldn't open. With style of television technicians, he stepped through a glassless window.

And Jack Leonelle has stopped blushing over the time on the Today show when he thought he was off camera at the end of a men's undershirt commercial. The home audience was tickled to observe him tickling the male torso dummy in the ribs with a "Hickey-Kickey-Knee."

On the other hand, no one can remember the name of the actor in an early TV drama who forgot his lines while playing a scene in an airplane in flight. He disappeared off camera, muttering, "I think I'll get off here."

VISOR SNAPS

And what was the name of the actor who was supposed to build a fire—and couldn't—and snarled, "damn wood"? Or the poor fellow supposed to be fighting a bandsaw duel in armor whose visor snapped shut so that he couldn't see a thing not even that the head of his axe had dropped off?

In bygone days many a copper has risen and coolly walked away, believing he was off camera.

Mexican Beauty Katy Jurado Opens New World for Marty

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "You can't realize how much my life has changed. I used to be shy and afraid to talk to people. I'm so much happier now. A whole new world has opened up for me."

These words came from a man in love. If they sound somewhat Marty-like, it's only natural. The man is Ernest Borgnine. The love of his life is Mexican actress Katy Jurado.

"Katy and I will be married in September. Just as soon as my divorce becomes final," he announced. "We'll have a civil ceremony here and a church wedding in Mexico." The latter is possible, he said, because her first marriage was to a divorced man and his was to a non-Roman Catholic.

After the wedding, they will make their home in Mexico and maintain an apartment here for when they are making movies.

LIKES MEXICO

"We've got a lot in Cuernavca and another in Acapulco, and we plan to build one on both," he said. "I like living down there.

"The Mexican people have a way of life that is entirely different from ours. Here, we work like crazy, we get the traffic on the freeway, we hurry home for that before-dinner martini so we can calm our nerves.

"Life isn't that rushed in Mexico. The people there know how to relax and enjoy the pleasant things of living. I go down there tense and keyed up from working. Soon I've learned to take it easy.

"When I visited Katy's parents to ask for her hand, I got up in the morning and made my bed and straightened the room. She had to tell me never to do it again. I was making the servants very unhappy."

Whether Ernie will have time to enjoy the manana life is problematical. In the last few months he has gone from making The Rabbit Trap here to Summer of the 17th Doll in Australia to Man on a String in Berlin.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, May 23

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be sure to get out into the bustling, progressive world of affairs, today, since you are full of dynamism and can put across many a fine deal. Then fine for making out reports, statements, etc. P. M. stay home and avoid emotional upset.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Stick to all rules and regulations now and concentrate on increasing income and soundness, for higher up is out of sorts and could easily turn on you if you are slightly out of bounds. Safeguard good name, credit, etc. P. M. set up better budget.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Fine day for increasing your fund of knowledge, particularly in matters alien to you now. Get interesting people, too. Do keep your nose to the grindstone to such an extent that you lose out on some fine chance coming your way now.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Impress vital persons with your ability to follow advice of experts in financial affairs while still maintaining perfect equilibrium where entertainment is concerned. In this way your life's course flows along successfully and pleasantly.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be wise and steer clear of that altercation between a family kin and a stranger. It will soon blow over and you must be neutral since both mean much to you. Later, be in the company of loyal comrades for added success. Be very friendly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Take care not to fall in with ideas of fellow worker who would have you spend a great deal on gadgets and machinery that you cannot afford right now. Then do a bit of shopping around yourself, get information, confer with experts.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Forget worrying about finances today and devote your time to making loved ones happy by taking in the sports or activities that they enjoy the most, and which you yourself should be indulged in. Play a little and relax.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be off service to others today, particularly closest of kin. Then if you need good advice, you will be able to put all of your affairs in excellent shape. P.M. is ideal for going out with fascinating person, dining, etc.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Excellent day for getting a good contract, adding to your income in some tangible way. Meet with whomever is important to you right now. By being occupied you put out of your mind that private worry that has so upset you. Rest P.M.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A clever comrade gives you the benefit of an idea which is not along the lines that you understand. So, it is best to go along using the methods you know, but show gratitude for thoughtfulness and lot of friendship.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It's all right today to have fun and entertainment at best spots. Tonight it is best you relax and restore your energies.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Anything you consider to be the right thing you should do today is fine, but take care you do not plunge too heavily and lose security. Nor must you take on what will prove to be too much for your physical stamina.

If your child is born today ... The intelligent child born today will have an exceptional mentality, which is ever alive and searching for something, or something to do. It is up to you to see that your progress does not get involved in too much, especially along the mechanical line, since intellectual pursuits are the forte here. Give as fine an education as pocketbook allows. Great chart for the actor, speaker, writer.

DIVORCEE SLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—The bruised, nightgown-clad body of a 34-year-old divorcee, her neck broken, was found in her bedroom Sunday. The victim, Mrs. Susan Hansen, was mother of three small children and a daughter of a socially prominent physician, Dr. George E. Shambaugh Jr.

Claims $350,000 From 2 Firms For Accident

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Gerald J. Pelletier, 38, began suit in Supreme Court here on Monday, claiming $350,000 from two insurance companies with which he held accident policies.

London and Lancashire Guarantee and Accident Company of Canada and R. S. Stevenson, attorney in Canada for nonmarine underwriters (members of Lloyd's), are contesting the claim, seeking proof to the satisfaction of a civil jury that the shooting was accidental.

The doctor claims he was insured for $700,000 by three policies held with the two firms. They provided he would get half the amount on loss of a limb through "accidental means."

Dr. Pelletier said in his statement that an accidental discharge from a 12-gauge shotgun blasted his left leg while he was manoeuvring an open boat on Rice Lake last Oct. 4 with his son, Hickey, 14, was with him. The leg was subsequently amputated below the knee.

Charles Clay, a Rice Lake hunting lodge operator, testified that Dr. Pelletier told him of his rent in advance and said he was going so "someone will never know what will happen."

The case is continuing.

Oxygen Tank Falls on Child

HAMILTON (CP)—Betty Anne Golino 4, died of a fractured skull Monday night when a 100-pound oxygen tank fell on her in her father's garage.

Mario Galino said he was cleaning windows in the garage with his daughter playing nearby. He heard so sound but turned to see her lying unconscious with the welding tank across her.

settled or who took the initiative —Lloyd or Gromyko. Neither side had wanted to be blamed for going into private discussions and seeming to back away from the position of German reunification.

The secret talks thus will start upon resumption of the conference after a two-day recess, and rival Western and Communist proposals for a stop-gap solution on Berlin crises were taking shape.

REPORT DEVELOPMENTS

Meanwhile, Western diplomats reported these developments:

British, American, French and West German experts are bringing up to date the agreement governing Big-Four control of divided Berlin. The idea is to adapt it to serve as a basis for a new accord.

Britain, German officials, clearly with Russian consent, are circulating informally a plan for a new Berlin deal that calls for Western recognition of the East German regime's authority in and around parts of the city.

Informants stressed the Western powers have yet to agree on precise proposals to offer the Russians, with much depending on the readiness the Communists show in negotiating a workable and acceptable deal.

The Sopwith Camel, famous battle plane of World War One. This aircraft along with other authentic noted planes will be exhibited at Trenton Air Force Day next Saturday. Visitors to the airshow are permitted to take their cameras and take pictures of four special planes which have been set aside for this purpose.

53 Aircraft Will Participate in Airshow

A total of fifty-three aircraft representing four Commands of the RCAF will take part in the Air Force Day mass fly-past at Station Trenton. The Argus and Neptune from Maritime Command, C-119 Flying Boxcars and North Stars from Transport Command; and CF 100's with F86 Sabres from Defence Command will be visiting Trenton. These aircraft will be supplemented by Dakotas, Expeditors, Otters, Chipmunks, Harvards, Mitchells and Canso from Training Command. In addition Training Command will feature T-33 formation flying as well as helicopter hoists and the popular Canso JATO take-off.

Part of the Air Transport Command display will include a demonstration supply drop as well as live para-rescue jumps. Formation flying by a team of Chipmunks from Station Centralia and Harvards from FIS Trenton will also form part of the show.

Another of the outstanding thrills of the afternoon will appear in the person of Flight Lieutenant "Windy Windgrer and his T-33 solo manoeuvres. The "Red Knight" has put together a dazzling display of aerobatics and this event is being looked forward to with much anticipation by airmen and civilians alike.

To illustrate the theme of this year's airshow, Chipmunks from Station Centralia will stage on an exhibition of sky-writing using the symbols "50" and "35" representing the golden anniversary of flight in Canada and the thirty-fifth birthday of the R.C.A.F. respectively.

A flying farewell to Training Command and Air Vice Marshall Bryans will be presented by the FIS Harvard formation team numbering twenty-one aircraft which will combine to form the letters "TC". The Harvards will also offer a salute to the departing commanding officer of Station Trenton, Group Captain Cox, when they combine to form the letters "CO".

The stirring climax to the air display will become airborne at 4 o'clock in the persons of the Golden Hawks aerobatic team and their custom-painted Sabres. The team under the Command of Wing Commander J. F. Easton and capsained by Squadron Leader "Fern Villeneuve has been under intensive training for several months at Station Chatham and the Trenton engagement will mark the launching of a busy trans-Canada tour covering the major Air Force Day ceremonies at R.C.A.F. units as well as major civilian fairs and exhibitions.

Four Hawks will combine in a box formation performing precision aerobatics in the first segment of the finale. In addition, two solo Hawks will execute a series of breath-taking manoeuvres well calculated to keep the crowd on its toes. In all, the Golden Hawks airshow is a precision flying demonstration to be seen by one and all, and constitutes a fitting tribute to the pioneers of Canadian aviation honored by the Golden Anniversary of Flight.

Find Raul Castro Safe After Plane Lands In Swamp

Cuba Premier's Brother Was Hunting for Copter

HAVANA (AP) — Raul Castro, Premier Fidel Castro's flamboyant younger brother, was safe today after walking away from a plane crash in the swamps of south central Cuba.

Raul and his crew of three airmen were reported in good spirits. They crashed Tuesday during an aerial search mission.

Raul, Cuba's military chief, plunked down in a swampy marsh in the Ensenada de la Broa area south of Cienaga Zapata.

The four abandoned their plane and headed for the coast along the bank of the river Hatiguanico. Peasants helped guide them out of the swamps.

A helicopter spotted Raul and his companions this morning. It headed for the area and the men were picked up by four navy launches at the mouth of the river.

Raul Castro, 28-year-old commander-in-chief of Cuba's revolutionary armed forces, disappeared Tuesday after a flight from Havana with three aides in a light plane in search for the missing helicopter of air force commander Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz.

Fidel Castro, already in the air on a search for another helicopter and found Diaz and his two companions alongside their downed craft. They were unhurt.

GOOD HOUR'S GAS

Later, the prime minister personally took over the search for his brother, once plane had spotted enough gas for an hour's flying.

Raul's light plane took off for Cienaga de Zapata on the fringe of swamplands 120 miles southeast of Havana.

Troops were sent into the area and peasants joined in the search. Bad weather closed in during the night, forcing a suspension of the hunt by air.

Raul has been his brother's closest collaborator in the guerrilla they launched July 26, 1953, that led to the overthrow of dictator Fulgencio Batista on New Year's Day.

When Fidel became prime minister in February he named Raul to succeed him as commander-in-chief of the armed forces and publicly designated him to lead the revolution if anything should happen to him.

Some of Raul's associates are Communists and he himself has been accused of being a Red. He has not denied the charge although Fidel has denied it for him.

PRIME MINISTER ASKS HOUSE TO PASS ENERGY BILL

Promises Speedy Export Licences

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker is on record with two promises of speedy consideration of applications to the new national energy board for export of gas and oil.

He told the Commons Tuesday that the board will be set immediately Parliament approves legislation now before the House and indicated it will process at once several export applications.

In general examination of export applications has been made by the trade department," he said during debate on the legislation.

CCF MANOEUVRE

As debate on the bill to set up the board entered the fifth day, the CCF made another bid to block it, moving that the whole subject matter be referred to the Commons railways committee.

An earlier attempt to postpone passage in favor of public ownership of natural gas pipelines was ruled out of order Monday.

In a 70-minute speech, Prime Minister Diefenbaker replied to opposition charges that the bill which empowers the proposed five-member board to regulate pipeline tolls and the export and import of gas, electricity and oil, if the cabinet so decides, oil.

Concerning Opposition Leader Pearson's charge that there was no assurance of Canadian participation in oil and gas lines, Mr. Diefenbaker said the board has to take into consideration "ownership" and Canadians will have a chance to join in building, operating and financing pipelines.

The board would be able to "watch any conditions it sees fit to a licence to build and operate a pipeline.

In moving his amendment that the energy bill will not be given second reading — approved at in principle — Arnold Peters (CCF-Timiskaming) complained that the bill lacks protection for those who cannot afford to take shares in the companies created by pipeline construction. The motion will be disposed of later.

Wife, Daughter Of Red Attache Sought in London

LONDON (AP)—The wife and five-year-old daughter of a Soviet naval attache were reported missing in London today.

The woman was named as Mrs. Nina Gouriev, 35. She vanished with her daughter, Lena, Saturday, Scotland Yard said.

Mrs. Dimitriev is the wife of Capt. Alexander Gouriev, a naval assistant attache at the Soviet Embassy.

Scotland Yard and the foreign office refused immediate comment. But a Soviet Embassy foreign office was believed preparing to issue a statement later today.

Premier Tells How His Govt. Overcame Energy Shortage

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Frost says Ontario's foresight in encouraging projects to move western gas and oil to the province averted the "awesome nightmare" of an energy shortage in Canada's industrial centre.

The premier, campaigning Tuesday for the June 11 general election, said "history will judge the dedication of Canadian oil and gas to Canadian use as one of the foundations of Canada's economic and political independence."

"It is a turning point in our history."

He spoke to 900 persons attending the opening of a $27,000,000 refinery at Bronte, 10 miles northwest of Hamilton. The plant of Cities Service Oil Company will use 20,000 barrels a day of Alberta oil from the interprovincial pipeline.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer ended his brief tour of southwestern Ontario and flew back to Toronto Tuesday to deliver a free-time political telecast on the CBC in which he outlined his party's election policies.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald was on the reverse route, flying to the Lakehead where he began his first northern swing. He told a Fort Arthur audience mining companies are being allowed to "run wild" in Ontario.

Mr. Frost told how in 1945 the threat of a fuel shortage gripped the nation. Canadian lines had been built to bring western fuels to Today, the awesome nightmare of a shortage of energy upon which the very lifeblood of this country depended — which threatened us only 10 years ago — is banished, the percent of its parity workers at an arena meeting and urged them to spread "the gospel of our party's progress, confidence and experience."

The Conservatives were confident that "the next 10 years will be even more spectacular than the last 10 years."

He wound up his day with another "meet the cabinet" appearance as a free-time CBC telecast. Highways Minister Case, Travel Minister Cathcart, Health Minister Dymond, Mines Minister Michaud and Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender outlined the work of their departments.

Mr. MacDonald directed most of his speech against D. W. Arnup, president of Abitibi Power and Paper Company, who he said was supporting the Liberals because of their promise to eliminate the logging tax.

The CCF leader said Mr. Frost had indicated he might consider revision of the logging tax and said the premier was being badly "led" by Mr. Arnup's threats.

The CCF would force major newsprint industries like Abitibi to build public roads into their cutting areas and would take away forest licences sections the companies left undeveloped.

Break in Cable Delays Ships In Welland Canal

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — Heavy traffic and a break downed at lock 5 of the Welland ship canal Tuesday morning, has resulted in heavy delay to vessel-passages through the canal, with some down-bound ships having held up as long as 10 to 12 hours.

A cable broke in one of the gates of lock 5 at Thorold and only one side of the flight locks could be used.

Tuesday afternoon 18 ships were waiting on outer Port Colborne harbor or out on Lake Erie to make the downbound passage. Nine vessels were waiting this morning.

Since April 27, when the first ocean-going freighter came up the Welland Canal, a total of 197 sailies have made the up-bound passage with 92 of them having entered so far, included in this number if the Ramon Determined which is on its second trip up the lakes.

TO MEET EATON

OTTAWA (CP) — Amassap Aroulusian, Russian ambassador to Canada, and Cyrus Eaton, Nova Scotia-born Cleveland industrialist, will meet at N.B. in June. Mr. Eaton, long-time advocate of a settlement of differences by the Communist and non-Communist countries, will be speaker at the opening meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Soviet ambassador will be a head table guest.

Nikita Threatens To Put Missile Bases In Albania

Would Counter U.S. Bases in Greece, Italy

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev says the Soviet Union is ready to set up rocket bases in Albania and Bulgaria to match any the United States may establish in Italy or Greece.

The Soviet premier, visiting Albania, repeated an earlier Soviet proposal for a ban on nuclear weapons in the Balkan Peninsula to make it "a peninsula of peace without any missiles or nuclear weapons."

He warned Italy and Greece that U.S. rockets bases on their territory "would attract our rockets as a magnet."

"These bases are clearly spearheaded against the Soviet Union, against Albania and other socialist countries," he said in a speech Tuesday in Tirana, the Albanian capital.

ITALY ACCEPTS MISSILES

Albania has a common frontier with Greece. It is only 100 or so miles across the Adriatic from Italy. The Italians have agreed to accept U.S. intermediate-range missiles which can carry nuclear warheads, and are expected to begin getting them by early July.

There has been no word of a similar Greek agreement with the United States and Greece, although the Greek premier has agreed the Greek army will get American training in the use of nuclear missiles and other modern weapons.

Khrushchev tempered his warnings with the declaration that "we consider the international situation is not on the brink of war, even say it is good."

But Khrushchev gave no indication that the Soviet Union would budge much from the firm position on disarmament that it has taken at the Geneva foreign ministers conference.

The Soviet premier once again plumped for a summit meeting and said it is irrelevant to him where it was held.

Moving-Making Not For Liz After Three More

LONDON (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor said Tuesday she plans to give up her movie-making roles — after two or three or four more pictures — that is.

"I'm committed to two or three more movies and I may make a few more," she told reporters on arrival by plane with husband Eddie Fisher. "After that I'm going to be a plain housewife and mother."

With the couple were the film star's three children by previous marriages — Christopher Wilding, 4; Elizabeth Todd, 10 months.

STROLLER WOUNDED

Mounted police Sergeant Agnes Kneeland, 70, was nicked in the neck by a .22-calibre slug Tuesday while strolling in the Royal Botanical Gardens and two 17-year-old youths were held for questioning. Her injury was not serious.

Nine Injured In Bus Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Six children, three of them passengers on a homeward-bound school bus, and three adults were injured—none severely — Tuesday in a collision involving the bus and two automobiles in suburban Amherst.

Police said the school bus was carrying 40 kindergarten pupils.

The collision with an automobile at an intersection and the force of the impact sent the school bus into a second automobile, police said.

Lester E. Cofran, principal of the Williamsville Academy Elementary School, said the bus driver, Mrs. Mary Maxine Rathke 47, prevented a possible panic after the accident.

Khrushchev Pays Dulles Tribute

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev unexpectedly said that John Foster Dulles was "a distinguished political figure."

Diefenbaker radio said Khrushchev told an Albanian Communist rally in Tirana Tuesday that differences existed between Dulles and the Soviet Union on international issues, but he nevertheless paid tribute to Dulles as a man and statesman who represented the U.S. government on his death.

Philip Did Not Play Practical Joke on Newsmen

LONDON (CP) — Buckingham Palace denied today that Prince Philip was responsible for a practical joke for which he has been blamed in newspaper criticism.

It happened Monday at the Chelsea flower show. Two press photographers were walking across a lawn to take pictures of the Queen and Philip, who were there to open the exhibition.

Philip was nearby in a control room from which a concealed sprinkler system under the lawn could be operated. Suddenly the sprinklers sprang to life and the two cameramen and their cameras were drenched.

Newspapers reported that it was Philip who pressed the button, but a palace spokesman said: "We do not know who did."

The Evening Star in a front-page editorial headed Not So Funny criticized the prince.

The Daily Express columnist Wallace Lockyear and Mark Seymour of the London Press Exchange moved into position to take a picture of the Queen. Philip was standing by the control panel of the sprinkler system.

ONT. ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS ARE CRITICIZED

Combines Report Recommends Action

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal combines report today recommended court action, if necessary, to halt attempts by the Electrical Contractors Association of Ontario to restrict competition in the sale of electrical equipment and material in the province.

It also recommended a change in a union agreement between some Toronto electrical contractors and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (CLC) to prevent the agreement from being used for that purpose.

The report also said the association should abandon "efforts to restrict entry of competent persons or firms into the electrical contracting field."

The report by the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission was made public by Justice Minister Fulton. He said he will consider what further steps will be appropriate in the light of the commission's findings.

SAY BOYCOTT IMPLIED

The commission found that the policy of the association, backed by "an implied threat of a joint boycott" by manufacturers and suppliers, is that electrical contractors should be supplied materials and equipment used in carrying out contracts.

And in cases where the contractors do not supply the materials, the policy was that they should get a commission or allowance equal to the profit they would otherwise make on the goods.

PM Will Take Part in Official Start in Construction for Dam

SASKATOON (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker was to drive to nearby Outlook today for the official start of construction of the South Saskatchewan River dam.

He was to set off a dynamite blast to mark the occasion. Some work has been going on since last fall on the project, 10 miles southwest of here, since last fall.

Preliminary blastings included a flypast by jet planes from the RCAF station at Saskatoon, an airplane survey of Saskatchewan province and induction of Mr. Diefenbaker into the Sioux Indian tribe by Chief Harry Little Crow of nearby Dundurn.

The federal and provincial governments agreed last summer on construction of the $184,000,000 irrigation, power, and recreation project after years of bickering.

The province is paying one-quarter of the cost of the dam itself, about $24,000,000, plus the cost of irrigation and power installations. Actual construction is by the PFRA farm rehabilitation administration.

The dam will be three miles long and 240 feet high, impounding 8,000,000-acre feet of water.

It will provide 70 to 90 years of finish. At least 50,000 acres of land must be ready to irrigate by the time the dam is done. The dam will irrigate 10 times that much.

Engineers say a better spot couldn't have been picked for a dam. This spring has been exceptionally dry and many ditches in the Outlook area are filled with water for the first time in months. Some farmers have shown opposition to the idea of irrigation, fearing which will require a new set of skills and will cause many big farmers to reduce their holdings.

Day Russia Set as Deadline For Berlin Change Is Quiet

BERLIN (AP) — The day the Russians had set for the Western Allies to get out of West Berlin dawned today with traffic moving in an out without interuption.

Inspections showed that Russia still were manning check points on rail and road connections to the city. In other words, the Russians were sticking by the four-power agreement on Berlin which Premier Khrushchev already had postponed the deadline indefinitely. The Soviet Embassy in East Berlin assured the West that the Kremlin wouldn't renege.

"I must disappoint those who expect to get bravery medals," said Mayor Willy Brandt. "May it will be like any other day."

Six months ago today—on Nov. 27—the Soviet premier called for an end to the occupation of Berlin and withdrawal of the allied military garrisons from, West Berlin.

He said that in six months the Russians would give East Germany's Communist regime control over allied military traffic between West Germany and West Berlin. Communist-surrounded western half of the city.

The Western allies, who refuse to recognize or deal with the East German government, rejected Khrushchev's demand. There was talk of an armed convoy or a new airlift to counter any transfer of traffic control to the East Germans.

Fears subsided when the West and the Russians agreed to negotiate.

As the day advanced, there was no indication of any steady flow of traffic by road, rail or plane in and out of West Berlin. Newspapermen of both East and West Berlin reminded readers that Khrushchev had not cancelled his threat to West Berlin but had only postponed action.

Funeral of Dulles Gives Diplomats Chance to Confer With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and State Secretary Christian A. Herter will discuss the Geneva conference negotiations with the foreign ministers of Russia, Britain and France today.

The president and Herter today arranged a White House conference for 10:30 a.m. EDT, Thursday.

They will meet with the Soviet Union's Andrei Gromyko, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and France's Maurice Couve de Murville.

The Geneva negotiations have been in progress since early April in efforts to resolve East-West differences.

The White House announced shortly after their arrival that Eisenhower will give a White House luncheon for the three big power visitors—Gromyko, Lloyd and de Murville.

Also attending, along with Herter, will be visiting high officials of other governments.

The Big Four ministers pressed their Geneva conference on the German problem for the journey here.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, another who made the long journey to Paris, is due to have a local war co-worker, had a scheduled appointment with Eisenhower.

Ahead of Adenauer, Eisenhower had a penultimate conference with Australia's Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, who arrived in the U.S. on other business but sent some of it aside to confer with Menzies strongly favors an East-West summit conference.

Premier Tells How His Govt. Overcame Energy Shortage

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Frost says Ontario's foresight in encouraging projects to move western gas and oil to the province averted the "awesome nightmare" of an energy shortage in Canada's industrial centre.

The premier, campaigning Tuesday for the June 11 general election, said "history will judge the dedication of Canadian oil and gas to Canadian use as one of the foundations of Canada's economic and political independence."

"It is a turning point in our history."

He spoke to 900 persons attending the opening of a $27,000,000 refinery at Bronte, 10 miles northwest of Hamilton. The plant of Cities Service Oil Company will use 20,000 barrels a day of Alberta oil from the interprovincial pipeline.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer ended his brief tour of southwestern Ontario and flew back to Toronto Tuesday to deliver a free-time political telecast on the CBC in which he outlined his party's election policies.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald was on the reverse route, flying to the Lakehead where he began his first northern swing. He told a Fort Arthur audience mining companies are being allowed to "run wild" in Ontario.

Mr. Frost told how in 1945 the

Break in Cable Delays Ships In Welland Canal

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — Heavy traffic and a break downed at lock 5 of the Welland ship canal Tuesday morning, has resulted in heavy delay to vessel-passages through the canal, with some down-bound ships having held up as long as 10 to 12 hours.

A cable broke in one of the gates of lock 5 at Thorold and only one side of the flight locks could be used.

Tuesday afternoon 18 ships were waiting on outer Port Colborne harbor or out on Lake Erie to make the downbound passage. Nine vessels were waiting this morning.

Since April 27, when the first ocean-going freighter came up the Welland Canal, a total of 197 sailies have made the up-bound passage with 92 of them having entered so far, included in this number if the Ramon Determined which is on its second trip up the lakes.

TO MEET EATON

OTTAWA (CP) — Amassap Aroulusian, Russian ambassador to Canada, and Cyrus Eaton, Nova Scotia-born Cleveland industrialist, will meet at N.B. in June. Mr. Eaton, long-time advocate of a settlement of differences by the Communist and non-Communist countries, will be speaker at the opening meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Soviet ambassador will be a head table guest.

Day Russia Set as Deadline For Berlin Change Is Quiet

BERLIN (AP) — The day the Russians had set for the Western Allies to get out of West Berlin dawned today with traffic moving in an out without interuption.

Inspections showed that Russia still were manning check points on rail and road connections to the city. In other words, the Russians were sticking by the four-power agreement on Berlin which Premier Khrushchev already had postponed the deadline indefinitely. The Soviet Embassy in East Berlin assured the West that the Kremlin wouldn't renege.

"I must disappoint those who expect to get bravery medals," said Mayor Willy Brandt. "May it will be like any other day."

Six months ago today—on Nov. 27—the Soviet premier called for an end to the occupation of Berlin and withdrawal of the allied military garrisons from, West Berlin.

He said that in six months the Russians would give East Germany's Communist regime control over allied military traffic between West Germany and West Berlin. Communist-surrounded western half of the city.

The Western allies, who refuse to recognize or deal with the East German government, rejected Khrushchev's demand. There was talk of an armed convoy or a new airlift to counter any transfer of traffic control to the East Germans.

Fears subsided when the West and the Russians agreed to negotiate.

As the day advanced, there was no indication of any steady flow of traffic by road, rail or plane in and out of West Berlin. Newspapermen of both East and West Berlin reminded readers that Khrushchev had not cancelled his threat to West Berlin but had only postponed action.

Funeral of Dulles Gives Diplomats Chance to Confer With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and State Secretary Christian A. Herter will discuss the Geneva conference negotiations with the foreign ministers of Russia, Britain and France today.

The president and Herter today arranged a White House conference for 10:30 a.m. EDT, Thursday.

They will meet with the Soviet Union's Andrei Gromyko, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and France's Maurice Couve de Murville.

The Geneva negotiations have been in progress since early April in efforts to resolve East-West differences.

The White House announced shortly after their arrival that Eisenhower will give a White House luncheon for the three big power visitors—Gromyko, Lloyd and de Murville.

Also attending, along with Herter, will be visiting high officials of other governments.

The Big Four ministers pressed their Geneva conference on the German problem for the journey here.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, another who made the long journey to Paris, is due to have a local war co-worker, had a scheduled appointment with Eisenhower.

Ahead of Adenauer, Eisenhower had a penultimate conference with Australia's Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, who arrived in the U.S. on other business but sent some of it aside to confer with Menzies strongly favors an East-West summit conference.

Philip Did Not Play Practical Joke on Newsmen

LONDON (CP) — Buckingham Palace denied today that Prince Philip was responsible for a practical joke for which he has been blamed in newspaper criticism.

It happened Monday at the Chelsea flower show. Two press photographers were walking across a lawn to take pictures of the Queen and Philip, who were there to open the exhibition.

Philip was nearby in a control room from which a concealed sprinkler system under the lawn could be operated. Suddenly the sprinklers sprang to life and the two cameramen and their cameras were drenched.

Newspapers reported that it was Philip who pressed the button, but a palace spokesman said: "We do not know who did."

The Evening Star in a front-page editorial headed Not So Funny criticized the prince.

The Daily Express columnist Wallace Lockyear and Mark Seymour of the London Press Exchange moved into position to take a picture of the Queen. Philip was standing by the control panel of the sprinkler system.

Moving-Making Not For Liz After Three More

LONDON (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor said Tuesday she plans to give up her movie-making roles — after two or three or four more pictures — that is.

"I'm committed to two or three more movies and I may make a few more," she told reporters on arrival by plane with husband Eddie Fisher. "After that I'm going to be a plain housewife and mother."

With the couple were the film star's three children by previous marriages — Christopher Wilding, 4; Elizabeth Todd, 10 months.

STROLLER WOUNDED

Mounted police Sergeant Agnes Kneeland, 70, was nicked in the neck by a .22-calibre slug Tuesday while strolling in the Royal Botanical Gardens and two 17-year-old youths were held for questioning. Her injury was not serious.

Nikita Threatens To Put Missile Bases In Albania

Would Counter U.S. Bases in Greece, Italy

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Communist China's defence minister, Marshal Pen Teh-huai, will arrive in Albania Thursday, the Albanian news agency ATA announced today.

His arrival in the Communist Adriatic state will coincide with a visit by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who now is touring Albania with the Soviet defence minister, Rodion Malinovsky.

The news of Pen's visit started speculation among diplomats in Belgrade that more "sabre rattling" gestures would be forthcoming during Khrushchev's Albanian tour.

The coincidence of the Soviet and Chinese defence ministers' visit to Albania was almost certainly aimed at underlining Soviet warnings that Albanian territory would take on a new role in Communist military plans, Belgrade observers said.

East German Premier Otto Grotewohl also is in Albania.

BCI Boys' Athletic Society And Cadets Will Help Pay Cost of Re-Sodding Campus

The Boys' Athletic Society at Belleville Collegiate and the school cadet corps will provide financial assistance for the re-sodding o the school campus where grass has been killed.

At the May meeting of the Quinte District High School Board which was completed last night after reconvening from the week previous, board members approved of placing snow fence about the campus and the two school organizations will assist in re-sodding the campus where necessary. The re-sodding will be done this year on an experimental basis.

Although two nights were required to complete the monthly board business, no business of major importance was transacted.

Resignations were accepted from Miss Mildred McPherson, home economics and sewing teacher at the BCI who is retiring on superannuation after many years service with the school, and also from BCI teacher Douglas Bennett who is going to another school.

Frank Buckley was named head of the English Department at BCI taking the place of Linton Read who will go to the new Moira School in September. Clinton Hallam, now with the porta department at Belleville, has been hired as English teacher at Quinte Secondary with duties to commence in September. A former teacher, Mr. Calnan has been with the postal department and recently completed his qualifications as a high school teacher.

The resignation of Mrs. Janice Dunn as assistant in the principal's office at BCI was approved and Miss Patsy Dafoe of Corbyville, has been engaged as a replacement.

Permission was granted for Gerald Boyce, Quinte Secondary School teacher, to attend the annual convention of the Ontario Historical Society to be held in Peterborough in June. The board also gave approval for attendance of school principals in Montreal by Jack Sisson and John Perry, both of Quinte Secondary School. Prominent football coaches from United States and Canada will act as instructors at the school to be held at the Montreal Alouette's headquarters. Mr. Perry will be physical education instructor at the new Moira school.

No action was taken with respect to attendance by school caretakers at a school for caretakers to be held in London.

Shop Director Mr. C. Lepard was authorized to attend a shop directors' course in Barrie.

The board approved of the tender of the Electric Motor Sales and Service for the installation of exterior lighting at the Quinte Secondary School and on the school parking lot. The contract is for $1,300.

Shop Director Mr. C. Lepard, approved expenditure of approximately $7,000 worth of equipment for the electrical department at Quinte Secondary School and the purchase of considerable equipment for the new Moira School were also approved. A surplus unit of floor polisher at Quinte will be turned in on the purchase of two new polishers for Moira school.

Authorization was given for the 10 percent increase in attendance on Belleville Collegiate and equipment while the same percentage of instructor coverage will be secured for the original section of Quinte Secondary School building.

Board members decided there would be no need for any appraisal on insurance coverage this year.

The question of the final stages of repair work for the parapet and exterior of Belleville Collegiate will be left to the special committee appointed to consider the matter. Owing to deterioration, repairs to the parapet and exterior are expected to be extensive.

Finally, board members of the school board are not favorable to advance information regarding next teachers' names and addresses being given out when this information is desired for commercial purposes.

J. Fred Wilson Resigns Post With the CAS

Mr. J. Fred Wilson, immediate past president of the Children's Aid Society, has resigned.

His letter of resignation, submitted at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors held recently, was accepted with regret.

CAS president, C. B. Mon-tgomery, read Mr. Wilson's letter of resignation, noted pressure of other activities had made it necessary for Mr. Wilson to resign.

Mr. Wilson was president of the Society from 1951 to 1954 inclusive.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, the local director, stated that despite the fact the intake was up from the same period last year, there was a substantial reduction in the number of children in the care of the Society. There were 228 children in care at the end of April.

"I am particularly pleased at the success of our adoption program," said Mr. Kerr. "Many families who first thought of adopting one of the new babies interested in a 6-7-8 year old-ster and ended with taking both their age. When you are nearing the forty-year mark and have had previous experience with small children, an infant can be very demanding. At forty a childless couple's pattern of living is pretty well established and it is difficult to submit to interruptions and inconvenience of a newborn. An older child offers a greater degree of companionship and at the same time is more readily assimilated in the pattern of living."

CONTINUING PROBLEM

"We are again faced with the problem of a child who attains the age of 18 without having completed his education and training for vocational. In the case at hand, the child was orphaned when his parents lost their lives in an automobile accident. She is a very pretty girl and we would like very much to become either a teacher or a nurse. When she completed Grade 8, she left school and did not start to hith school until she came into our care about two years ago. The present law makes no exception and maintenance ceases at 18. We are presently without funds with which to assist her continue her education."

Mr. Kerr went on to say that a person who has been assisted financially by the County of Hastings and the Society beyond 18 recently graduated with honors from university with a degree in mechanical engineering. Still another young man who had been assisted by the Society a few years back has graduated as a registered nurse. Gainly not all of the children have the capability for forging ahead to take higher education but every effort must be made to ensure that the children leaving CAS care at the age of 18 are at least able and equipped to earn a living.

Mrs. James Forrester spoke briefly of her work being done by a committee studying adoption policy, the committee comprising Mrs. Forrester as chairman, Mrs. E. F. Pollwell, Lieut.-Col. S. S. Fairman and Mr. D. C. Silrling, has been charged with the responsibility for preparing policy around the placement of children in adoptive homes.

Messrs. C. B. Morgan, W. St. Pierre and Reverend E. Smith, delegates to the annual conference of Children's Aid Societies held at Toronto, spoke briefly on their observations of the proceedings.

Carrying Place Cottage Burns Loss Is $8,000

TRENTON — Searing flames and huge, black clouds of smoke rolled skyward yesterday afternoon as a cottage on the Bay of Quinte at Carrying Place, was completely gutted in a spectacular fire which started at around 4.30 p.m. Damage was estimated at approximately $8,000.

The cottage was owned by Mrs. J. Zimmerman, who lives nearby and was occupied by her and Mrs. R. Paquin and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Graham, all friends of women who first noticed the smell of smoke and called in a neighbor. Another man then was interested in a 6-7-8 year old-ster and ended with taking both their age. TRENTON — Extra traffic control was needed in Trent Valley on Monday when about 1,500 cars converged on the nearby industrial community of Batawa for the annual fireworks display. Jointly sponsored by Batawa Home and School Club, Sacred Heart P.T.A. and Batawa Shoe Company Friends Limited, the event eclipsed all previous efforts.

It was a fine display of community effort and in the fine weather, provided enjoyment for old and young. The project, adopted several years ago as a safety measure, is shared by the entire village. Each householder is invited to pool fireworks expenditures into a big fund to provide the large controlled effort. The firing is conducted by the Batawa fire brigade in an enclosure completely fenced for safety. Each year the site for display in the skies could be seen from Trenton. This year Batawa Brownies took advantage of the event to operate refreshment booths providing sounds and the parking tags were issued by Boy Scouts. The funds raised from needs in all cases are to be devoted to the purchase of camping equipment for the group.

Although the highway approaches to the village were crowded with bumper to bumper traffic at sundown, police of the Ontario Provincial Officers of the OPP, kept the lines moving and traffic clogging was not reported from the temporary traffic congestion.

Police officials in charge were high in their praises of the many groups that helped make the event such a success. Parking areas capable of handling more than 600 cars were filled and Batawa streets were lined both sides. The Batawa fireworks display was equal in every respect to that of previous years and is a traditional annual event.

Ten men played water on them to keep the flames from spreading. The heat which built up inside the house helped the rafts out but they did not explode.

Most of the personal belongings of the two families living in the cottage were saved but beds, stoves, refrigerators, dressers, bathroom fixtures and other furniture, along with some groceries in the cupboards, were destroyed. It is not known if insurance was carried on the cottage.

When the fire was under control two fire firefighters found it relax a little, they were served coffee by Mrs. Bernice Stewart and Miss Sandra DeVore, two young residents of nearby cottages.

Two of the painters first on the scene were Lindsay Long, Sr., and his son Leighton, who had been painting boats right next to the cottage when fire burned.

The cause of the fire has not been officially determined as yet. The cottage was equipped with electricity and oil heaters.

The chairman of the sick and visiting committee, Cecil Taylor, advised that several comrades were in Hospitals in Kingston, Toronto, Edmonton and Brockville and requested any member who could to pay them a friendly visit.

Hosts committee chairman, Fred C. Smith, requested volunteers for a project to improve the appearance of the Legion Hall.

Service bureau officer James Patterson informed the meeting that the necessary forms were taken advantage of the skilled services of the service bureau. War Veterans' Allowances, pensions, hospitalization, etc., during the regular meeting each week.

Mr. H. Moyer, the Legion representative in Ottawa. He requested all veterans having problems regarding their claims to contact him and an appointment would be set up for Mr. Moyer during his visit in June.

The chairman of the finance committee, Mr. Lawson, advised members the branch finances were in good order due to the co-operation of committee chairmen in keeping their expenditures at the absolute minimum.

A lengthy discussion of general and new business followed.

Night Fishing Pays For Trenton Angler

TRENTON — The good-tasting pickerel is supposed to be a night feeder and Floyd Bateman of Trenton came up with 145 pounds of proof that this is so. Fishing below No. 1 Dam on the Trent River, between 1.30 a.m. and 6.30 a.m., he caught a string of fish which tipped the scales at that amount and won him first prize for the heaviest string of game fish in a fishing contest here. Mr. Bateman's heaviest fish weighed five pounds. A prize for the most game fish went to Don Dillon for eight speckled trout.

Plant Entered On Sidney St. No Money Taken

Safe crackers last night attacked the safe at the office of the Coca-Cola plant on Sidney Street but found that the inner door of the strongbox and were forced to leave before getting the money.

City police said the intruders gained entrance by forcing a window in the southwest corner of the building following which they made the attempt before leaving CAS stairs office.

Tools found in the plant were used to pry off the outer door of the safe but the inner door proved too strong for the safe crackers' efforts.

In a second break-in in the Belleville district, this time at the Permanent Transit Mix plant on Hwy. 2 highway sideway between Belleville and Trenton, intruders gained the combination but left without getting anything. Entry was said gained by jimmying a window. Provincial police from Belleville are investigating.

City police were called out on a false alarm Tuesday afternoon when the burglar alarm at the Royal Bank on Front Street was accidentally touched off.

Detective Harold Reid and motorcycle patrolman Constable Keith Wright were on the scene almost immediately but were advised on arrival that it was all a mistake.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market eased slightly today in light morning trading.

The 11 a.m. volume was 682,-000 shares, compared with Tuesday's 850,000 at the same hour. Speculative mines were quiet and changes were small.

Industrials, with the exception of Canada Malting, down 1 at 68¾, changes were less than 1 point.

Steep Rock was the only winner among senior base metals, up at 13½. Noranda dipped ½ at 88¾.

International Nickel was off ¼ at 86¾.

Golds and western oils had few changes. Among junkers Consolidated Discovery was up 10 cents at $3.95 but Macassa lost 5 cents at $3.00.

Base metals and western oils were the major losers Tuesday.

The final volume was 2,687,000 shares well down from Monday's 3,337,000. Of the most active 20 to 1:26.26.

Three Colonels Promoted to Brigadier Rank

OTTAWA — Promotion of three colonels to brigadier to take command of three infantry brigade groups was announced today by the army.

They are:

Col. G. A. Turcot; 41, of Quebec City, to be commander of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade Group, Calgary, in the fall.

Col. W. S. Murdoch, 46, of Vancouver and Ottawa, to be commander of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade Group, Camp Petawawa, Ont., in August.

Col. E. D. Danby, 43, of Vancouver, to be commander of the 3rd Infantry Brigade Group, Camp Gagetown, N.B., at the end of June.

Col. Murdoch, director of operations and planning at army headquarters here, will succeed Brig. H. E. Boyce who will attend the National Defence College course at Kingston, starting Aug. 1.

Kingston Group Likes Ottawa's Council System

OTTAWA (CP)—A delegation from Kingston city council Tuesday liked what they saw when they sat in on a meeting of Ottawa board of control.

Alderman F. D. Stevens commented after the delegation watched board of control breeze through a 65-item agenda in 3½ hours:

"It would take us a week to go through an agenda like that under our present system."

Kingston is considering introducing the board of control system when the size of council is reduced to 14 from 21 members in 1961.

"We want to streamline our municipal procedures," said Alderman Stevens. "Kingston has too large a council for a city of 50,000 people."

Rise Stevens Unable to Sing Role in Carmen

TORONTO (CP)—Rise Stevens, the Metropolitan Opera's perennial Carmen, was unable to appear in her favorite role Tuesday night and her place was taken by Rosalind Elias.

A sell-out crowd of 8,100 was told from the stage just prior to the Met's performance that Miss Stevens had been taken ill in New York after appearing on the Firestone Hour on television.

Miss Elias, well received as Carmen, is scheduled to sing again tonight as Lola in Cavalleria Rusticana.

Did Not Drive Well Enough To Get Licence

DENVER (AP) — A 17-year-old girl charged with driving without an operator's licence appeared before Judge Gerald McAuliffe Tuesday.

Asked for an explanation, Carol Cooper replied:

"I didn't think I could drive well enough to get one."

The judge suspended $15 of the girl's $40 fine and suggested she try.

Says Contract Form of Bondage For Workers

DETROIT (CP)—A Detroit employment broker was charged Tuesday with holding destitute workers in bondage and then successfully denying them unemployment compensation after they had tried unsuccessfully to find work.

The charge was made against Manpower, Incorporated, by Charles Rubinoff, a referee for the Michigan employment commission.

Rubinoff said Manpower bound workers to an indefinite contract and then collected one-third of their pay for referring them to temporary jobs.

He said the applicants are required to sign a contract stating: "I will not accept permanent employment from any customer of Manpower, Inc., for whom I have worked until three months have elapsed after the end of my employment by the customer."

The indictment against Manpower was contained in a ruling by Rubinoff on an unemployment compensation claim by a man forced to seek welfare when the firm successfully blocked his claim for $285 in unemployment compensation.

Rubinoff said the Manpower contract is "a form of bondage that cannot be countenanced under any established principles of law or justice."

Only Woman To Get Degree

TORONTO (CP) — Miss Dagny Vildnin, an attractive 21-year-old blonde, was the only girl among 450 engineering, geology and forestry graduates to receive a degree from Chancellor Samuel Beatty at the University of Toronto Tuesday.

"I don't know when I have been so thrilled in my life," said the Latvian-born girl.

Miss Vildnin who has lived in Toronto for 10 years, attended U. of T. on a scholarship. Her father, a former colonel in the Latvian army, died in Latvia in February. He was executed by the Communists in 1940 and imprisoned for many years.

Kiwanians View Film on Making Of Aluminum

Local Kiwanians were given an insight into the manufacture of aluminum when they had as their guest for the Tuesday dinner meeting, Mr. R. C. M. Beresford of the Public Relations Department of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

In lieu of an address, Mr. Beresford presented a colored film entitled "Aluminum Power" which clearly and graphically illustrated the entire process from mining of the bauxite ore (from which a powder, alumina, is extracted) in such tropic climes as British Guiana and Jamaica, to the highly technical process of turning alumina into aluminum ingots and sheet aluminum, which are shipped to markets all over the world.

The film particularly stressed the aluminum industry's need for large amounts of electrical power.

Featured in the excellent and informative film is Alcan's Kitimat project begun in 1951 because of the tremendous hydro-electrical potential in this area, 400 miles north of Vancouver.

The largest project ever undertaken by private enterprise in the world, it represents an investment to-date of $430,000,000, Mr. Beresford stated.

Completed in 1954, this project involved gigantic engineering feats, including the creation of a 358-square mile reservoir, the drilling of a 10-mile tunnel through a mountain range, and the building of a powerhouse one-quarter of a mile inside the heart of a mountain. This powerhouse at Kemano, B.C., has a capacity of 1,050,000 h.p. and will eventually have an installed capacity of 2,400,000 h.p. This electrical power is carried by a transmission line to the nearby aluminum city of Kitimat.

The speaker who joined the Aluminum Company of Canada in 1934 noted one - quarter of the world's aluminum is produced at Alcan's smelters in Canada.

Smelters are located at Arvida, Beauharnois, Isle Maligne and Shawinigan in Quebec and at Kitimat, B.C. Fabricating plants are at Kingston, Ont., Shawinigan, Quebec, and Vancouver, B.C.

The speaker was introduced by Don Bevercombe who noted the speaker, a native of England, holds an M.A. degree from Dublin University. Members of the club were expressed by Don Rose, and president Gerry Wishart presented Mr. Beresford with a token of the club's appreciation.

President Wishart announced, following the meeting he would meet with Recreation Director Fred Doran at the Fair Grounds to plan the construction of Kiwanis - financed baseball diamonds, a major project of the club this year.

He also announced the club's appreciation to the Kiwanis Queens for contributing toward the purchase of new dishes for the club.

A JOB WELL DONE — WO Dwight Chard of the RCAF Cadet Squadron 608 receives the Tri-Service Drill Competition trophy from the inspecting officer, Major Kenneth Willcocks of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, as the Air Cadets retained possession of the trophy for a second year. In the background is PO2 Wayne Bunnett, who was in charge of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet entry from the "Quinte."

Air Force Cadets Retain Trophy Won Last Year

The annual Tri-Service drill competition was held yesterday evening on the athletic field of the Quinte Secondary School with units from the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps 'Quinte' and the Royal Canadian Air Force Cadet Squadron 608, which retained the trophy for another year. Inspecting officer for the occasion were Major Kenneth Willcocks and Lt. William Scrymgeour of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

The two units were judged on their appearance, the difficulty of the drill movements they performed, their deportment during the drill display, and the clarity of commands. The competition began with an inspection of both units for appearance and dress. Then the "Quinte" unit's precision squad performed its movements both under arms and without arms. The 608 Squadron performed its drill procedure next without arms. P.O. - 2 Wayne Bunnett commanded the "Quinte" unit, whilst W.O. Dwight Chard commanded the squadron unit.

Major Willcocks, in commenting on the performance, gave credit to the RCAF unit for the best appearance and clarity of commands. For difficulty of movements and deportment during the actual drill the Sea Cadets were complimented. Stating that it was very hard to judge the competition owing to the variance in the types of drill displayed, Major Willcocks added that the competition was very close, there being but four mistakes observed in the winning group's performance and six mistakes in the more lengthy drill put on by the Sea Cadets.

It was suggested that for next year's annual competition a set of rules for the event be drawn up previously and that each competing unit perform the same movements. It is also hoped that an Army Cadet drill unit will enter the competition at that time.

A TRIBUTE TO SINCERITY

The unanimity with which the death of John Foster Dulles is being mourned is a comforting assurance that the world still puts a high value on sincerity.

The policies which the former U.S. Secretary of State advocated were often criticized, not merely by his adversaries in the Cold War but, with almost equal frequency, and sometimes with as great vehemence, by people who shared his general aims.

That these doubts as to the wisdom of some of his policies have not prevented his former critics from paying homage to him in death is a tribute to his integrity, which was never in question.

He was the very fact that nobody could question the intentions of Mr. Dulles which served to make some of his attitudes and pronouncements so irritating. People who shared his objectives but differed from him as to the best means to reach them knew they could not accuse him of bad faith. It is much less annoying to find a man whose motives are in doubt at odds with us than it is to discover that somebody of unimpeachable integrity and unquestionable courage persists in following a course we believe is wrong.

Dulles would not have been so harshly criticized in his lifetime had not everybody been convinced that he was honest and believed what he said. Now that he is dead, disagreements over the methods he followed are lost to sight in general recognition of his unswerving devotion to high aims.

Courage, honesty and hard work, though, are not the only necessary attributes of a successful diplomat. We may be gladdened to learn that his successor, Christian Herter, also a man of character, may perhaps bring to the conference table an intangible something which Dulles lacked.

Saints are admirable people, but sinners must sometimes find them hard to live with.

THE COLOR BAR -- TWO INCIDENTS

Pat Fagan, master of ceremonies for "Dance Party," a Buffalo TV program, says "they're making a mountain out of a mole hill" in connection with an incident on Saturday's show when a Toronto student, a Negro, was requested to stop dancing with a schoolmate, a white girl.

Perhaps "mole hill" is the correct description of the incident, but even mole hills serve a purpose in showing which way the mole has travelled.

We are told that Negro students often appear on "Dance Party." However, the fact that the Buffalo station was swamped with telephone calls protesting a Negro and white girl dancing together suggests that Buffalo Negroes and Buffalo white girls do not dance together on "Dance Party." The Canadian group of 46 students, accompanied by two chaperones, introduced something new to Buffalo. They proved that the mixing of races is more common here than south of the border.

Just in case anybody is feeling rather proud about that, we refer them to another news item the same day, a report that a Haiti-born couple and their Canada-born child had left Canada for the United States rather than fight deportation proceedings. They were convinced that "the reason they were being refused permission to remain in Canada was their color.

It seems that here it is all right for Negroes and whites to dance together, but that we are attempting to make certain there are as few Negroes in the country as possible. In the U.S., on the other hand, while a Negro may not dance with a white girl, newcomers who are Negroes are accepted as immigrants.

We are not at all sure what this proves, if anything, except that any claims that Canadians are entirely free of race prejudices ought to be postponed until they are less open to question.

TOO LATE?

Rev. R. Glendon Brant, a Mohawk Indian from Detroit, was one of three men made deacons of the Anglican Church in Canada in ceremonies at the Cathedral Church of St. George in Kingston on Sunday.

Mr. Brant thus became the first of his race to be raised a deacon in the church.

While congratulating him, we must admit to a slight regret that this elevation to deacon did not take place before the Anglican Church officially changed its name. There would be something strikingly international about a Mohawk Indian from the United States being a deacon of the Church of England in Canada.

TWO MEN AND TWO METHODS
By EDGAR A. GUEST

I know a man who got in debt,
He owed a lot of cash,
And then he straight began to fret
And prophesy a crash.
He started in to dodge the men
That he owed money to,
And oft he lost his temper when
They asked him for what was due.

Another man got into debt,
His bills he couldn't pay,
But when a creditor he met
He didn't run away.
"I'm up against it, now," said he
"I'm sorry, too, old man.
If you can still keep faith in me,
I'll pay you when I can."

They did not hale him into court
Or garnishee his pay;
They knew he was the proper sort.

And would make good some day.
And when at last his bills he'd met,
He came and said to me:
"One never knows, till he's in debt,
How decent men can be."

Seek to Garb Ghana Girls

New York Herald-Tribune

Some African clubwomen have launched a campaign against nudity in Ghana, according to a dispatch from our correspondent, A. T. Steele.

They are forcing second-hand clothes, in the northern region of the country, on tribeswomen who have along gone about — very sensibly — in almost no clothes at all.

This is the surest sign that independence, in the form of the Mother Hubbard, that they spoiled the island paradise — and gave them, for the first time, a sense of shame. When Indonesia was in the Indonesian mood, the government forbade the girls of Bali to go bare from the waist up any longer, that being the sign of a primitive culture — at the instigation of the opposite tutelary Bali is the very opposite of a primitive culture.

Meanwhile our own country, whence so many missionaries sailed to bring naked heathen, is now verging on a state of nudity not unlike that of northern Ghana. This year's feminine beachwear, judging by the illustrations, is the skimpiest we have America's ladies decked in since the occasional whip of fabric. So it is hard to know which way progress lies. Ghana may have to go back to modern western ways before it can go forward.

Perhaps the Ghanaian clubwomen will be sensitive to the nudity which they have imported, and will in due course get this country, under controlled conditions, to go naked in advance. Thus an era of research, long overdue, in matters dear to biologists, apparently has been opened for investigation.

The evidence is that all living organisms, from single-celled plants and animals to man himself, may be responsive to geophysical events caused by the earth, pull and the moon, was presented before the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in Atlantic City.

Dr. Frank A. Brown, Jr., Morrison professor of biology at Northwestern University, offered many eyebrows at a session on "Biological Rhythms." He described how a piece of potato, grown in a sealed chamber under constant conditions of air pressure, humidity and light conditions, appeared to "know" when the atmospheric pressure was going to be two days ahead of time. The potato reacted in the plant's rate of growth.

The potato, he believes, was responding to pressure forces that also changes the weather. This phenomenon is being investigated. However, there now is reason, he added, to believe that some forms of air pollution have a scientific explanation. Aches and pains, sometimes called "weather symptoms," however subjective, may really be linked with what the weather is going to be.

The ancients, said Dr. Brown, knew that everyday things have many rhythms, periods of increased or decreased growth. About two centuries ago it was established that plant growth maintained a daily rhythm, even under constant conditions. Fifty years ago rhythms linked to phases of the moon were established. Ten or 15 years ago annual rhythms were discovered. Within a year the existence of lunar rhythms — as opposed to solar monthly rhythms — was disclosed.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most of us inherit from our parents those physical or physiological characteristics that give them, in general, their better and attitudes. So we inherit also some bent towards our parents' beliefs and attitudes. For example, children of fat, gay, jolly, happy-minded parents are likely to be fat, gay and happy-minded too. The children of lean and arrogant cranks are ten to one likely to grow into lean and arrogant cranks.

Of course, there are all kinds of permutations and combinations, as for example when a lean arrogant crank of a man minded woman. In such cases of this kind as I have been familiar with, you may get all lean arrogant cranks, all complacent happy souls, or else an assortment of both, which makes for a lot of fun in a family history.

But to deny that we inherit our natures as well as our physiology is one of those absurd hangovers from the anti-Hitler era. Most of us can trace the origin of our proclivities in our families back to some one of our grandparents. If there is a fanatic in our family, sure as fate there was a fanatic or fanatics in one or more of our parents or great-grand parents.

Therefore how absurd of us to think that we choose to believe what we believe, that our opinions and attitudes are our own, selected by us with a sort of divine right. The chances are we are shaped for our beliefs, opinions and attitudes by those who gave us all our other shapes. We can be neither praised nor blamed for what we believe. We just can't help it. It isn't our fault.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 27th, 1939

Miss Betty Illsley has left for her home in Seattle, Wash., after spending the last month with friends in the city.

Mrs. A. F. Stillman of Toronto is visiting friends in the city.

Col. H. W. Powell and Mrs. Powell, Burwash, Ont., spent the ten hour Sunday with the sisterhood the latter, Mrs. Henry Greatrix, Kingston Road. Col. and Mrs. Powell were presented to Their Majesties at the reception on Monday in the Legislative Chambers, in Toronto.

Messrs. John McMahon and Robertson Collins, students at St. Michael's College, University of Toronto, are home for the summer holidays.

Mrs. J. Rathmun, Mrs. H. H. Empson, Miss Anna M. Gallagher, and Mrs. C. D. Gallagher and Mr. Jack Empson motored to Ottawa on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Robertson, Seigniory Club, Quebec, was the guest last evening of his sister, Mrs. A. B. Collins.

Miss Marguerite Powell of Burwash, Ont., Mrs. Agnes Burwash, B.A., and Master Bobby Fuller, Sault Ste. Marie, were Sunday callers at the home of Mrs. Harry Greatrix, Kingston Road.

Possibility of the setting up of a game preserve or sanctuary for the wild life and waterfowl of the Bay of Quinte in the vicinity of Cedar Island has been suggested by H. E. Hatch, owner of the island who for some time past has been propagating pheasants there.

Mr. E. V. Hilary, who, prior to the merger of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the Standard Bank, was manager of the branch of the Standard Bank in Hamilton, will succeed Mr. A. Y. Snyder as manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in this city. Mr. Hilary was at one time a member of the staff of the Standard Bank in this city. Mr. Snyder will be appointed to another branch of the bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart, Burton Street, have returned home from Toronto where they spent a few days with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie Robertson have left for Dallas, Texas, where Mr. Robertson will attend the international Rotary convention. They will also take a trip through Mexico and return home via the Gulf of Mexico and Atlantic Ocean to New York City.

Find Potato Barometer

St. John Telegraph-Journal

Grandpa's corns and Aunt Tilley's rheumatism now have some scientific support as means of foretelling the weather. It all came about because of a potato which proved to be sensitive to its growth, under controlled conditions, to barometric changes two days in advance. Thus an era of research, long overdue, in matters dear to biologists, apparently has been opened for investigation.

The evidence is that all living organisms, from single-celled plants and animals to man himself, may be responsive to geophysical events caused by the earth, pull and the moon, was presented before the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in Atlantic City.

In a baseball match at Cobourg, the local G.T.R.—team defeated the team of that town, the score being 7 to 6. The following composed the G.T.R. team—Weir, Meagher, Gerow, Mills, Rose, Knott, Whalen, Purtell, Goyer, Kelly and Pringle.

At the anniversary a reception of the present and past officers of the 15th Argyll Light Infantry Regiment was held, and was a most enjoyable affair. A few visiting officers were present including Lieut.-Col. Genet, A.A.G., Kingston; Lieut.-Col. Ketcheson of Sidney, Major Fred Lyon and Lieut. Arthur Johnson, M.C. The gathering took the form of a smoker and was informal. Capt. Purtell presided over the chair. Short addresses, in which all responding to the various toasts, were given by Lieut.-Col. Lazier, Lieut.-Col. Pontoon, Lieut.-Col. Ketcheson, Major Vanzwoll, Major Frank Lyne, Lieut. Arthur Johnson, M.C., Lieut. D. Flynn, Lieut.-Col. Lorne Marsh, Lieut.-Col. A. P. Allen, Capt. H. D. Harper, Capt. J. Johnson-Walmsley and Ex-Mayor H. Freeman Ketcheson.

Glubb's View Of Mid-East

Brantford Expositor

Colonel T. E. Lawrence — "Lawrence of Arabia" as he was usually called, was an eccentric. Had he been otherwise he might never have contrived and carried out his famous "Revolt in the Desert" in the First World War.

It is true that the years have been less than kind to him. The professional jealousy has helped feed the fire of journalistic idol-destroying. But a great figure has now shown to have been a man, after all. His faults have been magnified as well as mentioned. Still he remains a figure of remarkable individuality — and of astonishing achievements. A man who is often referred to as the present-day Lawrence is General Sir John Bagot Glubb. He founded and directed, with the success, a military organization known as the Arab Legion. It was and remains the best army in the Middle East. Yet, as we know, Sir John was unceremoniously dismissed not long ago, by the young King of Jordan, under pressure from domestic and foreign influences.

In his new book, "Britain and the Arabs", Sir John endeavours to explain what happened, and why. Despite the bloody treatment accorded him, he does not blame the Arabs for much of what he considers to have been weak and ineffectual policy on Britain's part. Unlike another great soldier, Viscount Montgomery, Sir John does not indulge in politicians, but where they fall, in his opinion, he lets them know about it.

The Arabs considered themselves betrayed by the signing of that triple-talk document known as the Balfour Declaration. It was a declaration so ambiguously authored by a master of cynical duplicity as the late Arthur James (Lord) Balfour.

There is no point to reviewing the endless details of this piece of work has caused. To some it is a charter of liberties, to others an scroll of perfidy.

Glubb inherited this, along with a lot of other things. But he went on to make work with the Arabs. He tells of an extraordinary relationship that lasted for more than a century drawn the Arabs and the British to one another.

Most important, he recommends that there be re-established and maintained. Otherwise, he indicates, the day may come when either a leader of their own (a post to which Egypt's Col. Nasser aspires) or else falling in the net the Soviet Union is holding ready will dominate.

The hall seems to have been tossed back to Whitehall. Let's hope it isn't fumbled again.

Cannot March If Divided

By H. L. MacPherson in the Windsor Star

Prolonged partition of Germany will "harden" the Germans "in what that stand in the way"? So says U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter. Perhaps he has reason to surmise that this is a lesson of history. But we see no way out, perhaps it is. But how many people with memories ranging over 15 years will be willing to risk the next bloodied, militaristic Germany we have?

The consequences of having a partitioned Germany are at least as serious as the risk. Two-fifths of a million dead, 100 million maimed, the whole subsequent history of the world of his.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

CHILD'S COUGH CAN BE CAUSED BY MANY THINGS

"Dear Sir: I wonder if you could tell me what causes a 5-year-old child to cough incessantly. He has had all kinds of medicine but with no result. This has gone on for two years. It is worse when he goes to bed. — M. B."

The cough incessant for that length of time, most certainly should be investigated.

When you say "all kinds of medicine," I cannot make out whether you mean various drug store remedies, or whether a doctor has prescribed medication.

However, I am guessing that the former is the case, because a doctor who knew that the condition had continued for so long would have realized that cough syrups or drops aren't the answer.

Incidentally, I'm not criticizing "drug store remedies" for occasional use. Many of them are fine — in their place.

Their place is not in a cough that has gone on and on.

Possible causes of such a continued cough include these:

Chronic bronchitis.

Something in the atmosphere that irritates the throat, may mean the little fellow is allergic to something, perhaps even to a pet in the home.

Chronic sinus disease.

Large and infected tonsils and adenoids.

And, of course, the more serious ailments such as tuberculosis, bronchiectasis or a tumor in the air passages.

Whether it is one of the commoner causes, or whether (let us hope not!) it is one of the more dangerous ones, a child should have your son examined thoroughly. Any infection of the sinuses may be required, unless the trouble is identified otherwise. Or, as I said, the allergy may be involved and allergists, specialists in allergy, are available.

Tonsils and adenoids that cause coughs on going to bed is not an uncommon thing. For one thing, he is tired. For another, the air passages have been relaxed by sleep, and he starts to cough during the day. When he lies down, the soft tissues shift into a slightly different position, and areas which have not been irritated while he was standing up become subject to whatever irritant is present.

Of this you can be certain: Something is irritating the air passages, and the constant cough is an effort to clear the passages and get rid of it.

Permanent damage can be done to the little lungs by this continued cough, and cough medicines are not the answer.

"Dear Doctor: Athlete's Foot settle a friendly family argument between my husband and me. I am under the impression that an ingrown wart on the sole of the foot is contagious. He says it isn't so. — Smile B. C."

Ah! I'm happy to know that husbands and wives continue to have friendly arguments. There may well be several different kinds of warts but the so-called "plantar warts," on the sole of the foot, generally are thought to be contagious, and people with them should be careful to slippers or clogs. They're not highly contagious, however. Sometimes they can be pared or scraped away by your doctor, then covered to prevent irritation by the shoe which we believe is to blame. In some cases X-ray has to be used to get rid of them.

"Dear Dr Molner: I just received a bad cut from a rose in the midwest about 'non-surgical treatment of rupture'. Here is my question. Are there treatments be obtained in my home? — Mrs. J."

You ask a straight question. I'll give you the same kind of answer. Probably I think dozens of these "non-surgical" forms of ruptures are such as to be undependable. I cannot in good conscience recommend them.

Why not write for information? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically by reading my booklet "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundas, Ill., enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Strength for The Day

GREAT AFFIRMATION

There could be an endless and highly disorderly argument started over whether the world is getting better or worse.

Whether one looked at a whole is getting better I do not know. But I do think someone else does. But I do find in the midst of life today more people than I have ever known before who have a genuine embarrassment refer to themselves as "born again Christians." In fact, this term is so widely used that it has become almost commonplace among Christian believers.

If the people who call themselves committed Christians mean what they say — and there is no reason for doubting that they do — then we have people in the world today who have discovered the secret of the Christian gospel. For being a Christian means to be committed — committed to Christ. It involves belief. It operates on the basis of faith. The Christian life must be characterized by love and gentleness. The Christian is one who really lives up to his beliefs must be a righteous-living person. But the Christian does not live as he does by are, are subsidiary to this matter of commitment.

Jesus Christ is a spiritual personality who demands of us a total commitment to God. Commitment to him means fellowship with God. Commitment to him means the living of the heavenly life here and now even though the best of Christians stumble, make mistakes, and occasionally fall into sin.

But the committed man is one who has found a friend. A committed Christian That is a great term — a great affirmation.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUR FRIEND — THE MIND!

We take our hands and lift some heavy object and marvel at the ready supply of strength. We run in the open and come to our destination in record time with renewed romp or reading.

But we don't give credit to the one mighty power which makes all enjoyment and all pleasure possible — the mind.

Solomon once said things man must protect above all else — the heart. And yet the longest lived man could not possibly hope to survive without but a small part of this world of his.

The mind steps in to interpret and to explain — to enlarge and to make fine and subtle every distinction in the debate. The outward nature creates.

Your mind is your very best friend. It is a storehouse of endless information. While its concentratively small area the cities of centuries may be placed upon its walls. And you may gather wealth for its coffers at no price at all — excepting effort.

You may walk into the great art gallery in the world and go back to your home with more of its beauty than the man — grand — who has been painting and gave them into its permanent possession.

And, into your mind, you are joint owner of the universe!

It is only as we learn and mind that your friends become angels of mercy and inspiration, or mere passing figures of no value to you at all.

No matter how exquisite the gorgeous sunset, that mind of yours which has gone on building and building is far more wonderful.

The very good to this friend of yours — your greatest friend, your mind.

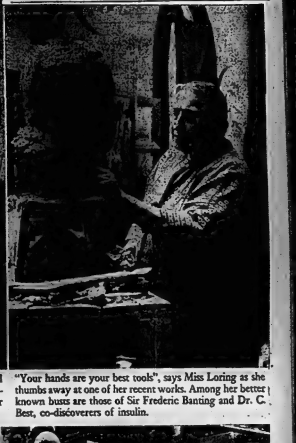
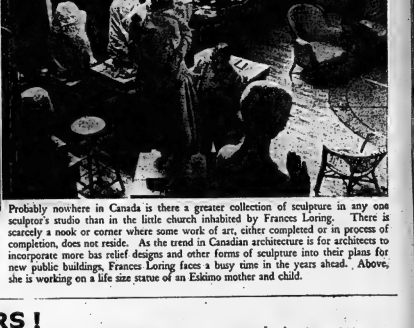
Sculptor Frances Loring



Art on a Grand Scale

For more than 30 years Frances Loring has been one of the outstanding figures in the small but growing circle of Canadian sculptors. Born at Wardner, Idaho, in 1887, Miss Loring came to Canada in 1912 and has made her home in Toronto, Ont., ever since. In 1928 she helped to form the Sculptors Society of Canada, and in a struggling young nation, where the way of the artist has not always been easy, Frances Loring has worked with courage and vision to help build those artistic traditions, and especially an interest in sculpture, which would give the vigorous young country of her adoption both a sense of history and an awakening sense of its own destiny. Today, at 72, the Grand Dame of Canadian Sculpture is at the peak of her powers and in recent years she has received a wide variety of honours from distinguished universities for her long and devoted service to the arts in Canada.

For many years Frances Loring has made her home and studio in an old converted church whose high-ceilinged rafters provide ample room for the heroic scale monuments which she enjoys working on. She has created stirring war memorials for Canada's dead in two world wars.



"Your hands are your best tools", says Miss Loring as she thumbs away at one of her recent works. Among her better known busts are those of Sir Frederic Banting and Dr. C. Best, co-discoverers of insulin.

With a neighbour (centre) and artist Florence Wyle, Miss Loring takes a few minutes off from her work for a morning cup of coffee. Recently she and Miss Wyle have collaborated on a series of decorative panels illustrating Canadian bird life for the park at Niagara Falls.

Probably nowhere in Canada is there a greater collection of sculpture in any one sculptor's studio than in the little church inhabited by Frances Loring. There is scarcely a nook or corner where some work of art, either completed or in process of completion, does not reside. As the trend in Canadian architecture is for architects to incorporate more bas relief designs and other forms of sculpture into their plans for new public buildings, Frances Loring faces a busy time in the years ahead. Above, she is working on a life size statue of an Eskimo mother and child.

Brotherhood 52-Week Need, Does Not Mean We Must Be Close Friend of Everybody

Appraise people individually by what's inside them — not by the color of their skins, their racial origin, or religion.

This is the plea made by Mr. Murray Ehrlick, of the Dominion Life Assurance Co., Toronto, when he addressed the Quinte District Foremen's Club's annual "ladies' night" dinner last night in the Club Canteen.

In a thought-provoking address on the subject of "Brotherhood" the speaker, who has been associated with the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews for the past five years, warned that bigotry "can ruin a community, even one which has all the facilities to become thriving and prosperous."

The speaker cited as an example a community near Toronto in which the major economy was strangled because residents refused to do business with a negro.

"Withholding jobs and business opportunities from one group doesn't make more jobs and more business opportunities for the rest of us," Ehrlick said.

Speaking of "Brotherhood Week," the Queen's University graduate and World War II Air Force veteran said: "It's easy to be big about it one week out of 52 . . . but it's the daily work that counts."

Practising "brotherhood," he explained, does not mean a person must be close friends with all people.

"For instance there are some types of people I won't associate with, such as boors, bar flys, and snoobers — whether they are white, negro, Roman Catholic, Protestant, or Jewish," he asserted.

"We should appraise people by what's inside them — as individuals," he said, before deciding whether we want them as friends or business associates.

GIVEN TRAINING

Speaking of racial prejudice against Negros, Mr. Ehrlick related some of the experiences encountered by former Brooklyn Dodgers infielder, Jackie Robinson. The speaker met the negro former baseball great at a Sportsman's dinner in Toronto.

"Jackie told me when he first signed up he was given 18 months training by a minister to 'get along well with white people' — in other words to teach him to be respectful to those, who didn't have the courtesy to be respectful to him."

He related while living at Vero Beach and also while playing for one season with Montreal Royals, Jackie lived alone except for the minister who accompanied him. The only time his teammates would associate with him was on the field during a game.

"A man who has intelligence, talent, and character, and was the best second basemen in any league, was unequal to the other players until he went on the field — just because he was a negro."

Mr. Ehrlick said the change in the Dodgers' attitude to Jackie came in April of 1948 when Jackie had a "run-in" with Enos Slaughter during a game and the latter threatened to cut out the whole team to "get him."

"The whole Brooklyn team stood behind Jackie and dared the opposing team to try it," the speaker related.

Mr. Ehrlick went on to attack the treatment of negroes in the south. He cited for example the lynching of a negro youth prior to his trial because it was claimed he raped a white woman, while a short time later four white youths raped a negro co-ed in another part of the south and as yet they have not even been brought to trial.

"This is the type of justice given out in the south," the speaker stated.

He charged that "white trash" in the south are to blame for this shameful situation. "And the greatest white trash was Governor Orval Faubus," he asserted, reading in an article from a U.S. newspaper stating that the Arkansas governor paid disreputable men to stir up racial hatred in Little Rock over the school integration problem, because he "wanted a third term."

MAKING VOICE HEARD

"There are many good people down there (in the south) and they are finally making their voice heard," he said in noting these people have organized and forced the governor to put the school integration problem to a vote.

"They have finally realized the noisiest, the most bigoted people . . . those stirring up the most trouble . . . are the white trash — members of the Ku Klux Klan," he said.

The speaker said it is not just a school integration question—but a question of whether the whites and other races can live together.

In closing Mr. Ehrlick urged parents to teach their children love and respect for people, and to appraise them as individuals. "The world's greatest hope for brotherhood are the children," he stated.

The speaker was introduced by Abel Nightingale and thanked by Ron Isaac who presented him with a gift on behalf of the club.

Chairman for the program was retiring president Al Fewtrell, who introduced the head table guests and extended a special welcome to Hugh Jones. He also welcomed the ladies, the special guests for the evening, and other guests of the members.

Appreciation to the ladies was expressed by Lin Johnston who presented a bouquet of red roses to Mrs. Fewtrell, wife of the president.

He then proposed a toast to all the women, which was responded to by Mrs. Godwin.

The meeting was then turned over to Fred Holl who introduced the entertainment part of the program supplied by four members of the Barbara Diment School of Dance, who presented a program of tap dancing and baton twirling. The girls taking part in the program under the direction of Mrs. E. Warham, were Judy McKnight, Wanda Cook, Gail Hendricks and Brenda Archer. A piano interlude was provided by Mr. James Corradi.

A brief sermonette on the theme, "Human Relations," was given by Archdeacon J. B. Creegan. Mr. Creegan also gave the invocation prior to the dinner.

Mr. Charlie Leppan read an address of appreciation to Mr. Hugh Jones, founder and first president of the Quinte Club, and president of the Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs.

A bouquet of roses was presented to Mrs. Jones, the "inspiration behind Huzh."

Mr. Jones replied giving a brief address on the recent forming of new Foremen's Clubs, and the increase in total membership. He said there are now a total of 4,000 members across Canada and said the Quinte District Foremen's Club "has a lot to be proud of — it is one of the best in the country."

Gifts were presented by Doug McLean to club instructor Ron Isaac and Abel Nightingale who conducted a public speaking course here during the past season.

President Fewtrell announced that Fred Holl is leaving the club and Belleville. He and Mrs. Holl are moving to San Francisco.

Fred, who has been with the club for the past four and one-half years, gave a brief farewell speech.

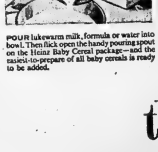
The new slate of officers for the 1959-1960 term were then introduced by Mr. Fewtrell.

They are as follows: president-elect, Doug McLean; 1st vice-president, Clarence Langsbeer; 2nd vice-president, Alex Muskiluke (absent); treasurer, Bob Tuck; secretary, Frank Cliffe Phillip, and public relations, George Norval.

President Fewtrell stated: "You have chosen a fine body of men for your officers — hard-working and enthusiastic. I know it will be a successful year."

Mr. Fowtrell also expressed appreciation to Mrs. Barber and her committee for the excellent meals served during the past season.

The meeting, the last of the season, was then adjourned and dancing and cards were enjoyed.



A draw for a lovely door prize was made, and ladies were each presented with a rose corsage.

Miss Mildred Hall Installed New President B.P.W. Club

The annual meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held in the private banquet room of the Belmont Restaurant on Monday evening.

Various committee reports given showed an active and successful year with an increase in membership. The annual coffee party, held this year at the home of Mrs. M. E. Branscombe, was a social event and a highlight of the club's activities.

HONOR BESTOWED

The highest singular honor during the year was bestowed on Mrs. Irene Hall, winner of the 5th annual Fellowship awarded by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs to study United Nations during the commission on the status of women.

The occasion also marked the presentation of past president pins to Miss Joy Nichols, charter president, and Mrs. Eva Doolittle, for their untiring efforts in establishing and guiding the club in the city.

Miss Mildred Hall reported on the recent regional conference held in Trenton.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP

A congratulatory message was to be sent to Miss Patricia Rowland, Reg. N., gold medal winner and general proficiency in the 1959 graduating class at the Belleville Hospital School of Nursing. On entering training Miss Rowland was awarded a scholarship by the local Business and Professional Women's Club.

Miss Hilda Collier, retiring president, then graciously thanked all members who had helped to lighten her task during the two year term. She was also presented with a gold past president's pin.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It seems a very long time since we mentioned shopping at all, but this was mainly because of the weather. What a handy thing it is to have the weather to blame everything on! However, with that long cold spring, there was not much incentive to go buying for summer — and were we scarcely out of the cold anyhow. Now we can be reasonably sure that is over. Looking around, it is definitely a season that will bring joy to all "female, feminine danes". Not often do we see styles so flattering and thoroughly pretty, materials so gay and easy to care for, hats of such a variety that beauty and practicability can both be served; and even shoes are doing to have a more normal look.

Whether the warm summer air has gone to our head or not, we can't be sure. But it seems to us that prices are, broadly speaking, a little easier. We can remember feeling, on a visit, a decrease in the price of living index, but we thought it was merely academic and had no real basis in practical fact. Maybe it is because there has been a decrease in the price of some meats and that the prices of tables are not exorbitant and eggs are cheap, that we have this illusion. Everything on one side of rents, it could be worse.

Looking over the tremendous variety of frozen prepared foods ready mix foods and new varieties at canning foods, we begin to wonder if women do need any more. Surely if these foods continue to appear in the shops someone must be buying them. Yet most people we know still cook from basic materials. It would be interesting to see if basic materials has changed or that we don't know enough people. We do know that the prepared foods are improving all the time, but we also have faith that cooking will not become a lost art.

It was our pleasure last week to address the Parkdale Women's Institute in their fine community centre. While we knew that this building was in existence, we did not realize just what its existence implied.

Although now a part of the city of Belleville, Parkdale is a suburb when it was first built up and settled. Then and now, the space and openness of the community are what strike a visitor first. We did not enquire on this point, but it must have been a definite plan of the residents.

There is a great deal of room between the houses which gives it a look of being in the country.

But what sets the area in a class by itself is the dispatch with which residents got themselves a community meeting place. It was a fine general effort and the result is one of which they may be very proud. It is a wood-and-half brick built and attractively finished; it is probably more highly appreciated because the men of Parkdale built it themselves while the wives made the drapes and helped with the decorating. It speaks of initiative, foresight and energy. From this centre, it was possible to start more activities than would otherwise have been possible. Here are held the meetings of cubs, scouts, brownies, guides, institutes, other men's and women's organizations as well as entertainment and recreation. This centre might serve as an example for other suburban areas. It might be that a number of smaller community centres, which could be accomplished on a community and co-operative basis, would serve the needs of our spreading city better than an expensive large community centre.

Reading through a news release from Australia, we were somewhat astonishing that we are sure would bring the gleam of an idea in the eyes of mothers of young families. This item was about a new cobalt "bullet" which has been developed down under to correct a deficiency in their vast numbers of cattle. The method of administering it would bring the cream we spoke of; the "bullet" is fired down the animal's throat into its fore-stomach.

Anyone who has tried to get medicine into squirming, resisting youngsters will know what we mean. With a little imagination and atmosphere, and help from the craze for Westerns, medicine feeding should be no problem. Can't you just see it? Mother simply says, "Open up youah mouth, podnuh. Ah'm gonna shoot."

ASHLEY — MULHOLLAND

White snapdragons, white Calla lilies, and white chrysanthemums formed a lovely setting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, on Saturday, May 23rd, for a pretty Mayflime wedding when Shirley Ann Mulholland, of Belleville, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel John Mulholland, became the bride of John Cannift Ashley of Belleville, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Cannift Ashley.

The Reverend R. D. MacLean, pastor of the church, officiated. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. Egerton Boyce, church organist, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Reta Vincent, Belleville, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her white mira-mist bridal gown, fashioned with bouffant skirt with front panel and fitted bodice of hand-appliqued French Alencon lace, with long, sheath-like sleeves. She wore a headdress encrusted with seed pearls with finger-tip tulle illusion veil, and carried a cascade of red roses, mingled with lily-of-the-valley, with rosebud - knotted streamers.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Marilyn Cross of Toronto, cousin of the bride, was attired in pink embroidered nylon over silk taffeta in waltz-length, with high scalloped neckline and fitted bodice accented by a pleated sash in three-quarter length; matching accessories, and carrying a semi-cascade bouquet of white and blue 'mums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Sharon Rump and Miss Patricia Mulholland, sister of the bride, were in blue waltz-length gowns fashioned on lines similar to that of the matron of honor; while the junior bridesmaid, Miss Sharon Mulholland, also a sister of the bride, was in pink embroidered nylon over silk taffeta. She carried a semi-cascade of white and blue 'mums. All attendants wore headdresses matching their gowns.

Mr. Donald Younge of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. James Cross of Toronto, was usher.

The reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Belleville, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a sheath style gown of water-green organza over taffeta with matching accessories and corsage of yellow roses and lily-of-the-valley. Assisting her in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, gowned in blue embossed satin in sheath style, with matching accessories and corsage of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask and the traditional all-white, pedestal wedding cake in three tiers, topped by a crystal holder of deep-pink gladioli florets mingled with lily-of-the-valley, and clouded about the base with pink tulle. Tall white candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquets added a delightful accent.

For the wedding trip to New York City, the bride wore a sheath dress of royalty blue embroidered taffeta with honeydew beige Italian linen duster with matching lining, bone-colored accessories, and corsage of white 'mums. The happy couple will reside on McDonald Ave., Belleville, upon their return.

Guests were present from Montreal, Kingston, Toronto and Picton.

Several showers, prior to her marriage, were held in Toronto; a kitchen shower was also given by Miss Sharon Rump and Mrs. Gail Brown, of Belleville.

USEFUL GIFT

ROYSTON, England (CP)—Coldest wedding gift is Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Spiller, tenants of a municipal house in this Devon community for 20 years, was a fortnight's free rent donated in a collection among the town councillors.

13 Ladies Attend Stork Shower

2ND THURLOW — A stork shower was held recently at the home of Mrs. David Craig in honor of Mrs. Beverley Boyce. There were 13 ladies present from Belleville, with Mrs. Joan Diamond, Mrs. Ronald Atkins and Mrs. John Craig from the community.

The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Many lovely gifts were received for which Beverley expressed appreciation.

Games were enjoyed during the afternoon and refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

University W.C. Holds 'Fighting Words' Panel

The annual meeting of the U.W.C. was held recently in St. Thomas' Parish House with Mrs. J. Haig presiding.

Following individual reports by the 1958-59 executive, the past president, Mrs. P. Seibert, presided over the election of officers for the coming year. The newly elected executive are as follows: past president — Mrs. J. Haig; president — Mrs. J. McArthur; vice-president — Mrs. A. Lewis; treasurer — Miss H. McLaren; federation representative — Mrs. D. Burr; membership convener — Mrs. J. Nelles; hospitality — Mrs. R. Walsh; publicity — Mrs. G. E. Boyce; recording secretary — Mrs. L. Langlois; corresponding secretary — Miss M. Gibson; members at large — Mrs. S. Lipsen, and Mrs. R. Barrett.

FIGHTING WORDS PANEL

Following the business meeting, the club members were entertained by a "Fighting Words" panel consisting of four of their own members: Mrs. R. Graham; Mrs. A. Gillis; Miss J. Howson, and Mrs. D. Hoar.

The six quotations examined by the panel were:

"Every man has his price"; "Going steady is ruining our teenagers"; "If you set up a board to censor what the people in our province are going to read, you are in difficulty. Stay out of it"; "Most friendships is feigning, most loving mere folly"; "It seems a pity that the Government-General did not propose the dissolution of such obsolete institutions as the Canadian Club"; "Socialism has so haltened down the hatches that the passengers have forgotten how to breathe".

Miss M. Young, as moderator of the panel, was excellent as were the panelists who were admonished by Miss Young to keep the fighting verbal, and for not more than two to speak at a time.

After many witticisms, some deep thoughts and much laughter the panel was thanked by Mrs. C. McKeown and refreshments were served.

WELCOME NEIGHBORS

HOUGHTON REGIS, England CP)—As part of a "get to know your neighbors" campaign the council of this Bedfordshire town organized a fete for the first London surplus families coming to a new estate.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Martha S. — She thinks of law — but it should be marriage.

Louise F. — I'm not the mother-housewife type.

Martha S. — I am 23, the mother of two children, and I have been married five years. The reason I married late was that I had to go to work early and got stl involved in my career.

I enjoyed my work, yet I feel that I missed a great deal in all those years. They could have been happier, more fruitful and I could have had a bigger family. Now I am trying to prevent my 22-year-old sister from making the same mistake.

Louise is the baby of the family and we have all given her a lot of encouragement in everything she wanted. But now she has decided she wants to be a lawyer and I am against it. She will have many more years of study and she is already too immersed in books for her own good. It's time for her to think about marriage.

Louise F. — I'm afraid I'm just not the mother-housewife type. I've always hated housework and I think I'd go crazy if I just had that to look forward to. Of course, I'd like to marry some day and then I suppose I'll settle down and do it like Martha.

My teachers at college have given me a lot of encouragement to study law and I thought my family would be proud of me. You could have knocked me over with a feather when Martha gave me her real opinion.

I always looked up to Martha because she was such a success in her career. She certainly didn't seem to be unhappy at that time. I always felt we were very much alike. Martha rarely dated and I find that the same is true of me. I don't miss social life. I'm happy as I am.

The Council: Martha has a great deal of influence over Louise because she has been and probably still is an ideal to her. But if she wants to be really helpful she should be a little less rigid in her ideas of what is best for her young sister.

A girl of 20 who has received her teacher's encouragement to go on to study law undoubtedly has a lot of ability and we can see no reason why anyone should try to squelch this. Today it is simply not necessary for a woman to completely sacrifice her intellectual ambition and capacity in order to achieve the emotional satisfaction of being a woman.

We will not decry, however, that in her present frame of mind Louise is headed toward making the sacrifice in the opposite direction. Martha may be able to help her by showing her complete satisfaction with her present life. She should encourage Louise to develop an interest in social life. It is very doubtful whether Louise is being honest with herself when she says she has no interest in this at all. She may have more personal resources than most girls, but she is probably normal enough to also want the attentions of young men.

Martha should recognize that her fears are a little outdated. The pattern today is for women to get in all the education they can, while they are young. Soon after they may settle down to raise families, but then they go into the working world — and the better equipped they come the happier they are in their work. Law school is a good place to meet men and we think Martha should give this enterprise her blessing.

Chili Con Carne For Ten and For Fifty

by Mary Moore

There has been a great flurry of news from overseas. Herbie took his post staff examination leave and he and Marianne flew to London. Romance or another they were able to buy tickets at My Fair Lady at regular prices. My eye surgeon niece Beverly went up from Bristol to spend two days with them. They went on a clothes buying spree "you should have seen us Mum, skipping down Regent Street clutching our American Travellers' cheques," and "Ring Bells! Dance! Sing! Herbie passed his Pre-Staff exams! They phoned the news from Soest to London."

So it was a very happy holiday with a gratifying climax.

(Naturally Grandma optimistically wonders about homeposting news.)

How I happened to get started on that is because Herbie likes Chili con Carne and today's column is to be given over to recipes for it — one family size and one for a large quantity for which we had a request.

CHILI CON CARNE

The following amount will serve 1 cup each to 10 people—a generous serving but not too much when it is the only hot item and served with crisp cole slaw.

(Bracketing figures are for 50 servings of 1 cup each and are given by special request.)

One pound (5 pounds) dried red kidney beans, 6 cups (6 quarts) water, 1½ teaspoons (2½ tablespoons) salt, 2 pounds (10 pounds) ground beef (stewing beef is excellent), ¾ cup (3¼ cups coarsely chopped onion, ¼ cup (1¼ cups) good quality bacon dripping or margarine or chopped suet, 3¼ cups (3½ quarts) thick part of canned tomatoes, 1 cup (5 cups) finely chopped celery, 1 tablespoon (5 tablespoons) chili powder, 1½ to 2 teaspoons (2½ tablespoons to 3½ tablespoons) salt, ¼ teaspoon (½ teaspoon) each red pepper and garlic salt, ⅛ teaspoon (2 1-3 teaspoon) sugar. Soak beans in water overnight and simmer them in the morning in the soaking water with the first amount of salt — 1½ teaspoons, until barely tender. Do not drain. Allow to stand. They absorb more of the liquid. Saute the ground beef and onion in the fat, stirring constantly to break up lumps of meat. Add all remaining ingredients but beans and water. Simmer about 30 minutes. Drain beans. Measure liquid — there should be 1 cup. Add beans and 1 cup of bean liquid and simmer Chili con Carne until, of somewhat thickened consistency to serve. It should be simmered about one hour in all. Serve with rye bread toasted, or crackers, and cole slaw.

Dinner Menus

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

ABOUT BRIDE'S FATHER'S RESPONSE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am an only child (although honestly I don't think I'm spoiled, because I just wasn't allowed to be), and my mother and father and I always have been, and are, extremely devoted. My fiance and I are to have quite a large church wedding in late June, and today when I was discussing some of our wedding plans with a friend, she suggested an idea that thrilled me. But I've never been to a wedding where it was done, and so I'm very doubtful if it is proper.

This friend said that when her father made his response to the minister's question, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" he responded "Her mother and I do." (The reason why I am particularly interested in this idea is that this friend is also an only child, also is very devoted to her mother and father. Her wedding was in a distant city, where she then lived and so I was unable to attend.) I like this response, don't you, Mrs. Beeckman? — Edith S.

I do indeed like this gracious response, particularly when the bride's father looks devotedly at the bride's mother as he lovingly includes her in the response. It can be made a very wonderful moment in the ceremony, it is generally considered entirely proper, and I am quite sure will be approved by your minister. However, be sure to ask him, either before or at the rehearsal.

FICTON

Young Law Student to Carry Liberal Standard in Election

FICTON— Prince Edward-Lennox Liberals will be represented by a 21-year-old law student of Napanee, G. Patrick Beavers, in the June 11 election. He will oppose Norris Whitney, former sitting member, who was renominated by the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Beavers defeated Mrs. Fred Ferry of Lennox in the balloting. Also nominated were Clinton Green and Percy Melloti of Cherry Valley, Reeve Erwell Huff of Ernestown, Roland Stalker of Adolphustown. The hall at Adolphustown was filled for the open meeting which was presided over by Association president, Erwell Huff with James Madden of Napanee as secretary.

The liberal candidate graduated from the University of Western Ontario last summer with his Bachelor of Arts degree in history, economics and political science. Previously he attended Asbury College in Ottawa. At the University he was active in Liberal political groups and served as vice-president of Canadian University Liberal Associations. He stated that his studies had interested him in politics as good government is tied in closely with the general well being of the country.

ASSAILS GOVT.

Mrs. Ferry, who contested the nomination, assailed the Frost government on the matter of roads, education and hospitalization. Property owners bear too great a share of the cost of education, she said, believing it to be a provincial matter. Four years ago, she said, the Conservative member had declared himself as being against a bridge connecting Prince Edward and Lennox. Now, he is using it as an issue. She referred to highway 401 as a hit and miss affair.

Mr. Beavers stated that in his belief Eastern Ontario was not being developed as rapidly as Western Ontario. "We are in the heart of the Seaway, but we are not receiving the benefits we should", he declared.

Others who spoke briefly were T. G. Bowerman, ex-MPP, Cherry Valley, Mayor Harold Lasher of Napanee and Fred Norman of Bath.

ISSUES CHALLENGE

At the close of the meeting, the candidate issued a challenge to Mr. Whitney to take part in a public debate in which the issues of the campaign would be discussed.

Executive secretary of the Ontario Liberal Association, Jim Scoil predicted a surprise win for the Liberals. "The election is a quiet one and Frost wants to keep it that way, but the people are thinking hard and I believe the Liberals will form the next government", he declared.

Mr. Scott charged that many were being given employment at election time and that many projects being started will be abandoned after voting is over. He declared that Ontario has a one-man government and urged that electors select a leader who is able to meet the problems of the day.

Cave Customer 'The Bird', Won Appointment

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dan Flanagan, who sells insurance, had been trying without luck to make an appointment with advertising executive Charles L. Anders. So the other day Flanagan had a stuffed messenger deliver a cage containing a pigeon to Anders' office.

On the outside of the cage was a letter outlining Flanagan's sales pitch. The letter ended:

"If you are interested in discussing our insurance programs further, just throw our representative out the window."

Anders did. the pigeon flew home, and Flanagan got the appointment.

SUPERVISE DAM CONSTRUCTION—Two Canadians look over construction on the Warsak hydro dam in West Pakistan, Canada's biggest Colombo plan project. E. L. Miller (left) of Montreal is project engineer and M. F. Rodman, Uxbridge, Ont., is resident engineer. The project, expected to be completed next spring, is being undertaken by engineers of H. G. Acres & Co. Ltd of Niagara Falls, Ont. The $61,000,000 hydro and irrigation development on the Kabul River is 18 miles northwest of Peshawar, not far from the storied Khyber Pass. (CP Photo).

Canada's Biggest Colombo Plan Project Not Far From Khyber Pass Near Completion

PESHAWAR, West Pakistan (CP) — As the clock strikes four, dark-skinned tribesmen exchange construction helmets for turbans and stream from the site of Canada's biggest Colombo plan project, 18 miles northwest of Peshawar. It is change of shift time at the $61,000,000 Warsak hydro and irrigation development on the Kabul River, not far from the Khyber Pass.

The project, started in 1956, now is entering its final phase, with many of the 150 Canadians who worked on it leaving for Canada with their families.

When it goes into operation next year the plant will generate 214,500 horsepower of electricity and, through a 3½-mile irrigation tunnel, provide water for more than 100,000 acres of parched Peshawar land.

Ultimately, the power output of the 750-foot-long dam will be 325,000 horsepower — almost double the entire present capacity of West Pakistan.

The development has also brought a few other innovations —such as air conditioning and a superbly equipped hospital — to the storied region, which sits astride the historical invasion route to the Indian sub-continent. E. L. Miller of Montreal, project manager, says that the first two 33,000-horsepower generators should be completed early next year, and two more a few months later. Facilities are also being provided for two additional generators.

Mr. Miller, interviewed at the site of the 270-foot-high dam, estimated that at its peak earlier this year the project had a labor force of 10,000.

With the back of the job broken, and with melting snow swelling the river as it descends from the Hindu Kush Mountains in Afghanistan—necessitating curtailed operations—layoffs have reduced the force to 7,000, and it will continue to sag.

"By the end of 1960, everybody will have gone home," said the project manager.

NEAR WARSAK VILLAGE

The dam takes its name from the nearby mud-walled village of Warsak. Largest city in the sun-baked region is Peshawar, with a population of 150,000.

The project is situated in what is known as a tribal area, the home of primitive hillmen noted for their feuding and fighting. By law, these Moslem tribesmen are allowed to carry arms and ammunition.

The walls of the gorge are topped by guard posts manned by men of the Khyber Rifles — a precaution against any tribal inclinations to settle old scores with the Pakistani government by taking a whack at the country's hydro potential.

Tribesmen make up 70 per cent of the labor force and allocating jobs among the warlike groups presented a problem in diplomacy.

Eventually 80 per cent of the jobs were alloted to Mohmands, who inhabit the hills on one side of the river, and 40 per cent to the Mullagories, who live on the other side. A common laborer earns, the equivalent of 40 cents daily.

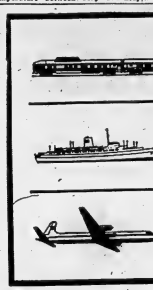
WATCH WORKERS

Officials say they have to keep a close watch lest personal or tribal animosities flare up. A few months ago some tribesmen seized a fellow worker, inserted a 100-pound-pressure air hose in his mouth, and literally blew him up.

Many minor thefts from the project have involved lengths of drill steel which the tribesmen use in making home-made guns.

Says project manager Miller: "On the pretence of going to the latrine a worker will slip away with a piece of steel, and carry it part way up the wall of the gorge, then come over the hill after work and pick it up. In this way they avoid being caught at the gate."

At this time of year the heat is intense. The average daytime temperature between May and October is 100 degrees in the shade; occasionally it rises to 120.



The Warsak project has been called a "jehad" (holy war) against poverty in Pakistan. The power will be used to extend home electrification and to help power Pakistan's growing industrial complex, which now includes textiles, paper and cement and soon may include steel. The irrigation sector will boost production of grains and fruit.

The 450 Canadians at Warsak lived in a "colony" of air-conditioned homes built by the Pakistan government. It is a self-contained community, with a 30-bed hospital, a school, a commissary which sells Canadian staple foods; and a club with swimming pool, bowling alleys and dance floor.

The hospital, directed by Dr. D.M. Good of Fredericton, is equipped to do major operations and employs two Canadian doctors and three Canadian nurses in addition to three Pakistani doctors and 75 Pakistani nurses.

The school teaches Grades 1 to 8 and is staffed by three Canadian teachers.

The development is costing Canada some $36,000,000 in Colombo plan dollars. In effect, Canada is also paying the remaining $25,000,000, through the instrument of counterpart funds.

VITAL MICROWAVE LINK — Jack Grosman, general outside plant engineer for Canadian National Telegraphs, looks out across the Atlantic from the site of a microwave tower on Newfoundland's south coast. This station at Red Rocks in the hills behind Port aux Basques was described by engineers as their toughest job in the string that will soon provide Newfoundland with its first live television link with the rest of Canada. There are guarded predictions the system will be ready for use during the Royal Tour this summer. (CP Photo).

Newfoundland About Ready For First Live Television Link With Rest of Canada

TORONTO-(CP) — A $9,000,000 string of web-like towers arching across the hills and lowlands of Newfoundland is about ready to give the Island its first live television link with the rest of Canada.

Newfoundlanders will be able to see direct telecasts of this summer's Royal Tour. There are guarded predictions the system will be in shape to transmit the royal couple's arrival in Newfoundland June 18 to the rest of the Dominion.

The towers make up the new microwave system of Canadian National Telegraphs and are now at the equipment-testing stage. Behind them lies a battle against climate and topography along with some electronic pioneering.

Between Cape North, N.S., on the northern tip of Cape Breton, and Red Rocks, high in the hills back of Port aux Basques in Newfoundland's southwestern corner, lies the longest over-water TV microwave gap in the world—99 miles across the Cabot Strait.

DIFFICULT TASK

CNT officials say completing the Red Rocks installation was the toughest job of the 23-tower chain between the Terminals at Sydney, N.S., and St. John's, Nfld. But the compensations are high.

Aside from putting Newfoundland on the CBC's cross-Canada TV network, the microwave system will fill the island's communication needs for years to come—60 telegraph and voice channels will be available at first with a potential development of 600—and provide an important link in the orth American defence network.

Two principles underlay the planning and construction of the microwave chain.

1. Microwave transmission suitable for TV must be "line-of-sight." Intervals between towers must be unbroken by high ground or the natural curvature of the earth.

2. The tower locations must be accessible to construction and maintenance crews during all weather conditions. Where a site ideal for transmission purposes required construction of a costly access road, economy dictated some compromises.

PARALLELS RAILWAY

The Newfoundland system roughly parallels the 545 - mile railway from Port aux Basques to St. John's, touching at such potential TV centres as Corner Brook on the west coast and Grand Falls in central Newfoundland.

The gaps between towers vary with topography. The shortest are about three miles, between St. John's and Kenmount Hill and Red Rocks and Shoal Point. One of the longest is the 46-mile leap between Clarenville and Heart's Content, of transatlantic cable fame, on the east coast.

Field work, including choice of tower sites, began in 1957. The climax came last winter on the craggy peak of Red Rocks and still sends shudders through CNT officials when they talk about it. Red Rocks towers 600 feet above the Atlantic. There, exposed to the full fury of gales off the Gulf of St. Lawrence and swept by rain, snow and sleet, construction crews toiled to build a 220-foot tower and install transmission equipment.

DELAYED BY WEATHER

Frequently they had no choice but to sit tight in their shacks and wait out the weather. The CNT estimates work could be carried on only one day out of five during the height of winter.

Complicating the job were the extreme technical requirements of microwave. Towers had to be rigid as a sway of a single degree could swing the transmission beam away from the next tower and break the network.

With the system finished, however, the elements can do their worst. The towers are strong enough to withstand the worst assaults in recorded meteorological history, and atmospheric gremlins don't bother microwave.

With the exception of key terminal towers, the stations are automatic and self - sustaining; regular maintenance attention only about once a month. Some use local power supplies where available, others are powered by their own diesel generator. All have fall-back generators which go on the line in the event of power disruptions.

2nd THURLOW

Christening Rite Performed at St. Andrew's

2ND THURLOW — Among those receiving baptismal rites at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church recently was Arthur David Craig, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. David Craig.

About 28 friends and relatives attended the church service.

Later, a turkey supper was enjoyed with 28 present including the Rev. and Mrs. MacLean, Miss Mae Demille, Bloomfield; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jerome, Vicki and Kathy, Dundas, Ont., Miss June Frederick, Belleville; Mrs. Craig's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome, Bellleville, and brother, Mr. Art Jerome, Mr. and Mrs. John Craig and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Huff.

Later in the evening Mr. Art Jerome entertained with movie slides of his recent trip to Mexico, and other family pictures after which, a large, decorated christening cake and punch were served.

Wooler

WOOLER — Mr. and Mrs. Garnet McGee and two children of Clinton; Mrs. Ab. Jordan and little son, of London, also Mr. and Mrs. Jim Scott, of Kingston, were weekend guests at Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Becker, of Belleville, spent an afternoon last week with Mr. J. J. Way, admiring his great display of tulips.

Mrs. C. Herrington spent the weekend with Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Sympathy goes out to the bereaved family of Mrs. B. Hennessy, who passed away on Friday evening at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Scott.

Mrs. S. L. Terrill and Mrs. C. Herrington were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Herrington, in Brighton on Tuesday night.

Miss Annie Richards, of Marmora, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bryant, on Saturday.

Mrs. C. Herrington, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, Mrs. Mabel Jermans, Mrs. Les. Anderson, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Wessels were Sunday guests of Mrs. M. Burrill.

Mrs. Les Anderson, of Toronto, is spending this week with her son, Herman, and Mrs. Anderson.

force the policy, the commission said, have had "very limited success." But there had been cases of harm to the public.

"The likelihood is clear that ill membership in the association increases and the policy is more fully supported by its members, the consequent increasing control of the trade and restriction on competition will lead to greater public detriment."

The commission's inquiry stems from a statement filed in January, 1958, by combines investigation director T. D. MacDonald.

The association, in private bearings before the commission, rejected Mr. MacDonald's conclusions that the association, together with four Toronto contractors, had been parties to agreements to limit facilities for the supply of electrical construction materials, to increase unreasonably the prices of such materials, and to prevent or lessen competition in their sale and supply.

The four contractors, named as those "principally concerned in devising and carrying out" the association's activities, are: Clarence W. Dent, past president of the association; Donald M. Brown, president of the Toronto zone; Frank J. Dahmer, past president of the Toronto zone; and Hugh J. McDonald, chairman of the business practices committee for both the provincial association and the Toronto zone.

The commission report made no finding in respect of the four officials.

The report quoted a letter written in 1956 by Mr. Dent, then association president, in which he told of a druggist building a store in St. Thomas, and obtaining fluorescent lighting fixtures from his chain store organization.

"Every contractor refused to hang them (the lights) without adding their usual profit for the fixtures to the installation price," the letter said. "The druggist in this case had no alternative but to pay the contractor his profit or commission . . . ."

The report said the association hoped to strengthen its policies through a municipal bylaws, passed under Ontario legislation, by which electrical contractors in a municipality would have to be registered by the association.

CHARGE REDUCED

CALGARY (CP)—George Taylor, 20, on trial for the murder of gambler Clyde (Jack) Baxter, Monday pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter and was sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary. Last Friday Ronald Barry Dixon, 19, was sentenced to 15 years after a jury reduced the original murder charge in the same case.

Present Gold Stock of U.S. Treasury Lowest in 13 Years Only $20,000,000 Now Held

NEW YORK (AP)—Europeans today increasingly talk of the possibility a dollar is a potentially invalid.

The uproar is spiced at the moment by the marked outflow of gold from the United States. In the last six months over $254,000,000 of it has been bought by other countries.

The present gold stock of the U.S. treasury is the lowest in 13 years, at $19,600,000,000, this compares with $13,000,000,000 held in 1937, but with $25,000,000,000 in 1949.

Of the $20,000,000,000, some $12,000,000,000 is earmarked by U.S. law as minimum backing for the domestic money supply—that is, a gold reserve equal to 25 per cent of the currency plus the demand deposits of the federal reserve system's member banks.

HELPS ECONOMIES

Washington's official stand is that the U.S. dollar is still as strong as ever, that the flow of gold to Britain, Japan and others is a good thing because it means a redistribution that strengthens their economies while still leaving about half of the world's non-Communist gold in U.S. hands.

The flow of gold into other coffers has come about because Europeans, especially rich ones, could build up reserves once more.

More specifically, it has come because American exports have risen while U.S. imports are rising, and because for a time, when interest rates here were lower, short - term money gravitated from New York to London and other capitals where rates were more.

Also U.S. dollars have gone to Europe to build American factories there, to buy European stocks and bonds, and in increasing number of vacations abroad. All these things add to the normal countries the dollars they have wanted so badly ever since the war.

Many of these dollars in recent months have been turned into gold, at the urging of the U.S. reserves, because "many Europeans now believe the "dynker dollar" is no longer to be soil and end-all it once was.

GOLD SAFER

Gold seems safer—especially if there's a chance it might rise in price while purchasing power could cut away more of the dollar's buying power.

The official American position is that only runaway inflation at home could force the U.S. to devalue the dollar in terms of gold or other currencies.

But all the talk about the possible weakening of the dollar has had a boost in the price of gold, upsets many Americans, who note that Russia from time to time sells gold in European markets, realizes the dollar is sound. World production is assumed to have risen to around 17,000,000 ounces a year, based on a slight that of South Africa's, the largest producer according to published reports, and roughly two-fifths as big as the non-Communist world total.

Two Chrysler Lines in One Sales Division

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corporation has combined its Plymouth and DeSoto lines into one sales division.

A company spokesman said both cars will be distributed by single sales division will be responsible for distribution, product planning and advertising of both lines.

The corporation made a brief announcement of the change, which also included the naming of three other executives to Chrysler - imperial and Dodge Divisions.

It gave no formal reason for the switch.

However, industry sources saw it as another in frequent recent Chrysler moves designed at pairing a larger share of the domestic car market.

The reorganization top Chrysler President L. L. (Tex) Colbert set a goal of 20 per cent for Chrysler products. At the moment the Chrysler share is just under 14 per cent, although on the way up after a glass strike cut early 1959 production.

Colbert frequently has denied persistent rumors that the DeSoto line would be discontinued.

Skin Diver Drowns

TORONTO (CP) — Skin diver Geoffrey Steadman, about 35, was drowned Tuesday while trying lines to a portable crane which had overturned on a pier at the Toronto Harbor Harbor at mid-way.

Police recovered the body.

Liberal Members Walk Out in Procedural Spat

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal members of the Commons Industrial relations committee walked out in a body Tuesday in the culmination of a series of procedural spats.

The walkout was occasioned by what the three departing Liberals said was an overlong committee meeting. Earlier, a fourth Liberal member, Paul Martin of Essex East, threatened a similar withdrawal over protests by Progressive Conservative members about his line of questioning.

Mr. Martin had left by the time his three colleagues — Alexis Caron, Hull; Dr. W. K. Mitchell, Saskatoon, and Charles Granger, Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador—made their departure.

The committee met to hear a brief by the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor about the government's Unemployment Insurance Act amendments increasing employer and employee contributions to the unemployment insurance benefit fund.

DELAY REFUSED

After the committee had sat for about two hours, Mr. Caron indicated he had further questions for the brief. The Liberals then urged that the hearing be postponed until the next day.

But this brought objections from the majority Conservative members, and the Liberals left. The committee then wound up its hearing within five minutes.

Mr. Martin threatened to pull out with the other Liberals when the Conservatives objected to him questioning Jean Marchand, CCCL secretary - general, about his politics.

He said Labor Minister Starr had suggested in the Commons that Mr. Marchand had CCFC affiliations.

Scott Misener Carried 868,561 Bushels of Grain

MONTREAL (CP)—The mammoth lake ship Scott Misener, carrying enough grain to fill 30 railway boxcars, arrived in Montreal Harbor Tuesday — largest ship to navigate the new seaway along the St. Lawrence since it opened a month ago.

The lake carrier, built for the seaway, is 685 feet long with a beam of 72 feet. It had four feet on each side as it slowly squeezed into the last of the seven locks on the St. Lawrence across the river from Montreal Island.

The Scott Misener, loaded with 868,561 bushels of western barley, wheat and oats, will dock in Montreal before picking up a return cargo. She also sailed from Fort William last Thursday, and cleared the St. Lambert lock early this morning, a voyage of less than five days.

MOST ECONOMICAL

It took 41,000 acres of western land to grow the grain carried by the big ship. Only slim evidence that could not venture into mighty ocean waters, she can carry more bulk cargo economically than any ocean ship in the inland waters.

It was for this kind of ship that the seaway was built.

The Scott Misener made better time than the John F. B. Misener, another giant laker, which arrived in Montreal Harbor May 19 five days and five hours after leaving the Lakehead—a record run up to that time.

The John F. F. Misener, 654 feet long with a 68-foot beam, carried what was then a record seaway cargo: 740,885 bushels of grain.

Should Eat Less After Age of 25

NEW YORK (AP)—Overweight can be prevented by eating one per cent less every year after the age of 25,a symposium on obesity was told.

Overweight develops, said Dr. Herbert Pollack, "because many people eat more, let because they continue to eat the same amount of food from year to year as they grow older." He added:

"Fact, after the age of 25, we require one per cent less food each year."

Pollack, associate professor of clinical medicine at New York University, is chairman of the American Heart Association's nutrition committee.

Two Labor Chiefs Attack Policies Of U.S. Shipping

MONTREAL (CP) — Two United States labor leaders attacked the American government's shipping policies Tuesday and called for legislation to curb the widespread practice of sailing under "flags of convenience."

Speaking at the biennial convention of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC), Joseph Curran, president of the 4,000-member union, and Sam Bennett, president of the Marine Firemen's Union of the Pacific, criticized their government for allowing U.S. owners to register ships under foreign flags to avoid strict labor and shipping laws.

Mr. Curran said that "in the event of war we wouldn't be able to control the ships because they are accustomed to trade with sailers around the world."

DOESN'T KNOW THE SEA

The theory that the United States would have "effective control" because the owners are American citizens was advanced by an "impractical professor" who didn't understand sea-faring customs, he said.

Mr. Bennett also said the governments of Canada and the United States must come to the aid of merchant shipping.

He said U.S. shipping has declined sharply since 1939, forcing many sailors onto the beach and added "let us not forget that the defeated nations of the Second World War—Japan notably, and Germany are now building up their merchant marine fleets.

"This competition is going to hurt us badly some day if we are not ready to meet it."

Police Searching For 2 Americans Said Missing

KENORA (CP) — Provincial police are searching for two Americans reported missing since Sunday in bush country 30 miles southeast of here.

Provincial police inspector Tom Christie said the two men left Sioux Narrows, 30 miles south of here, aboard a light airplane bound for Vermilion Bay, about 50 miles north. A red canoe which had been strapped to the floats was found Monday in a lake 40 miles from Sioux Narrows. There was no sign of the aircraft.

Insp. Corsie said the pilot of the plane was identified as Maurice J. Mericko. Name of the second man was not known.

Army Will Launch Largest Transatlantic Airlifts in Fall Moving 3,500 Men

SOEST, Germany (CP) — The Canadian Army will launch one of the largest transatlantic airlifts in military history this fall when it begins rotating the 4th Canadian Brigade group after two years' NATO duty in Europe.

Upwards of 3,500 soldiers — all single—are expected to be involved in the two-way lift across the Atlantic. Chartered commercial airliners will carry replacement troops to Germany and take back members of the 4th brigade.

Another 3,400 married personnel will travel by boat with their families.

FIFTH ROTATION

The current troop rotation, fifth changeover of personnel to take place since Canada first sent an independent brigade group to Europe in 1951, will be the first in which large numbers of troops have moved by air.

The decision to take to the air is popular with single troops in Germany who find the week-long sea voyage boring and are understandably impatient to be reunited with parents and sweethearts after the long separation.

"It is great, absolutely great," Brigadier Donald St. Denis, of Cornwall, Ont., a staff driver at brigade headquarters who has embedded to fly home about the end of October. "The boat trip is all right for married guys, but most single men find it a real bind."

St. Denis intends to make the army a career—"I wouldn't think of getting out"—and hopes to get another tour of duty in Germany.

COST FAVORABLE

"It'll be a married type myself, then. I'm getting married as soon as I get back." His fiancee's name—"a secret."

Brigade officials say the cost of charter flights compares favorably with transport by sea. "It should save Canadian taxpayers several thousand dollars," said a spokesman.

Many soldiers in Germany, including some senior officers, believe there is more behind the airlift than the economics of travel and the morale of single men.

It is an open secret that Canadian military authorities have detailed emergency plans to evacuate army dependents—some 9,000 wives and children—by air should the cold war turn hot.

"It might be going too far to describe this airlift as a full-scale tryout of emergency evacuation measures, said a staff officer, "but the lessons we learn on this lift will be useful — very useful."

Naming of Third Diocesan Bishop Said Essential

TORONTO (CP)—The Rt. Rev. F. H.-Wilkinson, Anglican Bishop of Toronto, told the synod's 109th annual session here Tuesday the appointment of a third bishop in the diocese is essential.

It was imperative that he and the Suffragan Bishop should have the assistance of another bishop in the future growth and welfare of the diocese, he told some 1,000 clerical and lay members.

Expressing concern about what he termed the increase of pornographic literature and the lowering of tastes in clothing and amusement, Bishop Wilkinson said: "It is about time someone tore the mask from the flood of pornographic and immoral literature which is invading this country. Another menace to our society is the increasing influence of the profit motive in business." The immortal sin of the profit motive, the prostituting of commerce for the maximum gain in dollars and cents is a violation of moral responsibility.

IGNORANCE COSTLY

He urged that Anglicans become better informed because "two of the greatest obstacles to the church's work today are ignorance and small-mindedness."

The bishop condemned what he termed "the idolatory of alcohol" and "one of the besetting evils of our times." Alcoholism had increased by 91 per cent in Ontario in the last 10 years, he said, and "alcohol is one of the chief causes of disability and disease among the working population of the United States and Canada."

The Rt. Rev. C. B. Snell told the session that the diocese will seek closer co - operation with Baptist, Presbyterian and United Churches in work in the Regent Park housing development in the city. A meeting to explore means of co-operation will be held in June, he said.

V. W. BLADEN DEAN

TORONTO (CP)—Prof. Vincent Wheeler Bladen has been appointed dean of the University of Toronto arts faculty, succeeding Dean Moffat St. A. Woodside, the new principal of University College. It was announced Tuesday night.

House Assured Interest Rates Will Not Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Green assured the Commons Tuesday that the existing interest rate of six per cent for National Housing Act mortgage loans will not be increased.

He gave the assurance in reply to J. R. Garland (L—Nipissing), who asked for comment on a National House Builders Association survey which he said indicated only 67,500 houses will be built in Canada this year. Some 146,000 were completed last year.

Mr. Green replied that whatever made that estimate was "a very poor guesser." But when Mr. Garland then asked Mr. Green to make a guess of his own, the minister replied he is not in the business of estimating. (Earlier this year, the government forecast starts on new housing units this year would total 140,000.).

Mr. Green reiterated that the government is watching the situation closely and will make any new policy known when it is decided.

Mr. Garland asked whether Mr. Green would agree there has been a "considerable drop in housing starts because of a shortage of mortgage money."

Mr. Green said he could not agree with the strong language used in the question since he remembered "when it was in opposition I think we made some things look as black as possible."

Mr. Garland then asked whether Mr. Green could give assurance that NHA interest rates would be maintained. Mr. Green said he could give that assurance but added that it doesn't help the situation to have members making "all these dark statements."

CBC Technicians Come to Terms With Corporation

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials of the CBC technicians' union reached agreement with the public-service conciliation board here last night on terms for settling their contract dispute.

Agreement came only a few hours after the disputants had broken off negotiations. The 1,273-member union threatened to strike CBC radio and television stations across Canada.

The National Association of Broadcast Technicians (Canadian Region) (CLC), had announced no strike date but expected walkout, but NABET spokesmen had speculated that it might prevent the TV and radio coverage of the Royal visit next month.

20-MONTH PACT

The terms of the 20-month agreement, which now goes before the NABET members h i p, provide for increases of three per cent retroactive to Aug. 1, 1958; a further three per cent effective last May 1; and a final 3.715 per cent April 1, 1960. The contract expires March 31, 1960.

The union had rejected a conciliation board report recommending a two-per - cent raise retroactive to last Aug. 1; a further two per cent effective last May 1; and a final 3.715 per cent Feb. 1, 1960 — existing rates.

Supplementation of this report would have brought the maximum annual salary for present technicians—the basic classification of employee—to $5,237 from $5,000. Agreement reached Tuesday night increases the maximum to $5,308.

Present starting salary for employees in that classification is $3,187, with automatic increases over the next seven years to $4,804.

General Said Forbidden to Talk to Press

OTTAWA (CP)—An American publication says Gen. Earle Partridge, American commander of North American Air Defence Command, has been prevented by the Canadian government from talking to the press in this country.

It also says the Canadian government insisted that U.S. Air Force officers attached to the northern NORAD region at St. Hubert, Que., be listed as "liaison officers" and that they wear civilian clothes.

The news item, technical magazine Data, published in Washington, says its information was obtained from "a high ranking officer in NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command."

There was no immediate government comment.

OMA Refuses Participation In Health Scheme That Would Hurt MD - Patient Relations

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Medical Association moved Tuesday to protect the patient-doctor relationship, with a warning that it would refuse to participate in any health scheme it considers dangerous to the connection.

It also said labor complaints that industrial physicians sometimes favor management in the examination or treatment of patients would be investigated.

The official statement on the group's special committee on medical care and practice was issued at a press conference following a meeting of the OMA council. This OMA legislative body meets in conjunction with the annual convention.

"STATE MEDICINE" VIEWS

Under questioning by reporters as to whether the OMA was opposed to "state medicine," Dr. Lorne Whitaker of St. Catharines, president of the OMA, and Dr. F. R. McGuffin of Toronto, chairman of the committee, gave qualified replies.

Dr. Galloway said the OMA is not "unalterably opposed to public health programs if the people wants them, but completely opposed any plan which would interfere with the doctor-patient relationship."

The committee enumerated certain aspects of medicine which it believes were "properly the concern of government," including those of medicine requiring essentially a providing service for those requiring the authority of legislation; and those requiring assistance from the province in the matter of such as indigency.

The committee agreed people have the right to insure themselves in any manner against possible medical expenses. It also asked that, before any plan is formulated by government or its agencies, the medical profession be consulted. To be sure the plan is "realistic in every way to the social needs of the population."

Members of the committee included Dr. R. D. Atkinson, Wallaceburg; Dr. R. Lochhead, Sudbury and Dr. H. M. Taylor, Tavistock.

The report also declared it did not recommend extension at present of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission scheme to include out-patient diagnostic services in hospitals, including x-ray and doctor's offices.

Other recommendations highlights, a compact Dutch - made x-ray unit about a quarter of the size of the ordinary mobile unit was demonstrated for the first time in North America.

The first of six closed-circuit color television broadcasts dealing with surgical procedures and using with surgical and clinical procedure came to be piped today from Toronto General Hospital to about 1,500 doctors in the Royal York Hotel.

Macmillan Has No Intention Of Calling General Election

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The current position of Britain's professional politicians is that of an operatic tenor who has inflated his lungs for the opening note of the big aria but in the conductor leaves his podium to catch a train.

In defiance of rumors to the contrary, Prime Minister Macmillan has let it be known that he has no intention of advising the calling a general election. After his statement it is futile for anyone to respond to the rumors, party strategists find they have marching orders to follow.

The result has been a superfluity of red herring on British political menu as the frustrated campaigners cast about for means of refreshing their jaded appetites.

For instance, the outgoing Labor majority on the borough council of Lewisham, which lost control to the Tories in the municipal elections two weeks ago, manoeuvred to get back in by electing a couple of Labor aldermen and a lord mayor. The Conservatives, who polled the most trick on the Staffordshire county council last year, raised their voices in pious horror.

A Liberal party newspaper editorial said the Tories were spelling party members for unfair practices. A Labor newspaper page of the same paper recorded the expulsion of a Liberal councillor from the party for a Conservative mayor.

The Labor party is faring no better. Half its spokesmen are busy reassuring the voters that Hugh Gaitskell is the right man to succeed Attlee as party leader, while the party is telling discontented party left-wingers that nationalization

All Deaneries Of Diocese Must Be Divided

HAMILTON (CP) — Reorganization of various deaneries within the Anglican diocese of Niagara was announced Tuesday at the 85th session of the synod.

Rt. Rev. Walter E. Bagnall, Bishop of Niagara, told the session: three archdeaconries will each be divided into two deaneries.

"Niagara is not a difficult diocese to administer as a diocese but it is difficult to divide it into wide units of deaneries and archdeaconries," the bishop said.

The session heard Micheal Sarkwy, Ottawa editor of The Financial Post and an active Anglican layman, urge that the church should spend more time making itself out into the world and less time trying to "enlarge the heterogeneous mass of our congregations."

BELIEF IS VITAL

Mr. Barkway said the church was meant to be a community sharing a common life in Christ. A true Christian community cannot be built by bringing people into activities like socials and dances but by "the formation of small groups all of whom have the belief that Christ is the most important thing in their lives."

The reorganization of the deaneries was recommended by a committee appointed last year.

The archdeaconry of Trafalgar will consist of the deaneries of Wellington and Halton. The archdeaconry of Lincoln and Welland will be divided into two deaneries bearing those names.

The archdeaconry of Hamilton will contain the deaneries of Hamilton and Wentworth, which will become Hamilton West and Hamilton East respectively.

Jury Rules Two Men Responsible For Bank Slaying

TIMISKAMING, Que. (CP)—A coroner's jury ruled Monday night that two North Bay men "must be held criminally responsible" for the May 15 gunshot death of bank manager Alexander Heron.

Mr. Heron, manager of the Bank of Montreal branch at this town 31 miles northeast of North Bay, died after he was shot during a scuffle with a man who tried to rob the bank before it opened.

Ernest Cote and Alexander Kyle Brush were taken into custody by Ontario police when their car was stopped at a roadblock shortly after the shooting. They have been held on a coroner's warrant by Quebec Provincial Police.

Cote and Brush, who sat with arms folded through Monday's four-hour inquest hearing, were to appear at a preliminary hearing at Ville Marie, 50 miles north of here.

The coroner's jury said in its verdict:

"The wounds were caused by bullets fired from a .32-calibre revolver in the hands of Ernest Cote who was apparently attempting to hold up the bank and had been holding the first teller at gun point and who was aided and abetted by Alexander Kyle Brush who accompanied Cote to the vicinity and drove the getaway car."

The jury also recommended "that further investigation be pursued into the evasive testimony of Arthur Johnson."

Mr. Johnson, of Sudbury, appeared in connection with the sale of firearms to the North Bay men.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG— Miss Isobel Beatty, of Belleville, called on several friends in this village, recently.

Mrs. W. A. Morton, who has been the guest of her sister, Miss Emma Porter, has returned home.

At the last regular meeting of Crescent Rebekah Lodge, candidates were initiated into the Order. The degree team of Tweed Lodge was in charge of the initiation ceremony.

Mrs. Charles Mills of Harlowe, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Thompson, for the past two weeks, returned home on Saturday last.

Mr. Lewis Adams, who has been seriously ill with virus pneumonia has recovered sufficiently to return to his studies at Tweed high school.

The Ladies of Thomasburg United Church W.A., sponsored a successful house cooking and apron sale in Tweed recently.

Mr. Ronald Adams of Toronto, spent the holiday weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Adams.

Most of the cottage owners in the vicinity opened their summer homes for the season on the holiday weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Vance and Carolyn, of Perth, Ontario, visited Mr. and Mrs. H. Vance and family, over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Prindle and Richard, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Bush, of Belleville, motored to Kingston, recently.

NATURALIST DIES

GUELPH (CP) — Horace Gordon Mack, 64, noted naturalist and conservationist, died Monday in Guelph General Hospital. Chairman of the board of Gilson Manufacturing Company Limited, he had opened two bird sanctuaries near here and recently had been trying to raise wild waterfowl at Niska Game Farm near Puslinch. He was a member of the Grand Valley Conservation Authority.

Pop, Mom, Kids Find New Way To Have Fun

Families are learning to have their fun together. It used to be that dad disappeared with his friends over the weekend while mom and the kids were resigned to remain at home. Now, the entire family have discovered the tremendous pleasure to be found in boating together.

Boating goes with camping. There are dozens of lakes within driving distance of Belleville just waiting to be explored on any weekend — and inexpensive trailers let you take your boat where ever you can drive your car. Fishing . . . water skiing . . . or just exploring all add up to hours of summer pleasure for all the family from the youngest to the oldest members.

Here is a sport in which the whole family can participate completely and yet the cost is reasonable. At Booth Marina, 32 South Front St., Belleville, you can buy a good used boat, motor and trailer on even a limited budget. There's no down payment required and only small weekly payments for an entire summer of fun. We're open evenings 'til nine, so drop in and talk it over.

Little Known Briton Upsets Long-Hitting Yankee Star

SANDWICH, England (CP)—A cut-down field of 64 today went into the third round of the British amateur golf championship—a championship that already has been dubbed the' battle of the rough.

Both winders and losers sharply criticized the way the rough has been allowed to infringe on the fairways, making them tight and tough.

Defending champion Joe Carr of Ireland, who moved easily into the third round, commenting on the rough of the 6,728-yard Royal St. George's course, said:

"All you can do when you're in stuff like this rough is play out sideways."

NO RECOVERY

"Often it means a penalty of a stroke. There's no chance of recovery and reaching the green."

The rough was tagged for one of Tuesday's biggest upsets—the 1-up defeat of long-hitting Billy Joe Patton of the United States by little-known Bill Hill of England.

On the 12th tee, Patton boomed a long drive down the fairway but the ball hit a mound and skipped into deep rough. Instead of playing for the green and a possible birdie three, Patton had to shoot out and finished with a five.

Today's two rounds were to bring the field down to 16. Two more rounds are set for Thursday to cut it to the four semi-finalists.

Only one of Britain's top players lost Tuesday, Walker Cupper Michael Lunt.

Big Ed Walsh Spitball King Dies of Cancer

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) Edward A. (Big Ed) Walsh, whose snapping spitball rifled him into baseball's hall of fame, died Tuesday of cancer.

Walsh, 72, died after more than a year's illness in south Florida retirement during which he retained keen interest in modern-day annals of the game he played in the early 1900s.

The Plains, Pa., native won a modest six games and lost four in 1904, his first year in the major leagues and Chicago White Sox uniform.

But he came on steadily to turn in performances that won him fame as an extra - duty "iron man." The righthander compiled a lifetime record of 195 victories and 126 losses, retiring in 1917 as a Boston Braves hurler after 13 years in White Sox service. His best season was 1908 when he won 40 games and lost 15.

A year ago the White Sox honored him with an Ed Walsh day at Comiskey Park.

Prior to his major league career, Walsh played with semi-pro teams that toured Canada including several games in the early 1900s in Kingston.

For years he was a regular summer visitor at Coopers town, N.Y., where in 1946 he was inducted into baseball's hall of fame.

Little Men of British Golf Rapidly Disappearing Breed

By STERLING SLAPPEY

SANDWICH, Eng. (AP)—A devoted breed of people is dying out in Britain—the lilliputian golf caddies who tote the days of Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones roamed this island in the hundreds.

Only three of the dedicated little men are left. They are little Mac Macormick, 61, Joe Mamby, 57, and Willie Cutler, 56.

When they are gone there likely will never be another—because modern times do not fit a man who is willing to sleep in the grass out on the course, cadge a meal or a drink and carry another man's playthings for $5.00 a day.

"I've been carrying the bag for 48 years, since I was a school boy in Manchester," little Mac said. "And I'll go on carrying as long as my master, Dai Rees (Britain's Ryder Cup captain) will have me. I would not want to do anything else on earth.

Prior to his major league career, Walsh played with semi-pro teams that toured Canada including several games in the early 1900s in Kingston.

"I've carried the clubs of Tommy Armour and Johnny Farrell, Al Espinosa, Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen, and Joe Kirkwood, and many later Americans."

Little Mac, a four-foot 10-inch thin faced man is carrying the clubs of Billy Hyndman of Philadelphia, this week, in the British amateur championship at Royal St. George's.

Little Mac has not missed carrying in a British Open for nearly 40 years. He says the players have learned to hit the ball further and the makers are making better equipment. But the players are not better shot makers than in the days of Leon Diegel, Walter Hagan and Bobby Jones.

Mr. Rees gives me 10 per cent of our winnings and Mr. Rees and I win better than our share. I do not sleep out often these days and I eat often. I'd say I'm a happy man, happier than most.

PASSED BAD CHEQUES

GUELPH (CP)—Percy Smith, 63, of Exeter, Monday was sentenced to two years less a day in reformatory on seven charges of false pretences. The charges involved $145 in worthless cheques passed in banks at Toronto, Hamilton, Dundas, Kingston, Ottawa and Guelph.

Paar 'Invaluable Property' For NBC Television Network

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Paar understandably wants to do three midnight shows a week instead of five. NBC-TV understandably wants him to do five.

It may be settled any day now, with Eddie Albert and his wife Margo doing two a week from Hollywood and Paar three a week from New York. Then again, it may be settled quite differently. To say event, Paar is what is known as an "invaluable property." During the last year he has become one of the most popular and most talked-about entertainer on television.

Paar has had in rearrange his seven sleeping habits along with the public. He used to be an early-to-bed and early-to-rise man—and still would like to be. The chief reason why he has been taping some of his shows is that he hates to stay awake after midnight.

There isn't much point in a reporter interviewing Paar because five nights a week he interviews himself before seven million people, candidly expressing what's on his mind.

I think the reason so many people stay up late watching the Paar show is that he keeps them waiting breathlessly to learn what he's going to say or do next—a characteristic he also likes in his guests.

He doesn't hesitate to show irritation or boredom or almost any emotion on camera, and he's not afraid of being outspokenly frank.

Paar takes his television job the way most people want to take their own daily jobs—and are afraid to—even to the extent of manoeuvring for shorter working hours.

Cage Champs Get Ultimatum From Brass

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Basketball Association has told Southern Alberta Chiropractics they will lose their chance to represent Canada at the Pan-American Games in August unless they stick to CABA policy.

Al Irwin, CABA secretary-treasurer, said Tuesday he has tired of ultimatums to Harold Brown, manager of the Canadian Senior A men's championship team from Lethbridge. The wire stated that unless Chinooks agree today to accept the CABA policy of picking players, coach and manager fog enters in the games a new team will be chosen to represent Canada.

Two weeks ago Brown sent a letter to the CABA criticizing its policy of choosing the representatives and threatening to withdraw Chinooks unless they were given more say in the selection.

Brown said he feels his entire team, including coach and manager, should be sent. The CABA had chosen five Chinooks and coach Dean Bennett for the games team and were to pick other players from across the country to complete the roster.

In Lethbridge, Brown said he could not immediately make a decision on the ultimatum.

Brown, reached by telephone on a business trip in British Columbia, said seven Chinook players were listed in a tentative outline sent him by Irwin. It was felt they should have the right to make the squad if they could grab positions on the 11-man team by merit.

District Soccer Leagues Results

Trenton Town scored three consecutive goals to edge R.C.A.F. squad 3-2 in a Bay of Quinte Soccer League fixture played at Trenton Memorial Park last evening.

R.C.A.F. took a 1-0 lead in the first period on the evenly-contested battle and held on until about the 15-minute mark of the second.

Trenton forged ahead however with their three goals in a row before the R.C.A.F. team booted the final goal to make it 3-2.

M. Crowley sparked the Trenton attack with two of his club's goals while the other was scored by N. Smith. R.C.A.F. scorers were Brown and Patterson.

Three Hurlers Top Reliefers

NEW YORK (AP)—Righthanders Don Elston of Chicago Cubs, Elroy Face of Pittsburgh and Billy Loes of Baltimore have made the best showing among major league relief pitchers this season.

Elston has won 10 of Cubs' 21 victories, figures compiled by the Associated Press disclosed. He has a 3-1 record while striking out 23 and walking seven in 29 2-3 innings.

Face (6-0) has saved eight games for the Pirates. He has permitted only three earned runs in 24 2-3 innings for an average of 1.44, given up one homer, has yielded seven bases on balls and has fanned 19.

Loes tops the American League with seven saves. He has a 3-1 record and a 1.59 ERA. The Orioles' star has permitted seven hits in 16 2-3 innings.

Edd Byrnes Makes Record And Right Away Is Big Hit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Q. Would you tell us, Mr. Byrnes, just what kookie means?

A. Why, it means way out.

Q. I see. And how would you define kookier?

A. Cool, man, cool.

Well, that shows you how far I got in my research on Kookie, Kookie, Lend Me Your Comb, the hit record by Edd Byrnes.

The last time we looked in on Edd, he was scoring a hit with his appearance as Kookie the parking lot attendant on TV's 77 Sunset Strip. The younger crop of home viewers was intrigued with his handsome blonde looks and his flip line of jive talk. He dropped the hint that his Warner Brothers bosses were plotting a record date for him.

IT HAPPENED

Well, it happened.

He told how TV executive Hugh Benson called to ask whether he could sing. Edd confessed he couldn't.

"I'll ask you once more: Can you sing?" Benson repeated.

"No," Edd replied. He explained later: "I figured they had something in mind, but I might as well go along with it."

He glanced over the sheet music and found two sides in a couple of hours, talking most of the time. He did a low-key version of You're the Top and a piece of special material about Kookie's penchant for combing his locks on the TV show. The song used the word "gonchies," which Kookie coined by songwriter Irving Taylor and now is part of the teenage vocabulary.

DOESN'T KNOW

How does he explain the record hit?

"I don't know," he replied, "except that maybe kids like to buy records of performers they have seen and liked. I did the same thing. When Kirk Douglas recorded a song from 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea, I hurried out to buy it because he was a favorite of mine."

He added that his biggest thrill came at Frank Sinatra's party at Puccini's before the A Hole in

No Complaints From Haddix Or Don Hoak

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Harvey Haddix didn't complain about the way he lost his 12-inning masterpiece Tuesday night.

Nor did Don Hoak express regrets for the throwing error which started Milwaukee on its way to victory in the 13th.

Haddix was asked by a post-game interviewer whether Hoak had apologized.

"No", said Haddix why should he? He drove me back to the hotel after the game and all he said was, 'I booted 'em before and I'll boot 'em again. That's the kind of guy he is and I admire him."

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching — Harvey Haddix, Pittsburgh, became first ever to pitch perfect ball for 12 innings, keeping record for hitless innings but lost 2-0 in 13 innings as a result of Milwaukee's only hit.

Hitting—Don Ferrarese, Cleveland, needed relief help for 2-0 victory over Chicago White Sox but took care of hitting all by himself with a record-tying three doubles by a pitcher, driving in two runs and scoring one.

Bowdry, Anthony Fight Tonight

CHICAGO (AP) — Jesse Bowdry of St. Louis will go after the big punch tonight with the hope of making high - ranking light heavyweight Tony Anthony of New York his 23rd knockout victim.

But the odds - makers don't think he can do it and have installed Anthony a 3-1 favorite for the normally televised 8-round, the bout will be scored under the five-point-must system.

Anthony, ranked No. 1 by the National Boxing Association and No. 2 by Ring Magazine, has a 36-6-1 record and has K.O.'d 28 foes.

Bowdry has won his last two starts on TKO's, stopping Lou Bailey and Clarence Hinnant. He has a 25-3-6 record and is rated No. 7 by the NBA and No. 8 by Ring.

Hurls Twelve Innings Perfect Baseball-And Loses!

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

STILL GOING STRONG!

The South Hastings Baseball League which has been surprisingly slimmed high thanks for fans of Foxboro, Shannonville, Cannifton, Read, Melrose, Read and Latta, not to mention a large number of city slickers, for nearly thirty years, appears headed for another successful season.

As one oldtimer who has been associated with the league for the past three decades puts it, "They may not be the New York Yankees, the Brooklyn Dodgers or the Milwaukee Braves, or, even the Toronto Maple Leafs, but they have more fun than a flock of hungry cats at a mouse convention."

We'll go along with that but at the same time the boys from these outlying centres take their summer pastime seriously, and you will find no more loyal fans in Flatbush or Los Angeles, than the good folks from the rival spots who follow their teams faithfully.

And we have seen a lot worse brand of the pastime in some of the so-called senior city leagues, at present operating in the district.

Unless the situation has changed over the past few years, rivalry between teams and fans is as keen as a double-bitted axe. We can recall not too many years ago covering a championship game at the Fair Grounds here when nearly 2,000 howling fans packed the stands.

There was a close decision at the plate and the usual protest of rival players and managers. The argument carried on in the stands and a couple of venerable gentlemen, whose grandsons were playing, got tangled up in a verbal argument that would make a couple of big league managers look like school boys.

In fact the old boys came so close to coming to whisker-pulling that friends decided to intervene and separate the grandpops before somebody lost their store teeth.

On another occasion we covered a regular league game at which one "bleacher seat" was an old cedar log and perched on it with us were six or seven loyal Latta fans. When a Latta player hit the ball or made a good fielding play we got kicks that wackied but yelling into the ears of the unmusical lap. We ate the late-late snack off the family mantel that night.

Players and fans alike derive their season's fun from the league's seasonal play. The loop finishes out its schedule, goes into the playoffs, decides a champion, and hangs up its gear for the season. It has never affiliated with provincial organizations nor had ambitions for outside titles.

"Imporia? Don't be silly," snorted another oldtimer. "We play the local boys and those of the immediate district. Maybe some mebbe might have entered a little close to Belleville at some time or another."

Wouldn't that smack of professionalism? he was asked.

"Whaddya mean, professionalism? There ain't no amateurs say more, but there certainly ain't no pros in our league."

But he admitted that one player who lived in the country almost made the pro ranks. He was promised a couple of bushels of tomatoes if he made good in a certain game. He did, but the frost came overnight and saved his amateur status.

The league is operating as a six-team circuit this year. Included are Foxboro, Cannifton, Shannonville, Latta, Read and the Belleville Juniors. Games are scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Scores of games played to date indicate the league is fairly well balanced. The admission of the Belleville youngsters won't do the veteran teams of the loop any harm. Cuffer Noakes' kids form a strong, young aggregation that will give the best of the other clubs a run for their money.

Besides providing nights of fine entertainment for the avon any many city fans, the South Hastings Baseball League is the sport alive in the area. There might come a day when senior baseball returns to the banks of the Moira but until that day comes along the old reliable South Hastings loop will carry the banner. More power to its pitching elbows.

Next Chapter 'Sugar' Serial Resumes Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ray Robinson case resumes today at the New York State Athletic Commission. If Robinson is stripped of his middleweight title, as appears likely, he threatens to appeal as high as the Supreme Court.

The commission has been holding hearings for over a week to determine whether Robinson has complied with its order and the order of the State Supreme Court to "enter into articles of agreement to defend against Carmen Basilio."

On a Pennsylvania contract, signed by Robinson but not by Basilio, that would have called for a Sept. 21 title fight in Philadelphia has been tossed out by the commission. Another has been substituted.

Both Basilio and Robinson have been questioned. Lawyers for both sides and the commission have engaged in verbal brawls.

Basilio still hasn't signed.

The commission hopes to conclude the hearing today. If it takes away the title, Robinson will have 48 hours' notice. He is sure to apply to the courts for a stay and then make an appeal.

Robinson already has been stripped of his world title by the National Boxing Association.

Pittsburgh's Harvey Haddix Records Baseball History As Bucs Bow 2-0 to Braves

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

How good do you have to be?

In all baseball history only seven pitchers ever have accomplished a perfect game, and none had to go more than nine innings.

In all baseball history no one ever had pitched more than 10 hitless innings.

But Tuesday night, in the greatest pitching performance in history, Harvey Haddix, Pittsburgh's slim southpaw, hurled 12 innings of perfect ball—and lost.

An error, a sacrifice, an intentional walk and the only hit Haddix allowed—a rule-book double by Joe Adcock — gave Milwaukee's National League - leading Braves a 2-0 victory in 13 innings.

Haddix, giving up just one hit, was a loser. Lew Burdette, giving up a dozen hits, was a winner.

MUCH EXCITEMENT

The other two games scheduled in the National League had elements of drama, too, At San Francisco, the Giants clung to second place by beating Los Angeles 8-6 on Leon Wagner's pinch-hit, grand-slam home run with one out in the ninth. And at Cincinnati, comeback-trail Don Newcombe won his third in a row for the Reds, beating Philadelphia 2-1.

After Haddix, who enters the record book with a 12-inning no-hitter, had been set down in order, Felix Mantilla reached base on Don Hoak's error leading off the 13th at Milwaukee. Ed Mathews followed with a sacrifice and Haddix then walked Hank Aaron, the majors' top hitter at .442, intentionally.

Adcock then put a high slider—a pitch Haddix tried to keep low and away—over the fence for an apparent home run. A jubilant Aaron cut for the dugout after rounding second and was passed by Adcock. The Braves hustled Aaron back to the base path and he resumed his journey home for the second run, with Adcock credited with a double.

MAY BE 1-0 SCORE

There was a controversy over the score, however. League President Warren Giles announced he believed the score should be 1-0 with Mantilla's run closing out play. But until an official change is made, the score reads 2-0.

For Haddix (3-3) "it's just another loss — and they're no good."

Burdette (6-2), the majors' top winner, didn't walk a man and struck out two (to Haddix' eight) for his second shutout. He had only two wobbly innings — the third, when the Pirates had three singles, and the ninth, when they collected two.

In the third, Hoak, who had singled, was forced by Ramon Mejias. Then Haddix smashed a single off Burdette's leg, but Mejias was out trying to reach third when Logan, making a great back-hand stop, flipped to Mathews. Dick Schofield's single sent Haddix to third, but Bill Virdon flied out to end it.

KOUFAX TAGGED

Wagner's homer, his first major league slam, came off Dodger reliever Art Fowler. Losing starter Sandy Koufax (0-1) had held the Giants to four hits for eight innings, then loaded the bases with two walks and Felipe Alou's single. Gordon Jones (3-2) got the winner in relief of Stu Miller.

Newk (4-4), capped a two-run fourth inning for the Reds with an RBI single off loser Ruben Gomez (1-3). Newcombe, who won 27 games as baseball's No. 1 pitcher in 1956, but has won only 22 since, blanked the Phils on three hits until Harry Anderson homered in the seventh, and finished with a seven-hitter.

GREAT EXHIBITION

Permanent buildings at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto are valued at $50,000,000.

A winning blend of hitting and pitching has kept Cleveland on top in the American League pennant race, and when the hitters miss, the pitchers can do their job too.

Lefthander Don Ferrarese took care of the pitching and the punch for the Indians Tuesday night, combining with reliever Jim Perry for a four-hit shutout while driving in two runs and scoring one with three extra-base doubles in a 3-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

That pushed Cleveland two games ahead of the second-place Wolfe Sox and put Ferrarese in the record books as the 11th pitcher to hit three two-baggers in a nine-inning game—the first to do it in 36 years.

YANKS GROUND DEEPER

The White Sox scored while washing in three games left them just a half game ahead of Baltimore in the Triple-Play Division, as Detroit defeated Washington 6-5, Detroit stayed on the move in the A.L. victory over Kansas City, and Boston stopped its skid by pounding the New York Yankees right into the cellar 13-2.

Ferrarese (4-2) had the only hit of Chicago right-hander Dick Donovan for four innings. Then he recorded the shutout feat in the fifth with his second double, scoring Woody Held, who had singled, and scoring himself when Jim Piersall followed with a double. Another single-double combination by Held and Ferrarese wrapped it up against Donovan (3-3) in the seventh.

A three-run homer by Gene Woodling helped the Orioles from behind in a four-run sixth inning, but a double by Willie Tasby and Bob Hale's pinch single provided the clincher in the eighth. Hector Brown (2-1), first pitcher Baltimore was the winner as Billy Loes barely managed to put away his eighth start.

SENATORS WON

The Senators had two men on with none out in the ninth when Loes relieved Billy O'Dell. A doubleplay gave Loes a quick exit, but Ron Bertola and Bob Allison followed with RBI singles before Harmon Killebrew hit into a game-ending force out. Russ Kemmerer (4-4), who gave up a solo home run by Tasby in the fifth, lost it. The Senators took a 5-1 lead in the sixth on Faye Throneberry's two-run homer.

The Tigers scored four unanswered runs while holding a 6-0 lead in three innings against the Athletics. Ted Garver (3-3), then added home runs by Charley Maxwell and relief pitcher Tom Morgan in a 12-hit barrage as Kansas City, Detroit starter Paul Foytack (2-0) was the winner. He gave up eight hits, one Dick Williams' two-run homer.

Highlander Tom Brewer gave up two runs in the first inning on three hits, then blanked the Yanks the rest of the way for the way for his third victory of the season, second over New York. Bob Turley (3-4), who now has lost three in a row for the first time since 1955, walked eight but gave up only five hits in his 6 2-3 innings. He had allowed the three hits, but trailed 3-2, before giving way in a five-run seventh.

SUFFERS FRACTURE

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankee coach Ralph Houk suffered a double fracture of the right cheek Tuesday night when he was struck by a line drive off the bat of pitcher Don Larsen. The accident occurred while Houk was pitching batting practice before the game between the Yankees and Boston Red Sox. Houk may be in hospital two or three weeks.

Red Wings Belt Marlins 14-2; Toronto Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami Marlins and Buffalo Bisons are still staggering about at the top of the International League today with the Marlins holding on by half a game.

Miami was belted by Rochester Red Wings Tuesday night, 14-2 while Buffalo lost its third in the last four, to Havana 5-3. In other games, last-climbing Columbus defeated Montreal 9-5 to gain third place and Toronto defeated Richmond 8-5.

Miami, which had been holding to its half-game lead for over a week, collected 15 hits and four three innings as Charley James blasted a bases-loaded triple in a seven-run second inning and Bill Harrell crashed a two-run triple in the seventh.

Gene Oliver hit his 11th homer and Wally Shannon his fifth for the wings to help winner Bob Keegan (4-1). John Anderson (4-3) lost.

Big Raul Sanchez struck out 12 Bisons as Havana won its fourth straight. Jesus Gonlez and Tony Gonzalez chipped in with homers in the former's double drove in two Buffalo runs and he scored two more. Dick Farrell (0-1) lost and Sanchez is now 3-1.

A seven-run sixth inning Columbus shot 11 men to the plate. Tom Burgess hit his fourth homer for the Jets and Clyde Parris, Sandy Amoros and Ken Aspromonte hit round tripers for Montreal.

Rene Valdes (3-3) lost and Fred Cram (1-1) was the winner.

Toronto combined a 12-hit attack and five Richmond errors and then made things easy for reliever Frank Funk, who blanked the last six innings, striking out 10. He is now 4-3.

Toronto scored six times in the first two innings and sewed it up with two more in the fourth after Richmond had narrowed the score to 6-5. Doron Johnson homered for Toronto and Ken Lehman had enough to keep Ben Flowers from taking his second. He has yet to win.

TRADE STAR ROOKIE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Albie Pearson, the American League rookie of 1958, was traded to Baltimore Orioles Tuesday night by Washington Senators in exchange for Lenny Green. It was an even deal for the outfielders who have not been playing regularly. Faye Throneberry recently supplanted Pearson as a regular.

'Lefty' Golfers Get Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's southpaw golfers, left in the rough for years, are beginning to reach the fairway.

The Ontario Golf Association will supervise an 18-hole tournament July 21 at Islington Golf Club devoted exclusively to the legions of left-handers throughout the province.

Even rehabilitated southpaws who have switched hands may be accepted if their application is accompanied by suitable apology explaining why they defected.

Bud Donavan, public relations director of the OGA, said southpaw tournaments are quite popular in the United States and a national tournament might eventually be held in Canada.

The Islington competition will be open to all lefties with handicaps up to 36 and will be divided into three flights, 1-9, 10-20 and 21-36. The low gross and low net shooters will each receive trophies from the sponsor. This year's tournament will be limited to the first 150 entrants.

TAKES BOWLING LEAD

TORONTO (CP)—Doris Luke of Toronto took over the leadership in the O'Connor Bowl second annual ladies open Tuesday night with an eight-game total of 2,047. Total prize money in the five-pin tournament is $2,000.

Haddix Set Down 36 in Row To Become 1st Pitcher to Hurl Perfect Game Past 9 Innings

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (CP) — Harvey Haddix, a slender 33-year-old southpaw, joined baseball's immortals Tuesday night with the most magnificent pitching performance in the game's history.

The amazing Pittsburgh Pirate hurler set down 36 batters in order over 12 innings, yet was beaten by an official 2-0 score in the 13th by Milwaukee Braves.

A throwing error, a sacrifice, an intentional walk and a rule-book double spelled defeat for the 135-pounder who was acquired by the Pirates last winter.

Haddix became the first pitcher in major league history to hurl a perfect game beyond nine innings. And, despite the loss, he rewrote the record book with the longest no - hitter since Abner Doubleday founded the game in 1839.

CROWD WITH HIM

A crowd of 19,194 was amazed as Haddix set down the Braves in 1-2-3 fashion for 12 innings. It appeared that even in this partisan metropolis most fans were pulling for Haddix.

A brief thunderstorm passed over County Stadium in the last of the fifth. Haddix was working on a no-hitter. But no one paid much attention. After all the league-leading Braves had a .290 team batting average and can explode at any moment.

The storm passed and Haddix went on. His mound opponent, Lew Burdette, surrendered eight hits, but the Pirates couldn't push across a run in regulation time.

The Pirates collected a single in each of the next four innings, but each time Burdette held them scoreless.

BAD LUCK IN 13th

Then in the top of the 13th, Haddix suffered his big setback. Don Hoak tried to hurry a throw on Felix Mantilla's sharp grounder to third and fired into the dirt at first for an error.

Eddie Mathews, major league home run king with 14 round-trip blasts, laid down a sacrifice, forcing Pittsburgh to give an intentional walk to Hank Aaron, the major's batting leader.

Big Joe Adcock, the Braves' part - time first baseman who plays only against southpaw pitching, stepped to the plate. Joe looked at a ball and then belted a drive over the fence to the right of the 364-foot mark.

Mantilla scored, but Aaron touched second and then raced across the diamond toward the dugout. Apparently Hank thought the ball hadn't left the field.

Adcock passed Aaron on the basepaths, touching third, before Hank went back, tagged third and then came home. Adcock was called out for passing a runner, but was credited with a double and two runs batted in.

Later, National League President Warren Giles said he believed the score actually should be 1-0.

The umpires and the official scorer went along with the 2-0 score, but an official ruling is expected.

"I guess I should have walked Adcock," Haddix said afterwards.

KNEW ABOUT NO-HITTER

Haddix said he knew he had a no-hitter and a perfect game "from the third inning on. I couldn't remember walking a batter and I sure knew nobody had gotten a base hit."

Haddix said he used only fast balls, curves—"especially a slow one"—and an occasional slider in baffling the Braves.

Harvey admitted he tired in the last two or three innings, but thought he still had plenty of stuff going into the fatal 13th.

Only seven other pitchers have hurled no-hit, no-run games for nine innings. They are John Richmond of Worcester and Monte Ward of Providence, both in the National League in 1880; Boston's Cy Young in 1904; Adrian Joss of Cleveland in 1904; Ernie Shore of Boston Red Sox in 1917; Charlie Robertson of Chicago White Sox in 1922 and Don Larsen of New York Yankees in the 1956 world series.

FAMED STALLION DIES

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Nasrullah, famed thoroughbred stallion who sired numerous champions, died of a heart attack in his paddock at the Claiborne Farm near Paris Tuesday. Nasrullah, 19, was the leading sire in the United States in 1953 and 1956 and during the past two years was second to Claiborne's Princequillo. He sired Nashua, Bold Ruler and Nadir.

"Kitten" Haddix Farm Boy Likes Music

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Who is Harvey Haddix?

Harvey Haddix is a guy who made the big leagues at the rather late age of 27, who was a bachelor until he was nearly 30 and who pitched the greatest game of his life at 33, when smart baseball people were beginning to think he was through.

Harvey Haddix is a farm boy who was born in the little town of Medway, Ohio, and who intends to return to farming with his wife, Marcia, and his 17-month-old daughter, Teri Lyn, when his pitching days are over.

Harvey Haddix is a quiet, serious-minded little fellow who likes the theatre, soft music and good books. He makes good company because he is friendly, a good listener and quick to laugh.

His broke into the big league with a splash, winning 20 games in his first full year but failed to live up to that fast start. The Kitten, as Haddix is called because of his resemblance to Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, won 50 games in his first three years with St. Louis Cardinals, but in the last three years has been shifted from the Cards to the Phillies to the Reds to the Pirates.

Last year he won only seven while losing eight.

'Sliver, Yanks' Battered by Small Fry

WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—Ted Williams and the New York Yankees got together and helped detectives here get on the ball.

John B. Mcnulli told police that his house had been entered and two baseballs which he cherished had been stolen. One ball was autographedby Williams and the other by the Yankees.

Two detectives, checking every sandlot ball game in the neighborhood, found the balls in the possession of two boys who admitted making the break.

"Ted Williams" was pretty well battered, police reported. The "Yankees" hadn't fared too well either.

"Bonny Dundee"

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dundee of Scotland continued its victorious soccer play in North America by romping to a 7-0 victory over St. Louis Stars Tuesday night before 5,000 spectators.

Inside right Tom Robertson led the rout with four goals.

SOUR'N SUNK SO LIFE LOOKS PUNK?

Then make up your liver bile and feel like a expert living again.

If your liver doesn't pour up to two pints of liver bile into your system every day your food may not digest right, sour in your stomach and like hardly seems worth living! That's when you need Carter's Little Liver Pills. These mild and gentle vegetable pills stimulate the flow of bile. Your food then starts moving again and the world looks good. Remember, if you want to stay healthy it may be the liver. Keep Carter's Little Liver Pills on hand. Only 49c.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, May 27

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — You can get into all sorts of arguments with associates or comrades now in endeavoring to get what you want, since they feel you are being too forceful. P. M. do not attend any social affairs unless you know you have temper in check.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A day to be quiet and permit matters to break of their own accord, since any form of pressure at all would result in altercation you had best avoid. Be kind and think of others, instead, and use impersonal, objective attitude.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Here's a day when you would drop your responsibilities just to be off to a good time. If you do, you could cause a rift with important person in your life that you will regret. Hence, work diligently. Have fun at a later date.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Although some seem hugely sure-fire get-rich scheme is very tempting, be sure you do not fall for it and lose much of your present security and abundance. Also, use self-control and you will avoid that argument with kin that is imminent.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Listen carefully to others and know exactly what is intended before you act in any rash manner or criticize, accuse, make radical changes. Take it easy today, and if you must act, do so quietly, with determination and calmly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A day to labor slowly and accurately, to clear away any mistakes quietly and sensibly. If you act quickly, you could have serious misunderstandings with partners, those vital to your way of life now. And you would not solve problems.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — A comrade is acting more egotistically than usual today. Quietly point out that he or she must relax and carry through with any plans or agreements made. Then all works out fine.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You think very logically and have excellent ideas today, but it is impossible to get others to go along with you since they are very opinionated. Keep working along diligently and that is best. P. M. rest and take health treatments.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — While you are filled with marvelous inspirational ideas, this is not the appropriate time to put them in operation. You must get backing from influential people and experts, but they are in no mood to listen now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Financial arrangements and plans should be gone over very thoroughly before you are your bankers or place them before the vital people who are to help see them materialize. P. M. do not be jealous where loved one is concerned.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You work so hard that you are apt to be rather demanding of others and not kind. Know exactly what it is you want, and await another day when you can approach the right people in a more gentle fashion, get your desires.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Be careful you do not unburden your worries upon one who is in the mood to assist you, since he or she is already under tension with own problems. Strengthen character by being very stoical, poised and perfectly calm.

If your child is born today, he/she dear child born today is in that category of people who can never quite complete what is once started because there are nearly always extenuating circumstances arising. So, teach how to be philosophical and accept the inevitable. Great strength of character will then be built up and the chart is fine for all unusual and specialized professions, such as work with the government in secret capacity.

Thursday, May 28, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Morning is fine for completing task that will bring you what is desired. Later in the day you can thus see those personal who will release information you need to make your work and life easier, more pleasant. P.M. be lovable.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) A.M. is ideal for attending to any duties away from home. Clear them all up during the day and your evening will be free for social affairs where you can combine real business with pleasure. Be very friendly and poised.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Step out early and do some research at library, elsewhere. Read your paper and be well informed. Also confer with person whose background is entirely different from your own. P.M. meet with persons of high standing. Grow.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Let the morning be profitable by making collections and paying your indebtedness. Then you will have time to P.M. in make new and exciting contacts that will spell greater success in the future. Be active.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Confer with associations and come to a real understanding as to policy, etc. in A.M. Later part of day you can put motions and ideas into early operation. You can also get any personal or emotional problems cleared up.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)— Delve into your work with enthusiasm as a result accomplish a great deal. Then you have free time to be with associates and friends at some charming place of atmosphere where you can cement best relations. Be clever.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—A.M. fine for any personal affairs or attention you need. Get in A-1 condition. Then busy yourself as whatever tasks need immediate attention, whether for money or personal gratification.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) Imperative in A.M. to put all to be done order at residence, whether it has to do with family harmony or work that needs to be done. Then you can have a delightful time with whomever you please, whatever your declinations are.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 22) Good day to discuss your ideas with others and get their opinion. Also fine for shopping, visiting, etc., writing letters. P.M. should be spent at home, however, letting all be quiet or entertaining there.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) Be sure you improve your real estate or do work that will bring in an added income for the things you would like to have. P.M. is ideal for visiting with relatives and friends. Have a good time, Grow.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get those treatments that will bring out your greatest charm and make you very dynamic. Then you can step out and start in spurring in your financial affairs. P.M. be sure to give attention to the condition of your throat.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Concentrate, either alone or with authorities, on ways and means by which to increase your present success. Then you can put these new plans before financiers who will help you to work them out successfully. Expand.

If your child is born today—The clever child born today is the type who will always be interested in the modern and progressive. Give as fine an education as you can, since your progeny will do his or her share in tomorrow's improved conditions. A successful and happy life is in this chart and the sunset years will be spent delving in art, music, religion, philanthropy, etc.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Essentially, it has been relieved in this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, most striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' examinations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where after observation were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "They have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were those with a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of cautery, cutting, or injections of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is a wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

The new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed unconditional Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Geneva Parley Big Four Envoys See Eisenhower

Meeting Seen as Effort To End Talks Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower conferred for 30 minutes today with the Big Four foreign ministers.

Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko saw Eisenhower along with France's Maurice Couve de Murville, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

The session amounted to an effort on Eisenhower's part to break the deadlock in the Geneva foreign ministers' conference on German problems.

In a formal statement read to reporters by his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower expressed the hope that the Geneva meeting "would lead to a better approach to the solution of the problems that confront us in Europe."

HOPES FOR PROGRESS

"The president likewise expressed the hope that their return to Geneva the foreign ministers would be able to achieve that measure of progress which would make a subsequent meeting of heads of government desirable and useful."

At the end of the meeting, the British and French foreign ministers told reporters that Gromyko would make a statement on behalf of all.

The Soviet official said: "We had a very pleasant and useful conversation with the president."

One reporter asked Gromyko whether he is more hopeful for success at Geneva where the ministers will return this Sunday.

"We would like to see success," Gromyko replied.

Authorities familiar with Eisenhower's view said it was certain he would make known his determination to avoid being forced into an emergency meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Eisenhower will spurn any summit level talk, they said, unless the foreign ministers at least block out the framework of a new agreement reaffirming Western rights to remain in Berlin.

Manhattan's Dog-Comfort Station Fails

NEW YORK (CP) — The sanitation department's noble experiment in building a dog-comfort station on Manhattan's east side has been ended. The dogs didn't like it.

The concrete-based, sagg-filled enclosure is being dismantled, Sanitation Commissioner R. Sereyane said Wednesday. It was built a year ago.

Sereyane had hoped it would solve the sidewalk nuisance problem created by New York City's 270,000 dog population.

Crown Refused Leave to Appeal S.A. Indictment

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters)—The prosecution was refused leave today to appeal against the quashing of the indictment against 61 persons accused in South Africa's mass treason trial.

The 61 were charged with having joined in a conspiracy with the aim of overthrowing the government of South Africa and replacing it with one of a Communist nature.

They were among a total of more than 230 persons arrested on treason charges in 1956.

Of these, 156 were committed for trial but charges subsequently were dropped against all but 91. A new indictment against the 61 was dropped last October and second indictments were drawn up against a group of 30 and the group of 61.

DEFENCE APPEALS

The first group stood trial from last Jan. 19 to March 2, with the entire proceedings taken up with a defence application to have the indictment quashed. The application was argued and the defences lodged an appeal, which will be heard in April.

The second group of 61 went on trial April 20 and the indictment was quashed. The court held that the indictment was defective. Vital particulars of the alleged conspiracy required by the charges, and should not have been served.

Today's decision does not mean that the 61 accused now are free. They have been committed for trial on a charge of high treason but have been allowed out on bail. Even though the indictment has been quashed, they must still appear in court and either be found not guilty or freed under a decision by the prosecution not to go ahead with the case.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A large mass of cool dry air centred 'weeks of James Bay and moving toward the Maritimes this morning is giving the whole province a sunny and pleasantly cool day. However, a new disturbance centred over western Minnesota is expected to move across central Ontario Friday bringing showers and thunderstorms to southern central and Northern Ontario and the chance of an afternoon thundershower in southern regions as warm, moist air from the central states flows back into the lower lakes area.

ENERGY BD. BILL BITTERLY FOUGHT BY OPPOSITION

Clashes Frequent During Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's national energy board bill is meeting continued Liberal sniping and repeated CCF attempts to kill it.

Clashes were frequent Wednesday in the fifth day of a Commons debate which is expected to run unbroken until final approval of the bill. It would establish a five-man national energy board to regulate import and export of natural gas and electricity and, if the cabinet decides, oil imports and exports.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue said board is for a "plaything" of the government, to be "manipulated, mangled and transgender . . . for political reasons."

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista-Twillingate) said the opposition charges "have twisted with the knife" and that the bill is the broad cabinet powers the bill conferred.

QUESTIONS FORTITUDE

Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) said Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who interrupted frequently Wednesday to protest opposition remarks, has lost the public interest fortitude to submit the bill to committee, to consolidate.

The CCF moved to refer the bill's subject matter back to the committee, in effect killing it. But the government, backed by Liberals who support the measure in principle, swamped the motion in a vote of 176 to 8.

The CCF, who earlier in the debate had another motion ruled out of order, immediately followed up their 176-8 defeat with a third motion that also would have killed the bill if it remains to be voted on.

CALLS PCs RACIST

The aggressive Conservatives had been a "great bunch of liars" in opposition, Mr. Howard said. That was shown by the fact the proposed bill was contrary to what they had argued during the 1956 Commons debate on the Trans-Canada pipeline. After pipelines, he loaned down his critical reference.

Opposition Leader Pearson told he doubts that the bill is any improvement on existing legislation insofar as regulating excessive profits by pipeline operators or others.

Ontario Campaign Marked By Attacks on Opponents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Attacks on opponents highlighted the Ontario general election political campaign Wednesday.

Premier Frost fired a barrage of criticism at CCF Leader Donald C. Macdonald. Mr. Macdonald went into the Kenora riding of Albert Wren, Liberal member of the last legislature, to blast Mr. Wren.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer said Ontario's Progressive Government is not "putting a nickel" into the province's hospital plan and is overcharging the province, used by the plan $54,000,000 a year.

In a speech at Galt, Mr. Frost accused the CCF leader of "saying reckless and unfounded things about myself, about my party and about those with whom I have been associated."

He did not name Mr. MacDonald but touched on the topics of the CCF chief's television speech Monday night. Mr. MacDonald said then that recurring scandals make Ontario the town getting honest government.

Mr. Frost's speech, aimed at a political rally of 137 persons, said he had listened with regret "to the attacks on my party . . . to talk glibly and loosely and with irresponsibility about matters which the lack of public morality on the part of Liberal parties in this province including my own party and the government I lead."

"This is not the time," Mr. Churchill, who interrupted frequently Wednesday to protest opposition remarks, has lost the public interest fortitude to submit the bill to committee, to consolidate.

The CCF moved to refer the bill's subject matter back to the committee, in effect killing it. But the government, backed by Liberals who support the measure in principle, swamped the motion in a vote of 176 to 8.

The CCF, who earlier in the debate had another motion ruled out of order, immediately followed up their 176-8 defeat with a third motion that also would have killed the bill if it remains to be voted on.

Diefenbaker Marks Official Start of Dam Construction

OUTLOOK, Sask. (CP) — Construction of the South Saskatchewan River dam started officially Wednesday—nearly 14 years after the idea was recommended by explorers.

Thunderous dynamite blast triggered by Prime Minister Diefenbaker marked the start of the $184,000,000 irrigation and power project. Work actually is under way but will finish about 1965. The site is 19 miles west of this city which is 60 mile southwest of Saskatoon.

Dr. W. B. Tufts, president of the Saskatchewan River Development Association, chairman of the ceremonies, noted that the Dominion Government surveyed the area 100 years ago and camped at the dam site.

Mr. Diefenbaker detonated the dam with the St. Lawrence Seaway one of the chief achievement of Canada a development which would help make it the "granary of the world."

Premier T. C. Douglas said the dam is important to Saskatchewan because of one word, water. "Without it," he added, he said, when a source of water is the Rocky Mountains disappears as an oil well.

The ceremony took place on the Outlook dry dam on which cars travelling to the site kicked up clouds of dust and it blinded by dry spring and high winds have combined to fill ditches around Outlook with dritted top soil.

A highlight of the day was the induction of Mrs. Diefenbaker into the Sioux Indian tribe. Chief Harry Dillon Cree presented Mr. Diefenbaker with a headdress and buckskin jacket, giving him the title of Chief Walking Buffalo.

Newcastle Man Named President Of Conference

KINGSTON — Rev. M. C. Fisher of Newcastle on Wednesday was elected president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church in Canada, which this week has been holding its annual meeting here.

Rev. E. E. Glover of Marmora was re-elected treasurer by acclamation. Rev. Lorne Boyd's acclamation was Rev. K. J. Kirkwood of Colborne, secretary of the Conference.

CONSERVATIVES WILL HAVE FULL ELECTION SLATE

Nominations Close Today for June Vote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nominations for Ontario's June 81 election close today with only the Progressive Conservative party planning to contest all 98 constituencies.

The Liberals were set to run a full slate of candidates but a late withdrawal cut their number to 97.

Louis Millette of Matheson, Liberal standard-bearer, for Cochrane South, was forced to withdraw Wednesday because of ill health. Officials said there is no time to choose another nominee. Three candidates remain in the field there.

Nominations must be in by 3 p.m. EDT, except in the northwestern ridings of Kenora and Rainy River where a different time zone extends the deadline by one hour.

SEEK SIXTH STRAIGHT

The Conservatives, led by Premier Leslie Frost, seek their 96th candidate a week ago. The party has a 25th straight election victory. The Liberals ran 97 candidates in the 1955 election.

Unless there is a late rush of nominees the total will probably be under 300. The maximum set in 95s with the CCF having 81, the Liberals 79 and the Communist party line and the Social Credit party four. There are four independents and one Independent Conservative.

Last, the nominations total is not likely to succeed the record set in 1948 when 317 sought the 90 seats which were available. Since then eight new ridings have been established. The last election, in 1955, drew a field of 311 for 98 electoral seats.

During the last 50 years has seen more than 300 candidates.

Nine women have been nominated. Only one, Mrs. Wanda Miller, was a winner in the 19 women in the 1955 list. The lady mayor of Gravenhurst, she is contesting Muskoka again for the Liberals.

There seemed little likelihood of an acclamation in any riding. There has not been an acclamation in an Ontario election since 1929 when there were eight.

Judge Makes Personal Tour Of Dwellings

TORONTO (CP) — A judge conducting an inquiry into Toronto's slum problem left York Township court short testimony to make a personal tour of dwellings in the area Wednesday.

Magistrate Wm. Sweet of Hamilton and other officials of the inquiry visited several homes which have been declared unfit for occupancy and saw for themselves how conditions have led to overcrowding and triplexes from the same plans.

Martin Peters, a builder, told the inquiry that he had built triplexes in the township where it was legal to do so by using the same plans, with minor exceptions, as those approved for duplexes.

In testimony earlier in the hearing township officials told how the basements of duplexes were plastered during construction and sometimes later turned into living quarters illegally.

'Harsh' Letter To Taxpayers Is Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — The income tax department was accused in the Senate Wednesday of writing "harsh" letters to Canada's millions of delinquent taxpayers.

Senator Gershaw (L—Alberta) told the upper house in an income tax debate that the department should be "more considerate" and be "conducted with kindness and helpfulness and friendliness."

Threatening and harsh letters only created resentment and did not help the collection of revenue, said Senator Gershaw.

Senator W. D. Euler (L—Ontario), a former Liberal minister of national revenue, said income tax officials are the servants and not the masters of the public.

Senator Gershaw urged the department to advise Canadians against hiring experts who claim to be able to reduce a taxpayers income. The taxpayer very often found himself in trouble.

Senate Majority May Mobilize Against Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Senator A. K. Hugessen predicted Wednesday to mobilize the Senate's opposition majority against the government's controversial Trans-Canada Income Tax Act.

The Senate's senator said unless the government can give a better reason for the amendment "we should seriously consider whether we should pass it."

The amendments, which eliminate from the Income Tax Act special provisions applying to foreign business corporations incorporated in Canada, it is now before the Senate committee on banking, trade and commerce.

Under the present act a foreign business incorporated in Canada but not doing business in this country is required to pay no income taxes but an annual fee of $100. The proposal is to eliminate this provision until the tax position of such companies can be studied.

Russian Attack With Now Known Weapons Would Fail -- Pearkes

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes said today that any Russian attack on NorthAmerica with weapons known to exist now are known to have would be a "complete failure."

He told the Senate external relations committee that the Russians have "very few" long range missiles and that these are "inaccurate and unreliable."

"I don't mean that a few bombers might not get through but the attack would be so costly it would be considered a complete failure," Mr. Pearkes said.

At the moment, the minister added, there is no defence against the Russian intercontinental missile. However, the American Nike - Zeus anti - missile system "will be operational in the near future."

"Very shortly", there would be the start of the anti-aircraft missile stations across North America to supplement manned interceptors.

There was no thought that the Russians had missile bases in the North Bay would defend Winnipeg because there would have were other stations distributed across the continent.

At one point, Senator Wishart Robertson (L — Nova Scotia) asked whether the time might not have come for Canada not to have any military forces at all in NATO.

Mr. Pearkes said Prime Minister Diefenbaker had visited Europe last year that Canadian forces should remain in Europe as long as they are required.

Recovered Alive After Space Trip In Army Missile

Travelled 1,500 Miles At 10,000 Miles an Hour

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Two monkeys returned alive today from a 1,500-mile space ride in the nose cone of an army missile.

The army announced that both monkeys were recovered alive from compartments in the nose cone of a Jupiter missile fired from Cape Canaveral. The rocket had climbed to an altitude of 300 miles and flown at speeds up to 10,000 miles an hour.

The little female monkeys named Miss Able and Baker are the first living creatures the United States has put into space and brought back alive. The Russians brought back two dogs by parachute last August from a ride 281 miles out and the U.S. Air Force in 1953 recovered two monkeys after firing them 40 miles high over New Mexico.

INCREDIBLY STEP

The feat represents an important step in efforts to put a man into orbital flight.

Scientists said instruments aboard the small pioneer apparently showed they suffered little ill effect from the stresses of blast-off and flight. Experience of weightlessness during nine minutes of the 15-minute journey.

Only the bare announcement that the monkeys had survived and had suffered no ill effects was contained in the initial report from a navy ship and missile manned the nose cone. This was the first test of Antigua 92 minutes after the Jupiter was fired.

USE ARMY DEVICES

Ships and planes were waiting in the impact area before the Jupiter roared up from Cape Canaveral.

The recovery equipment included a large colored balloon, colored chemicals for marking the water, signal lights and a radio transmitter to help the waiting ship "home in" on the landing cone.

Shark repellent was released to protect the monkeys from any dived into the ocean to secure lines for lifting the nose cone from beneath the balloon.

The Jupiter missile used in today's experiment was the same type the army had used in two space probes. One of the space probes—Pioneer IV—became the first American satellite to circle the sun after its launching on March 3.

With a seven-pound rhesus monkey, punched a telegraph key in a Morse code test, the rocket roared aloft. Baker, a one-pound squirrel monkey, was burdened with electrodes to measure the effects of space travel on body functions.

The space travellers were not alone in the nose cone as they rocketed the 10,000-mile-an-hour flight aimed at taking them 300 miles up into the space before re-entry through the earth's atmosphere.

Several small samples of a new plastic vegetable matter were aboard. Included in the radiation study were samples of wheat, corn, mustard seed, fruit fly larvae and bacteria spores.

The eggs and sperm of several sea urchins were included in the experiment to evaluate the effects of acceleration, deceleration and during construction and the eg fertilization process.

The monkey flight was vitally

Physician Says He Did Not Shoot off Foot

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Gerald J. Pelletier in Ontario Supreme Court answered "no" when asked whether he shot off his foot while duck hunting last October on Rice Lake.

The 38-year-old physician from suburban Rexdale is suing two insurance companies for $350,000 in connection with the loss of his left leg.

His lawyer, Lloyd Fitzpatrick, asked Dr. Pelletier Wednesday: "Did you blow your foot off?"

Dr. Pelletier shook his head and replied: "No."

His leg was amputated below the knee following the shooting.

The doctor contends the shooting occurred when his son Richard accidentally dropped a loaded 12-gauge shotgun on the floor of a duck blind. He is suing the two insurance companies which sold him $700,000 worth of policies promising payment of $350,000 for the loss of one limb, or one leg in accident.

The London and Lancashire Guarantee and Accident Company of Canada and R. C. Stevenson, lawyer in Canada for Nonmarine Underwriters, members of Lloyd's of London) are contesting his claim.

important to the seven men picked to be the first U.S. space travellers. Within two years, one of these men is expected to follow the path into space pioneered today by Able and Baker.

The monkeys were expected to be in a fire, or weightless, state for about nine minutes during the Jupiter flight.

The intermediate-range Jupiter rocket rose straight up on a ball of fire for some 60 seconds, then curved high in the darkened sky and headed southeast down the Atlantic missile range.

Able and Baker rested in cozy cabins, strapped in separate sealed capsules.

Dolores Gray Kept on Singing Louder to Avert Panic in Theatre

NEW YORK (AP)—"When I started to sing, I nudged Andy. Neither of us moved. I just kept on singing louder and louder to drown out the noise back-stage."

Speaking was Dolores Gray, leading lady of the Broadway musical Destry Rides Again.

Andy was Andy Griffith of Mayberry, TV, and movies fame.

Miss Gray, who had been singing softly, belted out her encore.

Practically all the theatre-goers remained in their seats, and the front row remained Patrick, the stage manager.

"There is a little fire," he said. "There is no danger. We'll resume the show in a few minutes if you please. Please wait with-for us."

Theatre patrons returned to their seats, they patiently watched mopping-up operations. Plenty of mops were needed — the stage was covered with two inches of water.

Backstage crews had the fire out before firemen arrived.

After another 20 minutes, Griffith came on to do his next routine.

"We're ready to carry on again in our circus scene," he announced, he said in sheriff's drawl.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A large mass of cool dry air centred 'weeks of James Bay and moving toward the Maritimes this morning is giving the whole province a sunny and pleasantly cool day. However, a new disturbance centred over western Minnesota is expected to move across central Ontario Friday bringing showers and thunderstorms to southern central and Northern Ontario and the chance of an afternoon thundershower in southern regions as warm, moist air from the central states flows back into the lower lakes area.

Explorer Satellite Is Still Circling Earth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Explorer satellite is still circling the earth, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported today.

The satellite was launched March 17 and has been expected to fall back into the earth's atmosphere and burn up sometime in May.

NASA said the satellite was still in orbit as of 8 a.m. EDT today.

Rhee May Stop Repatriation Ships From Japan

TOKYO (AP) — South Korea's President Rhee today is prepared to use "every means including force" to prevent the repatriation of Koreans in Japan to Communist North Korea.

The Japanese-controlled South Korean warning to date. Previously President Syngman Rhee's government had said it would not guarantee safe passage to repatriation ships but that it would might try to intercept them.

North Korea has offered jobs to any of the 600,000 Koreans in Japan who will come to the Communist-ruled area. Most of the Koreans in Japan are destitute, having been taken to penitentiary here.

Funeral Chapels' Use Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — The appointment of a third bishop in the Anglican Diocese of Toronto was unanimously approved Wednesday. The diocese will be the only province of the Canadian church's 26 to have three bishops.

In criticism of the use of undertakers' chapels for Christian burial services, Rev. G. H. Thompson, chairman of the Diocesan Board of Religious Education, said: "The proper place for a Christian funeral is a church, not a place masquerading as a chapel."

Linda Kelly, Age 5, Gets Reply To Letter Asking Queen Stop Here

Five - year - old Linda Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kelly 361 McDonald Avenue, was a thrilled little girl when she returned home from school Wednesday afternoon.

Waiting for her was a letter from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, written by her Lady-in-Waiting, Margaret Hay.

The letter, neatly typewritten, with the Queen's coat-of-arms and the words "Buckingham Palace" in red at the top, was in reply to a letter Linda had her mother write for her, asking if the Queen would stop off in Belleville when she and Prince Philip come to Canada to officially open the Seaway in July.

"I don't know where she (Linda) got the idea", Mr. Kelly said. "She even wanted to write her letter herself."

Linda's letter to the Queen was mailed about three weeks ago.

The Queen's reply was first sent to the Governor - General, at Government House, Ottawa, and then forwarded to Linda by Mr. P. S. Burt, Administrative Officer.

Linda attends kindergarten classes at Sir Winston Churchill School.

The text of the letter follows:

Buckingham Palace

Dear Linda,

I write at The Queen's command to thank you for your letter, in which you ask if Her Majesty would stop at Belleville.

I am afraid that owing to The Queen's many engagements, it is not possible for Her Majesty to actually stop in Belleville itself, but The Queen will be landing at Trenton Airport on Saturday, July 25th, some time in the late afternoon and will drive to Port Hope. Perhaps it would be possible for your mother to take you where you might see Her Majesty as she drives by.

I hope this information will be of help to you.

Yours sincerely,
Margaret Hay,
Lady-in-Waiting.

Miss Linda Kelly,
361 McDonald Avenue,
Belleville, Ontario.

Refresher Course For Graduates Held at "Y"

A refresher course for recent graduates and trainees of the YMCA Life Saving course was held yesterday evening at the local "Y". About 40 persons were in attendance to lead by Harold Craig, chairman of the Quinte Water Safety Council, outline the material and brochures which the Council has available re water safety for public distribution.

Dr. Craig emphasized the importance and need for water safety instruction, especially in view of the large number of drownings, which had occurred with the summer season having hardly started. An outline of the other projects of the Council, which include the posting of signs to warn the public of unsuitable or dangerous swimming areas, was also given.

Mr. James Nelles explained the use of the mouth-to-mouth resuscitation method and the use of new instruments available for this method was noted. A film was also shown called Surf Patrol, which depicted the work of training the Volunteer Life Savings Corps, which operates on the beaches of Australia.

Following the lecture room activities there was a practical review of holds, breaks, carrying methods and the Hogler-Nielson method of artificial respiration. Following this there was a question and answer period concerning summer life saving activities.

The latest group of students will be having their life-saving examinations and tests this Saturday afternoon at 4.00 p.m. for the men. The women will have their examination next Tuesday.

East Belleville Ratepayers Elect Officers

Members of the East Belleville Ratepayers' Association turned up in overflow numbers at Bayview Public School last night to hear named a new slate of officers and board members to replace retiring officials, problems as they affect the new east end section of the city.

Close to 175 persons attended the meeting in the basement of the school.

Re-elected president of the Association was Geoffrey W. Pratt, while Bill Means was named vice-president, G. H. Hutchinson, secretary, and J. Milligan, treasurer.

Directors include M. Fabbri, Harry Hitchon, Don Bacon, W. E. Lewis and Ila Martin.

Speakers at the meeting included city alderman Jack Ellis and Public Utilities Comm. Reeve Alfred Wickett.

IMPROVEMENT COSTS

Local improvement costs as they affect property owners in the new East Belleville area were discussed with Reeve Wickett explaining the position of Thurlow Township on the matter.

Some sub-divisions in the area have local improvement costs while others are to be paid for by the owner.

Alderman Ellis explained the city position on the problem and also referred briefly to the alleged misapplication of city funds in connection with the construction of the Belleville McFarland's Bowling Green.

Alderman Ellis said he expected a larger deficit than had so far been announced and said if the deficit were proven he would take a direct part in city council and ask that it be paid by the "old" section of the city and not be assessed against the newly annexed areas.

Hold Hillcrest Health Clinic

About 150 persons attended the Immunization and Child Health Clinic held by the Belleville Health Department at Centre St. United Church yesterday afternoon. Dr. Metcalfe said that all the Health Department nurses were kept quite busy handing out polio immunization and the boy and child care classes.

There will be an increased effort concerning polio immunization for the members of this committee during the month of June. Evening clinics for immunization shots will be held in the new offices of the Health Department at 266 Pinnacle Street starting on June 9th. All persons who had their first and second polio shots during the fall clinics should attend one of the coming clinics for their final polio shot. Inoculations given in the plants about this city will also receive their final polio shots as Dr. Metcalfe and his staff conduct their immunization program at the local plants during June.

These clinics will be the last chance for local citizens to receive polio shots prior to the summer months, which are considered to be the danger season for polio. The local Health Department makes no charge for these immunization shots.

Parties Set Up Headquarters

Both of the major parties have established their campaign headquarters in Belleville. The date no information has been available concerning a CCF headquarters but is understood that their candidate, Mr. Frank Brothers of Deseronto, is conducting a personal tour of the riding to meet the electorate.

The incumbent members, W. E. Sandercock, the Progressive Conservative candidate for re-election, has centred his campaign from his home at Woodland 3-5831.

The Returning Officer for Hastings West, Harry Hoover, has set up offices at 121 Front Street and has a phone number of Woodland 8-6786.

May Be Trying To Get More From Donors

VICTORIA (CP)—The Colonist says James Harris McKee, who raised $630,000 in Fraser River placer mining scheme which never paid off, may be trying to get more money from his contributors for a new venture.

It says he believed to be in Bellingham, Wash., trying to raise money from the same people in Ontario and British Columbia who contributed to his Fraser River endeavor.

The paper says "he is approaching the Baptists and Freedom Foundation members by telephone and telling them he expects to be able to recoup the losses from new placer mining operations in California."

It quotes McKee as saying he expects the California operation to produce enough gold from black sands to pay back the $850,000 he borrowed and which brought him under investigation by securities authorities in B.C. and Ontario.

IN MEMORIAM

DUDLEY. — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, James Dudley, who left us three years ago today.
Remembrance is a golden chain.
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest grief of the heart.
Deep in our hearts, a memory lies,
Dear as memory ever can;
No one takes over the place of grief;
Sad memory turns back every leaf,
And finds remembrance there.
— Sister Thelma, Jimmy and family.

DUDLEY. — In loving memory of our dear father, James Dudley, who passed away May 28th, 1956.
It still is the memory that counts,
Recalls the time, the voice, the smile
Of him we love the most.
Day by day my thoughts do wander,
To a grave my love is laid,
Where they laid my dear husband,
And there remembered.
— Sadly missed by his wife Ada.

Nootka Believed On Sub Hunt Off East Coast

OTTAWA (CP)—HMCS Nootka, a Canadian Tribal class destroyer, has been sent hurriedly into operational duty for what is believed to be a submarine hunt off the Atlantic coast.

Her sudden departure Wednesday from Saint John, N. B., followed the report that a family of three had sighted a sub earlier in the day off Boonville Bay, on Newfoundland's east coast.

The Nootka's mission would not be an unusual one for the Canadian navy. Reports of sightings of objects supposed to be submarines are checked by the RCN and the RCAF's sub - hunting squadrons as a regular operation.

The Nootka left Saint John at a time when she was a special attraction at an Atlantic Provinces Industrial Exposition. Thus, a common navy operation came to public attention.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market inched ahead today in light morning trading.

Western oils dipped again and their index stands at 125.26, just a few percentage points short of the 1958 low.

The 11 a.m. volume was 600,000 shares, compared with Wednesday's 982,000 at the same hour.

Among industrials Imperial Life had the best move, up 2¼ at 66¼. Gains of a point or more other changes were less than one dollar.

Senior mines, especially copper issues, were strong in base metals. Campbell Chibougamau and junior coppers up 50 cents at 58.80. Steadiest base metal issue was at 13¾ among uraniums.

McIntyre was the leader in golds, up ⅝ at 81 as it recovered part of its 1¾ loss of Wednesday.

Industrials were strong but the rest of the market slipped back Wednesday.

Western oils closed at a 1959 low for the third session in a row. Final volume was 1,275,000 shares against Tuesday's 2,687,000. Ac-

Penal System Faces Disaster Asserts Expert

VANCOUVER (CP)—A former United States warden said Wednesday night a rising tide of crime in North America threatens to sweep the penal system to disaster unless criminal treatment methods are changed.

Thomas J. McHugh told delegates to the Canadian Congress of Corrections:

"My experience has convinced me that few individuals, if any, actually benefit from penal confinement. Correctional institutions are relics of the thinking and attitudes of the late 18th century, when automatically punishment and confinement would automatically produce reformation."

Until recently Mr. McHugh was deputy warden of Sing prison and 16 other adult institutions in New York state.

He said that in New York, and possibly in Canada, a crisis is approaching in the prison system, caused by soaring numbers of inmates, costs, and "most frustrating of all, a dawning recognition of the futility of institutional programs."

He added:

"We cannot hope to build enough prisons to meet this appalling increase and avoid dangerous over-crowding, and the riots and serious disorders which accompany such a condition . . . the expense of prison operation is rendering an astronomical figure."

Prof. Manuel Lopez-Rey, head of a United Nations section on social defence, said Western countries should revise their whole system of criminal justice to find ways of sending fewer people to prison.

Some way had to be found to eliminate the prison environment. Probation might not be the whole answer, but if short sentences could be eliminated, prison populations would drop by about 60 per cent.

Home and School Meeting Hears Superintendent

TRENTON — V. P. Carswell, superintendent of Trenton schools, was the speaker at last night's meeting of the Queen Elizabeth School Home and School Club.

The meeting, which was the last of the season, was held in the school auditorium, with the president, Mrs. C. E. Bull, in the chair.

The Queen Elizabeth School choir, under the direction of Mrs. J. O'Neill, with Mrs. S. Cassidy at the piano, sang selections from "Oklahoma" and traditional melodies with tone and vigor.

The club's treasurer, W. Blight, revealed that the recent Fun Fair had been very successful, providing enough for all the purposes intended.

Mrs. Bull reported that the new playground equipment which had been ordered by the club had arrived.

Thomas Bedford, school principal, then took the room council which was run by his own grade six.

A motion made by Mrs. Ethier, and seconded by Mrs. Wilson that future meetings of the club should be held every two months beginning in September, was passed.

Mr. Bedford introduced the speaker. Mr. Carswell, who spoke on educational policies both here and in all Ontario. He congratulated the school on its efforts. He explained how formal schooling was developed from early beginnings. He told the children who were present that they should be glad to have sound minds in healthy bodies. Good home life, ability to speak, think, study and act well were very necessary, said Mr. Carswell. Knowledge and skill to earn a good living, and a firm spiritual character that is trusted and admired are essential, he said.

People were unwilling to accept new ideas in education, said Mr. Carswell, who then went on to speak of kindergarten classes, senior school and proposed opportunity classes for slower pupils, which owing to a very high I.Q. would not be made available this year.

Revision of curricula now taking place in Ontario schools, embodied, among other things, the changeover from "social studies" to the familiar "history and geography," said Mr. Carswell. He also spoke of grades eight and nine in Trenton schools had always already to discuss co-operation in such changes.

He was glad to see so many parents interested enough to come to the meeting, continued the speaker. He added that educated people are the ones who benefit from the technological age in which we live.

Mrs. Bull thanked Mr. Carswell for his interesting and informative address. A social half hour followed during which the parents were served refreshments by Mrs. G. Ross, the social convenor, and her committees, and chocolate milk and doughnuts were served to the children present.

James Brownlee Receives Gift

Gardens Getting Spring Clean-Up

TRENTON — Local housewives, finding reluctantly that their annual spring cleaning now due, can consider themselves lucky.

Multiply their problem by many, many times and you arrive at the gigantic task facing the permanent staff of the Trenton Community Gardens.

They are in the process of cleaning, painting and generally sprucing-up that huge building and the results are already exciting and pleasing to apparent to Garden patrons.

To date all outside doors, windows and trim have received a new coat of bright yellow paint and the interior is now receiving the careful attention Gardens' maintenance employees.

The painting of the boards surrounding the ice surface is completed and the fire prevention sprinkling system is next on the list.

All interior trim and the lobby, wash-rooms, dressing rooms and refreshment area will be thoroughly cleaned and painted before the busy winter season arrives.

Overhaul of the Gardens' ice making machines and heating equipment will not be attempted until late summer or early fall.

Legion Branch Wins Award For Membership

TRENTON — A recent letter from the Dominion Command of the Canadian Legion advised that Branch 110 had won the award for the greatest increase in membership for 1958, an increase of 263 members over 1957. This is the second year in a row this distinction has been endowed on Branch 110, a record all members are very proud of.

Carman Livingstone, the hard working president of the membership committee, is to be congratulated for this tremendous accomplishment.

Membership in Branch 110, again this year, shows a considerable increase over a corresponding period in 1958. With the combined support of the Legion members, Mr. Livingstone feels confident Branch 110 will reach its objective of 1,000 members by the end of 1959 and be the first branch in a row win the membership award.

Trenton shortly in connection with his RCAF duties, received the gift from Doug, Hickerson Assistant Scoutmaster, who presented it on behalf of the entire troop.

Also present at the ceremony was Mrs. Brownlee, and other Scout leaders and Association members present included Bernard Fox, J. B. Ledingham, H. H. Kirkpatrick, Mc. and Mrs. J. Green.

Mr. Brownlee has been associated with Third Trenton for about three years, and took over the leadership of the group from Willis Jackson when he became District Commissioner last year.

Town Briefs

TRUCK RUNS AWAY

TRENTON — A Bayview Dairy truck operated by Ross Hamilton was damaged to the estimated $200 when it carelessly came to rest against a telephone pole on Dundas Street.

The driver, Hamilton, left the truck in front of the home of George McGregor, 1 Catherine Street, when it disengaged the brick retaining wall to the extent of an estimated $75. From there it backed across Whitby Street and through a board fence, and eliminated two poles on the property of Mrs. Yourex, 13 Station Blvd., where it came to a stop with the front bumper about two feet through the fence. Damage to the fence was in the vicinity of $100. The mishap was investigated by Constable Fred Nokes of the Trenton Police Department.

NEW KIND OF BOAT

Bailing transfer of Kingston, a new kind of pleasure craft to be seen at the Trenton Docks, Saturday, Sunday and Monday when she arrived to take up winter quarters. Launched and locks on the Trent River S.S. operated by Captain Harold Thompson and his two crew members were on their way up the Trent Canal system from where they arrived here were unable to get through. He explained that the high water this year the swing bridges and locks are not manned until 8 p.m. However he indicated he did not mind spending the night in Trenton. Captain Young, a friend of Trenton's well-known Captain Walter Bowen, is the owner of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company and handles scenic tours on the Stoney Lake region. He comes from Young's Point area and navigating has been in the sailing business all his life. His father started in the steamship business on the lakes in 1883 and was later helped by his four sons as they grew up. Captain Harold Young has stayed in the passenger boat business until 1945 when he joined the Department of Transport and started his present work for the government. In recent years he purchased his present boat and is once again in passenger trade. His crew varies at times, but he has a crew of three including himself. It is well equipped with life preservers, rafts and fire protection gear.

TULIPS BLOSSOM

Trenton's tulips are beginning to take on early color as most varieties of bulbs have turned into full blossom. Mr. Boers the town gardener plans to get the planting of the bulbs completed done as quickly as possible but at the present time is busily engaged in getting the sprinkler system installed in the Bay Shore Recreation Library Park adjacent to the Fraser Memorial Park. While doing this he also has to keep an eye on the water level in the Gilmour Hill Park, where grading has been completed and loads of loam will begin to arrive soon. The Gilmour Hill Park was built on the old foundations of the evaporator which was destroyed by fire in 1948. Due to the time the earth still settles causing dips and small gullies in the park which have to be filled in to keep the park level and more convenient to care for.

PATCH STREETS

Crews of the Trenton Public Works Department have been busy patching the surface with hot asphalt. The patching work was made necessary when heavy rains and traffic caused the holes to become a nuisance to traffic. Most of the business section has been completed and the workers have moved to other streets. It is expected that the work in Trenton will be limited greatly this year because of lack of funds in the town's treasury.

APPEARS IN COURT

Tom L. Hills of Brighton area was fined $10 and costs suspended sentence when he appeared before Magistrate T. V. Wills in Trenton Court last Tuesday on John Frigate acted for the Crown. Hills was charged with the theft of a car radio from an automobile parked in the municipal parking lot. He later sold it to a local car body shop for the sum of three or four dollars. He was also ordered by the court to pay costs of $3.50 and to pay for the installing of the radio not exceeding $10. Constable Sid Vickers of the Trenton Police Force gave evidence for the crown.

WORK ON PUMPHOUSE

Crews are busy putting up the second section forms for the cement work on the 30-foot pumphouse which will form the bottom section of the new pumphouse for the sewage disposal plant. The pumphouse will force the sewage from the east and west sides of the Trent River to the disposal plant which will be built on South Front Street. It is expected cement will be poured within the next few days and this first step will be ready when the pipe has been installed in the river. The huge barge and crane installing the cement pipe across the river have reached the half-way point this morning. The large crane on the barge cleans out the trench in the rock at the river's bottom and lays the pipe into the trench. It is then checked by a deep sea diver and will be later covered over. The trench was blasted out last winter by workmen working on the top of the ice then on the river. The huge sewer main will run along Fraser Park Street and Quinte Street where it will join with the main sewer from all the streets on the west side of the river. Other crews are now busy working along the Fraser Park Street.

TAKES SHAPE

The filtration plant addition which is expected to be in operation by the first of July is beginning to take shape in the form of a building. The work began last January and up until recently has just appeared to be a big excavation with the filtration beds in the centre. This is apparently where the greatest amount of work was done and the actual building will not take as long to complete. Following this the necessary chlorine and valves will be installed. The addition will supply the town with another 1,000,000 gallons of water daily and members of the Public Utilities Commission assured Trentonians it will end the usual water shortage in the summer months. The method of filtrating the water from the Trent River through the older beds has proved almost impossible to tell the difference between the color of the appearance, and water from the town wells.

NEW HOME ARRIVES

The new hose lengths for the

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Thursday, May 28, 1959

combination aerial - pumper truck bought by the town for the fire department some time ago has arrived and firemen were busy yesterday putting it on the truck. The new truck had been practically useless as a fire fighting machine without the hose and it was only recently the town fathers had decided to purchase it. The three-inch hose to run up the latter to the nozzle at the top has also just arrived, but this had been held up for some reason by the plant where the truck was made. Fire Chief Ellis said yesterday the aerial ladder truck is now ready for use if it should be needed.

USE STEPS

Each night many people are seen on the top of Mount Pelion enjoying the view of the town and the Bay of Quinte from there. It was made possible through the steps which were built from the first level to the top of the hill by members of the Parks Board last year. The original idea to build the steps is credited to F. J. "Pete" Aris, former secretary of the board, with a member of the Trenton High School Board. Within the next month a bench will be installed on the first landing of the steps and even more benches will be placed on each of the mountain to enable older persons to sit and enjoy the view and rest.

THE CBC AND ADVERTISERS

As this editorial was written, CBC Vice-President K. L. Bushnell was still fighting a stubborn rearguard action against members of the Commons broadcasting committee, who are bent on discovering how much sponsors pay for different TV programs. However, it he wins out, his fight will rank with the siege of Stalingrad as a modern miracle of defence against overwhelming odds. The members of the Commons committee want to know these costs, they think they have a right to know and this belief appears to be shared by people of all political beliefs.

For instance, the Toronto Telegram, whose Conservative leanings are well known, points out that the loss on a single program can run as high as $14,000, one sponsor having paid $7,974 for a production which cost the CBC $22,100.

"The only conclusion," says the Telegram, "is that the CBC is heavily subsidizing certain advertisers with funds drawn from other advertisers and taxpayers generally."

Precisely the same point is made by the Windsor Star, a newspaper of Liberal persuasions.

"For one program alone which cost the CBC $20,932 to produce, the sponsor paid only $5,600," says the Star. "Is it an efficient operation when a corporation takes your tax money to help a commercial firm pay the cost of a TV program so that it can be sent into your home?"

The Star evidently expects that question to be answered in the negative, but before we decide whether an operation is "efficient" we need to know what it was designed to accomplish. Obviously operating a broadcasting system in this very inefficient way to attempt to make a profit; but the responsibility of the CBC is not solely, or perhaps even primarily, to operate at a profit. It is supposed to promote Canadian culture, whatever that may be. Before we can say whether the program which the Star referred to served this purpose, we must know its name -- which is what the Commons committee is attempting to discover.

Even without knowing the name of the program, though, we can recognise that sponsors may not have been getting double their money's worth. The worth of the program to the sponsor is not its cost to produce, nor even its entertainment or cultural value, but its ability to increase the sales of the sponsor's products. If sponsors will not pay enough to cover the costs of TV programs, this just proves that, in relatively sparsely settled Canada, costly television is not an economically sound method of advertising.

This statement will be immediately attacked by television interests and needs to be qualified. It may be that television production costs are excessive in Canada because television entertainers here misguidedly believe that their remuneration should bear some relationship to the financial rewards reaped by their counterparts in the U.S. These U.S. rewards, it seems to us, are out of all reason. The fact that television performers in Canada get much less than those in the U.S. does not mean that they are not still being greatly overpaid. If they are, the responsibility for this situation rests on the shoulders of the CBC and the Commons committee may yet dig out some interesting facts from which sound conclusions can be drawn. At present, though, the public is as much in the dark about this facet of the business as it is about the identity of the sponsors who paid $7,974 and $5,600 for shows which cost respectively $22,100 and $20,932 to produce.

Another way to pare the costs of television shows would be to reduce their quality. This would result in some reduction of their advertising value but it would probably be possible to greatly narrow the gap between cost and payment. The only persons who would suffer would be the viewers.

This brings us to another point, raised by the Toronto Telegram. "Do these subsidized programs perform a significant cultural service to the Canadian people?" it asks. "Parliament is entitled to at least try to find out. Last week the CBC listed some of its most popular programs as Front Page Challenge, Canonball and Country Hoedown. This is culture?

Again a good question. The paper says that the existing "confusion is easily resolved if the committee members learn to distinguish between show business as it is carried on by the CBC and 'culture' as it has been defined by the Massey Report and other acceptable authorities." Maybe so, although we fear that the members may find that there are as many different definitions of culture as there are people defining it. But even if this were done, even if the CBC was paid a subsidy to cover the cost of "cultural programs," there would still remain the question of whether, in the Telegram's words, "it is truly the intention of Parliament that it should subsidize show business." It is easy to answer this question in the negative, if one lives in Toronto where the concentration of population would make possible commercially TV shows of good quality, or, if one lives in Belleville, where commercially to the U.S. provides residents with TV entertainment from U.S. stations. But what about those Canadians who live outside the range of U.S. stations and distant from the big centres of population like Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver? They might think that subsidizing entertainment was no worse than subsidizing the production of wheat or cheese or butter by price supports, or of cars, sweaters and radios through tariffs.

Tribute to a Strong Man

Montreal Gazette

Let those who must mumble
Make sure they can wield
His far-reaching sword
And his close-guarding shield.

For those who must journey
Henceforward alone,
Have need of stout convoy
Now Great-Heart is gone.
Thus Bunyan wrote of Judge
Jard Kipling at the death of another great American, return to United States. The death of John Foster Dulles has come, as everyone knew it must, but could not be far away. But now that the announcement is made, and he is gone, there is a sense of loneliness in the world, as there is when the urge to honor his memory.

It may seem strange that so many men now come to see in their tribute to a strong man who is dead. It was not ever thus. Few public men in our time have been subjected to so many bitter words, such masses of ridicule, so much of the contemptuous comment of those who struggled to look down upon him. But few are left who would speak in this way and none are proud that would not do him reference.

There is drama in the fact that he has died in the very midst of conferences being held at Geneva to deal with the fate of Berlin. These talks, struggles go on, full of dangers and gropings, divisions and possibilities. There have been those who claimed to believe that if John Foster Dulles were not out of office, the world could be brought nearer to safety. The enlightened view is that Foster Dulles is now out of office. Those who remain are left to find what new ways they can in their fragile and perilous hopes.

What the world sees more clearly today is how malignant, insidious and unrelenting is the evil force with which he dealt. It must deal, and with which Dulles dealt. In dealing with it he acted with resolution, as one who was not to be made afraid, or bullied, or unnerved into panic. And he gave us peace in his time.

But to the burdens of his office was added yet another -- the burden of unpopularity even among those he sought to serve. It was a burden he carried without complaint, as part of his duty. The world lifted that added burden from his shoulders when only at the very end. But before the end he knew it was gone.

What he gave to the cause of peace in the world was not only his resolute and ceaseless work on the ramparts he guarded, but also the example of his dedication. It was not merely the dedication of a man who had chosen international diplomacy as his profession, who had worked hard to achieve the highest rank, and then worked hard to hold it.

In his dedication was something far deeper and more precious. After a serious operation for the removal of a cancerous growth in November, 1956, he was back at his desk in Washington within a month. And only six weeks out of hospital, he was on his way to Paris to attend a conference of NATO foreign ministers. When his cancer recurred, he resigned.

Nor was this only a form or gesture, or a clinging to office. It was the example, for example to the world that no man should ever be driven out of his office or conscience.

It is an example of faithful dedication that the world may well need to remember, as it faces the dangers and threats that lie on the road ahead.

How to Move Ton of Coal

Christian Science Monitor

It is really frightening to think how many of us go about the most complicated and exact human activities -- pushing but an assumption (or is it presumption?) that we have some common sense. Take this matter of moving coal from one place to another -- as from the corner where the coal man put it to the corner where your wife thinks it would look better.

The British Coal Board which administers the nationalized coal industry, issued a 46-page pamphlet explaining how to bare the secrets of this highly technical operation. Have you look over the shovel (so many of us try just to overlook it) then you move in the direction of the coal, grasping the shovel, of course. Then make a scooping stroke.

Here the instructions move right on and urge you to raise the shovel. But one must warn: not so fast. Did your shovel stuff its toe on a fault in the floor? Did your sleeve get caught in a nail on the wall? Did the backward stroke that had to precede the forward stroke dislodge the lawnmower handle from beneath a tower of empty garden flowerpots? Did a pair of skis, and the twins' old perambulator? If so, you'd better postpone raising the load until you have perfected the technique.

However, the board's climactic advice is unassailable: "Lift the shovel with the coal." Action in which the load is to be thrown." Down the ages many great thinkers have said many great things. But not one of them, we feel sure, ever thought of saying that before is just that very thing, the mother of this, as of all intellectual effort, and that is why so many great discoveries are grateful for automatic heat.

Should Enter Politics

Winghan Advance

Since Montgomery is so anxious to be heard in matters of international concern, it behooves him to enter politics and gain the support of some segment of the voting public. In that way would at least be assuming some responsibility for his utterances, instead of his timed remarks.

THE PACKSAK

By GREGORY CLARK

It was with considerable surprise last fall that I learned from a lawyer friend of mine that he had declined an offer of partnership with another lawyer of great reputation. If they had joined forces, it would have been the union of the two most intelligent strategies of our time. Rumors had been around now for months about the merger.

"He's the kind of fellow," said my friend, "I've always known there will be another bus along in four minutes. You'll always see him rushing pell mell after a bus, a street car, shrilly hailing a taxi, as if it were the last taxi he was ever going to see."

"Was it on those grounds," I protested, "that you made your decision?"

"Yes. Who wants to be tied up to a guy who does not know, in this remarkable day and age, that another bus will be along in a jiffy?"

Now, this is a curious comment, and I pondered on it. It is think that we have to go at a pace to cope with the times. The intelligent lawyer friend holds the view that we should relax full in the arms of the marvels of time, and take it easy.

I met him yesterday on the street.

"Have you heard", he asked "that a former prospective partner has had to give up practice?"

"No!"

"Yes. Gone to Europe on a long holiday. High blood pressure. By the way, his firm has handed over three or four of his more troubled clients to me for the time being. I've got to calm them down."

He raised his finger.

I said: dear me. He got in, thoughtfully, without haste.

MY WANTS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

All that I want in this world
Is my share of love,
Of laughter and sunshine and song,
A bit of the blue sky above,
Some time to go tramping my own
Through the woods and the fields
Enjoying the breezes of May
And the charm that earth yields.

All that I want in this world
Is my share of fun;
I ask not deliverance from pain
Or from tasks to be done,
I would not from anguish be free,
Or sorrow or woe;
Keep nothing of life hid from me,
For life I would know.

All that I want in this world
Is just enough mirth
To sweeten the flavour of life
And teach me their worth;
My share of laughter and love
To soften life's blows;
I gladly will suffer the thorns
To gather the rose.

First Cocktail

Encyclopedia of America Facts

Did you know that the first cocktail is said to have been made in 1776 by Betsy Flanagan, barmaid at Hall's Corners, Elmsford, N.Y.? She was drunk, noting the back of the bar decorated with feathers, collected for a glass of those "cocktails." Betsy made him a mixed drink and put a feather in it and the word "cocktail" was originated.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ADVICE TO AIR SWALLOWERS—EAT AND DRINK MORE SLOWLY

"Dear Dr. Molner: What about swallowing air? I have been suffering from this for about five years and thought I had gas, until I just found out that I swallowed air. Is there anything I can do to avoid it?—Mrs. J. M. S."

It's been quite a time since I've mentioned this, but it's a very real habit and it's very hard to cure.

In some parts of the world this "art" of swallowing air is cultivated deliberately. I'm thinking primarily of China. China, belching or "burping" has long been regarded as a flattering way of expressing how tasty your dinner was.

There was much debate over whether this was "air" or "gas" until some years ago, some scientific studies were made. The burps were captured and analyzed. They were air.

How do you swallow this air? And how do you stop it? Well, how is it along with food, or you swallow it along with liquid, or in some cases people are even known to take little gulps of air, doubtless without knowing it.

Notice the serating device on your stein there. It's made in small vent, and as the water runs through, it breaks up the flow into the water. The same thing happens when a baby drinks from a bottle. He sucks a little air along with the milk, and that's why you burp him after feeding, rid of the air he swallowed.

EATING WINDMILL FASHION

Eating orietal style, with chopsticks, you move your food from the bowl to your mouth. Along with it goes air. (Sometimes this has been called "eating windmill fashion," which is not a bad term for it.

So you see it's easy enough to swallow air. Sometimes you can catch yourself doing it. Make a breath, or a little gulp of air, as you eat.

Eat slowly. When drinking, make a conscious effort to keep the liquid flows into your mouth, instead of being sucked in from the sides.

There isn't anything physically wrong with a person who swallows air — except it's just a habit. Thus there isn't a great deal a doctor can do except explain what happens, so you can guard against it.

Like any habit, it's sometimes hard to break. That's characteristic of habits. But once you understand what is happening, then it isn't too difficult to break, changing gradually. The most useful method of all, I believe you will find, is simply making a point of eating and drinking slowly.

"Dear Dr. Molner: On the beach at Fort Lauderdale the other day a man buried his small daughter in the sand almost up to her shoulders. I kept pouring buckets of water over her. Could you write a few words explaining the damage that could probably be caused by such actions. I think there are still some parents who think they have a right to abuse a child. I seem to get the suspicious feeling that they are planning to use the child's insurance to pay for their vacation.—D.B."

Oh, now! If the child laughed and shouted, then certainly no harm was done. If she cried and was frightened, that's something else. You're too suspicious of evil—I hope.

Note to F. P. E.: Meat and certain vegetables (spinach for one) are best avoided after age 40 in the stool. However a truly black segment may mean bleeding. For positive diagnosis be sure to see you should have an examination.

'Eating Out' Different

Brandon Sun

Probably more people today "eat out" than ever before, but they do not dine as elegantly. Most meals eaten away from home today consist of a doubtful sandwich swallowed while at a counter while somebody stands in the line of those waiting for his seat the while peering over his shoulder to determine whether he is procrastinating.

Some people different in days of yore, when most meals were leisurely consumed at tables covered with tablecloths and real napkins.

The price ranged from 20 cents to two or three times that figure, and if the occasion was a banquet special, there was usually a table d'hote meal from which somewhere for a dollar that was the superior of anything that can be located today at any price.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

AN OFFICE BOY

I have always been interested in office boys. I used to be one myself. I believe I was one of the best in the greatest institutions on earth. He's not clogged with the false idea that you get together practicalities.

The other day, in the directing room of a great corporation, I watched an office boy. He came in the door, dusted off his feet, did not take his cloth and have a last top three or four whirlwings. Carefully he pushed the cloth back and forth across the surface. Then he stood off and got his eyes upon every angle of that desk, until he was sure it was dusted as well as could be done. Then he quietly left the room.

I have been thinking about this particular office boy ever since. I have forgotten all about the big directors and their big mahogany chairs, but somehow I keep thinking about the ideas back in the head of that office boy. I will be very much surprised if he doesn't some day be well up in the world. One of those leather chairs at that very table — or some table like it!

There is romance about the life and work of an office boy. As I think about it, I wish I could write it can back to my own office-boy days. I made up my mind then that the job of an office boy was a wonderful job — but the job above were still more wonderful.

Be good to your office boy. Take him into confidence. Some day he may be working with you — instead of for you.

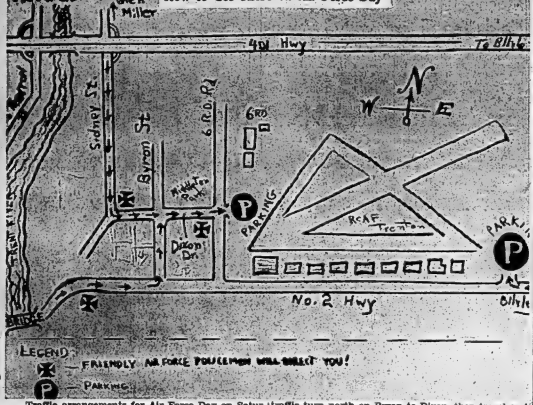
Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RETIREMENT IS NOT DEATH



Have you retired voluntarily or been retired by your company? If so, life now presents a whole new set of circumstances.

One of the most amusing things about retirement is that almost everybody finds himself suddenly busier in retirement as he was in the height of his career. Of course, this type of activity has to change, there are some things which can be done only by people capable of doing that young men have to take over.

But it is also true — and never let us forget this — that there are some areas in which people in the later years of their lives can be more useful than they ever were at middle age. Certainly most people know more with the passing of time. Millions upon millions of good experiences have crowded into their minds. And with these experiences there should have come new insights — and usually these insights are really valuable. The ancients believed that they had attained their social order were the wisest men on earth, and something there, did they not? If the elders were not wise, they had lived in vain. They had had more time to get wisdom than had the younger middle aged men.

One of the great discoveries in the coming decades will be the utilization of the capacities of retired men and women. Don't think for a moment that you can throw people on the scrap heap because they have passed sixty-five. Some of the world's best ability may be right there if business men human affairs have the sense to investigate.

How to Get There on Air Force Day

Traffic arrangements for Air Force Day on Saturday, have been laid out by WO2 "Ben" Richardson of the Air Force Police, and the above sketch indicates that traffic from the west should enter the parking area at the end of Dixon Drive. While autos from north of Trenton may turn off 401 Highway onto Sidney Street and travel south to Dixon Drive, it is suggested that Trenton traffic turn north on Byron to Dixon, then travel east. "Now that 401 Highway is open," states Warrant Officer Richardson, "we hope for less congestion, as through traffic can use the new highway as a bypass and miss Air Force Day visitors to Station Trenton."

As in the past, traffic from Belleville and the east can turn directly off No. 2 Highway to a parking lot at the east end of the Air Station.

The three planes, in echelon formation, are basic and jet trainers used by the Royal Canadian Air Force. They are, right to left: Chipmunk, Harvard and T-33.

For the air show north side gates will open at 12.30 p.m. Saturday. Plenty of parking will be available.

Flying Club To Hold "Open House"

PICTON — Want to see this part of Prince Edward county's farm and countryside from the cockpit of a private aircraft—fly free?

You can if you attend the Open House of the Prince Edward Flying Club scheduled for the Airport here on Sunday, May 31.

The flying and other festivities get under way at 10 a.m. and will continue through until 6 p.m.

Upwards of sixty air rides will be given visitors through the courtesy of six aircraft and pilots of the club. There will be no charge.

Various types of aircraft flown by members will be on display as will the latest models which will be shown by dealers.

An added attraction will be the marching Debs of Picton, a group of young ladies whose dancing, majorettes and drum and trumpet band is one of the finest aggregations of its kind in the district.

There will be refreshment booths in various parts of the airport.

The airport is located at the army camp, "on the hill", the home of the Royal Canadian Artillery School.

The Prince Edward Flying Club extends a cordial welcome to the general public to attend its annual "Open House" on Sunday.

TO STUDY FALLOUT

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba will set up a special committee soon to study radiation fallout, Health Minister George Johnson announced Wednesday.

Aviation's 50th Anniversary In Canada to Be Observed Saturday at Trenton Station

An elaborate air and ground display commemorating the Golden Anniversary of Aviation in Canada and featuring the RCAF Golden Hawks Precision Aerobatic Team will be offered on Saturday in the 1959 version of Air Force Day at Station Trenton. Feature attraction illustrating Canada's great strides in the aviation field will centre around the Mark III replica of McCurdy's Silver Dart flown at Baddeck in 1909, as contrasted with the spectacular airshow to be presented by the Hawks in their Mark VP 86 Sabres.

Combined with this year's anniversary will be a salute to Training Command Headquarters, Central Flying School and Flying Instructors School, TCHQ under the command of Air Vice Marshall J. D. Bryans has been operating in Trenton since 1940 and will have completed the move to Winnipeg by early fall of this year. CFS will be based at Station Saskatoon and FIS at Station Moose Jaw and Portage. Included in this year's salute to departing units will be a farewell to Group Captain R. M. Cox, Station Trenton, Commanding Officer since 1957 who leaves in July to take up his new post-ing in NORAD.

The north side gates will be officially opened at 12.30 p.m. on Saturday and the public is urged to take advantage of this startling time to visit the static display occupying the various hangars and special exhibits along the flight line. At 2.30 p.m. the first segment of the air display will begin and will last approximately one hour. At 4 o'clock the Golden Hawks finale will be presented as the headliner of the afternoon's activities.

All necessary arrangements have been taken to ensure the public is properly accommodated. Catering services, refreshment booths, first-aid posts and washroom facilities will be available. In addition a special baby - sitting service will be in operation from 2 o'clock until 4.30 for children five years of age and under. Traffic control will be looked after and lots of parking space is available.

In the event of unfavorable weather a modified display will be staged. A generous welcome is extended to one and all to come to Station Trenton on Air Force Day to witness this year's Calvalcade of Aviation.

68 lb. Sturgeon Lifted by Stanley Rankin

PICTON — Stanley Rankin, commercial fisherman at Salmon Point, received a pleasant surprise Wednesday morning when he lifted his carp nets set off-shore in Lake Ontario. Entangled in the nets was a sturgeon which tipped the scales at 68 pounds. It is valued at around a dollar a pound.

Jim Graham Will Organize June Rally

The members of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club, Belleville chapter, held their regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the Sea Cadet Barracks on South Front Street. Highlight of the evening's program was a travelogue by club member Doug Fraser on the racing events in Europe and England which he attended a couple of years ago. The speaker's witty comments and colored slides gave the members present a delightful insight into the life surrounding motorsport activities in those areas. A side trip to Venice was also included in the travelogue's itinerary, which was greatly enjoyed by those present.

A brief run-down of the club's last event, the driving skill tests held last Sunday, was given by Paul Watson and Pat Perry. It was announced that the July rally for the club would be organized by Jim Graham. The June event is to be organized by the Kingston members. The chapter secretary, Pat Perry, informed those present that the DKW Owners' club of Toronto had invited club members to enter its June rally to be held on the 7th of that month.

A point system has been inaugurated, retroactive to the first of the year, for the Carling's Annual Award, which is to be presented to the club member turning in the best performance during the club's monthly events for the calendar year.

Preparations are under way for the club's entries in the Six Hour Relay Races, sponsored by the Grand Valley Car Club, to be held on the Harewood Circuit, near Simcoe, on June 5th and 6th. The club's racing group, the Scuderia Hysteria, will be entering two teams of four cars each in this event. A large number of local members will be attending this meet. Another event, the St. Eugene Circuit Races, sponsored by the Montreal area clubs of the Canadian Automobile Sport Club, will also be well attended by local competitors on the following weekend.

SET FIRE TO STUDENT

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)— A 15-year-old junior high school student Wednesday squirted lighter fluid on a younger boy and a third struck a match to the fuel. Admitted to hospital with second - and third - degree burns on his back was Bennie Spencer, 14, a student monitor who was directing students in the crowded corridor. Principal T.B. Parnell called the act "prank that backfired."

May 23rd., 1959

A MESSAGE TO THE MOTORISTS OF THE BELLEVILLE AREA . . .

Through this medium I wish to explain to our customers and others who are constantly calling and inquiring as to why we cannot give service from our Service Station after the hour of 7 p.m. and later when other departments of our business are in operation.

We wish to point out that the reason is because of the By-Law which was passed by our City Council a short time ago. We wish to state that we are willing and anxious to render service from all departments of our business at night and in fact on a 24-hour basis. This is not something new within our organization as we have promoted and have actually rendered 24-hour service of this type for the past 20 years or more.

The system of controlled hours of sale of gasoline may seem a good idea on the surface but we question whether it is in the best interests of the City of Belleville to have this type of regulation in effect. It has always been our desire and our aim to render the best possible service to the motoring public. With controlled hours of sale it doesn't seem to be in the progressive policy. Already considerable dissatisfaction and confusion has been experienced by the motorists to say nothing of the hardship caused by the inability to procure gasoline during the night.

It is very questionable if this by-law is in the best interests of the Service Station Operators. It is hard to realize how stations can close their doors to the large business potential available through the travelling motorist. It is creating a considerable amount of ill will and inconvenience to customers who have actually stated that they are considering bringing this matter before the Chamber of Commerce. We could relate many cases of dissatisfaction but we merely wish to point out our own position in this matter and to say that we are not in agreement with this recently passed By-Law and feel that it is injurious generally to the welfare of our City and to our trade. This matter is serious and I sincerely trust that the citizens of Belleville will look into this matter and in their own wisdom see fit to do something about this situation before too much damage is done.

Yours Very Truly,
Trudeau Motors Limited,
J. J. Trudeau.

DIVORCE DECREES

TORONTO, Ont. (CP) — In the Supreme Court of Ontario, Mr. Justice Dey Payfoot has helped to raise $1,500 for the Belleville Hospital in this week by granting decrees nisi in divorce actions to Mrs. Ruth Wedding of Belleville and Mrs. Mary Ann Wedding of Toronto.

Wedding

BARRETTE — FIRIE

CAMPBELLFORD — St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Campbellford, was the setting of a pretty wedding on Saturday, May 16th, when Rosemary Ann, daughter of Robert John Firie and the late Mrs. Firie of Campbellford, became the bride of Donald Barrette, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Phillippe Barrette of Hallebourg, Ontario. The Rev. J. C. Moloney officiated.

The wedding music was played by Miss Marie Crosson, with Mrs. Rose Cestnik as soloist. Her "Ave Maria", "Panis Angelicus", "On This Day" and "Beautiful Saviour" were lovely.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a story-book floor-length gown designed on Grecian lines of chiffon and taffeta with a fabulous neckline and bodice of Chantilly lace, embroidered with sparkling at sides and long lily-point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was softly gathered at the sides with a centre panel of lace from waist to hem. She wore a Juliet-type headdress of matching lace showered with sequins and pearls, a finger-tip circular veil of silk illusion, and carried a bouquet of roses surrounded by white sweet peas.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Lorraine Cestnik, was matron of honor and Mrs. Bernice Mahoney and Miss Mary Collins were bridesmaids. They were identically gowned in white with boxed pleated over turquoise taffeta with round necklines. The sleeves were accented with taffeta cummerbunds with large butterfly bows at the front. Bandeaux of matching taffeta were trimmed with sequins. They carried sprays of pink sweet peas.

Groomsman was Mr. Leonard Smith, Joseph Foresteil and Mr. Thomas Messenger were ushers.

A reception was held at the Sky View Lounge in Havelock for the bride's aunt, Mrs. Edwards Foresteil received in a floor length gown of white satin and white accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations and white sweetheart roses. Mrs. Rita Gerling, also received, wearing a blue print dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

For a honeymoon trip to Montreal and points east, the bride donned a navy blue suit with beige and brown flower hat, pale-green scarf and gloves and navy and white bag and a purple orchid corsage. On their return the couple will live at 62 Grandview St., Oshawa, Ont.

Out-of-town guests were present from Chicago; Detroit; North Bay; Ajax; Toronto; Oshawa; Port Perry; Belleville; Stirling, and Picton.

Coronation W.A. Installs Officers

On Monday evening the Coronation Women's Association held the May meeting at Bridge Street United Church. The president, Mrs. Gordon Locklin, welcomed the members, new members and guests.

One of the evening's high lights was the installation of the officers and members of the executive, with the assistance of Mrs. A. Clare, convener of personal standing committee of Presbytery W.A. and Mrs. Leonard H. M. Davis.

Mrs. Locklin expressed appreciation, on behalf of the executive, to Mrs. H. M. Davis for consenting to be honorary president of the newly formed Coronation Women's Association.

ADDITIONAL OFFICERS

Mrs. D. M. Scott, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of additional officers to be added to the present executive: 2nd vice-president, Mrs. R. W. Edwards; Christian stewardship, Mrs. R. Colden; Christian education, Mrs. R. Chaplin; parsonage committee, Miss E. Black, and kitchen committee, Mrs. D. A. McKinney.

Mrs. Dallas, president of the afternoon Women's Association, thanked the ladies, bringing greetings and good wishes from the Afternoon W.A. Mrs. Locklin thanked Mrs. Dallas and those conducting the installation service.

Prior to the installation service a short business meeting was held during which the various reports were given. The president made mention of the dates and the plans for the plaisic at Dr. R. Bateman's cottage in June and the "Forward Day" at the parsonage in September.

Vice-president Mrs. B. M. Kerr reported on the plans for a spring tea.

PANEL SHOW

The program, under the direction of Mrs. R. Sherwin's group, took the form of a TV panel show with audience participation. The panel, composed of Mrs. R. W. Edwards and Mrs. J. A. R. Schryver, with Mrs. Sherwin as moderator, discussed "Home Mission Work In Canada".

Miss Loretta McDougall favored with a vocal selection, "One World" by O'Hara.

During the social hour, the sewing group sold many of its lovely articles with assorted Christmas stockings, aprons and children's dresses.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sherwin's group.

Bayside H-S Assoc. Plans Toronto Trip

The Bayside Home and School Association held its regular monthly meeting at the Bayside School on Thursday, May 21st with Mr. C. Miller, opened the meeting.

It was decided that arrangements be made for the children of Grades 7 and 8 of the Bayside School to visit Toronto by bus on June 22nd, and that a $2.00 deposit be paid for grade 8 would be held on June 8th.

The committee was chosen to make arrangements for the children's annual field day which is to be held in June.

It was also decided that the Home and School Association would provide some equipment for the teachers' room in both the Bayside and Quinte View Schools. It was announced by Mrs. Cecil Wannamaker that a splendid donation of playground equipment had been made by her brother to the two schools.

The prize for attendance was won by Mrs. Ellis Ellsworth.

Mr. Jack Glydon was chosen by acclamation to represent on the Home and School Association for the next school term, 1959-60. Mrs. Wannamaker was also chosen by acclamation to represent on the Public Committee.

Nominations for vice-president were made, and Mrs. M. Ackerman was the only person in attendance as secretary. The executive committee expressed regret that no one was made and these will all be voted on at the next meeting on June 18th.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Moase and Mrs. Whiteman.

Holloway W.A. Hears Talk on C.A.R.S. Work

The June meeting of Holloway Street Evening W.A. was held Tuesday evening in the church parlor.

The business session opened with Mrs. Reta Harland reading the Scripture lesson, after Marion Doxsee reported on the flowers and gifts sent to sick and several thank-you letters were read. Mrs. Leura Martin reported on the June 1st bake sale.

The president, Mrs. Jean Bateman, thanked the members for their help and co-operation with the coffee-dessert party on May 25th.

After a short discussion, it was decided to turn over to the Afternoon Group of the W.A. a sum of money to go towards the purchase of a new hymn book for the church kitchen.

Mrs. Marion Doxsee reported on plans for a vacation school this summer and a donation was decided upon for the "missionary teachers' and students' supplies.

The group will cater for a wedding in July.

President Bateman asked for volunteers to help with the canvass for the Belleville Canteer Campaign.

The members were reminded of the fall bazaar to be held in October.

Treasurer Mrs. Reta Harland was presented with a gift on behalf of the group as she is leaving Belleville shortly to reside at Picton. Mrs. Harland's successor will be Mrs. Hilda Lawrenson.

Next month's meeting, the last of the season, will be a pot-luck supper.

A short devotional period was enjoyed with Mrs. Grace Hamm in charge. Mrs. Phyllis Rowe read the Scripture lesson. The prayer was read given by Mrs. Marion Richardson.

Mrs. June Sine introduced the speaker for the evening, Miss Dorothy McIlwaine, who is her-therapist for the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. Miss McIlwaine, who is from New Zealand, gave a most interesting talk on the work done on the Society — its formation and growth since 1946. The Society is the body that is doing research; to promote a program for public education as to early signs of the disease and its treatment; to provide adequate facilities for the treatment of patients, both in hospital and by the mobile unit. She also spoke on the Society's work in the Women's Auxiliary of the Society.

This talk was followed by an enlightening film on the subject.

Mrs. Jean Townson thanked the speaker.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ruth Bailey's group.

Machpelah Rebekah Lodge Holds Tea of the Twelve Moons

PICTON— "The Tea of the Twelve Moons" sponsored by Machpelah Rebekah Lodge in the Odd Fellows' hall Wednesday afternoon, was held for 100 ladies. So popular are these teas that reservations close, and a record number if previous teas can be exceeded but the members were able to deal with their novel theme which was tables for 12 persons each to represent each month of the year, with refreshments also carrying out the theme.

The guests were received by the Noble Grand, Mrs. Florence Tucker and vice-Grand, Mrs. Ray Brummell. So attractive were the table decorations that guests came early just to view them.

Throughout the rooms were moons in the various phases, emblems denoting the months and baskets of spring flowers.

In the kitchen were lovely trays of home cooking, plants and flowers, fancy work and aprons, while candy was sold in pretty young girls.

Convening January table was Mrs. Brummell. Hostesses of parties here were: Mrs. M. E. Ackerman, Mrs. R. Bird, Mrs. Raymond Hudgin and Mrs. H. Laundry.

February and New Year's was the theme with winter scenes including skaters, snowmen, New Year's horns and caps while refreshments included cakes and meringues with the twelve months of the year and the birthstone for each month. Pink green and cones marked division of parties.

VALENTINE THEME

Red and white carried out the February Valentine theme. Hearts, cupids and arrows were suspended from a streamer running the full length of the table. Hearts in red, pink-covered with arch, a boy and girl depicted the romantic theme. White lilies-of-the-valley and lilacs were flowers used while favors were white baskets of candy and heart. Mrs. Henrietta Cockburn convened these tables and Mrs. Ethel Carrick's in March saw shamrocks and silver lines where a pot-of-gold was joining two tall standards which had lilies-of-the-valley as the theme. Tulips, lilacs and potted shamrocks, baskets of candy and green emblems and shamrock helped carry out the theme. Mrs. Reg Moore was convener and Mrs. Gertrude Allen, hostess.

Mrs. Calvin Hughes had a table for 12 and Mrs. Howard Dulmage seven.

April and Easter table, convened by Mrs. Ethel Burford, had a central arch in green with yellow emblems, beneath which an Easter bunny pushed a cart filled with eggs and flowers. Two large purple silver-vases were also used and a large bunny sat on a chair at each end.

Receiving floral pins were the 13 guests of Mrs. Iva Nicholson, the 11 guests of Mrs. W. H. Clow.

May, heralding Spring featured picket fences with bright flowers, a birdhouse set amid apple blossoms and spring bouquets. Each guest received a corsage. Mrs. Edith Hubbard was convener.

The order of the Eastern Star had 13 guests, Mrs. J. Whitford, 8 and Mrs. R. C. Tyrrel four.

Mrs. Coral Gardiner, convener for June, chose the bridal theme for her table where garden flowers entwined the arch. H. Lightball, Mrs. Nettie Zimmerman, Mrs. Willis Sills and Mrs. W. G. McLean. This was a symphony in white with touches of silver. Dishes were heirloom Limoges china. From a streamer over the long table were suspended white bells while white tapers in crystal holders were at each end with a four-tier wedding cake in the centre surrounded by white boxed pieces of wedding cake and a pretty nosegay. A miniature bride was in the crystal vases.

July theme at the table convened by Mrs. Maisie Rutter featured the birthday of Canada with the forthcoming Royal visit. Centering the table was a long model of the Royal Lawrence seaway from Montreal to Toronto, gaily in colored plasticine, with white and blue bows. Groups of Canadian and U.S. flags were here, there and yonder. The cakes were in the form of ships.

Mrs. G. C. Caughey had a party of twenty while Mrs. Quentin Minaker entertained four.

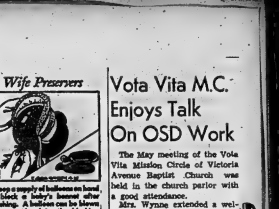
HOLIDAY MONTH

August, the month of holidays saw Mrs. John Coyle and committee arrange timely favors. A miniature pond with a boy sat fishing, with live gold fish splashing around. At another table was a little girl swing in a small tree. Vases of purple asters, butterfly napkins, miniature animals and small straw hats contributed to a holiday scene. Novelty in food was pineapple cut in the shape of fish, with cherry eyes, then cut into small sections with a toothpick topped with a cherry for fin.

The United Church Evening Auxiliary had 28 guests and the Order of the Royal Purple six at this table.

September, harvest time was effectively carried out by Mrs. Coyle with Mrs. Ethel Burford in charge for Mrs. C. Proctor and Mrs. D. Taylor in a party of 16, Mrs. Norman Allison and Mrs. Henry Sallana. There were trees with candy apples as favors, a harvest fruit, model tractors and trucks laden with fruit, brown napkins with bright maple leaves, and baskets of candy.

October saw Hallowe'en featured by Mrs. Irene Sherffield as convener, centering each table was a scarecrow in black and yellow, along with black cups holding oranges with black facial features, pumpkin candles and season emblems. Special refreshments included cakes resembling orange pumpkins with green stems. Parties entertained here were those of Mrs. Harold Miller, Mrs. Jack May, Mrs. Gordon Giroux, Miss Ruth Gillespie.



THANKSGIVING TIME

For October, Mrs. Mary Coulter had chosen the Thanksgiving theme. Fruit and vegetables spilled from cornucopia on bright red tables, were bordered with fruits, clusters of fruit were favors. Guests entertained here were those of Mrs. Douglas Istead, Mrs. Cyril Ward, Mrs. W. B. Aldis and Mrs. George Hepburn.

The gaiety of December was set by a December section convened by Mrs. F. Taylor. Entertaining parties were: Mrs. Lee Allison, Mrs. N. Frewing, Mrs. Joyce Gunness, Mrs. T. Whittle with ten members responding to the roll call. Christmas trees, bells, poinsettias and table centres made a festive note. Refreshments included those of cake and there were miniature snowmen for favors.

In the section of the hall devoted to the four Fall months, walls were festooned with autumn leaves and maple leaves, baskets of flowers and emblems appropriate to each month.

In addition to the general refreshments of relishes, fancy sandwiches, tarts and fancy cakes, each table had some special treat arranged by the convener and her committee. Mrs. Coyle was in special designs and napkins in many cases were influential. It was an enjoyable tea which will be the subject of conversation for some time.

Vota Vita M.C. Enjoys Talk On OSD Work

The May meeting of the Vota Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church was held in the church parlor with a good attendance.

Mrs. G. Cox extended a welcome to new members. to Mr. Alex Gordon, pupil from the Ontario School for the Deaf, Mrs. D. Wellbanks conducted the devotional period the theme "Consecration and Discipleship".

Mrs. D. Wooley sang "Not Dreaming".

Mrs. C. Wood introduced the speaker, Mr. Alex Gordon, who gave some interesting highlights on the work and functioning of the Ontario School for the Deaf, just what age when pupils are admitted and how long they remain. The number of pupils approximately in each class and just how they are taught. He brought a class of students with him, and they demonstrated how they say their vowels, sang songs and played a piece in a rhythm band.

Mrs. W. Dempsey thanked the speaker for his talk on the work at the O.S.D.

The June meeting will be in the form of a mother and daughter picnic, and the lunch being pot-luck.

Women's Activities

HOLY TRINITY W.G.

On May 14th the regular meeting of the Women's Guild, Holy Trinity was held in the home of Mrs. T. Whittle with ten members responding to the roll call. Interesting articles were made a festive note. Refreshments included those of cake and there were miniature snowmen for favors.

In the section of the hall devoted to the four Fall months, walls were festooned with autumn leaves and maple leaves, baskets of flowers and emblems appropriate to each month.

In addition to the general refreshments of relishes, fancy sandwiches, tarts and fancy cakes, each table had some special treat arranged by the convener and her committee. Mrs. Coyle was in special designs and napkins in many cases were influenal. It was an enjoyable tea which will be the subject of conversation for some time.

Mrs. Vance, had charge of the program, starting with a contest on the number of books in the New Testament. Mrs. Page and Mrs. McBride were the winners. Mrs. McBride closed the meeting.

Mrs. Fitzgerald thanked Mrs. McBride for the devotional, Mrs. Vance for the program and Mrs. Whittle for having the meeting. Mrs. Whittle served refreshments with the members enjoying a social hour.

RED CROSS WORKER IN KIKUYU KITCHEN — Joan Whittington, overseas director of the British Red Cross, samples food at an open kitchen in Kenya where she helped organize Red Cross centres during the Mau-Mau uprising. She kept up a simple training scheme for Kikuyu women to teach elementary child care and home improvement. She also worked in Malaya and Cyprus during the disturbances there. Since her appointment as director in 1947 she has helped to found 30 Red Cross branches in British colonial territories. She joined the Red Cross after serving as a volunteer nurse with the 8th army in the Middle East and Italy. (CP Photo).

30 Branches of Red Cross In British Colonial Areas Are Founded by Woman

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — When Joan Whittington visited an African village in Swaziland, a man wearing animal skins and carrying spears rushed forward to greet her.

The grey-haired overseas director of the British Red Cross was the first representative of the organization he had ever seen. He thanked her profusely for food parcels he had received as a prisoner of war in Tobruk.

"He said they had kept him alive and was so happy that he could thank a person from the Red Cross at last."

It is incidents like this, says Miss Whittington, "which make the job such a rewarding one and give such a feeling of satisfaction."

A youthful - looking 50, Miss Whittington was appointed overseas director in 1947. Since then she has helped to found 30 branches of the Red Cross in British colonial territories.

For three months each year she travels to countries in need of medical or welfare services and talks with local or government authorities. But her work doesn't end there. Sometimes she starts a centre personally and she never lets wars or revolts interfere with her job.

During the disturbances in Malaya; Kenya and Cyprus, Miss Whittington travelled across the affected countries, helping to set up Red Cross facilities and centres to rehabilitate homeless.

This meant sometimes travelling through steamy jungles, protected only by her uniform.

She thinks one of the biggest recent achievements of the Red Cross was in Kenya during the Mau Mau disorders. Miss Whittington went there at the beginning of the emergency to organize health and welfare services for the women and children.

She was met by four Africans dressed in blankets and wearing bomburg hats trimmed with feathers. They acted as guards during her stay.

Miss Whittington began a simple training scheme for hundreds of Kikuyu women in which they were taught elementary child care and how to improve their stress and home conditions.

"We even taught them to make curtains for the windows of their huts."

Miss Whittington, who considers her job a part-time one, likes to relax by doing farm work at her home in Surrey.

She thinks she is fortunate in having her Red Cross work which followed a spell as a volunteer nurse during the war, when she served in the Middle East and Italy with the 8th army.

Muffins For Duffers

by Mary Moore

Mrs. Iris Gillespie is a Home Economics teacher whom I hold in high regard as a friend and teacher and home economist.

She has recommended to me the following recipes for muffins. She says that the instructions with muffins always say "do not overmix", then adds "but if amateurs mix these too much no harm will be done".

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Beef Hash (using leftover pot roast and hot boiled potatoes); Mustard Pickles; New Asparagus with Drawn Butter; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers with Sour Cream Dressing; Shredded Pineapple (see Tuesday); Cocoanut Macaroons; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Scotch Broth; Savory Baked Ham with Pineapple Ring Topping; Glazed Sweet Potatoes; Broccoli; Celery Hearts; Broiled Grapefruit (see Tues. day); Assorted Fancy Cheeses; Assorted Crackers; Coffee.

Anybody here yearning for a foolproof muffin recipe? As an added dividend these call for skim milk powder which makes them economical. The recipes are streamlined and quick.

HOME ECONOMICS TEACHER'S FOOLPROOF MUFFINS:

(Courtesy Iris Gillespie).

Two cups sifted pastry flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1-2 teapoon salt, 1-4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons skim milk powder; 1 egg beaten, 1-3 cup salad oil, 1-2 cup water, 1-2 teapoon vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together into large mixing bowl, then stir in wheat germ. In another bowl, beat egg until thick and light. Stir in salad oil, water and vanilla. Make a well in dry mixture and add liquids all at once. Combine lightly (batter will be lumpy.) Turn into 8 large greased muffin pans until 3-4 full. Bake 20-25 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr.

HOME ECONOMICS TEACHER'S WHEAT GERM MUFFINS:

(Courtesy Iris Gillespie).

One and one-quarter cups sifted pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder (1 tablespoon double-acting baking powder) 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup sugar, 1-4 cup skim milk powder; 3-4 cup wheat germ, 1 egg, beaten, 1-3 cup salad oil, 1 cup water, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together into large mixing bowl, then stir in wheat germ. In another bowl, beat egg until thick and light. Stir in salad oil, water and vanilla. Make a well in dry mixture and add liquids all at once. Combine lightly (batter will be lumpy.) Turn into 8 large greased muffin pans until 3-4 full. Bake 20-25 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr.

BLUEBERRY (OR OTHER FRUIT) MUFFINS:

Make Plain Muffins (above). Fold in 2-3 cup washed, dried blueberries, raspberries, plumped raisins, dried currants, or chopped dates with the last few stirs of the batter. Bake as directed in recipe.

The following recipe is the standard one for Bran Muffins — always in popular demand.

BRAN MUFFINS:

One cup whole bran, 2-4 cup milk, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 egg, beaten. Add bran to milk and let stand 10 to 15 minutes. Sift flour, measure and resift 3 times with baking powder and salt. Cream butter, blend in sugar, add egg and beat until fluffy. Stir in bran and milk. Add flour mixture, stirring until flour is just dampened. Fill 12 greased muffin tins 2-3 full. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 25 to 30 minutes. Serve piping hot with butter.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Ellen R. — Mother is too strict.

Mrs. F. R. — The kids around here are much too fast.

Ellen R. — I am 14 and my best friend is 15 and we are both in love with the same man. He is a teacher in our school, about 25 and married.

We aren't trying to break up his marriage or anything like that, but we did want him to know how we feel. So we wrote him a kind of love-letter. It told how much we admire him and how we think he is so much more attractive than any of the boys of our age. We signed off with lipstick kisses, but we didn't give our names.

We thought he'd make some mention in class of having gotten a letter, but he never even said a word. So we wanted to send another letter. My mother got wind of it and she is furious. My friend's mother heard about it and just laughed. I feel that my mother is much too strict.

Mrs. F. R. — I know that I'm more strict than other mothers in our community, but my husband and I feel that the kids around here are much too fast. When I was 14 I was too busy with school work and sports to sit around mooning over men. The way these kids carry on day with constant talk about some "marvelous hunk of man" — a movie idol usually — they have no time to grow up before they begin to want marriage.

There have been a number of teenage marriages in our community and my husband and I have been horrified by this. We were married young, but in our 20's, when we were old enough to know what we were doing.

I don't see how Ellen's friend's mother can take this thing so lightly. I think it's awful that they should carry on like this.

The Council: We think that Mrs. F. R. is right — for the wrong reasons.

There is nothing very unusual or bad about teenage girls mooning over a male teacher (and if Mrs. F. R. searches her memory carefully, we believe she'll recall some similar occurrence in her own history), but these girls should be discouraged from making pests of themselves. They should also be taught that it is wrong to send anonymous letters. If the writer has a sense of shame about sending a message, it should not be sent. We'll make an exception for Valentines, which follow laws of their own.

Aside from this issue, these two girls show that they are not "fast," but a bit backward emotionally and socially. The game or fantasy they play together is more suitable for girls a few years younger. These girls are old enough to start enjoying activities with boys their own age or a little bit older. If they were enjoying such teenage friendships, they would not involve themselves in this completely unrealistic day dream.

We don't blame the F. R.'s for being alarmed about the teenage marriages, but they will not help their daughter by adopting rigid attitudes that prevent their seeing her actual problems. The girl who talks about a "marvelous hunk of man" at age 14 may be trying out a new line she heard just for kicks. She may be the very girl who will be tongue tied and helpless before boys as much as two years later.

If the F. R.'s want to help their daughter eventually make a mature and sensible marriage, they will try to understand her as an individual and guide her toward fuller emotional and social development. They should not let fear paralyze their common sense.

Point Anne H-S Assoc. Holds Meeting

On May 19 in the school auditorium the Point Anne Home and School Association held its annual meeting at 7.30 p.m.

The president, Mrs. Milton Akey, called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Murney Green read the treasurer's report.

Mr. Lawrence Horwood audited the books. The association extends him their grateful thanks.

Mrs. Milton Akey read her report for the year's work and a copy will be sent to the local council. She also thanked her officers for their co-operation and read the names of the newly elected officers. Mrs. Robert Liddle, of Belleville council, was introduced and asked to conduct the installation ceremony.

1959-60 OFFICERS

Mrs. Liddle installed the following officers for the ensuing year: president — Mrs. Charles Hart; vice-president — Mrs. Robert Hull, Sr.; secretary — Mrs. Milton Akey; treasurer — Mrs. Murney Green; executive members — Mrs. Gordon Chisholm, Milton Akey, Mrs. Charles Freming, Mrs. Ed. Hutchinson, Mrs. Ralph Sedore, Mr. Thorold Horwood and Mr. Maurice Bradshaw.

The newly-elected president, Mrs. Charles Hart, addressed the meeting and called for the closest co-operation and a lively interest in the coming year from all the parents. Mr. Walkom, principal, took charge and the program for the music festival was commenced. The following constitutes the program of the festival: "Welcome Song," the senior room; girls' songs, the primary room; piano solo, Pamela Akey; piano solo, Judy Carter; dance by Bonnie and Debbie Greene; girls' songs, the primary room; piano solo, Gloria Green; dance, Marlene Freming and Gay Hutchinson; "Sunbonnet Sally and Overall Jim", sung by primary room; piano solo, Patsy Hart; two-part rounds by grades III, IV, V; rhythm band, by the primary room; dance, Carolyn Chisholm; boys' song, the senior room; piano solo, Brenda Ebner; piano solo, Nancy Fraser; "The Muffin Man", by the primary room; "Scotch Songs" grades III, IV, V; piano solo, Penny Hart; Negro Spirituals, the senior room; piano solo, David Whitehead; triple trio, sung by the senior girls; square dance, grade V; sacred songs, the senior room.

The musical supervisors, Mrs. Dorothy Reilly, and the principal and teachers, Mrs. Clinton MacDonald and Mrs. Bert Henderson, are extended a vote of thanks for a fine program.

PAGES IN YESTERDAY'S WEDDINGS AND TODAY'S

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Quite often lately I have read, in the accounts of some fashionable weddings in this metropolitan city, mention that, included among the wedding attendants was a "page" or "page boy," or occasionally "two page boys." I had always thought that a page or page boy was included in the bridal party only when the bride's train was so long or so unusually heavy that it was necessary to have a page boy (or boys) to carry it. Is this still the function of the page, or has it changed today? — V. S.

You are right that formerly the function of a page or page boy was to carry the bride's train. Remember the engaging pages who carried the very long pageantry-train of Princess Elizabeth, later Queen Elizabeth II? Those pages were certainly necessary!

But in today's weddings trainbearers are rarely necessary. However, quite often today, and it seems to me increasingly often, a page is included in the wedding party — he is today's alternative to a ring-bearer, rarely seen nowadays in fashionable weddings in large cities. Today the page does not walk after the bride, but in the Processional walks in front of the bride. If there are two page boys they walk together in front of the bride; or very often a page boy and a flower girl walk together.

Summer Festivals for 1959

By ROBERT TANNER
(Part 2)

While the Vancouver Interna tional Festival, which opens fo its second year on Saturday July 11th, does not have a central feature comparable with th Shakespearean Drama of Ontario's Stratford, it is nevertheless offering a very wide variet of interesting events, and is expecting to draw large audiences from many parts of Canada and the United States. Music at the Festival is represented by a series of concerts under the direction of such famous conductors as Von Karajan, Sunskind, Hoffman, Goldschmidt, and Walter, with Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Rudolf Firkusny, Betty-Jean Hagen and others as soloists. In addition, chamber music and choral works are well represented in a season which lasts until August 15th. Most of the concerts will be held in the beautiful new Vancouver civic auditorium, which is scheduled to open next month. Built to a contest-winning design, this building will form a luxurious and air-conditioned setting for fine music.

For lovers of opera, Gluck's seldom played "Orpheus and Eurydice" will provide a welcome change from the more hackneyed items of operatic repertory. This production opens on July 18th, and runs until August 4th, alternating with the concerts in the civic auditorium. A translation of Schiller's play "Mary Stuart," to be presented in the International Cinema, introduces such well-known figures in the Canadian theatrical world as Lloyd Bochner, Bruno Gerussi, Robert Christie and Robert Goodier, in a cast headed by Vivece Lindfors and Agnes Moorhead.

To round out the festival as a gathering place for all the arts, the Ballet Espanol Ximenez-Vargas will present dances in the traditional Spanish style, the Takaramka Girl Dancers from Japan will be seen for the first time in Canada, Anna Russell, the famous concert comedienne will introduce some new additions to her inimitable repertoire, and there will be an exhibition of French-Canadian Art at the Vancouver Art Gallery.

The width of a continent away, on the shores of Long Island Sound, the American Shakespeare Festival at Stratford, Connecticut, opens its fifth season on June 5th, preceded by a special schedule for schools which has already started. The opening plays will be "Romeo and Juliet" (with Canadian-born Richard Easton as Romeo) and a return engagement of last year's highly successful "Midsummer Night's Dream." These will be joined later in the season by "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and "All's Well That Ends Well." The American Stratford, which is within route easy reach of New York, has by now lived down the unfortunate reputation gained in its first year of operation, and has good directors, an experienced cast and an attractive theatre.

On the somewhat lighter side, Music Fair at Port Credit, Ontario, opens its unusual tent theatre on June 8th with "The Most Happy Fella" to be followed by "The King and I", "Guys" and Dolls", "The Student Prince", "Brigadoon", and Showboat". A new "theatre in the round" is the Canada Club, membership in which entitles the holder to meet the cast on a stage after the show on one special night for each production.

An even more unusual theatre will be found in Montreal on St. Helen's Island in the middle of the St. Lawrence. Converted from an old powder magazine, with walls ten feet thick, and seating about 200, "La Cuadriere" houses the Montreal International Theatre, which has already presented plays in English, French, German and Italian. During June, this ambitious organization plans to produce "Gigi" in English, with Lucille Lasalle and Roland Hewgill, followed by "Une Mesure de Silence," a comic opera in French, composed by a Canadian, Maurice Blackburn, to a libretto written by his wife. It may well be that "La Poudriere" is destined to play a small but important part in the development of truly Canadian drama.

equal rights and time with unions in certification campaigns. Mr. MacDonald said this would enable management to bring all its power to hire and fire and its money and control of communications into play against union organizers.

3. A stipulation that all labor relations board decisions could be appealed to the courts. This would enable wealthy corporations to appeal a decision right up to the Supreme Court of Canada, dragging the issue out until the union was broken in spirit.

At Owen Sound, Mr. Wintermeyer said the federal government was paying half the cost of the hospital plan while premiums paid the rest. But $36,000,000 more in premiums than was necessary was being charged this year.

He told a luncheon meeting of about 30 party workers the extra money could be used to expand the plan to cover aspects like chronically ill patients and convalescent services, a plank in the Liberal election platform.

He described the party's proposal that the basic cost of education be assumed by the provincial level as "one of the most dramatic suggestions made in provincial affairs in 15 years." A Liberal government would pay the cost of education, less the 10 to 25 per cent necessary for local autonomy, and lift the main burden off the municipal taxpayer.

Mr. Wintermeyer urged potential CCF voters to mark their ballot for the Liberals because the CCF has no hope or intention of forming the next government.

At Timmins, Tim Buck, general secretary of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party, said the CCF "should join with us and elect a working-class candidate." He spoke to about 40 persons in support of Len Richmond, Labor-Progressive candidate.

STIRLING

Festival of Sacred Praise Scripture Adjudication Results

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

STIRLING — On Monday afternoon a large group gathered in the new addition of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, for the Scripture adjudication in connection with the ninth Festival of Sacred Praise.

The opening exercises were conducted by the Reverend Kenneth J. Rooney, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling. The secretaries were: Mrs. Don Francis and Mrs. Don Rodgers of Stirling, and the adjudicator, the Reverend C. W. Coleman, B.A., of Belleville. There were over 35 entries.

Those receiving gold awards will repeat their selections at the Stars of the Festival Concert.

Several children won honor marks even though they did not attain the three highest pins for their efforts.

Class 6 — Scripture reciting, under ten years, Luke 10:30-37; gold award, Anna Demexyna, Plainfield, (86); silver award, Barry Pyear, Frankford, (85); bronze, Brenda Williams, Mount Pleasant-Rawdon, (81).

Class 9 — Scripture reciting under 13 years, Matthew 7:1-12; 2 gold awards; Lyle Sullivan, Corbyville and Bonnie Zufelt of Frankford, both 87 points; silver award, Lorraine Wadsworth, Frankford, (86); bronze award, Joyce Cooney, Mount Pleasant-Rawdon, (77).

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Class 17 — Public speaking under 15 years, on the theme, "Peter". There were two contestants; gold award, Sheila Dymond, Trenton, (88); silver award, Judy Dafoe, Corbyville, (84).

Class WS — Scripture reciting under ten years: Luke 15:3-7, 11 contestants: two gold awards with 96 points each, Ross Stapley, Frankford and Jennifer Dymond, Trenton; silver, Vernon Chase, Frankford, (95); bronze, Gale Dawson, Plainfield, (93).

Others awarded honor points included: Dennis Hopkins, Corbyville, (91); Ralph Dunham, Wellman's-Rawdon, (87); Neil Thompson, Frankford, (84); Jonathan Chapman and Leslie Pyear of Frankford, each had 82 points each.

Class 23 — Scripture reciting under 13 years from John 15:1-17, Gold medal, Rita Demexyna, Plainfield, (89); silver, Margot Green, Trenton, (88); bronze, Sheila Dymond, Trenton, (87).

Other awards were: Judith Frost, Trenton, (85); Judith Thompson, Frankford, (83); Isabel Williams, Trenton, (81). There were 11 contestants in this class.

Class 24: Reading of Scripture grades eight and nine: John 17:1-21. There were eight contestants and three won honor marks: gold award, Judith Frost, Trenton, (94); silver award, Claire Smith-rim, Trenton, (83); bronze award Gail Scott, Stirling, (82).

A large number of children competing were awarded marks ranging in the seventies and those in charge of this department of the Festival felt it was a worthwhile effort. Perhaps another year they will win the honor awards.

LAWYER LONG TIME

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Gow, 86, a corporation lawyer for most of his 64 years of practice, died at his home here Monday. Born in Guelph, Mr. Gow graduated from the University of Toronto and was called to the bar of Ontario in 1894. He was a director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and a chairman of the board of Brazilian Traction Light and Power Company.

Society Pages Given Rap by Cuban Govt.

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba's revolutionary regime is considering a tax on each name, each adjective and each picture appearing on the society pages of newspapers, El Mundo said Tuesday.

The story said a one-cent (U.) tax on each name and each adjective was being considered in a new tax reform law. In addition, it said, society page pictures would be taxed 10 pesos a square inch and each mention of a title of nobility would cost 100 pesos.

Later, the afternoon newspaper Prensa Libre published a front-page box listing the society page tax rates and another front-page item that editorially criticized the projected tax. It said the move was a blunder.

The newspaper said it asked Finance Minister Rufo Lopez Fresquet whether the proposed tax has as its objective the raising of revenue or the elimination of society news.

The finance minister replied, Prensa Libre said, that the ornament aspected the law would bring in revenue although it was also possible some social items might disappear.

Will Build Three Training Schools

TORONTO (CP) — Reformatory Minister Wardrope announced Tuesday his department is building three more training schools.

One school to accommodate 225 boys, will be at Simcoe, 17 miles south of Brantford. Schools for girls will be built at Lindsay and Port Bolster, 15 miles south of Ottilia.

The present school at Bowmanville, near Oshawa, has a capacity of 219 but is crowded with 290 boys. The Cobourg Boys' School with a capacity of 175, has 204. The girls' school at Galt exceeds its capacity of 80 by 87.

Tells How To Compliment Undertaker

BOURNEMOUTH, England (Reuter) — What's the correct compliment you can pay an undertaker?

Tell him he doesn't look like one, D. S. Scott, president of the National Association of Funeral Directors, said Tuesday.

Scott, addressing the group's annual conference, said most people no longer looked on the undertaker as "a kind of Dickens character who remained in the shadows and avoided normal contact with ordinary life."

But, he said, some persons "still expect us to look odd sort of persons, and I appeal to you to use every endeavor to overcome this impression."

"Remember always," Scott added, "That we can only achieve real success by doing what some people think is a common job uncommonly well."

Two North Bay Men Ordered To Stand Trial

VILLE MARIE, Que. (CP) — Two North Bay men have been ordered to stand trial for the gunshot murder of a bank manager earlier this month.

The men — Ernest Cote and Alexander Kyle Brush — were found criminally responsible Monday for the death of Alexander Heron, manager of the Bank of Montreal branch at Timiskaming, Que., 80—miles south of here.

A preliminary hearing Tuesday resulted in an order to stand trial at the fall sasizes of the Court of Queen's Bench in Ville Marie. They were to be taken to Montreal's Bordeaux jail to await the trial.

Six witnesses testified at the preliminary hearing.

The bank manager died after he was shot during a scuffle with a man who tried to rob the bank before it opened.

Peter Stepanoff Found Guilty

MONTREAL (CP) — Peter the Russian Stepanoff was found guilty Tuesday of possessing $9,600 worth of stocks stolen earlier this year in a huge $800,000 trust company burglary in St. Catharines.

The verdict was returned by a Court of Queen's Bench jury.

Mr. Justice Wilfred Lazure said he would sentence Stepanoff Friday.

Stepanoff's lawyer, Antonio Lamer, said he would enter an appeal against the jury's verdict.

Doctors Halt Busy Round Of Scientific Sessions to Honor Fifteen for Service

TORONTO (CP) — More than 1,500 Ontario doctors halted a busy round of scientific sessions Wednesday night to honor 15 men for distinguished service:

Senior membership in the Canadian Medical Association was awarded Dr. Freeman A. Brockenshire of Windsor, Dr. George A. Campbell of Ottawa, Dr. Herbert M. Volland of Peterborough and Dr. William E. Gallie and Dr. Clarence Routley of Toronto.

The awards were presented at a dinner held in conjunction with the Ontario Medical Association's 79th annual convention.

Senior membership is granted to a member of a provincial medical association who is over 70 and who has made an outstanding contribution to organized medicine in his province.

HONORARY MEMBERSHIPS

Ontario Medical Association honorary membership, an award not limited to the medical profession, was presented to Dr. Charles H. Best, director of Toronto's Banting Institute; Dr. Boyd Neel, head of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, and Dr. Frank Underhill, emeritus professor of surgery at the University of Toronto and former lieutenant-governor of the province.

Life membership in the OMA, for members over 65 who have made an outstanding contribution in medical care, was awarded to Dr. George Burwash, Renfrew; Dr. James E. Carson, Brantford; Dr. Frank R. Clegg, London; Dr. Frank W. Hartnett, Meaford; Dr. John L. King, Delhi; Dr. William E. Martin, Toronto, and Dr. Russell B. Robson, Windsor.

Care and treatment of older patients was the principal theme of other talks Wednesday.

Closed - circuit television broadcasts, originating from the Toronto General Hospital showing demonstrations in urological techniques and a talk on skin infections, were seen by the delegates.

SHOULD ALLAY FEARS

In treating elderly patients, a new outlook on cancer is to allay fears said Dr. R. F. Farquharson, physician-in-chief of Toronto General Hospital.

Dr. John Unterecker, director of the department of physical medicine and rehabilitation at Roosevelt Hospital, New York, described attention in psychological matters as "of the utmost importance in rehabilitation work."

He praised the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, saying that after a few proposed changes were made in the organization, it will be in "probably the best in the world."

Dr. John S. Lundy, head of the anaesthesiology department of the Mayo Clinic, in Rochester, Minn., told reporters that the working on a new field of deadening pain. The new method involved the use of extreme heat or cold to cut off sensory, sympathetic or motor nerves temporarily.

AMBULANCE PROBLEM

A committee which studied medical aspects of traffic accidents said in its report that ambulances are inadequately equipped except in larger cities.

The report said the majority of ambulance operators run their vehicles only as a sideline and offer a service of questionable value.

If accident victims are to be protected, priority for some means must be found to correlate the response of police, ambulances and doctors, the report said.

Help is vital for help from the scene, the report says.

Committee chairman Dr. O. F. Beamish of Kemptville said the OMA may experiment in coordination along a stretch of highway between Kingston and the Quebec border.

PRICE TOO HIGH

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — The Church of Scotland decided Tuesday by a small majority that the appointment of bishops was too high a price to pay for closer unity with Anglican churches. The general assembly voted 360 to 266 against the proposal, after the feeling was expressed that it would be a denial of the simplicity and regularity of its ministry within the church.

President Calls For Showdown On Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate source said Wednesday night he has been informed that President Eisenhower has told Defence Secretary Neil H. McElroy to move at once to settle the fight over the army's Nike-Hercules and the air force's Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles.

The source, declining to be quoted by name, said he has accepted the president's instruction McElroy to recommend whether the continental defence command should have both the Nike-Hercules and the Bomarc, or should discard one of them. McElroy was said to have been told to back up the recommendation with solid evidence.

TEST NEW BOMARC

Meanwhile the air force's new super Bomarc made its maiden flight Wednesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The model B Bomarc made an apparent smooth takeoff, then veered down the Atlantic missile range.

The air force said the flight was designed to initial testing of the missile's flight and aerodynamic characteristics as well as the new solid-fuel rocket booster.

The two ramjet engines of the new Bomarc were reported tested up to 100,000-foot altitude. The air force considerably larger than the earlier model, which has been in use for three years.

Nike-Hercules essentially the same externally, with each being about 47 feet long.

The model B has an improved target seeker which enables it to track down and destroy other air breathing missiles as well as planes.

The regular Bomarc will go through further tests at a new launching base off Florida's gulf coast before it becomes operational. Fourteen Bomarc bases have been announced for the U.S. and two for Canada.

President Urges Support for Hal C. Banks

MONTREAL (CP)—The president of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC) has urged support for Hal C. Banks, Canadian district vice-president, in a jurisdictional battle within the Canadian Labor Congress.

The SIU, seeking to bargain for engineers and other licensed crew members, is involved in a bitter squabble with the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport Workers (CLC) and the National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC).

Banks has threatened to withdraw from the CLC which will further threened the SIU with eviction.

Paul Hall, SIU president, advised delegates to the SIU biennial convention Wednesday to give Banks their total support "in the event that persecution within the CLC might cause the Canadian district's withdrawal" from the CLC.

COMPROMISE POSSIBLE

In Ottawa, informants were quoted as saying that some sort of compromise would be made by which the SIU would remain within the CLC.

There was speculation that Mr. Hall might put a checkrein on raiding tactics of which the Canadian SIU branch is accused.

Last month the 1,000,000-member Congress gave the SIU 60 days to quit picking on the marine engineers' union. The Seafarers were told to give the smaller union back its stolen membership or be suspended.

Mr. Hall, elsewhere in his request to the meeting, criticized the U.S. state department, the coast guard and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The ICC has said, permitted U.S. railroads to carry freight for less than cost, depriving water carriers of legitimate cargo.

He accused the coastguard of extending its jurisdiction and building its "top brass to the prejudice of the American sailor."

Mr. Hall criticized the state department for its handling of the "flags of convenience" question.

STATE TO RUN RADIO

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — A royal decree has officially established private broadcasting in Morocco starting next Jan. 1. The decree signed by Mohammed V puts all broadcasting under state control.

"Lazy" He was going to buy one of those all-purpose electric tools till he discovered you have to hold them."

House-Building Rate Revised By Association

OTTAWA (CP)—The National House Builders Association has revised a forecast on the rate of house - building in Canada this year.

At a meeting of the association's national executive on Monday, executive vice-president J.C. Smith of Toronto said a survey among association members indicated a "drastic reduction" in new housing starts to about 65,000 compared with last year's record 164,032.

But association President Maurice Joubert of Toronto said Wednesday there had been an error. The figure should have been 100,000. He said the association does not have an official figure — it planned to study the matter for the next two or three weeks.

TALK TO MINISTER

Mr. Joubert told the reporters after a delegation of six association officers conferred for an hour with Walter Harris, Green and Stewart Bates, president of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Mr. Green had committed to the Commons Thursday that wholever made the estimate Monday "is a very wise man or a good guesser." Earlier this year the government forecast 140,000 housing units this year.

Mr. Joubert indicated the matter of interest rates was discussed briefly with Mr. Harris. The minister and said it was "embarrassing" to have to correct the figure.

Mr. Green told reporters he will "very shortly" meet again with association officers and will meet them again in two or three weeks.

He said the association officers were satisfied with his statement in the Commons that the mandatory minimum down payment on National Housing Act mortgages will not be increased.

Mine-Mill Union Will Vote on CLC Affiliation

TORONTO (CP) — The 33,000 Canadian members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) will vote July 15 on whether to apply for affiliation with the Canadian Labor Congress.

The Mine-Mill executive made the announcement Wednesday after a meeting here. An independent union for the last 10 years, it was expelled from the old Canadian Congress of Labor in 1949 because of a jurisdictional dispute with the United Steelworkers of America.

CLC HOPEFUL

CLC President Claude Jodoin said in Ottawa Wednesday night the Congress hopes that the membership of the union will indicate that it wishes to join our national labor center." But he added:

"It should be clear that is any arrangement for association of Mine-Mill with the Congress, the CLC constitution, its principles and policies . . . must govern the relationship of the congress executive and the affiliation of any union."

Charges that Mine-Mill was playing a part in its expulsion from the old CCL.

Mr. Jodoin said it would be regrettable "if the referendum to be conducted by the Mine-Mill membership is hedged with rigid restrictions regarding details of association which might frustrate the true desires of the Mine-Mill members."

STEP FORWARD

A union statement Wednesday said the executive board resolution received unanimous support and the district and local representatives welcomed affiliation as "a positive step forward by the union in its continuing fight for labor unity."

Attending the meeting were the union's national executive board, officers of the western district executive board and representatives of Ontario locals from Sudbury, Port Colborne, Elliot Lake and Bancroft, International president John Clark of Denver, Colo., also attended.

If the membership approves affiliation the union's national executive board will apply for membership in the CLC under terms agreeable to Mine-Mill.

The CLC now has an affiliation of 91 international unions, 13 national unions, eight provincial unions with membership totalling more than 1,000,000.

NOTE REVERSE EFFECT

LONDON (Reuters) — Attempts by British government meteorologists to produce rain by "cloud-seeding" appears to have had the opposite effect. An interim report published Tuesday on 18 tests carried out since 1955 said results indicate rather strongly that a net decrease of rainfall was produced."

British Policies Enjoying Measure of Success in Iraq

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Communist setbacks in Iraq indicate a measure of success for British policies toward the important Middle East country.

No one is making rash predictions, but the "neutrality" being preached from Baghdad these days seems to have less leftist bias than previously, and more warmth toward the West.

The Iraqui Communists have backed down—for the moment at least—in their demands for representation in the cabinet of Premier Abdul Karim Kassem. And they've pulled in their claws in Kirkuk.

Britain has shown more hope than the United States in regard to Kassem, as was indicated recently by the British decision to sell more arms to Iraq.

Besides his apparent check on Iraq's growing Communist influence, Kassem has gained the respect of the Middle East by surviving a vicious propaganda campaign from Cairo. The United Arab Republic's President Nasser sees in the Iraqi premier a rival for leadership.

Iraq's Communists, who have long controlled street mobs in Baghdad and elsewhere in Iraq, began their late grab for power last March after the abortive Mosul revolt.

They were — and are — in the ascendancy in the country's heavy supplies from Communist countries in Iraq and because Iraq's Red Party is the strongest political group in the country.

Nevertheless, Kassem has managed for the present to remain "neutral."

Britain thus followed a patient policy, hoping that time and nagging Kassem's professed neutrality between East and West and despite its earlier disastrous experience with another Middle East revolutionary figure, Nasser, and the Suez fiasco.

The U.S. meanwhile was more cautious. Allen W. Dulles, director of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, described Iraq as "the most dangerous situation in the world today."

Regarding the arms decision, it is understood that the British ultimatum went along these lines:

If we do not sell arms to Iraq the Russians won't hesitate to fill the demand; if we do sell the arms, perhaps he'll be encouraged to stand up to the Communists.

Britain demands for representation in the cabinet, and he finally forced the Reds to back down from their demands for immediate official recognition of political parties.

Kassem says he cannot encourage anarchy during what he calls Iraq's "transitional period" — a period that began last July when the revolutionary forces toppled the regime of King Faisal and Premier Nuri As-Said, killing both of them.

Britain had strong reasons to gamble on the new ruler because of the large oil deposits in the area.

The Iraq Petroleum Company, with big British interests, earns approximately $280,000,000 a year. Britain also is mindful of its important interests in Iran, Kuwait and other parts of

Millbrook Supt. Resigns Office, Inquiry Opens

TORONTO (CP) — R.H. Paterson, superintendent of Millbrook reformatory, has resigned after the beginning of a provincial government inquiry into staff complaints at Ontario's newest maximum security prison.

Mr. Paterson resigned Friday and announced his acceptance of his staff by a three-man board, Deputy Minister Hedley Basher said Wednesday.

The inquiry was ordered a week ago by Attorney-General Wardrope. Mr. Wardrope is campaigning in his North Arthur constituency and could not be reached for comment. Mr. Paterson also was unavailable.

The inquiry followed complaints by three Millbrook staff members, Mr. Basher said. He would not divulge the complaints nor would he specify the nature of the charges until the inquiry is completed in about a week.

"But I do know this much," he said, "two of the three former Millbrook staff members made some complaints against the superintendent. These complaints called for an inquiry. This inquiry has been going on for the past week and is still incomplete."

The inquiry is being conducted by three prison department officials who went to the prison near Peterborough to take evidence.

Montreal Man Shot in Head For No Reason

MONTREAL (CP) — Gilles Petit, 21, shot in the head Wednesday for no apparent reason, was on the verge of death in hospital today.

Doctors, who tried but failed to dig a bullet out of Petit's brain said his condition is extremely critical.

Police said they are investigating a theory that Petit innocently walked into the line of fire during a gunfight between two other men.

The brothers were held for questioning, and three men were being sought. Police also recovered a yellow convertible car and a .32 calibre pistol with one bullet fired from it.

WALKING ON BUSY STREET

Petit was walking along busting Notre Dame Street West, in an industrial and tenement district, when he was shusted to the sidewalk in front of a tavern near his home.

The pistol was found in a sewer. Police were directed to it by a neighborhood boy who told a woman he had told them where it was and instructed him to tell police.

There was a report that the man who threw the gun in the sewer also was bleeding profusely from head injuries.

Reports from witnesses of the district were conflicting. Some said two late-model cars roared away from the scene seconds after the shooting. Another said a yellow convertible pulled up ahead of Petit, and a man got out, aimed at Petit's head, and fired.

Hundreds Watch As Dulles' Body Is Laid to Rest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The body of John Foster Dulles was laid in its final resting place Wednesday in an official ceremony seldom matched in the United States.

Hundreds of officials from the U.S. and abroad watched as Dulles' coffin was committed to a simple grave on a hillock in quiet Arlington National Cemetery.

A 21½-hour ritual was climaxed by a 19-gun salute, three rifle volleys and the sounding of the Last Post by a lone bugler. Dryfred and composed, Mrs. Dulles received the flag which had covered the coffin during the funeral.

CANCER VICTIM

Dulles died of cancer Sunday after six years of service of state.

Rifle Secretary Christian A. Herter, Britain's Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and Russia's foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, scheduled a meeting today with President Eisenhower before returning to their Geneva conference, recessed for the funeral.

GENERAL ATTENDS

Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, diplomatic representatives from 58 countries and Washington's elite joined in the elaborate proceedings which started at the national cathedral and moved to the cemetery in a 100-limousine cortege. Finance Minister Donald Fleming represented Canada.

The funeral was filled with nearly 3,000 mourners for the Presbyterian layman, led by Rev. Russell P. Barnes, secretary of the World Council of Churches. Dulles had been a Presbyterian lay leader.

At Mrs. Dulles' request there was no sermon and no eulogy.

Pro-International Officers Move Into Top Positions Of Powerful Oshawa Local

OSHAWA (CP) — A move towards autonomy by the giant Local 222 of the United Auto Workers (CLC) appeared to have fizzled out today as pro-international union officers moved into top executive positions.

Malcolm Smith, 54-year - old Scottish-born trade unionist and president from 1950 - 54, again took the top post replacing Clifford Pilkey, president for the last two years and regarded as anchor man in the anti-administration group.

The vote was 2,942 for Mr. Smith to 2,317 for Mr. Pilkey.

Election results were issued Wednesday.

Mr. Smith's victory was accentuated by election of Jack Meagher, his running mate for vice-president. Mr. Meagher defeated William Rutherford, controversial left-wing sympathizer.

Smith-supporter James Lownie was elected second vice-president.

The post of secretary-treasurer is undecided. Russell McNeil, the Pilkey candidate in a three-way campaign, to get an overall majority and has asked for a recount.

He polled 2,651 compared to 2,198 for Ronald Hamilton, Mr. Smith's candidate. Independent John M. Black got 681 votes. If McNeil still lacks a majority, all majority after a recount a conciliation will take place between him and Mr. Green.

Election results show an apparent desire of the 12,000-member local to accept the leadership of UAW international President Walter Reuther.

Mr. Reuther recently visited Oshawa on a fence-mending mission in which he emphasized that contributions of the international union to the Oshawa local far exceeded the total dues received from them.

The Pilkey faction—whose only sizable majority was received by Miss Beverley Gibson, elected recording secretary—was severely criticized by Mr. Smith following announcement of his election.

He charged that the auditor's report for the last three months of 1958 showed an expenditure of $33,000 to compensate delegates at contract negotiations and a CLC convention for lost time.

"This is terribly exorbitant," said Mr. Smith. "They have lost sight of the fact that this money comes from union dues which the workers have worked hard to earn."

He also criticized the former regime's method of meeting difficulties which he said was to threaten to "call a strike" or call the men off the job in a form of wildcat strike.

In answer, Mr. Pilkey said his administration may have threatened General Motors Canada "but at no time were there any wildcat strikes."

He said also that the figure of $33,000 for lost time quoted by Mr. Smith was "inaccurate" and the proper figure should have been $23,281."

TRENT SYSTEM OPEN

OTTAWA (CP) — The Trent canal system between Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay now is open for business after being closed by rebuilding of the marine railways on the Severn River and overhaul of electrically-driven winches, the transport department said Wednesday. Craft of up to 15 short tons in weight, 90 feet in length, 13½ feet in beam and four feet in draft can pass through.

Help Farmers By Buying More Of Their Foods

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker says Canadians can help themselves farmers by buying more of their foods.

In a statement issued as Canada Dairy Week launched a special scheme whereby enterprise and a realization of the "spirit of give of still competition, it is not enough to find a good product — you have to find a market for it too."

The Mutual Dairy Council, in releasing Mr. Diefenbaker's statement, said the need for a sales drive was become apparent with indications that Canada's milk production will reach a record of more than 18,000,000,000 pounds this year.

"At the start of the dairy year, May 1, surplus stocks of some 800,000,000 pounds of butter and more than 80,000,000 pounds of skim milk powder were hanging over us," the dairy industry spokesman said. "Domestic consumption has shown a sharp decline during the past year."

Urge Delay In Prison Building Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — An appeal to the federal government to delay any huge prison-building program until it knows the cure for delinquency was made Tuesday at the Canadian Congress of Corrections.

William McGrath, executive secretary of the Canadian Corrections Association, said: "It is impossible to frame the cure before we know the disease."

Dr. F. A. H. Baan of the Netherlands, regarded as one of the world's foremost experts on criminal psychology, recommended construction of psychotherapeutic communities rather than prisons.

Convicted murderers were not necessarily sent to prison in the Netherlands.

Persons who came before Dutch courts were broken into three groups:

Those who knew the difference between right and wrong, who were deprived of freedom.

The mentally ill, who were sent to mental hospitals for as long as they needed help.

Those of "diminishing responsibility", the largest group, who must be sent to institutions to receive social and psychological treatment.

Last-Inning Rally Gives Juniors Opening Victory Over Read 10-8

Belleville Juniors erupted for four runs in the top of the fifth and final frame to score a 10-8 victory over Read last night in their initial start in the South Hastings Baseball League.

The fixture was a see-saw battle from start to finish. The home club from Read took a commanding 8-0 lead in the first frame but Belleville roared back with six in the second. Read tied the score and went ahead 7-6 in the fourth.

Then came the Juniors' big fifth with hits by Billy Moxon and Moe Hunter, a walk, Dennis Kerruish's triple and an error plating four runs. Read got one back in the bottom of the inning but could not overcome the three-run deficit.

Billy Latchford's fine relief hurling was the main factor in the Belleville victory. He came on with one out and the bases loaded in the fourth inning and fired excellent ball over the remainder to register the victory. He fanned three and walked a pair.

Gordie St. Louis started but had control trouble on the Belleville hilltop. He whiffed three and walked seven. He and Latchford gave up just five hits between them.

Don Masters toed the rubber for Read, allowing eight safeties. He fanned third strikes by five, walked one and hit another batter. He had trouble in the second frame when two errors, a walk and hits by Moxon, Moe Hunter and Glen Clark plated six Belleville runs.

Leading stickers for "Cuffer" Noakes' Belleville squad were Billy Moxon, Moe Hunter and Glen Clark with two hits each. Dennis Kerruish had a triple and Gordie St. Louis collected the other safety.

Don Masters doubled for Read with the other base hits shared by McMahon, D. Walsh, Callery and B. Hanley.

The Juniors will make their first home start against Latta here Saturday evening. The game gets under way at CNRA Park at 6:45 sharp.

Albie Was Giant in Midget Shirt

BALTIMORE (AP)—If spectators at Wednesday night's baseball game between Washington Senators and Baltimore Orioles thought Albie Pearson was the last boy, they had every right.

The winner of last year's rookie-of-the-year award in the American League was wearing the last boy's shirt.

Pearson was traded to the Orioles by Washington Tuesday night. When he reported to the Oriole clubhouse, there was no uniform around to fit him.

Pearson, an outfielder, is only 4½ inches taller than five feet and weighs 138 pounds. He wears a size 36 baseball shirt.

The smallest that the Orioles could find was a 38. It belonged to the bat boy, Danny Shaw.

Harness-Racing in Canada Once an Attraction at County Fairs, Becomes Big Business

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Once a novelty attraction at county fairs, harness racing in Canada has become a multi-million dollar promotion.

The trotters and pacers remain as popular as ever at the fairs, but the sport has also caught on in the big cities. At tracks across the country from Prince Edward Island to Saskatchewan, more money than ever is expected to pour through the betting machines this year.

For the horse-owners and those who drive the two-wheeled sulkies there are fatter purses, and for the horses, more stable room, a Canadian Press cross-Canada survey shows.

Quebec province is the hot-bed of harness racing, which will be active this season in every province except British Columbia, Alberta and Newfoundland. More specifically, it is Montreal, where two rewak tracks last year handled almost $50,000,000 in betting, expected to be increased to nearly $60,000,000 this year.

IN BIG SERIES

One of the Montreal tracks, Blue Bonnets Raceway, is also to become Canada's first to participate in the $250,000 Harness Tracks of America Series for four-year-old pacers.

This event is to be contested over the racing season on 16 North American tracks. As its portion, the Montreal track has scheduled a $10,000-added event for its opening day, Aug. 1.

In Ontario racing is not permitted at night. When the Liberal opposition in the last legislature sought to have this legislation rescinded last March, their request was turned down.

Explained Premier Frost: "Imported horses from Michigan and other states would be brought in by people who run the tracks in the U.S." If night racing was permitted.

The picture in the provinces where there is harness racing:

QUEBEC

Richelieu Park, the other Montreal track, has 100 days of racing scheduled before Blue Bonnets opens its 100 - day card. Both tracks operate under the lights, apart from weekends when there is day time racing.

At each track purses total more than $1,000,000 for the season and $500 on the average event. The feature race at Richelieu is the $30,000 Beaver Pace for three-year-olds June 20. At Blue Bonnets, it's the $36,000-added Canadian Juvenile Pace Sept. 18.

With good weather Blue Bonnets spokesmen said they expect $30,000,000 to be wagered this season, against $24,500,000 in 1958 when 12 cards were rained out. Richelieu officials said the turnover so far indicates the betting will reach at least $28,000,000 this season, up from $25,400,000.

In Quebec City, Quebec Raceways is looking for its fifth consecutive record year for wagering and attendance with a 100-day program launched May. 9. A track official said wagering is expected to go to $10,000,000 for the season, about $1,000,000 higher than last year. The total purse money has been upped to $500,000 from $450,000, with the average purse running between $300 and $450.

At South Hull, Que., the Connaught Park Jockey Club operated by T.P. (Tommy) Gorman and his sons is also looking for a better year with a track converted in 1953 from flat racing.

Gorman said wagering there last year jumped $1,500,000 to $7,000,000 and it should rise again this season. A $50,000-program for improvements was expected to delay the opening until June.

The track has a charter for 80 racing days and operates four nights a week under the lights. The big event is a Canadian Juvenile colts stake in September for an estimated $8,000.

ONTARIO

Toronto's Woodbine Raceway has the province's only extended meeting (July 1 to Aug. 26). But there are one-day stands in more than 25 other centres between May 9 and Oct. 12. The big event at Old Woodbine is the $7,500-added Canadian Trotting Aug. 22.

In the other centres, purses usually total about $1,500 for the day and average attendance is 1,000. The events are most popular in Sault Ste. Marie and New Hamburg, near Kitchener. Betting at these tracks amounted to less than $6,000,000 last year.

Less than five per cent of the horses that race in Ontario are U.S.-owned.

NOVA SCOTIA

Officials at the two largest N. S. tracks, Sackville Downs near Halifax and the Cape Breton Sports Centre at Sydney, said the sport's popularity has reached a new peak.

The trend is toward Maritimes-bred horses. The Haligonian, a $1,500-stake, scheduled for late August or September for home-bred horses, has 34 entries.

Sackville Downs opened May 18 on a twice-weekly basis and July 1 is to switch to twice-weekly cards until September. Track officials are shooting for a $2,000,000 take and an attendance exceeding last year's average of about 3,000 nightly. Last year's wagering was $1,600,000.

At the Cape Breton Sports Centre, turf club secretary Jim Ferguson said there are so many new stables and horses that it's a problem to find drivers. "They (owners) all want to entrust their horses to experienced reinsmen."

Track officials hope to do as well or better than 1958 when they handled $650,000, an improvement of better than 200 per cent compared with 1957.

Its program for the season is the same as Sackville Downs, first twice - weekly and then thrice - weekly starting July 1.

In April, the N.S. Provincial Exhibition Commission took over operation of a track at Truro, which had been leased a private interests for the last 19 years. A twice - nightly program was launched May 18 and is to run to mid-June.

It was expected that purses this season would reach $60,000, the same as last year. But officials hoped for an improvement in 1959's $464,000 mutuel play.

NEW BRUNSWICK

The province's biggest track, at Saint John, launched a 45-card meet and other races are planned for Saint John Exhibition Week Aug. 26-Sept. 5. In 1958 with purse money of $195,000.

At Fredericton the season opens June 15 and continues with two meets weekly until Oct. 1, with $85,000 in purses at stake, highest in the history of the 71-year-old track.

The track at Moncton has also decided to operate this season, starting about June 1. The highlight will be the annual $5,000 Moncton, one of the largest Maritimes purses.

Other centres planning meets are Woodstock and St. Stephen.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

The Charlottetown Raceway has boosted its purses to $110,000 from $85,000 for a twice-weekly night program running from May 18 to Oct. 17.

The big event is the P.E.I. Harness Racing Club's 37th annual Colt Stakes. It's held at the "Old Home Week" fair in early August.

Parimutuel betting in Manitoba was stopped several years ago. But unofficial "pool" betting continues.

The Manitoba Great Western Racing Circuit opens May 30 at Wawanesa for 19 days with $23,150 in prize money. Racing continues in brief meets at other centres and closes July 25. Largest of these events is a four-day $3,200 meet at Brandon starting June 30.

Regina is to hold a five-day meet starting June 8. The program was initiated some years ago, and wagering has averaged about $80,000. Eight five races are presented on each card.

Armed Forces Moving Costs Under Probe by Department

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department has launched a coast-to-coast investigation of armed forces moving costs following criticism by Auditor-General Wilson Sellar of instances of what he termed "patently unrealistic" high costs.

E. B. Armstrong, assistant deputy defence minister, told the Commons Public Accounts Committee Wed. instructions have gone out to every command to report on the costs of every local move costing more than $1,000. The report would form the basis of future department policy.

In his 1958 report, Mr. Sellar said there was a case where an RCAF officer in suburban Rockcliffe Air Station had his furniture moved a distance of only one half mile at a cost of $313.56.

The moving van company charged $196 for packing the furniture and $117.35 for transporting it, using four men for 10 hours at $11.30 an hour.

COULD HAVE ROLLED IT

David Walker (PC — Toronto Rosedale) said the barrels of household effects could have been rolled down the road in that time. The moving company was MacloughneY's Van and Storage Company of Ottawa.

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) said there may have been a price combine operating among Ottawa's movers during the 1957 period when the move was made.

He said he had been told by "some RCAF officers that when they called for competitive bids on local moves in recent years, the bids received were invariably the same. It was found also in recent weeks that one company had broken away from this alleged practice.

Mr. Armstrong agreed that during recent years, competitive bids received showed remarkable similarity.

HAD TO CHARTER PLANES

Earlier Mr. Armstrong told the committee that the army had to charter more expensive Super Constellation aircraft to transport a Newfoundland militia unit to summer camps because the men refused to fly in C-119 Flying Boxcar planes.

The unit was the 166th Field Regiment which in the summer of 1957 was to have been moved from St. John's, Nfld., to the artillery camp at Petawawa, Ont.

Mr. Sellar in his 1958 report observed that the department spent $29,140 to fly 133 of the men to Petawawa, when use of the C-119s would have saved the department $7,000 though the trip would have been less comfortable. The camp period was less than a week.

Mr. Armstrong said it was decided at headquarters that moving the men by rail instead of by air would have been just as expensive as chartering the Super Constellations because the men would have to be paid en route, including the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, resulting in attempted power grabs for more territory.

Richard Wilson directed "Al Capone" from a screenplay by Malvin Wald and Henry Greenberg.

A COLD TOWEL FOR A HOT ARM — Harvey Haddix, his face showing the strain and fatigue of hurling 12 perfect innings for the Pittsburgh Pirates against the Milwaukee Braves, had his arm swathed in a cold towel Tuesday night. The Braves won the contest 1-0 in the 13th inning. (AP Wirephoto).

One Less Rabbit in Casey's Stew

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Terry, young righthander acquired this week from Kansas City, will have something more than a rabbit's foot going for him when he pitches tonight for the New York Yankees, He'll have a whole rabbit.

"The way we're going . . . you know you're with a tailend club now . . . you'll need some luck," Casey Stengel said when he told Terry he would pitch against Baltimore tonight.

Then the Yankee manager stepped over to his locker and pulled out a stuffed white rabbit. He handed it to Terry with the remark: "Maybe this will help."

BIG SHOOT SET

St. Thomas (CP)—More than 100 entries are expected for the Ontario Provincial Trapshooting Association championships June 5-7 at the St. Thomas Gun Club. Entries expected include last year's winners: Jim Boa, Toronto, singles; Don Nichols, Chatham, handicap; Gil Henderson, Leg Branch, doubles and high all-round; Mrs. Bertha Temple, Aldershot, women's, and Howie Merion Jr., Sharon, junior.

Majors Win Home Opener

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London Majors made their Inter-County Senior Baseball League home debut successful by scoring a 5-4 triumph over Brantford Red Sox Wednesday night.

The victory evened Majors' season's slate at 1-1 while Brantford is now 1-4.

Rookie shortstop Ray Lindsay drilled a two-out ninth - inning single scoring pitcher Roy McKay, who went the route for the Majors, with the winning run.

Don Mayes had a pair of triples and Stan Anderson a triple and double for London.

Jim Reeves and Mike Glavdoni each had a three-bagger and Stan Lipka and Jimmy Wilkes two singles each for Brantford.

Throstles Whip Alberta 15-0

CALGARY (CP)—West Bromwich Albion defeated Alberta all-stars 15-0 Wednesday night in an international exhibition soccer match.

Fewer than 1,000 rain-soaked fans saw the English First Division club dominate the play throughout. Alberta had fewer than 10 shots on goal.

The English club walloped Ontario all-stars 8-0 earlier in Toronto and tied Dundee, of the Scottish League 2-2 in New York.

Harness Racing

HULL, Que. (CP)—David Hal, a 10-year-old gelding, edged out Jim Van by a quarter-length Wednesday night to win the featured mile invitation pace at Connaught Raceway.

The Cornwall horse, owned by G. Neco and Bill Pyke, who was also driver, ran the mile in 2:11 2-5, and paid $8.30, $5.30 and $4.30.

Rob Ric from Watertown won the fifth—a mile D pace—with R. Zeron driving, while the Pembroke entry, Rocky Hal Cah, driven by F. Bales, won the Mile C seventh pace.

MONTREAL (CP) — Darn Sweet, a Guelph entry driven by Bill Hesbirk won the $800 mile D trot Wednesday night in the second event at Richelieu Raceway, defeating Island Song of Brighton and Casson Doll from St Laurent, Que.

The Columbus pacer, Scotch Rouse driven by John Hayes won the third race, an $800 mile C pace.

ACTOR SHAKESPEARE

William Shakespeare was among the cast in Ben Jonson's first comedy "Every Man in His Humor," in 1598.

Leonard Offered American Spot

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stan Leonard, Vancouver golfer who has made a name for himself on the big-time pro trail for four years, says he has been approached to play out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

However, he said, it is a far-away proposition — "I can't do anything about it until I get down there, probably not this year."

The offer was made by Jimmy Prescott, a Florida businessman and president of the Crystal River Golf Club, near Fort Lauderdale, who wants Leonard to represent the club on the golf circuit strictly as a touring pro, apparently as a promotion job for a real estate development there.

Britons Retain Advantage in British Amateur

SANDWICH, Eng. (CP)—Another gruelling two rounds of golf are scheduled to reduce the field in the British men's amateur golf championship to semi-finalists today.

With only 16 players left after four elimination rounds, Britain holds at least a numerical edge with nine golfers left in contention. Five Americans, one Mexican and one Italian completed the field starting today's fifth round.

The 36-hole final is Saturday.

Defending champion Joe Carr met David Blair of Scotland, a former Walker Cupper for Britain today. Americans Bill Hyndman and Arnold Ridgley, rated the best of the once-large U.S. contingent left in the competition, teed off in the other decisive match.

Guy Wolstenholme, current English champion, faced Ben Hill of England in another big match.

Seek Dorohey As Coach

SPOKANE (AP)—Spokane Flyers of the Western Hockey League are seeking Eddie Dorohey of Calgary Stampeders as a player-coach for next season.

Spokane general manager Roy McBride said Wednesday he has talked with Calgary general manager Gus Kyle and was told "Dorohey is available if we can come up with a suitable player in return."

"We keep score a little differently. Every time one of us hits the ball we get a point!"

Rae Milligan Eliminated in British Golf

ASCOT, Eng. (CP)—Elizabeth Price of England and Bella McCorkindale of Scotland met today in the final round of the British women's amateur championship.

Miss Price reached the final by overcoming former champion Philomena Garvey of Ireland 1 up in the semi-finals while Miss McCorkindale, 23-year-old Scottish internationalist, defeated Joan Fletcher of Australia 3 and 1.

Canada's last entry, Rae Milligan of Calgary, was eliminated 3 and 2 in a quarter-final match by Miss Garvey.

BEACH AGREEMENT

OTTAWA (CP)—Agreement between the CBC and the Big Four league for televising football games this coming season was reached on a figure of $312,500, it was learned here. No official announcement of the amount has been made.

HODGE PODGE

So they root for the underdog? Since Casey Stengel's American League Union troops hit the skids, more Yankee-haters have come out of hiding than Jefferson Davis had south of the Mason-Dixon line in the Civil War league . . . The Yankees are getting plenty of hits but they're the kind a guy gets when he's down . . . But fall is strong in the hearts of a lot of Stengel stickers. They laugh bravely and point to last year's world series when the Yanks were down two games and roared back to sweep the next trio and cop the series . . . Friend from Vancouver writes to say the breweries are sponsoring so many baseball and softball teams out there, they're sending bartenders instead of sports writers to cover the games.

Whipper Billy Watson tangles with that ferocious fellah from the Albertan foothills, Gene Kiniski here, come Friday night. Last fish-day evening Yukon Eric tamed the wild Australian mauk-luks, (heavy lumberjack boots), but in so doing lost the decision. It could be the Whip will wear horny shoes at Friday's tea party . . . And Little Beaver will be shoes at Friday's tea party . . . And Little Beaver will be shoes around, doing his ski-runs up the referee's back. Beaver will be backed by the Brown Panther and what they cannot do to a referee is something for the book. The villainous Fuzzy Gould and his mate Stan Lee-Ack will be the loyal opposition and the fun, fury and fireworks and perhaps the odd scalp should fly prior to the main battle.

OHA past president Conden Cook phoned this department last night from Kingston with the information the Eastern Ontario Hockey League will meet conclave in Whitby, Tuesday, June 2. The McFarlands will be represented by arena commission chairman Alderman Claude Tice and possibly another commissioner. The big item at this meeting is the settlement of the league pool which has practically nothing in the till. All the teams are in arrears with Kingston the heaviest "owe", some 23 games. Much might emerge from the get-together.

There's plenty of diamond activity over the weekend. Tonight Tabby Temple takes his unbeaten Bobcats to Trenton in another attempt to shortcircuit the Garrett Appliances and on Sunday at 2.30 p.m. the Point Anne entry meeting the Cobourg Merchants at Ox Point in a tilt postponed from last night . . . Saturday night Latta will be the guests of Cuffer Noakes' Belleville juniors in a South Hastings League game at CONRA Park starting 6.45. Better drop around, you might be surprised at the brand of baseball these teams play . . . Peever thinks a transfusion of Dodger blood into the Yankee veins might make the Stengeleers out of the cellar. When he heard the champions were angling for Duke Snider he whispered into the sympathetic ear of palsy "Pal," "That's the last that's come out of Casey since they credited him as a blood donor and struck er!"

Barry Cullen, hockey star, tried to trip a power mower the other day and came out on the short end. He's minus half a big toe . . . Office wag wants to know if the big bald the Philadelphia Athletics were fed pills before each game, why they don't call 'em the Vitamin A's . . . Jack Flizgerald, George Polmanter and Bill Totten of the Belleville Boxing Club are bringing in some first class Hamilton talent for their next show scheduled for Tuesday, June 9th. The Hamilton mittmen are topflight boxers with fine reputations and the BBC aces, Rocky Lucas and Barry Parsons, had better be on their best ring behavior.

Cleveland is the only club that has beaten the Yankees twice for the pennant since the Tigers did it in 1940 and 1945. In the last 13 years the Indians have finished first or second and their consistent operation has it that the veteran boxfight man, Harry Robinson, is oh, so quietly, predicting Archie Moore will lay Yvon Durelle low by the eighth round. No offense, Harry . . . We agree . . . Speaking of predictions that man J. F. "Bunny" Ahearne, forecasts that in the not too distant future there will be a world series of baseball between teams from Russia, Czechoslovakia, Sweden; Canada and the United States playing off. Amateur, that is . . . Senior baseball almost died a natural death in Kingston this year. There was only one holdover team. They brought up three junior outfits to make a four-team loop. See an old favorite Tony Petitti is still doing his stint behind the plate . . . Aside to Pat Maracle — see your old "buddy" Ray Judd has lost none of his mound cunning. He's up his old strike-out tricks with the Lakefield Charlions. The minor baseball association still urgently needs manager, umpire and coach assistance. How about it. Contact "Red" Doran.

Breaks Three Canadian Marks

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Jerome, a lithe, 18-year-old athlete from North Vancouver, ran the 220-yard dash in 21.9 seconds Wednesday, breaking three Canadian records.

Jerome, a standout in the annual Vancouver and district inter-high school track and field meet, bettered the Canadian junior-scholastic 220-yard mark of 22 seconds and also bested the Canadian junior mark of 22.3 seconds and the 300-metre mark of 32.7.

The events, before a crowd of almost 20,000-believed to be one of the largest at any high school track meet in North America—were run on a sloppy track at Empire Stadium.

Wynn Haunts Old Teepee; Robin Can't Find Wings

Ex-Indian Now With Chisox Proves Jinx to Old Mates; Roberts Loses Three in Row

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

If the way Cleveland has managed to hold the American League lead is a surprise, imagine where the Indians might be if they could shake loose from Chicago White Sox, the club they have a tough time beating, and Early Wynn, the guy they can't beat at all.

Half of Cleveland's 14 defeats this season the first quarter of the schedule have been from the second-place White Sox. And three of those have been nailed by Wynn, who has won seven in a row from the Indians since they traded him away 1½ years ago.

If the Indians could reverse that 3-7 season record against Chicago, they'd be running away from the rest of the league. Instead, they are just a game in front of Wynn (7-3) and the White Sox went to work again Wednesday for a 5-1 victory.

Baltimore, the only other club with an edge (3-2) over Cleveland this year, missed a chance to close in when Washington's Camilo Pascual beat the third-place Orioles 6-0 with a two-hitter.

YANKS TAKE SQUEAKER

Last-place New York squeezed past Boston in the other afternoon game and was rained out at Kansas City.

Wynn, 39-year-old righthander, clored in on the top-20 group of all-time winners with his 256th career victory, but needed Gerry Staley's relief help for the last two outs. The lefthander went in the first on doubles by Ed FitzGerald and Minnie Minoso that knocked the rest of the way on three hits.

Wynn, who gave way after a walk and FitzGerald's second double in the ninth, is the only pitcher in the 16 winners, four shy of Ted Lyons's 260, Wynn is tops among active pitchers.

TWO CHISOX HOMERS

The White Six, who had lost their last five in a row, put it away with eight hits against Gary Bell (4-3). Two were homers—a solo smash by Sherm Lollar and the other a one-on shot by Earl Torgeson in a clinching three-run sixth inning.

Pascual gained his first two-hitter of the year holding the Orioles hitless until Gene Woodling and Albie Pearson singled in the seventh. A double play preserved the righthander's fifth major league victory and fourth victory in eight decisions this season. Harmon McDougald topped his mates for league-leading home run total to 18 with a three-run blast in the fourth inning against loser Arnie Portocarrero (0-4).

The Yankees were hitless until the fifth, when Andey Carey socked a home run against loser Bo Delock (5-2). Bill Skowron hit a two-run homer in the seventh off Ray Moore and Gil McDougald broke through Duke Maas's two-hit shutout bid on Pete Runnels's two-run homer in the ninth. Reliever Ryne Duren saved it for Maas (2-2) and the Yanks, who were outhit 5-4.

After the opening game it appeared this might be the year Robin Roberts completed his comeback. But it's already a bad season for Philadelphia Phillies' righthanded veteran.

Roberts made a big comeback last year when he won 17 games for the last-place Phillies. He had been a 23-game winner for six consecutive seasons before becoming the National League's biggest loser in 1956 and 1957.

Now he's 2-4, clobbered once more by the home-run ball as he's been this third in a row Wednesday night 10-4 at Cincinnati. The Reds had belted Roberts for four innings on opening day chased him from four innings with six eight hits, three of them homers, and six runs.

REDS KEEP LEAD

That victory hoisted the Reds into a fifth-place tie with Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati's Don Rodriguez, Dreggers. The first - place Milwaukee Braves retained a three-game lead by beating Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 after San Francisco's second-place Giants peppered Los Angeles Dodgers 9-4.

Vada Pinson, Frank Robinson and Ed Bailey hit homers off Roberts. Robinson added another off Jim Bunning and Rodriguez as the Reds collected 14 hits from four Phil pitchers, Bob Purkey (5-3) was the winner although giving up 10 hits.

The Pirates, blanked over 15 innings as Harvey Haddix lost that heartbreaker to the Braves Tuesday night, finally ended their shutout slump at 21 innings with three unearned runs off former Warren Spahn with two out in the ninth. Ed Mathews's 15th homer gave the Braves a 3-2 lead in the fifth against loser Vern Law (4-2).

DATSDALE WINS

A pinch single by Duke Snider scored the winning run for Los Angeles in a two - run fourth against loser Glen Hobbie (5-4). Don Drysdale (5-4) went to win an 11-strikeout five-hitter, losing a shutout when Ernie Banks hit his 11th home run in the sixth.

Orlando Cepeda, Willie Mays and Andre Rodgers homered for the Giants as Johnny Antonelli, the ex-Brave, and Al Worthington's two-hit, shutout relief over the last four innings saved Mudsil and Lee Tate homered for the Cards. Gary Blaylock (2-2) lost it.

Leafs Beaten By Richmond; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There isn't much chance of standing still in the International League these days—you either go way up in the standings or way down.

Only five games separate first-place Miami and last-place Toronto with three teams tied for second place, a half-game back of the Marlins after Wednesday night's action.

Rochester Red Wings beat the Marlins 3-1 to sweep the three-game series and jump into a second-place tie with the Buffalo Bisons and Montreal Royals.

The Bisons lost their third straight to Havana Sugar Kings, 3-2 while the Royals were belting Columbus Jets 12-2. The seventh place Richmond Veos knocked off Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3.

Cal Browning (5-2) scattered eight Miami hits while Gene Oliver's two-run double and a homer for two RBIs dropped Vito Valentinetti (3-3), who allowed only seven hits and struck out six.

CUBANS CLEAR FENCES

Homers by Tony Gonzalez, Borrego Alvarez and Leo Cardenas off loser Bob Conley (0-2) accounted for all Havana's runs while winner Mike Cuellar (3-2) gave a five-hitter to Bobby Del Greco. The Sugar Kings are now sixth, two games out of first.

Columbus slipped to fourth place, a full game off the pace after Jacorde scattered seven hits while his mates managed 13 off three Jets pitchers. Clyde Parris' three-run, eighth-inning homer put the clincher on Leonardo's fourth victory in five decisions. Sandy Amoros also homered and scored three runs for Montreal. The loser was Dick Lines (3-3).

Ronnie Leja drove in three runs, including two in a winning ninth-inning rally as seventh-place Richmond moved to within 3½ games of first.

Toronto loser Eddie Blake (0-4) gave up eight hits in eight innings to winner Bob Weiser (4-3) pitched only a double play ball to Tim Thompson in relief of Zack Monroe in the eighth inning. Eli Grba finished up.

National League Will Honor Harvey Haddix

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National League will honor Harvey Haddix, Pittsburgh Pirate veteran who pitched 13 hitless innings against Milwaukee Tuesday night only to lose out in the 13th, 1-0.

President Warren C. Giles sent Haddix a telegram Wednesday saying:

"Hearty congratulations on your history-making pitching performance of last night. It was a masterful performance all the way. We are doubly proud because this remarkable feat was performed by a real National Leaguer. We intend to recognize it by giving you some appropriate memento which you can keep to remember the outstanding achievement.

"We haven't decided yet just what we will present to Haddix," Giles said, "but we will select something which Harvey would like and can keep for the rest of his life as a reminder of a feat which had never been performed by any pitcher in the long history of major-league baseball."

Philly Boss Buys Land For Stadium

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Carpenter, president of Philadelphia Phillies, has purchased 350 acres in New Jersey which not long ago were reported to be the future stomping ground of the ball club.

Carpenter insisted, after making the announcement Wednesday, that he obtained the land primarily as a personal investment, although it would be available as a site for a sports stadium.

The land lies across the Delaware River in Delaware Township, Camden County, on a route leading to the State highway interchange track.

The club's present home, Connie Mack Stadium, is small and lacks adequate parking facilities.

Final Score 'Perfect' Game Ruled as 1-0

CINCINNATI (AP)—The final score of Sunday night's baseball game in which Pittsburgh pitcher Harvey Haddix did not allow a hit in 12 innings, was 1-0 in favor of Milwaukee, instead of 3-0.

That's the ruling of Warren C. Giles, National League president.

Milwaukee won the game in the 13th inning when Felix Mantilla was safe on a fielding error, moved to second on a sacrifice and after Hank Aaron was walked purposely, scored on Joe Adcock's blast over the left field fence.

Aaron stopped at second base and then ran across the pitcher's mound toward the dugout. Umpire Frank Dascoli ruled Aaron's run valid, but ruled Adcock's hit a double.

Since Mantilla crossed the plate ahead of Aaron, Dascoli declared the score 3-0.

The crux of Giles' whether Aaron's run should count was challenged immediately.

OFFICIAL RULING

In his ruling Giles said:

"While the hitter (Adcock) hit a fair ball over the field fence is right, he did not touch all bases legally and cannot be credited with a home run. Since, in determining the final score the hitter (Adcock) cannot be treated as having hit a home run, but is recorded as having hit a two-base hit, it is not logical to treat the base runners as if the hitter had hit a home run. The score shall be determined by disregarding the 'home run' and according it as it would be if the hitter (Adcock) had hit a two-base hit, in which case only the run or runs scores which are necessary to win the game."

Bowdry Whips Tony Anthony In Vicious 10-Round Battle

CHICAGO (AP)—Jesse Bowdry, a 3-to-1 underdog, battered lightheavyweight contender Tony Anthony for a unanimous decision in a vicious 10-rounder Wednesday night.

The bout in Chicago Stadium was a brutal affair from start to finish with Bowdry scoring with explosive combinations against the befuddled Anthony.

There were no knockdowns, although Anthony often was pinned helplessly against the ropes.

There scarcely was a clinch as both fighter went after the other hammer and tong at a furious pace.

Anthony, ranked the No. 1 contender for champion Archie Moore's crown, never could get untracked against the hard-pressing Bowdry.

The 22-year - old Bowdry immediately entered a bid for a title fight.

"We want the winner of the Moore-Davis-Durelle title fight in Montreal July 15," said Bowdry's co-manager, Eddie Yawitz.

Truman Gibson, president of National Boxing Enterprises, said his group would like to match Bowdry against Harold Johnson here July 30.

Johnson is ranked No. 2 by the National Boxing Association and No. 3 by Ring magazine. Bowdry rated Anthony No. 2 before Wednesday night's battle.

Says Big Purse Offers Made To Press Only

NEW YORK (AP)—The battle of the State Athletic Commission against Sugar Ray Robinson dragged on another step Wednesday.

The commission reserved decision after finishing its hearing on whether the 39-year - old New York - recognized middleweight champion has signed in good faith for defence of his crown against Carmen Basilio.

"No decision will be made," said the commission.

The commission has agreed to give Robinson 48 hours notice if it decides to take away his crown. His lawyer said that if they do he could carry it to the Supreme Court.

After the hearing, promoter Bill Rosensohn said he was referring Robinson $500,000 and Basilio $250,000 at the Polo Grounds here prior to Sept. 30.

In Syracuse, Johnny DeJohn, co-manager of Basilio, said he has not heard from Rosensohn.

"Everything they have stated reports to the press and not to the managers and the fighters," he added.

American Horse Will Run in English Derby

LONDON (AP) — One United States-owned colt was among the first finishers for the Derby at Epsom Downs June 3, of the great three-year-old classic. The colt is Arvak, owned by Mrs. Josephine Bay Paul of New York.

The 1½-mile race will have a net value of $101,201.

Less than an hour after the final acceptance list was announced, Prigiog Rock ran a poor race in the Dante stakes at Yorke and owner Lord Derby said the colt would skip the Epsom Race, Barring some late development, it is expected 26 will start in the Derby, on which an Irish hospital sweepstakes is based.

Others included in the final list were Above Suspicion, owned by Gustave Ireland, and two owned by Prince Aly Khan, Princillon and Saint Crespin III—faint favorites.

City Commercial Softball League

BY PETER CARVER

The Sports Centre downed Bishop Seeds by a 10-3 score in the Commercial Softball League till last night at the C.N.R. park.

Sports Centre opened up a 5-0 lead in the first inning and never looked back. They scored single in the second, fifth and sixth, two in the third and three in the fourth inning. Bishop's scored two runs in the second and three in the sixth inning.

Al Adams, toeing the rubber for the victors, pitched 8-hit ball, walking three and whiffing one.

Andy Knott, Bishop Seeds' veteran hurler, was touched for nine hits, passing three and striking out one batter.

Leo St. Denis led the Sports Centre at the plate, smashing three doubles; Bob Brooks a home run and a single and Bob Bissell banged out a four-bagger also.

Eddie Akins punched a triple and a single, Cavalier two singles and Roger Courneyea a single to run in the losers' cause.

Texaco Chiefs scored two runs in the fourth of the last inning to earn a 10-10 tie with the Bobcat Juveniles in a City Commercial Softball League tilt last night.

The Juveniles had an 8-1 lead after 2½ innings but the Chiefs scored six in the fourth and finally tied it in the seventh with two.

Ken McLaren and Lorne Fitzpatrick pitched for the Bobcats, allowing eight hits between them. Fitzpatrick fanned three while starter Bunnett walked five.

Ross Ray and Al McLean tolled for Texaco, banged for 15 hits, fanning seven and walking an equal number.

Stu Mulhead had a homer, double and single for the Juveniles while Gary Duggan getting three hits. Jerry St. - Denis, Billy "The Kid" McGuire and Bob Duggan had two each.

Jarret, Haggerman and Jones with two hits and McLaren with a home run were best for the Chiefs.

Discord Mars Swede-Patterson Title Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Discord between promoter Bill Rosensohn and Cus D'Amato has threatened the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight at Yankee Stadium, June 25.

The 33-year-old promoter accused D'Amato, Patterson's manager, of casting doubts on whether the fight will be staged. Rosensohn said he would sue the manager if he pulls the champion out of the fight.

"D'Amato called me yesterday morning and said he was thinking of moving the fight from New York," the New York promoter said Wednesday. "I told him the fight was going to be held right here at Yankee Stadium and that it was not going to be intimidated. I've got too much at stake in this fight.

D'Amato couldn't be reached. If D'Amato and Patterson were concerned, they didn't show it at their training camps.

"It is nothing but good publicity for the fight," said the Swedish challenger at his Grossinger, N.Y., camp. "There will be a fight. Patterson is too much of a gentleman to stop the fight or let his manager stop the fight now."

Jay Bartlett, who does the fighting and leaves everything else to his manager, took it out on four spareribs at dinner. Next, he dropped a newcomer, Billy Tisdale of Bridgeport, Conn., with a right to the jaw.

And Doctors Could Get in The Racquet

LONDON (AP) — The All-England Lawn Tennis Club, sponsor of the Wimbledon tennis championships, has ruled that an expectant mother may play in the tournament.

Club secretary Duncan Macaulay, referring to reports that Mrs. Maria Ayala, wife of Chilean star Luis Ayala, could not play at Wimbledon because she was expecting a baby in October, said:

"You don't go around asking the women players if they are going to have babies. You accept their entry, it is as simple as that."

Western Ontario May Form New Senior Hockey League

WATERLOO (CP) — A formal move to form a new senior hockey league in southwestern Ontario was made at a meeting here of senior A and senior B club operators Wednesday night.

Eight clubs would likely be classed only as a senior grouping with no regard for A or B classification. It would embrace three senior A clubs—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Chatham Maroons and Windsor Bulldogs—at least six B clubs, and a possible entry from Galt.

The senior B clubs involved are Woodstock Athletics, Niagara Falls Rockets, Oakville Royal Oaks, Strathroy Rockets, Welland-Crowland Combines and St. Thomas Royals.

The league would be divided into two groups with the senior A teams playing the remaining clubs in an interlocking schedule. Each division winner would then advance into its own group playoff.

Windsor, Chatham and K-W interests are all reported willing to enter the new league. The senior B operators have expressed some doubt. Many felt they would be unable to afford the playing talent required to keep up with the A clubs. Several pointed out they operated their teams on a share-the-wealth basis last year, and would have to increase their salary scales too much to keep up with the A entries.

Bill Butcher of Windsor said the senior A teams would be willing to run down on their present $1,750-a-week team salary limit if a new senior grouping were formed.

Butcher made the motion calling for formation of the new league following Wednesday night's talks at circumstances three weeks ago in Welland.

It was decided to have senior B clubs interested in entering the new league hold a meeting within the next two weeks to decide whether or not they favor the idea. The meeting will probably been called for Strathroy.

Following the senior B meeting, another meeting with the A operators will be held June 17 in Woodstock.

SPURS WIN

MOSCOW (AP)—Britain's Tottenham Hotspur opened a three-game friendly series tonight with a 5-0 soccer win over the Torpedo team of auto workers in Lenin Stadium.

FILLS NOT USED

NEW YORK (AP) — Amphetamines or "pep pills" can significantly improve athletic performances if taken in sufficient dosage, the American Medical Association announced Wednesday. The AMA said, however, that a countrywide survey did not show any widespread use of the drug. It condemned its use.

MARK TRAIL

JEFF COBB

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Now you can be very active conferring with persons of influence who are loyal and tell them of your ideas confidentially. They will give you the support you need. Also see authorities in your line. Make plans for an early upswing.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Surely your day to unite your efforts with all those whom you trust, forging ahead in some mutually co-operative way. Work together harmoniously and big strides will be made today. You are a good organizer.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) A higher up is cognizant of your merit now and is watching...the fine way in which you do your job, and will be willing to listen to any ideas or plans you may have. Backing will be yours for anything that is constructive and practical.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Being filled with inspirational ideas that will start an uptrend in both your personal and business life, be sure to act on them. Put your particular capabilities in evidence before the right people. P.M. out and enjoy yourself.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Very precise intuition gives the lead how to gain success in the near future. However, be certain you consider large enterprises as to your natural inclination, rather than be talked into smaller ones. P.M. excellent for fun at abode.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Since you like to have everything in perfect order, now is the time to talk to influential people about your ambitions and they will assist you gladly. Have an intelligent plan ready and you start an upswing that will last for a long time.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Good day to visit shops, offices, etc., for ideas that will aid you in repairing, remodeling or putting in new systems. P.M. cooperate with fellow workers, then step out for relaxation.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) You can have a delightful day today, if you will first rid yourself of all necessary tasks early, then dress nicely, and be off to whatever pleasures suit you best. Be dynamic and friendly with everyone. Have fun!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Quietly think out how you want to operate in the future and then confer with higher ups who can help you, give you advice. Tonight is ideal to invite guests in or simply relax and restore your energies.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can certainly do a good deal of shopping, marketing, studying, making repairs, etc., today. Good day to see those persons who can give advice how to be more efficient, too. P.M. read your paper. Visit with relatives.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Attend to practical business matters in A.M. and have money matters in good order for a happy weekend, as well as for into the future. Then good chance is yours to bring special capabilities to attention of executive.

Pisces (Feb. 28 to March 20) Splendid day to have fun. Get necessary tasks done early in A.M. Visit barber or beautician and enhance your appearance. Then be very sociable, happy, full of vi and vigor. Make many new friends.

If your child is born today . . . The lucky child born today not only will be right at home in all practical affairs so that success is certain in business world, but also has a rare feeling for things artistic, musical, cutural. The spiritual sense is also very fine. Hence, give the finest education possible so the great promise in this chart will become manifest. Eminence will be reached in whatever the forte is.

BIG FOUR SECRET TALKS BEGUN IN SKY

Brisk Three-Party Race Shaping Up In Ont. Election

296 Candidates Entered, Third Highest on Record

TORONTO (CP)—A field of 296 candidates, third highest on record, is ready for Ontario's June 11 general election, shaping it into a brisk three-party race.

The Progressive Conservatives and Liberals entered the contest in all 98 ridings as official nominations closed Thursday. The CCF entered contenders in 81 constituencies.

Also running are nine Communist Labor-Progressives, five Social Credit, three independents and two Confederation of Tomorrow representatives.

The total, which includes 11 women, compares with 314 in the 1955 election and the record field in 317 in 1945 when 90 seats were at stake.

SEEK SIXTH VICTORY

Premier Leslie Frost's Progressive Conservatives, who have been the five-time winners since 1943, are bidding for a new majority with the slogan "Progress Ontario." The government held 83 seats in the last legislature.

The Liberals, under leader John Wintermeyer fighting his first election campaign after a year at the party helm, are playing a 15-point platform in a drive to increase the 41 seats they held at dissolution.

Harold C. MacDonald, leader of the highly vocal three-man CCF group in the last house, is campaigning on a socialist program and charges of government deceit.

COCHRANE EMERGENCIES

Unfortunate events in the Cochrane ridings of Cochrane South-nearly cost the Liberals two candidates.

In Cochrane South, Louis Millette of Matheson was forced to withdraw from the Liberal nomination because of serious illness. The Liberal provincial association came up with a replacement—Edward Couture of Timmins, only hours before the 3 p.m. nomination deadline.

Harold D. Little, Liberal choice in Cochrane North, was taken to hospital with multiple injuries Saturday night after a new car blew a tire and rolled off the highway 9 miles, 16 miles east of Timmins. C. V. Hamilton, former mayor of Cochrane and Mr. Braden's campaign agent, was more seriously injured.

Despite his injuries, Mr. Braden's name will appear in the race. W. C. Kelly, who replaced Mr. Sinnitrum, filed Mr. Braden's nomination yesterday.

LEADERS FILE PAPERS

Mr. Frost, who has been premier since 1949, filed papers for Victoria, his seat which he represented since 1937. Mr. Wintermeyer in Waterloo North and Mr. MacDonald in York South are seeking to retain the seats they first won in 1955.

Magistrate Rules Child Neglected, Given Blood

SUDBURY (CP) — An emergency court held in Sudbury Memorial Hospital Thursday enabled the 10 - year - old son of Jehovah's Witness parents to be given life saving blood transfusions.

Religious objections of the parents were cleared when Magistrate Anthony Falzetta ruled Marcel Fournier was a neglected child under the Ontario Child Welfare Act.

Minutes later Dr. Robin Poole operated on Marcel to remove a ruptured spleen.

Blood transfusions were given throughout the operation and continued afterwards. His condition today was reported satisfactory.

IN FALL AT SCHOOL

Marcel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fournier, ruptured his spleen in a fall at school Thursday around noon.

He went home and stayed there for four hours. He was then taken to medical officials of the International Nickel Company of Canada by his father.

When Mr. Fournier said he is a Jehovah's Witness and would not permit a transfusion, Dr. Poole called Crown Attorney E. D. Wilkins.

Mr. Wilkins ordered the Fourniers summoned, called Magistrate Falzetta and arranged for a special court at the hospital.

Magistrate Falzetta called Dr. Poole and asked him if the operation a blood transfusion would be necessary.

"If my diagnosis is correct," said Dr. Poole, "then in my opinion a transfusion will be mandatory if the child's life is to be saved."

OPPOSES TRANSFUSION

Called to the stand, Fournier reiterated he is a Jehovah's Witness and as such was opposed to blood transfusions.

Mrs. Fournier sobbed throughout the hearing but did not testify.

In his judgment Magistrate Falzetta made Marcel a ward of the Children's Aid Society for one month.

Two Belleville Men Injured At Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH — Two young men escaped serious injury when their 1957 hardtop car careened nearly 100 yards out of control and was wrecked here Thursday night.

William Leech, 20, of 4 Linton Park Rd., Belleville and Robert Hulway, 24, of 63 Emily St. Belleville were admitted to Civic Hospital and were in satisfactory condition today.

Leech has head injuries and Holway has injuries to his head and left ankle and abrasions and brush burns.

Today's Chuckle

After being treated by a doctor the kleptomaniac was told, "I don't think you will have a relapse, but if you do, pick up radio for me."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A low pressure area is moving across Northern Ontario today giving showers and scattered thunderstorms overnight followed by cloudy skies and lower temperatures in the northwestern regions. Southern regions will have mainly sunny skies and a few showers or thundershowers today with more frequent showers Saturday while northern regions will have mainly cloudy and cool today and Saturday.

Ministers Turn Atlantic Flight Into Conference

Trip Back From Funeral Of Dulles Is Put to Use

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers announced today after a transatlantic flight conference that they had a useful exchange of views on their overnight flight from Washington.

They agreed to start the final round of their discussions at the German problem, the Berlin crisis and the prospects for a summit conference at the villa of British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd at 5 p.m. (noon, EDT).

The U.S. Air Force plane carrying State Secretary Christian A. Herter, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and France's Maurice Couve de Murville landed at Cointrin airport here at 12:54 p.m.

The four ministers were in a jovial mood. Herter, host of the "flying carpet conference" was first out of the plane, Gromyko following. Gromyko was smiling as he walked down the ramp. The U.S. assistant secretary of state, Andrew H. Berding, who had ridden in an accompanying aircraft, issued a statement on behalf of the four.

The four foreign ministers had an opportunity on the aircraft of reviewing the progress of the Geneva conference and to discuss certain details of their respective positions. All agreed that their exchange of views had been most useful. The four ministers agreed to meet again privately and informally at 5 o'clock at Mr. Lloyd's Geneva residence."

AHEAD OF TIME GIVEN DETAILS

Herter gave almost some details of the conference after talking briefly with Herter.

The four ministers took off from Washington in mid-afternoon. For the first hour they chatted informally and read newspapers and magazines. Then they organized a meeting and talked about conference issues for an hour and a half as the aircraft roared through the sky at an altitude of about 13,000 feet. A British adviser and several American officials were seated near the four ministers at the meeting.

The plane stopped 75 minutes at Shannon, Ireland, for refueling. From Stephenville the plane flew non-stop to Geneva.

In addition to the time they spent in discussion Thursday night, including the meeting organized talk, the Big Four talked over East-West problems for about two hours yesterday before they reached Geneva.

Various sources indicated that altogether the four spent six or seven hours conversation, either formal or informal.

The four-engined aircraft — a Boeing 707 jet intercontinental — reached a top speed of 600 miles an hour.

The four ministers took off from Washington in mid-afternoon. For the first hour they chatted informally and read newspapers and magazines. Then they organized a meeting and talked about conference issues for an hour and a half as the aircraft roared through the sky at an altitude of about 13,000 feet. A British adviser and several American officials were seated near the four ministers at the meeting.

The plane stopped 75 minutes at Shannon, Ireland, for refueling. From Stephenville the plane flew non-stop to Geneva.

In addition to the time they spent in discussion Thursday night, including the meeting organized talk, the Big Four talked over East-West problems for about two hours yesterday before they reached Geneva.

Various sources indicated that altogether the four spent six or seven hours conversation, either formal or informal.

The four-engined aircraft — a Boeing 707 jet intercontinental — reached a top speed of 600 miles an hour.

The ministers took off Thursday for their sky session after conferring with Dulles for an hour. Wednesday all had attended funeral services for John Foster Dulles.

The conference in the clouds gave the Big Four the opportunity to come to grips in an informal atmosphere with the two issues expected to dominate the two weeks or so remaining of the Geneva negotiations — Berlin and a summit conference.

In an effort to make progress the foreign ministers have agreed

New Maximum Of 60 MPH Set On Four Roads

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario motorists will be able to drive with impunity up to 60 miles per hour on certain highways today even though the new maximum speeds are not yet legal.

Regulations authorizing the new maximum speeds on highways 401, 400, parts of 27 and Queen Elizabeth Way will be posted within the next few days.

Queen's Park officials said police would not prosecute 60 m.p.h. drivers in the intervening period. Conversion of speed limit signs will begin this week.

The highways, transport and attorney - general's department have approved the new maximum speed for the following roads.

COVERS MANY ROUTES

All of Highway 400 and 401 with the exception of a short strip of 401 between 401 east of Kingston,

All Highway 27 that is part of the Toronto bypass.

From Highway 27 to the Frederick G. Gardiner expressway on the Queen Elizabeth Way.

On the rest of the QEW the limit has been raised to 55 m.p.h. except for a 50 m.p.h. restriction through St. Catharines and controlled speeds on traffic circles at Stony Creek and Niagara Falls.

Maximum speed for trucks of more than 10 tons will be raised on all these highways is 55 m.p.h. except 50 on 27.

Deputy Transport Minister Colclough said the new signs will designate "maximum" speeds instead of speed "limits."

"We've changed the wording to 'maximum' from 'limit' because we feel that 'limit' offered a target that motorists felt they had to reach," said Mr. Collins.

The 60 m.p.h. maximum would be extended on the QEW as reconstruction work designed to improve the highway's completely controlled access highway was completed west of Highway 27.

PRIME MINISTER DICTATES COURSE OF BOARD CHARGE

Govt. Beats Motion To Give Bill Hoist

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has been accused of dictating a course of action for the proposed national energy board that may make it difficult to attract top men to serve as members.

George McIlraith (L—Ottawa, West) said Thursday that the prime minister's promise of immediate processing of natural gas export applications as soon as the board is established amounts to dictation.

Furthermore, he added as the Commons debated the energy board legislation, the prime minister even indicated the evidence on which the board is to make its decision.

BILL ADVANCED

Despite renewed opposition criticism of the measure, progress was made. By a vote of 183 to 7, Liberals and Progressive Conservatives defeated a CCF attempt to give the bill a six months' hoist, in effect to kill it for this session.

Then, by a vote of 179 to 7, the bill was given second read-

Promises, Counter-Attack Feature Election Campaign

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two leaders made promises and one third issued a counter-attack in Ontario election campaigning Thursday.

Premier Frost said his government plans to extend hospital insurance coverage to patients in nursing homes and Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer pledged a program to provide free university education.

CCF Leader Harold C. MacDonald answered an attack made by Premier Frost Wednesday night. He said Mr. Frost usually resorted to name-calling when he had no answer to criticisms.

The premier spoke in Ottawa where he began an Eastern Ontario tour by opening a rehabilitation centre and a Red Cross blood bank.

He called the government's hospital program "a mighty program for the betterment of the health of our people."

"Our present plans—call for emphasis on convalescent and chronic beds and steps are being taken to include in the hospitals plan well-equipped nursing homes which will meet a reasonable standard and will assist in reducing the pressure on active treatment hospitals."

Later, in an interview, the premier said the main stumbling block is establishing uniform health and safety standards for nursing homes. "But we're optimistic," he said.

Mr. Frost made his remarks to 220 persons at the opening of St. Vincent Hospital's rehabilitation centre. He went from there to the blood bank where he paid tribute to the emergency blood program of the Red Cross.

The premier repeated his denial for an extra $600,000 a year from the federal government.

He told a reception attended by about 450 persons that the provincial government will continue to ask for larger slices of corporation and income taxes when the Dominion-provincial fiscal committee meets in Ottawa July 6.

"We intend to cut the chains which have bound our municipalities and provinces in their development.

"As a measure of justice we have advocated the much-discussed 15-15-50 formula which means about $100,000,000 to Ontario in new revenue. It is the position we maintain. But with this our efforts will be to arrive at a just and equitable settlement of the problems of all provinces."

He met Prime Minister Diefen-

Bomarc Funds Pared in U.S. As Army's Nike Scores Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army scored a victory over the air force Thursday when the House of Representatives appropriations committee slashed funds for the air force's Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and allowed the full amount requested for the army's Nike-Hercules.

The committee, in sending a $38,842,230,000 defense money bill to the House, said it was cutting funds for the Bomarc to focus attention on the development of the Nike-Hercules, which it said is the U.S. army's "first line of defense against enemy aircraft."

The army got another boost when the committee recommended $1,000,000 in additional money the army wants to speed production of the NIKE-Zeus, antimissile missile.

PRINTERS' SLOWDOWN

LONDON (AP) — Labor union leaders Thursday night ordered 200,000 British printers to embark on a go-slow strike in support of higher wages and shorter hours. The move affected printers working on newspapers outside central London and on most periodicals throughout the country. The employers' conciliation arbitration will be sought.

KIRKLAND LAKE RESCUE TEAMS SIGHT ONE BODY

Rockburst Traps Two Men in Shaft

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—The body of one of two miners trapped in a broken mass of timber and rock at the Wright-Hargreaves gold mine was sighted today, mine officials said.

They could not determine immediately whether the body was that of Peter Moras, 34, or Gilles Huard, 19.

Rescue crews worked through the night clawing rock aside by hand in an attempt to reach the two miners, buried at the mine's 2,700-foot level.

A rockburst about 10 a.m. Thursday imprisoned three men in the six-foot-square mainway in the mine, deepest in North America. Two other miners fled feet above ran to the blast area and heard the cries of Frank Urawowski, 33.

Urawowski was dug out alive and taken to hospital with head lacerations. Moras and Huard were trapped in the rubble.

"It was nerve-wracking work," said Adam Wagner, a member of the party that rescued Urawowski. "We could hear Urawowski talking to us so we knew where he was. We had to cut through the lining of the mainway and go through a lot of loose rock and timber until we reached him."

Wagner and his boss, Jimmy Brick, had been on a shaft inspection and had gone to the 2,500-foot level just before the blast to pick up their gear.

Space-Traveller Monkeys Never Missed Heartbeat in Long Journey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Albert Baker, the world's most renowned monkeys, are flying here for a press conference Saturday.

From personal experience, they know more about space travel than the government scientists who will present them.

They travelled 1,500 miles, reaching more than 300 miles into space, aboard a Jupiter missile Thursday.

They survived, with nary a missed heartbeat, the ponderous thrust as the rocket lifted off the launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla. They endured nine minutes free of the earth's pull of gravity as the missile screamed along at 10,000 miles an hour.

And they survived the burning re-entry into the earth's atmosphere far out in the Atlantic near the Bermuda area, the worst danger, of their nose cone vehicle which the Navy vessels was almost an anticlimax.

Able is a seven-pound rhesus monkey. Baker a squirrel monkey weighing only a pound. Both are females.

Through electronic instrumentation radioed back such information as pulse rate, body heat and blood pressure. They told scientists what they could what can happen to a traveller in space.

The "monkeys" successful 15-minute flight is hailed as an auspicious forerunner for the projected

ROYAL TOUR IN NORTH — Queen Elizabeth will become the first British monarch to visit the Canadian North when she and Prince Philip follow the legendary Klondike Trail during their Canadian tour this summer. Prince Philip toured the region alone in 1954.

This map shows the highlights of their visit to the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, beginning with their arrival by plane at Whitehorse from Victoria Saturday, July 18.

They will travel to MacRae on the famed White Pass and Yukon Route Railway, which runs from Whitehorse to Skagway, Alaska, and go fishing in a lake where "a good catch is almost a sure thing." Returning to Whitehorse, they will attend Sunday church service conducted by Rt. Rev. Tom Greenwood, Anglican bishop of the Yukon.

Later that day the Queen and Prince Philip will fly to Dawson City to witness a gold-dredging operation and visit the cabin once occupied by Robert Service, bard of the Klondike.

At Mayo Landing, they will meet a group of old-timers before returning to Whitehorse.

Following a flight to Yellowknife July 20, the royal couple will meet a group of Eskimos and visit the Con Mine to see the refining of gold bricks. They then fly to Uranium City, Sask., to see atomic mineral milled at the crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Company.

This evening they fly to Edmonton to continue their Canadian tour on the prairies. (CP Newsmap.)

Students Told Unemployment Related to Education Lack

The relationship between unemployment and the lack of education is being emphasized to secondary school students in a series of talks by Mr. Cecil Hliuser, manager of the Belleville National Employment office.

Mr. Hliuser has addressed students at Albert College and at Quinte Secondary School and is now arranging to talk to students at Belleville Collegiate. Topic of his talk is "Are You Thinking of Leaving School?"

Mr. Hliuser notes that as result of a survey taken by the National Employment Service in 1955, a startling relationship between unemployment and education was uncovered, with the people most likely to be out of jobs being those with Grade 8 or lower education.

The survey showed that of males seeking work 70.2 per cent had Grade 8 or lower education while among females 47.5 per cent had Grade 8 or lower education.

The conclusion arrived at, was the lack of education was one of the causes for being out of work.

Reports from employment offices tell the same story: It is extremely difficult to place students with less than Grade 10 education with students leaving school after grades 7, 8 or 9 (not likely to get anything but unskilled jobs at low pay.

On the other hand secondary school graduates are usually quickly placed in jobs.

The question "How much education have you had?" is always among the first asked by employers of a young job-hunter and the more schooling he has the better the job for which he can compete.

The shortage of education affects more than just the first job, Mr. Hliuser emphasizes. The amount of education a person acquires while he is still young affects his whole working life. When a person leaves school at too low a grade he may find the opportunities for advancement in his occupation are limited.

A.N. and A.F. Will Attend Sports Events

A.N. and A.F. will visit tomorrow the 46th Highlanders' Orphanage, sports event. Competition is getting keener and greater, as several members of 201 Comrie have accompanied by their wives and memoers of the Ladies' Auxiliary sport will be on hand to participate in the various games of brawn and skill. As there are trophies in sight, it is hoped Belleville will "Shoot the Works."

Site Selection Group of "Y" Holds Meeting

The Site Selection Committee of the YMCA's new building program met yesterday at the local "Y". Chairman Jack Williams stepped down from the chair to take over the post of Publicity and the Public Relations Committee due to the resignation of Mr. Bob Chitwood who has been transferred to Winnipeg by his company. Mr. Phil Wills has been named the chairman of the Site Selection Committee.

Several sites were discussed and the committee decided that it should not consider any site of less than four acres with a maximum area of around six acres. It is not intended that the new YMCA building should cover the site but rather that there should be sufficient area to allow for expansion to accommodate the community's needs in the future.

It is intended that the new "Y" should be a family YMCA where there will be adequate facilities to suit the recreational needs of any member of the family.

Other members of the committee besides Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, J. D. Templeman, Malcolm Churchill, Orlff Lloyd, Jack Ireland, Bill McCormick and D. G. Williams.

Labor Federation Official Urges Support for CCF

Mr. Morden Lazarus, director of political education for The Ontario Federation of Labor spoke to the monthly meeting of the Belleville and District Labor Council Tuesday evening with regard to the local Council supporting the CCF candidate in the election.

He outlined the history of the co-operation as between Labor and the CCF party from its inception in 1933 and stressed that many gains for the benefit of the community as a whole had been initiated in this joint action, such as the forcing of the late MacKenzie King's Liberal administration to introduce old age pensions.

In 1926 a Conservative government of Parliament, A. A. Heaps and J. S. Woodsworth, Labor Members of the House between the then Prime Minister King and Opposition Leader Meighen. The two Labor M.P.s wrote to both leaders asking for the introduction of universal old age pensions and unemployment insurance. Meighen's reply was non-committal, commended Mr. Lazarus. Mr. King's reply was a slap at Labor and at that time, the two Labor M.P.s. were practically read out of the party.

Following a flight to Yellowknife July 20, the royal couple will meet a group of Eskimos and visit the Con Mine to see the refining of gold bricks. They then fly to Uranium City, Sask., to see atomic mineral milled at the crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Company.

Safe Entered At Bottling Plant $1,600 Taken

Using sledge hammers and railway bars, safecrackers last night pried the 1,000 pound safe out of the Pepsi Cola bottling plant on Coleman Street and escaped with cash amounting to about $1,500.

Police Detective Harold Reid described the safe job as one of the "neatest" that he had seen in the city.

The intruders gained entrance to the bottling plant through a boiler room window at the rear of the premises. Once inside the office they placed rocket mats and cardboard cartons to deaden the noise, then tipped the safe on its back and attacked the heavy door with the sledges and bars. The hinges of the safe door were knocked off and the door pried loose.

All bills and silver contained in the safe were taken, including a large quantity of new copper coins used for making change in vending machines.

Sledge hammers and other tools used in breaking open the safe were left on the scene.

Mr. A. Spinelli, manager of the local bottling plant, lives next door but failed to hear anything during the night.

IN MEMORIAM

YADER, — In loving memory of a very dear mother, Lillian Alnora Yader, who passed away May 26, 1950.

We watched you suffer, we heard you sigh,
But no one could do we just stand by.
When the time came— we suffered the loss
For you never deserved what you got took your hand and we had to let you go.
Although we miss you more than we know,
Memories are smile and seem caress-ing
Nobody misses you more than we. —Loving Husband, Sherman Yader and Gerald and also Daughters Marion (Pulmanizer) and Ada.

COXON. — In loving memory of a dear daughter, Jo-Ann, who passed away May 29th, 1956.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were steady to mainly 50 cents lower on a hundredweight higher on slaughter steers, heifers and yearlings this week at the Ontario public stockyards.

Cow quotations were slightly less at 23 per cent and this class was fairly active at fully steady prices. Bull prices were generally unchanged with fat heavy beef bulls slow and hard to sell.

Veal calf prices were steady on medium, good and choice milky calves and 1-2 lower on rough and common calves. Hog prices were unchanged and sheep and lambs were generally steady.

Cattle receipts were some 2,500 head more than last week and were comparable to the same week in 1958. Western cattle receipts were slightly less than last week at 92 head. Shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughters were comparable those of last week at six loads, and there were no exports to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers mostly 25.50-75 with sales to 26 and one lot of 28.10; good 24.50-25.50; medium 23.00-24.50; common 20-22; good heifers 23.50-24 with an odd choice at 24.50; medium 22-23; common 19-21; choice fed yearling 26-26.50 with odd fancy to 27; good 24-25; good cows 18.50-19 with sales to 19.50; good light bologna cows sold to 21; medium 17-18; common 15-17; canners and cutters 13-15; choice heavy bulls 22- 23.50; common and medium 21.50; good light bologna bulls 20-21; canners and cutters 17-19.

Calves: Good vealers 33-35 with choice to a general top of 36.50 and odd sales to 37; medium 26-32; common 20-25; boners 15-19.

Hogs: Grade A 25; heavy sows 23-24; light sows 19; stags 15 a hundredweight in on dressed weight basis.

Lambs and ewes: Spring lambs ranged from 28-32 according to weight and quality; sheep 4-12 according to quality.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged here today.

The egg market was reported quite with receipts adequate for a light demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in three cents extra large 37; A large 37; A medium 35; A small 19; B 21; C 18.

Wholesale to retail: extra large 42; A large 42; A medium 39; A small 34; B 26; C 25.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario, creamery 64; non tenderable 62¾-63 in light trading; western 62¾ (nominal).

CHEESE EXCHANGE

KINGSTON (CP) — A total of 11,063 boxes of cheese was offered on the cheese exchange Thursday.

White cheese numbered 3,333 boxes, coloured 3,054 boxes, and specials 4,616 boxes.

Purchased by trade, white: 208 boxes, coloured 3,054 boxes, accepted by the Ontario cheese producers' cooperative were 3,122 boxes of colored.

White cheese sold at 23 cents and colored ranged from 34-34 1-16.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 3¼ per cent in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 96 3-32 cents.

Pound sterling 32.70¼, up ¼.

16-20.

Replacement Cattle: Good stockers 22-27 with choice matched lots of 800 pound stockers gaining a premium over the 27 mark; good short-keep steers 24-25; common and medium stockers 20-24; stock calves 28-31.

200 Million Treasury Bill Issue Announced at Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The government today announced creation of a new one-year $200,000,000 treasury bill issue whose proceeds will be used to help pay off a $500,000,000 bond issue falling due July 1.

The issuance in federal financing, announced in a statement by Finance Minister Fleming, is the first step in a two-stage plan to meet the $500,000,000 issue of 2½-per-cent bonds maturing in just over a month.

The statement said a further announcement will be made during the week of June 15 on how the government will raise money for the rest of the July 1 maturity.

The new treasury bills, to be offered for tender up to 5 p.m. EDT next Tuesday, may be paid for either by cash or by exchanging the 2½-per-cent bonds maturing July 1. The bonds will be valued for this purpose at 101.22 per cent. The fact that the treasury bills will be dated June 10 means in effect that those who exchange the bonds will receive the equivalent of three months additional interest on the bonds.

The treasury bills will be sold by competitive tender, a procedure which will decide what the interest return will be.

Mr. Fleming's statement said "it is expected that payment for the new bills will be made in part of the successful bidders will be made by exchanging the 2½-per-cent bonds."

NO NEW PRESSURE

A Bank of Canada government spokesman said the treasury bill issue will cause no new cash pressure on the market.

Any cash proceeds from the treasury bill issue will be used in cash offering to be announced in the week of June 15 and will be used for the retirement July 1 of the 2½-per-cent bond issue.

The new treasury bill offering is the first government financing to be launched since the August-April 9, apart from the government's usual weekly offerings of 91-day treasury bills.

It is the first one-year treasury bill offering since the November weekly offerings of the bills are for 91 days and recently the government has been selling six-month treasury bills as well. The one-year treasury bill was one of nine months, some years ago.

As well, it will be the first time the bills have been sold in denominations of $1,000 — there also will be denominations of $25,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000. Previously, treasury bills were no smaller than $25,000.

The new bill issue will be sold through usual treasury bill channels—banks and other financial institutions — and can be purchased by the public.

Mr. Fleming's announcement moved one factor to indicate the bills will be liable to income tax on any gain between the purchase price and the sale price or redemption value. This is normal for all treasury bill issues.

Street Shoulder Oiling Program Started Today

The oiling of street shoulders, between the roadway and sidewalks, commenced today after a delay of some time, states City Engineer Malcolm Tunbull. The delay has been due to obsolete equipment which was scheduled to be replaced this year, which is slow to use and has been in use elsewhere in the city. The street oiling program for the main portion of the city starts next week.

The annual weed control program, as required under the Provincial Weed Act, is now commencing. A weed inspector who is appointed for six to seven months of the year, makes the rounds of the city to check on the growth of weeds and note serious outbreaks of weed growth. When these occur on private property a notice is issued to the property owner that the growth must be cleaned out within 14 days. If the condition has not been remedied by that time the city engineering department takes the necessary action and charges the expenses against the property owner's tax bill.

The street name sign program has been started this year but the public works department is putting temporary signs in the newly annexed areas. Pitching work in these areas has already been completed and the ditching crew should be returning to the West Hill area next week.

The city road crew in charge of maintenance of gravel roads has almost completed its initial west to east repair and maintenance run and will be starting work on the west side again in the very near future. The asphalt repair and maintenance crew has been busy on the main section of the city during the past week. Work is also being done to restore roads damaged by gas company and public utilities installations.

The centre line painting contract with the Ontario Department of Highways has now been completed within the city as approved by that department.

Moose Hunting Banned in South Ontario

Tom Department of Lands and Forests has recently released the game season for several species in the province of importance to persons who intend to hunt in the forest district of Tweed.

The following applies only to the Tweed District which includes the counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Prince Edward, South Renfrew and the three northernmost Townships in Lanark. For information outside this district, persons should contact the office of the district concerned.

Deer — November 9 to November 21 (inclusive). North of number 7 Highway from the northern boundary of Hastings county to Highway number 28 in Frontenac county, then south along number 28 to the intersection of county road number 8 at Godfrey. Then north-easterly along number 8 through the hamlet of Fermoy to Westport.

Moose — No open season in the Tweed District.

The department has undertaken studies to determine the moose population in the Southern portion of the Province and to predict trends so as to enable it to open and close seasons when conditions permit. This year there will be no open season for moose in the southern part of the Province south of North Bay.

Grouse — (Often referred to as partridge) include — ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse and spruce grouse.

September 19 to October 31 (inclusive).

Batawa Musician Plans to Seek District Talent

TRENTON — Few people have a more earnest desire to promote musical talent in Central Ontario than Stephen Chorna of nearby Batawa. An outstanding violinist himself, Mr. Chorna conducts classes weekly to encourage youngsters in the art. Modest about his ability as a concert soloist he already has an enviable career in Canadian musical circles. He completed his own training at Toronto Conservatory of music and has appeared as guest with several musical organizations in several Canadian cities. He played with Toronto symphony orchestra, London symphony orchestra and with similar music groups in Peterborough and many other places. Recently he conducted a successful talent search in cooperation with the Trenton Chamber of Commerce and local groups.

Now residing in Batawa, where he is engaged as supervisor of industrial recreation at Bata, his spare time is completely taken up with demands of musical talent. His private classes are spread over several evenings of the week. He has a modern dance band known as the Bata Blue Stars who have gained wide popularity. He is also active on a committee that will soon open a summer camp for children on entertainment talent throughout Central Ontario and at the same time give leadership in the assembly of folk songs from many parts of the world. Also a festival type of presentation for talent auditions. This project was inspired by the fact that within the community of Batawa, where there are people from 15 or 20 different racial and national origins, several singing groups have assembled to sing songs of their homeland. Mr. Chorna is giving leadership to this latter effort recorded and by securing songs from other parts of the world will help each group improve their presentation.

Credit Union Officers Named

TRENTON — F. "Tiny" Corrie of Trenton was named a director of the Quinte Chapter of Credit Unions at a recent meeting of the group in the Carpenters' hall in Kingston.

The Quinte Chapter includes about 18 local Credit Unions from Trenton to Kingston; Ogdensburg and Belleville in the resident of the group. Other directors are C. Smith, Trenton; R. Scott, Belleville, and R. Edmonds of Kingston. Douglas Marshall of Trenton, is the secretary of the chapter.

Also named director at the Kingston meeting was George Clark of Kingston, and both he and Mr. Corrie will hold the posts left vacant by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cooper of Trenton. The Coopers will be moving in the near future to Toronto, where Mr. Cooper will join the Toronto division of the C.P.R Telegraph organization.

The highlight of the Kingston meeting was a panel discussion on two papers. One was presented by W. D. Cooper on "Interest Rates" and the second on "Loans" and presented by J. R. Edmonds of Kingston.

Rene LaChapelle, the representative of CUMBA, was present and addressed the meeting.

Mr. Cormier, also a director of the Quinte C.S.R. Employees Credit Union in Trenton, said plans will welcome inquiries from anyone concerning forming a local Credit Union.

Trenton Minor Baseball League Will Have 5 Teams

TRENTON — A Batawa-Frankford Minor Baseball League has been formed with five teams entered and already seeing plenty of action. The league provides baseball activity for about 75 boys of the two villages ranging in the ages of 9 and 12 under capable management of the coaching. A 20-game schedule has been drawn up with Frankford games being played on Monday nights and the Batawa games on either Tuesday or Thursday nights.

The Batawa entries are a sponsored and supported by the Home and School Club and the leading merchants of the village and a tag day is being organized in the village on May 30th to provide funds for necessary equipment.

Coach all-star team called Batawa Redlegs will be entered in the district entry in the Minor Baseball League East Central Zone. This will be the second time Batawa has entered a team in this league and it is hoped that with the additional players from Frankford a satisfactory showing will be made. First zone league game is in Colborne Saturday, May 30. Sponsorship of the all-star team as well as the balance of Batawa teams is by courtesy of Bata Shoe Company, Batawa, Ontario.

A great deal of credit is due to those giving leadership and supervision of the league. These include Dr. Hinchey, president of the Batawa Recreation Club; Dr. Wayne Lacey, secretary of the Batawa Recreation Club; Ron Mitts, of Batawa and Frankford; Gary Weeks, Gary Weeks and Jerry Scott, Frankford. D.C.A. minor baseball entry representative for this area will be made.

The project is heartily endorsed by parents, school teachers and leaders. Fair generally. Starting with PeeWees it is expected these boys will go up the ladder of organized ball and provide, ultimately, material for the pro-minor Eastern Ontario Baseball Association, which flourished several years ago.

E. J. Hinchey Wins 5 Awards At Queens

E. J. HINCHEY

One of the most brilliant students to graduate from Queen's University in years, Edward John Hinchey of this city, will receive the degrees of doctor of medicine and master of surgery at the spring convocation of the faculty of medicine tomorrow.

Dr. Hinchey, 25, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hinchey of Elmer Street. He received his public school education at King George School here, and is a graduate of Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

He was a popular student at the college here and took part in many of its activities. He commanded the medical cadet corps prior to graduation.

Dr. Hinchey, who graduated with honors, at Lloyd's villa.

He won the minimum price for a summit conference. Herter, de Lloyd Wood were reported pressing Gromyko for Soviet agreement to lift the threat to Berlin.

In return the allies are reportedly offering to make every effort to prove the atmosphere in Berlin from the Soviet viewpoint—meaning a halt to anti-Soviet intelligence and propaganda activity from West Berlin.

REPORTS WEST AGREE

The New York Times reported meanwhile that the Western ministers have agreed to try to get Gromyko to join in a conference communique which would:

1. Provide that the status quo in Berlin could be changed only by agreement of all four powers.

2. Obligate the four to settle their differences over Germany by peaceful means;

3. Accept the reunification of East and West Germany as their objective and agree that free; interest, elections should at some time should be part of this process; and

4. Outline the subjects to be discussed at a summit meeting, including the future of Berlin and Germany, disarmament and means of international assistance to the underdeveloped nations.

Stirling Doctor Sells Practice

After 13 years as a general practitioner in the village, Dr. William Cooper, Stirling, has sold his practice and has accepted a position as Medical Director of Blue Cross Plan (Canada) Ltd. The practice has been sold to Dr. William Hinwell of Marathon who has been practising in that centre for five years. He will take up his new practice about July 13th.

CUPID JOINS NATO

Whatever else you may say about the officials of the Canadian Department of National Defence, you cannot accuse them of being callous men. They have just made Cupid an unofficial member of NATO and who will presume to say that the little man's bow and arrow may not do as yeoman service as any of the mighty rockets with the names of rougher gods, Thor and Titan and suchlike.

There are 7,000 Canadian soldiers will be shuffled back and forth across the Atlantic, as the work of rotating the 4th Canadian Brigade group after two years' NATO duty in Europe is undertaken. Roughly half of these soldiers are single. They will travel by air. Another 3,400 married personnel will travel by boat with their families.

Now the prosaic view would be that arranging plane passage for family groups would be too involved. It is much simpler to hustle the family groups up a gangplank and let-them spread out on the decks of a big liner.

The Canadian Press, though, reports that the single men are pleased with the decision to fly them home, for single men find the week-long sea voyage boring and "are understandably impatient to be reunited with parents and sweethearts after the long separation."

Some old sweats may find it rather difficult to grasp a situation in which the top brass worries about keeping Private Jones separated from his girl friend for seven long days.

Be that as it may, Pte. Donald St. Denis of Cornwall, appears to have summed up the situation in the proper light, by today's army standards. "The boat trip is all right for married types, but most single men find it a real bind," he declared.

We don't know how it is that a single man has managed to discover that there's never a dull moment when a man has a wife and a family. But we are willing to bet that some of the married types will be wishing they had been flown home before that week-long voyage is over. Two cents will get you ten dollars that on the second day out 238 youngsters out of 248 will wail "There's nothing to DO!"

KILL HIM FOR REVENGE

Those people who oppose capital punishment as no better than legalized murder have an ideal case to plead in that of Gottlieb Muzikant, the former sergeant of the Nazi SS Elite Guard who has admitted killing at least 500 prisoners in Nazi concentration camps in the last months of the war.

Opponents of capital punishment argue that there is no evidence that it is an effective deterrent against murder. Yet this is the supporters of the death sentence are able to reply that no murderer who has died on the gallows, or in the electric chair, has ever been known to repeat his offence. The argument that Muzikant had committed a crime for which he again fails should be executed because he might kill again fails flat, however, since for 15 years he has been living in seclusion at Furfulda, Germany, as a worker.

There is only one good reason for advocating death for Muzikant and that is for revenge.

Revenge has been pictured as a base motive, but it is a motive which we freely admit in suggesting that Muzikant be hurried out of this world as quickly as the machinery of the courts will allow.

TOO MANY VOTES

Any day now, with a provincial election underway, we shall probably hear about a get-out-the-vote campaign.

Down in Connecticut, though, that phrase may be avoided for a few weeks, until people have time to forget the horrible truth.

The other day the members of the Connecticut House of Representatives took a secret ballot on the nomination of a juvenile court judge. There are 279 members of the House. Of these 261 were present when the vote was taken. When the ballots were counted there were 285 of them.

Another ballot was held and this time 281 ballots were cast, one per member present. They confirmed the appointments of Mrs. Margaret C. Driscoll but we are not told whether her first duty will be to endeavor to discover the delinquents who stuffed the ballot box on the first vote.

JUST FOLKS

THE CONTENTED MAN

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I don't know any millionaire
Who has a better time than I;
He may have better clothes to wear,
He may drink wine when he is dry;
He may have dollars to my dimes
When on a hamburg I must dine,
And he may think his babies sweet,
But they're no sweeter than are mine.

In silks perhaps his wife is dressed,
She smiles to see him come,
maybe
But is the same my wife is best.

At least she so appears to me.
He may have dollars to my dimes,
I'll grant him that, but nothing more;
He can't have any better times
Than I do when the day is o'er.

I'll bet, with all his millions, he Gets no more out of life than I
Who take my babies on my knee
And sing a little lullaby.
And if he has no little tots
To romp with when the day is done,
With all his cash and city lots,
He doesn't get much real fun.

Hoffa Threat to Labor

Montreal Gazette

Senator John L. McClellan has called James Hoffa, chief of the Teamsters' Union, a threat to the American nation.

This may be rather overstretching the charge. No one man can become a threat to the United States, or to any other nation, without bringing about his own downfall in the attempt. And James Hoffa is far too shrewd to do anything like that.

It would be far truer to say that Hoffa is a threat to organized labor. This is not to say that the champions of organized labor, like those of ancient Jericho, will suddenly collapse before a blast of Hoffa's trumpet-ing. But Hoffa is doing damage to labor — and on a wide scale —every day.

There can be no doubt at all that the great American labor federation, the AFL-CIO, did the right thing in turning the Teamsters' Union out of its membership. If no doubt hoped that this exclusion, in the long run, would cause it to dwindle, would bring about its own reform, and would lead to its re-admission.

But nothing of the sort has happened. The expelled union has flourished, in such a way as to put many a green bay tree into the shade.

At the time of the Teamsters' expulsion, Mr. George Meany, the president of the AFL-CIO, said: "We could see here a few things about trade union corruption, but we didn't see those in half of it, one tenth of it, or the one hundredth part of it."

What is Hoffa, from the pinnacle of his success, who looks down on Meany, "We could raise $15 million today," said Hoffa about a year ago. "We believe it's necessary to keep $5 million or $6 million on hand in shortterm notes to handle strikes and organizing situations. Poor old Meany's running out of dough, and you have to have money in this business."

Some of the most recent opinion on Hoffa are given in an article in the current issue of Life magazine. "Meany's forgotten he's a labor man", says Hoffa, "what the hell, he's never conducted a strike in his life". Walter Reuther, a vice-president of the AFL-CIO, Hoffa says: "Reuther doesn't bother anybody. He's the guy trying to become a statesman."

If Hoffa pours such scorn upon other labor leaders, it is because of what he has in a position to do so. He is acting on the principle that nothing succeeds like success.

"You will have to judge by your own paychecks", he says to his membership, "if this union is being run right for you, or whether you'd rather have some namby-pamby rumbler it that hasn't got the guts to stand up for you."

How Mr. Hoffa stands up for his membership and for himself is quite simple: "We don't argue with the guys," he says. "We bash them . . . instead. First, we close their guy's outfit where the trouble is. Then, if he won't settle, we close him down (i.e. persuade his customers to desert him in the surrounding states. Then if he still won't settle, we shut him down across the whole country."

As a black sheep, Hoffa has prospered more than the labor fold than he ever did within it. But the real turning point was his expulsion from the AFL-CIO into a mood of repentance. Hoffa was not the only union expelled him. It is they, he says, and those who have to learn how unions ought to be run.

A bill for Labor Reform — the Kennedy bill — has passed the House of Commons. Hoffa is determined to fight it, claiming that it is punitive rather than remedial. Even if the AFL-CIO is opposed to this bill, it would do little good to ignore it. It would rather would effect the needed reformation.

Labor's inability to deal with Hoffa by its own methods has been fully demonstrated. The Teamsters' Union has brought within the realm of law. And decent labor should play its part in framing labor laws that will make such abuses impossible — abuses from which labor in general is suffering by Hoffa's very ability to get away with them.

Clean Abbey In 20 Years

By Robert J. Dunphy
In Stars and Stripes

Dread the though of spring cleaning? Think of the poor chap saddled with the job of giving Westminster Abbey the first complete cleaning in its 900-year history.

The building has been the scene of every coronation from William the Conqueror in 1066 through Elizabeth II in 1953, and most of the nation's kings lie buried there.

But not all this pomp and ceremony. It seems the abbey's illustrious past has been marred by a conspicuous absence of mop and pail. Operation big cleanup has ended all this.

The man in charge of polishing up England's most celebrated edifice is no amateur when it comes to cleaner. His title is surveyor of the fabric and his name is S. E. Dykes Bower.

A 20-year project, the monumental cleaning job was started before World War II. It had to be abandoned at the outbreak of hostilities in 1939 and work was not resumed until after the coronation of Queen Elizabeth.

"Present plans call for the job to be finished in time for the abbey's 900th anniversary celebrations in 1965," says Dykes Bower. "By that time it is expected the entire interior will have been cleaned."

Dirt an inch thick has been removed from some parts of the building. In other places cleaners have laid bare hitherto unknown repairs carried out 600 years ago by Sir Christopher Wren, the "father of British architecture."

"Although much of the grime is of modern origin, some was caused by candles used to light the abbey in years gone by. Our generation will be the first in 600 years to get this magnificent church as its builders intended," Dykes Bower says.

Much of the abbey's original timber has been destroyed by the death watch beetle, but other wood in the cathedral has been combed for oak trees large enough to provide the timber needed to support the roof."

More than 20 workmen are busy daily in the abbey, working with extreme care to avoid damaging the precious antiquities. Every man is an expert in his field.

Only soft brushes and water is used. All cleaning is done by hand with rubbing stone or sponge.

Before the job started a detailed chart was drawn up showing every nook and cranny of the abbey. Each part is given to providing for the cleaning of interior stonework, it was decided that the 13 altars every should be polished.

This is the most difficult part of the job since the marble, which has deteriorated over the years, is the most delicate before being repolished and the intricate carving in the 13 altars will first have had to be refinished.

To date the repair and cleaning of the abbey have had a remarkable effect. Where the appearance of the treasured monument and much of the stonework and painting are now spotless, but most have looked when now.

Bright Side

Canada has many raw materials. It has the knowledge. With this combination it should not be too difficult a job to find the markets. Despite the apparent short-run difficulties, the long-range prospect is tremendous and pessimism is most unwarranted.

Should Teach Bike-Riding

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

The bicycle is a convenient means of transportation, when properly used. When it is not properly used it is a menace.

The menace of bikes is something that is brought to the fore each spring when the streets are crowded with youngsters, just out of the early stages of learning a sense of responsibility and the rules of the road.

It is doubly important that children be taught these rules thoroughly drilled on the correct method of using their bikes.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THAT IMPORTANT WORK

Direction is the most important factor in life. Where are you going? This is life's big question for you, for everyone of our seeming-world population.

If left to themselves people do not know where to go and find life-type of work to which they appeal and which will be fulfilling. Others want to enter the ministry because others are for the practical life of the factory with its duties, its routine, its hard but satisfying plans. Others want to farm. Nine-tenths of the women naturally want to found and preside over homes. And let us never forget that the women who manage the homes of the world are really the managers of big operations, although sometimes how much money is in your property, your furniture, your clothes and your food. A woman takes charge of this for the most part. If she thinks she would find a bigger job somewhere out in the world, she is probably mistaken. It would be hard to find a bigger job than the one she already has.

Men, women, children — the big question for all is, "Where are you going?" Are you in the drifts or activities taking you? Are your habits helping or hurting? Are you living for Christ or self? Whither? Whither? Whither? That is the important word in your vocabularly and mine.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ILEITIS REQUIRES CAREFUL DIAGNOSIS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss regional ileitis? What causes it and what can one do to cure it? Is a special diet necessary? — Mrs. B. K."

If we were talking about "colitis," you would know a good idea of the subject. Colitis is a fairly common ailment.

Ileitis is not as well-known as not even after President Eisenhower had it publicized with it. However, there are things in common.

The colon is the large intestine. The ileum is the part of the small intestine which attaches to the colon. Thus ileitis, or "regional ileitis," is inflammation of that part of the small intestine, or ileum. (If the inflammation happened to extend beyond the ileum, then we would call it "regional enteritis.") Ileitis is the lower right side of the abdomen.

The exact cause of the trouble is not known, but both infection, allergy, and mechanical irritation all play a part in causing it in different. Perhaps the cause is not the same for all people. Further research is necessary for the trouble to run in families, so there may be some hereditary trait that leaves one more subject to this trouble.

Principal symptoms are abdominal pain, diarrhea or constipation, loss of appetite, loss of weight, fever, bloody stools. Cases can range from mild to severe, with an extreme case being one in which spasm or other complications cause partial obstruction of the bowel.

When a case is discovered — a suspected case, that is — the physician is confronted with the job of differentiating it from other troubles that have similar signs. One must be careful not to mistake it for appendicitis, cancer, dysentery from amoeba or bacteria, or ulcerative colitis. Sometimes X-rays help pin down the case for which it is.

SURGERY SOMETIMES REQUIRED

As to treatment, let me say first that some cases quiet down spontaneously. Others persist. Sometime surgery is the only sensible recourse if the case is severe and has severely damaged.

At the same time, since so many cases never need surgery, the wise choice is to be conservative in treatment.

Drugs are useful in various ways. Some can be used to control diarrhea. The steroid hormones (cortisone, etc.) often prove helpful. Occasionally antibiotics will be beneficial. Crude bella donna is used.

As to diet — decidedly, yes. It has often been noted that in some cases certain foods aggravate the symptoms. (This is one excellent reason for considering allergy as one cause.) When such foods are identified, avoid them, naturally.

In general the diet should be of low residue, that is, foods which are largely turned into food value, with relatively little waste left over. High protein, high vitamin content is required, and they should be adequate to keep the patient from losing weight.

To sum it up: Ileitis requires careful diagnosis. Treatment should be conservative. Proper diet is very important. While a few different drugs may be used, depending on the individual case. There will be selected cases when a diseased section should be removed surgically, because of severe diarrhea or obstruction.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My grandson has nephritis or nephrosis (kidney trouble). Is there any cure for this? What would you suggest? — Mrs. M. B.-N."

Cure (or maybe we should say like the patient finally got well) used to be about a 50-50 chance. Now the chance has increased to about 65-35. It's a dangerous thing. We have no specific cure. It is a matter of watching closely for each symptom, using some medicines, and keeping the general health as strong as we can. The best I can say is that there is a long disertion, is that the children are being cured. Some were as little as five years ago.

Note to Mrs. A.F.: Bell's Palsy is a paralysis of one side of the face. The cause? Well, what causes any inflammation anywhere else? A germ, a virus, an injury.

Bed wetting can be conquered! To learn how, write to me in care of this paper, Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Minnesota soil is mighty good, as we've known for a long time, but it took a friend from Florida to reveal to us just what a treasure it really is.

He says an acquaintance of his — a retired Minnesotan who winters in Florida — took some Minnesota soil with him for a garden winter before last. On returning to Florida the past winter, he discovered someone had stolen his Minnesota soil.

He had some more native soil sent down and before heading back north this spring, he shoveled the dirt up, put it in burlap bags, and locked the cans inside his trailer home, for safeguard if from thieves until his return next winter.

YOUR OTHER SELVES

We see ourselves in our friends, as a second creation. That is why we are so interested in any up a friend who has proved himself worthy. A genius who is rare is soon dismissed. The older we get the tighter we should cling to friends.

I frequently remain silent, listening friends, for few may see too much of myself in them. I want to take care of the Cowden Rule will never go out of fashion. The happiness of the world clings to it even when it looks as though it wanted to "throw in the sponge."

I created all sorts of human beings so that there might be variety among all. Why are there arguments and wars? Because we are showing up all the time! Can't we be friends and help to create a better world with all its faults and failures? Nature can help us with its animal world there is very little fighting going on. The birds sing their songs because they are happy. It is a joy to have them wake me each day in a new burst of their daily chorus, even though they may be up before dawn.

Scouts' Executive Bd., L.A. Hold Dinner Meeting, Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the executive board and the Boy Scouts' Ladies' Auxiliary of Belleville and district was held in the form of a pot-luck supper on Wednesday evening in the parish house of St. Thomas' Church.

Approximately 82 members registered. Included in this number were those at the head table, who were introduced by Mrs. L. Andrews, as follows: Mr. Akey, group committee chairman; Mrs. Allcorn; Mr. Art Jackson, Provincial Field Commissioner; Mrs. G. Hodgson, regional representative to the Ladies' Auxiliary; the Rev. J. Riesberry; Mrs. L. Blaker, president; Mr. Allcorn, District Commissioner; Mrs. B. K. Brown, of executive board of Peterborough; Mrs. A. S. McConnell; Mr. F. Lancaster, president of local association.

Mr. Art Jackson addressed the gathering, stating that the Mothers' Auxiliary represent the greatest potentials in the Scout movement; that boys are the greatest advertisement in Scouting, and that the greatest strength in Scouting is in the home. All parents should be educated in what is required of the Cub and Scout movement. If a boy knows his mother and father are behind him he will become successful, and the mother is the key to the situation.

INSPIRATION SOURCE

Mr. Allcorn spoke briefly, saying that it was a great source of inspiration to have the Mothers' Auxiliary behind the uniform.

The 1st Belleville Scout troop put on a short skit displaying first aid, and the making of rope. The 1st Belleville Cub pack also performed.

Mr. Lancaster stated that there are 1,200 Scouts, Cubs, and leaders in Belleville. In his remarks Mr. Lancaster said that Scouting is the greatest supplementary activity along with the church, home, and school for a boy, and that he can use this training to help him for the rest of his life. He also encouraged the Mothers' Auxiliary to assist the group committee in any way, and that the group committee should have at least 2 representatives from Ladies' Auxiliary. He reported that there are 23 active Scout groups in Belleville.

Mr. Akey, committee chairman, extended good wishes to the Ladies' Auxiliary.

FILM SHOWN

A film entitled "These Our Brothers", shown by Paul Boyd, depicted handicapped Scouts working among themselves, and also gave ideas how normal Scouts could help them.

Mrs. P. C. Gelsthorpe, on behalf of the Brothers' Auxiliary, expressed a vote of thanks to Mr. Belleville and Mrs. R. Fort for convening the pot-luck supper.

Mrs. G. Hodgson was invited to act as elector of officers and also to install them. She explained that the executive board was first formed on March 23rd, 1932, and that it is a link between local associations and the auxiliaries, and act as consultants and advisors.

1959-60 OFFICERS

The new officers for 1959-60 are as follows: Mrs. L. Blaker, president; Mrs. C. Gelsthorpe, vice - president; Mrs. A. Athey, secretary; Mrs. J. Minett, treasurer; Mrs. A. McCreary, contact chairman; Mrs. Dave McDonald, publicity; and Mrs. K. Lake, uniform convener.

PROMISES

baker for an hour, calling it "a courtesy call".

Mr. Whitemeyer went through one of the busiest days of his vigorous campaign, speaking at Goderich, Mitchell and Stratford and stopping to shake hands at Seaforth, Wingham, Formosa and Millbrook.

His chief topic for the day was the Liberal proposal to open up university education to all, regardless of ability to pay. This would be one of the major goals of a Liberal government.

At a meeting of 80 in Goderich he charged that the government was not doing the job it should in the education field. After 16 years of progressive Conservative administration it was time that the "Liberals were given charge of the department of education."

Mr. Whitemeyer said his party would divert more funds to student aid beginning with an immediate grant of $300 to students attending universities outside their home towns.

Students wishing to train as teachers were particularly in need of financing. Education in Ontario children "should not suffer because of their (the Conservatives') inability to finance it."

DEFICIT FINANCING

He said the government was using deficit financing. Instead of a surplus as the government claimed, there was actually a deficit of $90,000,000 last year and there would be a $129,000,000 deficit this year.

The Liberal leader repeated his challenge to the Conservatives and the CCF to make their election platforms known. The Liberals were the only party to have announced a platform and this alone "is sufficient reason to turn out the present government."

Mr. MacDonald told a Kenora rally that Mr. Frost's government was "tottering from corruption from within" and was best serving the interests of big business.

He said the fact that Mr. Frost had called him names in a Galt speech was that he had no defence for Mr. MacDonald's charges of wrongdoing by the Conservatives.

The CCF leader said the premier had tried to cover up the scandal of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company stocks by "trying to throw the coak of his own personal integrity over the whole sorry mess which he himself helped to create."

SEES SIGNS OF PANIC

The Conservatives, he said, were getting panicky when they had to call names and the premier had to run about the province defending the honor of his candidates.

David Lewis, national president of the CCF, also referred to Mr. Frost's Galt speech when he spoke to a Woodstock rally.

Mr. Lewis said the premier was "exceedingly unfair and not very honest" when he attacked Mr. MacDonald as "a man with no logic and a disregard for the truth."

He said the premier's words seemed to indicate that those guilty of political misbehaviour should be punished and the punishment given to those who expose them.

No Intention To Hold Debate Says Whitney

PICTON — Official nomination for the provincial election of candidates in Prince Edward-Lennox took place at the county buildings here yesterday. Officially filing their qualification papers with Returning Officer Earl Brummell were, George Patrick Beavers, Liberal and Norris Whitney, Progressive Conservative. There were no speeches.

At his nomination meeting, Mr. Beavers issued a challenge to Mr. Whitney for a joint debate to discuss the issues of the campaign. Yesterday, Mr. Whitney said he had no intention of accepting the challenge.

"I feel that this young law student has nothing to add to the debates on provincial matters which have not already been well debated in the Legislature. I do not see that any good purpose can be served, or is ever served, by a joint meeting or debate at election time. As far as I am concerned the electors can see and hear the issues of this election campaign well discussed in the newspapers, radio and television by Premier Frost, his cabinet ministers and other Conservative candidates as well as Liberal spokesmen", said Mr. Whitney.

He said a joint meeting or debate was not his style.

The Conservative candidate has announced plans for any public meetings.

HARRIMAN IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, former governor of New York and once U.S. ambassador to Russia, Wednesday ended a visit to Yalta, where he attended the 1945 Big Three conference with President Roosevelt. His next stop is Stalingrad.

Parties Set Up Headquarters

Both of the major parties have established their campaign headquarters in Belleville. To date no information has been available concerning a CCF headquarters but its is understood that their candidate, Mr. Frank Brethour of Bancroft, is conducting a personal tour of the riding to meet the electorate.

The incumbent member, W. J. "Sandy" Sanderock, the Progressive Conservative candidate for re-election, has set up campaign headquarters at 123 Front Street and has four phone lines to WO 8-5321.

The headquarters for Jack C. Lundberg, the Liberal candidate, have been established at 215 Front Street and two phones are listed, WO 2-5379 and WO 2-5378.

The Returning Officer for West Hastings, Harry Morrow, has offices at 121 Front Street and has a phone number of WO 8-6788.

Madoc Tax Rate 15 Mills Higher Due School Costs

Madoc property owners received a severe jolt this week when the village tax rate was set at an increase of 15 mills higher than last year. The 1959 rate for residential property is 90 mills and for commercial 97 mills.

Higher public school and high school education costs and a 1-mill increase in the county rate is given for the mill rate increase.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lockhart, West Huntingdon, announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Margaret, to Stuart Hickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hickson, of Lindsay. Wedding to take place on Saturday, June 20th, at George St. United Church, Peterborough.

Miss Diana Lewis graduated yesterday at the Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing and was awarded two prizes, the highest standing in practice in 3rd year, and the prize for surgical nursing. Miss Lewis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lewis, Queen Street.

Mr. James E. Taylor, 170 Albert Street, is a patient in the Kingston General Hospital after undergoing a serious operation.

Miss Barbara Stewart, Reg. N., Trent Road, graduated yesterday, May 28th, from Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing. Those from this district attending the graduation exercises held in Sherbourne Street United Church were: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stewart; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stewart; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reid, and Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart.

* * *

Mr. Roy Heath is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

The monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild was held in the church.

Mrs. Ward read the Scripture. Mrs. P. Tounsley gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Gordon Roberston reported that the John Knox group was having the annual supper at Mrs. Graham's on the Trent Road the third week in June.

Mrs. Tounsley announced a tea by the Loyal group at Mrs. Slocum's on Bleecker Street.

The Guild will provide the prizes for the Sunday School picnic.

Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Weir thanked the groups for the delicious meals they served for the W.M.S. Council meetings.

The ladies of the Guild are proud and happy to make their last payment on the carpet which they have worked so hard for. This carpet was laid in the church proper less than a year ago.

After the closing, Mrs. N. Williamson introduced Mr. Wilcot Thompson, who showed pictures on Scotland, England and Switzerland, from his European tour.

Mr. Thompson's commentary was most interesting and the ladies enjoyed it very much.

Miss Corbett thanked Mr. Thompson.

Wedding

EDGE — WATT

Tall standards of white chrysanthemums and pink snapdragons, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting on Saturday, May 23rd, at 2 p.m. in Wellington United Church, Wellington, when the Reverend Roy Poulter, pastor of the church, united in marriage Helen Gloria Watt of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Watt of Wellington, and Kenneth Edge of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edge.

Miss Mary Edge, of Toronto, niece of the bridegroom, soloist, sang with organ accompaniment, "The Lord's Prayer" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

For her marriage by her father, the bride was a picture of loveliness in her white nylon organza bridal gown with fitted bodice and full skirt over white taffeta underskirt length, with floating panel of nylon. She wore a matching headdress edged with ruffled nylon, secured with sequin-trimmed fingertip veil of nylon illusion, and carried a bouquet of red roses mingled with white stephanotis.

Miss Beverly Alyea, of Wellington, as maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Joan Watt of Belleville, Mrs. William Lott of Belleville, Miss Gail Watt of Toronto, wore pale green and pale blue, respectively, with contrasting bodice, basque waistline, embossed nylon, featuring fitted bodices having cowl necklines, scooped necklines and underskirts of matching pale taffeta. They wore matching large taffeta back bows, and matching headdresses and carrying bouquets of summer flowers.

Mr. Ross Cleland, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom as best man, and Mr. Dale Watt of Alberta, brother of the bride; Robert Lott of Belleville, nephew of the bridegroom and Donald Wright of Wellington, were ushers for the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception, which was held in the Wellington High School auditorium, was decorated in a turquoise sheath with matching duster coats, white and green and yellow rose carnage, received.

For the bridegroom's mother, wearing a two-piece ensemble of printed green silk with matching accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

For motoring to Vancouver, B.C., the bride chose a navy blue suit with white blouse, navy purse and shoes, pink hat and gloves and corsage of pink rose buds. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Edge will make their home in Toronto.

Guests attended from Toronto, Trenton, Bancroft, Belleville, Picton, Peterborough, N.Y., and Wellington.

Several showers were given in honor of the bride prior to her marriage.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were tiny pearl necklaces with matching earrings, and the bridegroom's gift to his groomsman and ushers were wallets and ties

Energetic Club Holds "Ladie s Night"

The Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church held its last meeting of the season on Wednesday evening with a good attendance.

This meeting was in charge of the men and each lady was presented with a lovely corsage.

Vice-president Jim Rapino presided. The theme for the devotional was "Mother". Bill Campbell read the Scripture and readings in keeping with the theme were read by Ken Parks, Ross Dryden and Rob Vanderwater. The Rev. T. F. Townsend closed the devotional with prayer.

A short business period was held and plans made for the "Mother and Dad Picnic" to be held on July 1st.

A delicious lunch, prepared by the men was served buffet style and a pleasant social hour spent.

"The Fattler" was read by Cam Hinchcliffe which kept all up to date on news.

Jeanette Oulingalyke, on behalf of the ladies, thanked the men for a fine evening of fun and fellowship.

Club Activities

EGGLETON M.B.

MADOC JUNCTION

May meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held on Friday afternoon at the school with 18 children and three adults in attendance.

The worship centre at the front had a missionary picture in the background: a vase of tulips and offering plate on either side and the open Bible in front.

Sharon Reide presided over a program prepared by Audrey Stapley and Isobelle Prest and opened the meeting with "Wonderful Story of Love".

Marilyn Stapley read for the Scripture lesson Psalm 121 and Keith McMillen gathered the offering, which was dedicated with prayer by Mrs. Fitchett.

A number, "Three Little Dutch Girls", was given by Lois Dandford, Carol White and Vickie Brownlee.

Mary Jones and Carol Dandford sang as a duet, "Jesus Loves Me".

Two readings were given: Sam Dandford read "Neighbor in a Hurry" and Dianne Prest "We Tell on Ourselves".

A lovely poem, "What Is Christianity?" was given by Audrey Dandford.

The "World Friends" page's were distributed by Vickie Browning and Sam Dandford.

The chapter on "Haiti", from the study book was presented by the leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, who told the story of the Haitian blind girl Edita, who had been away from home attending school at Port au Prince, where she was learning to read by Braille.

Edita had become homesick, so a friend had taken her home for a day's visit. While there she talked with Gabriel a little blind boy—telling him about the school and how he too could learn to read.

Nine pupils — Dianne Prest, Sheila Clarke, Lois Dandford, Beverley Stapley, Isobelle Prest, Vickie Browning, Grant Reid, Gary McMullen and Glenn Stapley, repeated from memory the names of the 12 Apostles correctly and will receive their star on their memory card, from their

Women's Institute

PINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL — The May meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Coulter with 41 members and two visitors present.

The president, Mrs. W. Slater, opened the meeting with a reading, "Summer Peace".

The correspondence was read and dealt with.

During the business it was decided to give the usual donation to the Salvation Army; Mrs. Alex Tanner is to be the delegate to the district annual.

Current events, prepared by Mrs. Ivan Clare, were read by Mrs. Slater. Mrs. Grace Bardin dale, who had attended the officers' conference at Guelph, recently, gave a full report.

This was the annual conference and the theme was, Adventure in Service". "Let us move forward to the fulfilment of a bright promise with a steadfast purpose and sustained courage".

Mrs. J. W. Green, a regional vice president welcomed the delegates and said that "Adventure" meant something unexpected and daring, a willingness to sacrifice for others". We were to be looking for unexpected ways in which we could serve others.

Mr. J. A. Eccles, director, publications manager, brought greetings from the college and hoped everyone would have a good time.

Dr. McCready, principal of Macdonald Institute, said every one a warm welcome and spoke of the change in the college.

Miss McKercher, director, home economic service, spoke to the delegates saying that during the past year 70 training schools were held and that five new units had been added this year. Three new Jr. Institutes had been formed this year. The aim of every women are a powerful influence in the world for good or bad and all would like it to be good.

The delegates were divided into discussion groups where Institutes and their activities of the district director.

Miss Dorothy Chapman, editor of "Home and Country", brought the address, "Adventure in Service". She said, "a good adventure has to have imagination and daring, one can't get people to go your way, go theirs for awhile and come back to yours later. If you are going to have adventure in service you must have imagination.

At the conclusion of her address Mrs. Harry presented Miss Chapman with a cheque for her overseas' trip.

A number, "Three Little Dutch Girls", was given by Lois Dandford, Carol White and Vickie Brownlee.

Mary Jones and Carol Dandford sang as a duet, "Jesus Loves Me".

Two readings were given: Sam Dandford read "Neighbor in a Harry" and Dianne Prest "We Tell on Ourselves".

A lovely poem, "What Is Christianity?" was given by Audrey Dandford.

The "World Friends" page's were distributed by Vickie Browning and Sam Dandford.

Red Cross Executive Gives Report

A meeting of the executive committee of the Belleville Branch of the Red Cross Society was held recently with Mr. Arnold Wolfenden, president, occupying the chair.

A total of 115 cases were handled in the Homemakers' Service, of which 277 were children.

Reports on "Homemakers' Services" is to be shown in the Public library in September. A meeting was held with Miss Thomson, Homemakers' Service, Toronto, and a contract drawn up with the Ontario Government, and 611g. welfare agreeable to all concyrned.

In the disaster services, two families were assisted in bedding and clothing, victims of a fire.

Two groups are now quilting for women's work services.

SAFETY PAMPHLETS

With regard to water safety, pamphlets have been issued to the Public Schools, to be shown, and grade 8 swimming instruction to be given. Next registration will be given made especially regarding water skiing and boat safety, and also regarding the customs, gratis.

The Blood Donor Clinic held in Belleville was largest in either Plan A or Plan B.

There were 236 donors — 225 bottles collected. It is hoped for the next clinic in June. New registration will be given in the afternoon.

Mr. Thomson, Mr. Wolfenden and Mr. Bruce volunteered to be drivers for the next clinic.

The Nursing campaign has been completed.

Miss Thomson, Homemakers' Services, Toronto, spoke to the meeting. She remarked on the "Homemakers' Service in Belleville — an example in Ontario. She also commented on the harmony existing between the Ontario government, city and Red Cross Society regarding Homemakers' Services.

In closing she said that nearly all small municipalities are charging $3 a day fee for Homemakers' which is the amount it costs Red Cross.

The next meeting will be June 3, 1959.

C.A.S. Work Detailed to C.W. League

The May meeting of St. Michael's C.W.L. was held recently at St. Michael's Academy, with the president, Mrs. H. Brown, was in the chair.

The Very Rev. Canon Garvin read the opening prayer.

Miss Esther Bawden, a student at St. Michael's High School, gave a short talk on the need for a closer school connection with the members of the Nicholson Catholic College project.

Mrs. Jules Ednier introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Lillie Hartley, who is in charge of adoptions at the Belleville Children's Aid Society. Mrs. Hartley gave a most informative talk on the society's wonderful work from its start early in the century up to the present days. She told the need of good foster homes. She also explained the procedure in regard to the adoption of older children, and informed that these adoptions are proving successful, but that more adoptive homes, particularly Catholic homes, were needed for the older child.

Rev. A. J. Meyers thanked Mrs. Hartley for her interesting address.

Mrs. B. Root and her committee served refreshments.

Gloria Jane Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reid, of Belleville, who will graduate from the Kingston General Hospital on June the first.

A.Y.P. Told Ministers Need Many Talents

Many young people of the Anglican Church gathered at Stirling, Frankford, Glen Miller for the annual spring conference of the Diocese of Ontario.

The theme speaker for the two day conference was the Rev. Earl Hawks, of Tweed, who spoke on the four-sided development of Christian life. "Young students in university tend to tear things apart" he said, "and try to streamline it, but when they do get out of school they are paralyzed. They become flying buttresses supporting the church on the outside and then flying away." Why? This question and many others were aptly answered by Mr. Hawks.

GROUP SPEAKS

Luncheon was held at Frankford, and the hon. president, The Rev. R. C. Knight, the Bishop of Ontario, spoke on the ministry for both boys and girls.

A synopsis was given of the seven men to be ordained at St. George's Cathedral in Kingston.

Election of officers for 1959 was held under president Mavis Coombes of Stirling.

Elected were: Chaplin, Rev. W. Chatreau. Cardinal; president, Dale Payne, Kingston; 1st vice-president, Don Wood, Cardinal; 2nd vice-president, Dave Fraser, Belleville; treasurer, Sandra Newman, Belleville; secretary, Joyce Glenn, Belleville.

A debate, "In order to make the A.Y.P. program more active it should be completely revamped," was carried on by two teams made up from Cardinal, Brockville, and Belleville.

Guest speaker at the evening dinner was Mr. Edgar Charles Hay-Ellis. While in India he joined an expedition to the Himalaya Mountains and on writing a thesis on this account was elected a member of the Royal Geographical Society of Great Britain, Mr. Hay-Ellis is head of the English department of Stirling High School.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council—consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council receives problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Henry J. — She wants me to stop seeing my boy.

Sally J. — You have only half a husband.

Henry J. — I have been married for two present wife for the past four years and we have been quite happy except for one problem — my son through my first marriage.

My boy is 12 — an age where I feel he needs a father's guiding hand. His stepfather is not a satisfactory substitute because he has children of his own and does not understand your problem. My boy is having a lot of difficulty in school and I want to help him out in spite of the fact that he is now very hostile to me and does not even want to see me.

My wife has been trying to get me to give up seeing the boy for the past two years. She says I show more interest in him than in her. This is not true. It's just a different thing entirely.

Sally J. — I didn't object to Henry's seeing his son until I saw what a bad effect it has on him. Every time he came from a visit with the boy he would go into a deep black mood for three days. He used to see him once a week, so that didn't leave many sunny days for me.

When Henry says this boy is hostile to him, he is putting it mildly. The boy is a fresh, obnoxious brat. He has no respect at all for his father. His mother spoils him up I'm sure. He is full of back talk.

I am 45 years old. I married late in life and I want to enjoy whatever I can of marriage. I feel that while Henry continues to see his problem son I have only half a husband. Should I be blamed for not wanting to submit to that?

* * *

The Council: No, we don't blame Sally for not wanting to submit to this situation, but it is sometimes necessary to submit to things we don't want.

Sally is not on sound ground in her pressure on her husband. When she married a divorced man with a son, she knew that her load certain responsibilities. These responsibilities should not make him "half a husband" but they should take up a good measure of his time, interest and energy. A considerable wife does not even want to be one, to suffer out of the guilt of neglecting a child.

Sally is also wrong to label the boy hostile to make guesses about his mother's attitude is not proper. She could not judge this situation because, even if she had all the facts and she surely does not have them, the boy obviously going through a difficult period and it is hopeless and useless to try to put the blame on any parent. Apparently both are trying to help in their own special ways.

Of course, Sally is on better ground when she shows her concern about her husband's state of mind over the visits with his son. She might be able to help on this score if she were less angry and demanding. When Henry comes home from an agonizing session it would probably help him to be able to talk to an understanding and sympathetic wife — one who won't inject her own viewpoint unless she can make a constructive suggestion.

Wedding

HUMPHRIES — TAYLOR

CAMPBELLFORD — St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth, was the scene of a pretty wedding last Saturday, when Miss Florence Effie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Taylor of R.R. 1, Warkworth, became the bride of Kenneth Archer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Humphries, of R.R. 3, Hastings. The Rev. H. H. Lackie of St. Paul's, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The soloist was Miss Helen Archer, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer" accompanied by Mrs. Ward Archer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over net with a boat neckline and three-tiered skirt scattered with sequins and simulated pearls. Her headdress was a lace tiara covered with sequins and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses with white stephanotis streamers and lily-of-the-valley on a white Bible.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Lorne Grills, wearing a gown of mauve chiffon with shirred bodice, mid-calf length and full skirt. Her headdress was a matching bandeau and she carried a nosegay of carnations.

Misses Linda Taylor and Gerraldine Hutchinson were junior bridesmaids wearing mint green gowns with full skirts and streamers at the back. They wore matching bandeaux and carried nosegays of carnations.

Little Betty Taylor was flower girl. Frocked in mauve chiffon similar to that of the bridesmaids.

Master Grant Taylor was the ring bearer.

Mrs. William McKelvie was groomsman and Messrs. Clark McKelvie and Hayden Taylor were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Burnley Hall, where the bride's mother received wearing a gown of dusty-rose lace over taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother received in Grecian violet lace over taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

For a wedding trip to Montreal and the U.S.A. the bride wore a sheath dress of flowered silk with a beige duster lined with matching silk. On their return the couple will live at R.R. 3, Hastings.

Out-of-town guests were present from Keene, Cobourg, Norham, Peterborough, Shelburne, Hamilton and Toronto.

Prior to the wedding, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Jack Hilburst, of Hastings. Her girl friends also gave her a miscellaneous shower at Burnley Hall, Burnley, Ontario.

Bridge Street Aux. Has Supper Meeting

A good attendance enjoyed the supper at the May meeting of the Bridge Street Church Young Peoples' Auxiliary. The hostesses were Miss Daisy Young and Mr. Nellie Anderson and their group.

Mrs. Grace Anderson presided at the business meeting.

Miss Grace Kenny, Christian stewardship secretary presented the thermometer showing the allocation to date, also the statistics for work from all over Canada-Overseas and here at home, this included scholarships, schools, hospitals, care and new dwellings. The gifts for the Christmas allocation were gathered and Miss Joy Nicholls, supply secretary, thanked the members for their generous response.

The program was in charge of Mrs. J. G. Demeza and her group. "Canada" was the theme of the worship service given by Mrs. McKeen who gave the statistics, showing the breakdown of the total offering. Miss G. Lazier spoke on the "Growth of Concern, also the Church and Politics."

Mrs. Sylvia Lazier told of the church extension being of great concern of the major denominations and how the rural church has been the heart of the Canadian community — the Spine of the Nation.

Church Union was given by Miss D. Demeza, who said "Canada's most important religious experience has been church union out of which the United Church of Canada was born in 1925."

Miss Byers spoke of "Church and Health", the importance of the medical and hospital field has from the first been recognized by the church.

Mrs. Quickert speaking on Immigration and Indian work, told that since the days of her infancy, Canada has received into her land a great and steady stream of immigrants and the aboriginal race co-operated to welcome newcomers to their fellowship. Work among the Indians is still encouraging. The long range hope is that Indians will be assimilated, both government and church work for this end.

Miss Heagle speaking on education told how all major universities in Canada are founded by churches and it is out of the life of the healthy university that Canada is able to make its best contribution to the world.

Mrs. Demeza closed by telling that the final and central concern of the churches in Canada is theological.

"Just as forces over which man has had little control, climate, geography, past-history, move to shape the religious life of the people, so men recognize that there is a greater force still operating in their nation, the Spirit of God working His will. This is the all-inclusive concern of the Christians of Canada."

GOOD MANNERS

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: HOW TO MEET DISCOURTESY

It's one thing to be courteous when people are courteous to you. But it's quite a different matter when someone is rude or unkind or thoughtless to you. This is a real challenge to your habit of courtesy, and it gives you a wonderful opportunity to show the quality of your innate courtesy. Another question: Haven't you noticed how often some kindly words and a gracious smile will completely disarm a discourteous person?

NO REASON FOR THEM TO SEND WEDDING GIFT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have been invited to a late-June wedding and recognize that we will not be able to attend — as a matter of fact, we are not at all interested in attending. The people who sent us the invitation are not at all friends of ours, and we have seen them only once in the past several years, and we were amazed that they sent us an invitation. But-since they did send us the invitation, we are obliged to, send the bride-to-be, their daughter, a wedding present?

— Reader

From what you say, I can think of absolutely no reason why you should even consider sending a wedding present. I imagine these people were just padding their lists. The only gesture you must make is to write a regret to the invitation to the reception. If the invitation is formal, write a formal (third person) regret: If it was by note, you should reply by note.

GROOM'S FATHER IS BEST MAN FOR HIS SON

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have a problem. You said in your problem column that it was that the best man does not stand in the receiving-line. But my brother-in-law is having his father as his best man, and he wants very much to stand with his wife in the receiving-line. The bridegroom's parents are from out-of-town, so they will not know many of the wedding guests, but they are very friendly and gracious people, and they would like to have the opportunity of being introduced to our relatives and friends. And this is just what we want, too! So . . . what to do?

— Bride-to-be

When the bridegroom's father is to be best man for his son, this is the exception to the rule I mentioned . . . and certainly it will be entirely proper for him to stand in the receiving-line. And he would be like a gentleman who would be an addition to any receiving-line!

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

IVANHOE — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Benson on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. William Donnan, presided, and opened the meeting by reading a poem, "A Wonderful Place." Mrs. A. Hassall read John 3:1-16.

The study of "The Creed" was concluded by Mrs. Barton Hagerty. "I Believe in the Resurrection of the Body, and Life Everlasting."

A reading, "Sufficient Unto the Day," was given by Mrs. Harold Thompson.

"Sharing in Missions With an African Church" was reviewed by B. M. Fleming. A musical number was given by Mrs. A. Hassall, followed by a reading by Mrs. John McInroy; a solo, entitled "Home Sweet Home," was rendered by Mrs. William Donnan.

The president thanked Mrs. Benson for opening her home and also the program and lunch conveners.

Lunch was served.

GAME FISH

Tarpon, fished off Florida and sometimes found in Nova Scotia waters, may weight as much as 400 pounds.

Teacher Goes Shopping For An Airplane

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Elizabeth Treadwell went shopping for an airplane.

Sure!

"Too big," said she.

Sure!

"Too obsolete."

Sure!

"Just right."

The jet fighter was delivered Wednesday to Van Buskirk gramar school, where Mrs. Treadwell is principal. It will be placed in the playground when officials figure how to get it past the fence.

"It will be the most fabulous jungle gym anybody ever saw," she said.

The shopping expedition really started in March, when Mrs. Treadwell got the idea.

WENT PLANE SHOPPING

Some American Legion officials took Mrs. Treadwell window shopping, or runway hopping, among rusting planes at a Tucson air base.

"Seeing all those old planes just broke my heart as a taxpayer," she said.

The F-94B, an interceptor, appointed."

was just right," she said. "It had low wings, all the better to tumble from. And it's the least obsolete of the older jets. So we took it. It also was easier and cheaper to move . . .

"Some of the children are still expecting the air force to fly it in and land it in the school yard.

"I hope they won't be too disappointed."

Mother's Helper

BOTTLED well-driven wells are certainly popular items at children's parties. You can serve them without the annoyance of spilling, by pushing a small-ish hole in each cap and inserting a straw. There are special extra-long straws on the market—essential for this purpose, since an ordinary bendy straw will slip down inside the bottle.

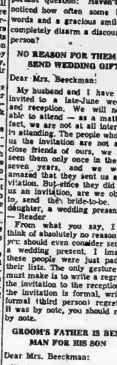
Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: I have just finished reading your article about freezing pie and I wonder if you would know the answer to a problem I have with both fresh and frozen pies that I make. Not always, but sometimes, when I bake either apple or blueberry (though mostly on the apple) the sugar crystallizes instead of melting and becoming part of the juice. It has happened to other people I know and we don't know the cause of it . . . Mrs. S.B.

Answer: The crystallization that you describe has not happened to me, but it is something you could mix the sugar and spices (and if used, any thickener) together in a bowl. While not in the case of apple pies, most cooks/bakers would be contracted from the apple slices, this mixing would serve to sufficiently separate and dissolve the sugar and prevent crystallizing.

With blueberry pies where thickener is always used such as tapioca or cornstarch or flour, this mixing would separate grains and prevent crystallizing.



Question: I spend $30. per week, sometimes a little more, for food. This includes everything, milk, bread, etc. I have my husband, myself, two big boys, school age with very good appetites and one little girl. My neighbor has her husband, herself, two boys, one man boarder, and one young woman, also an adult on weekends to feed. She says her food bill is $30. What is her secret? Could you help me? My husband doesn't like stews and gravies, so don't suggest making stews and spaghetti. Of course I make these for everyone else but I make something else for him! . . . Name withheld by request.

Answer: Before tackling your problem in the spirit in which you presented it to me, I want to point out to you that you have partially answered your own question. You say "Of course I make those (stews and spaghetti) for everyone else but I make something else for him (husband)". Cooking two different menus (one not stews or spaghetti) everyday for dinner is no extravagant that you cannot afford if you are to serve 5 people on $30. per week. Who is objecting to you spending more than $30. per week? You or your husband? If it is you why worry — since I assume he is the breadwinner and the one with the luxurious tastes?

Enough querying from me.

Broadly speaking the way to economize is to prepare your own food. That is do not buy packaged, pre-processed foods. For instance never buy packaged dry breakfast cereals (make porridge); never buy cake, cookie, pie, pudding mixes, (make your own); buy your supplies of canned goods when supermarkets have bargain specials. Every week buy the bargain specials in meats, vegetables, fruits, etc. Keep skim milk powder on hand and use it for all of your milk cooking.

Out of this information is contained in a valuable Government booklet entitled "How to Plan Meals for Your Family", Nutrition Division, Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa. Send 10c with your request to the Queen's Printer, Ottawa. Another just as highly recommended is "Meat — How to Buy, How to Cook", Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, 50c. I strongly urge you to send for both and study and follow them. Hope me posted. If you cannot make effectual savings, I will give you stricter budget rules.

HOME BUILDING SECTION

PAGES 8 and 9

It's a Three-Level House

A DECORATIVE PORCH, with wrought iron columns, adds importance to the entry of today's home, Design H-508 KF. split-level design, the exterior is frame with red brick used for trim. A planting box underlines the over-garage window.

Landscaping Is "Showcase" Of the Home

What do neighbors think of the appearance of your home property? Is it pleasing from the street? Do people, in passing, think "I'd like to live there?"

Often the answer to this question is to be found in the character of the landscaping, which in effect provides the "showcase" of the home. Sometimes the planting of a single tree or a few shrubs can change the whole aspect. A flowering tree or shrub well placed, or evergreens that keep their green all year add "life" to the property.

Test the "curbside" rating of your home by standing on the sidewalk and asking yourself the following questions as suggested by the American Association of Nurserymen:

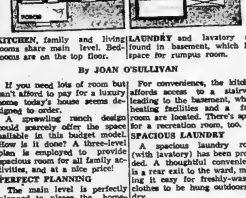
1. Is the home blended naturally into the landscape, presenting a pleasing aspect from every point of view, both winter and summer?

2. Is the foundation of the house bare, or well-planted?

3. Are the foundation plantings evergreen and screening shrubs? Do they need pruning or would it be better to replant entirely with more tasteful plants?

4. Are there color and variety from the use of shrubs or trees with different foliage and flowering textures and forms.

5. Does the property as seen from "curb" the various seasons of the year?



If the answers to the above questions are in the negative, then it is time to call in your nurseryman for suggestions.

In some residential areas a walk along the street in the springtime is a delight to the eye with shrubs of various species aglow with different or even the same flowers on separate properties.

In summer and fall, as well as in winter, attractive plant contrasts are shown. In winter, the dark green of coniferous and broadleaved evergreens are distinctive and beautiful against the snow. They add "life" to the property during the dormant season. For fall, various foliage colors (red and yellows) will give the property a hospitable golden glow. Summer flowering trees and shrubs can add to the beauty of the property in the warmer months.

Lots of Boquets

There is no good reason why we should not have all sorts of cut flowers to fill every vase in the house and give bouquets away by the armful from summer to fall. But many gardeners do not like to snip too many blooms—in the regular flower gardens for fear of lessening the display outside. The remedy is simple. In a few rows in the vegetable garden we can easily grow an abundance of cut flowers and snip them to our heart's content. When grown in rows in this way, they are easier to thin and cultivate. In some cases, too, flowers that are excellent for cutting and boquets are not particularly ornamental as plants and the vegetable garden is the proper place to grow them. Sweet peas are an example and gladiolus and some of the lilies.

KITCHEN, family and living rooms share main level. Bedrooms are on the top floor.

LAUNDRY and lavatory are found in basement, which has space for campus room.

BY JOAN O'SULLIVAN

If you need lots of room but can't afford to pay for a luxury home today's house seems designed to order.

A sprawling ranch design could scarcely offer the space available in this budget model. How is it done? A three-level plan is employed to provide spacious room for all family activities, and at a little price!

PERFECT PLANNING

The main level is perfectly planned to please the home-maker. Key to its success is the central location of the kitchen. For serving food, it's convenient to any eating area — the dining room, the family room and even an outdoor terrace, should one be added at the back.

Women will also like the open planning that merges kitchen and family room. It keeps the homemaker from feeling she's in an isolation booth as she prepares meals. In this kitchen, she can cook as she keeps up with conversations in the family room.

For convenience, the kitchen affords access to a stairway leading to the basement, where heating facilities and a fruit room are located. There's space for a recreation room, too.

SPACIOUS LAUNDRY

A spacious laundry room (with lavatory) has been provided. A thoughtful convenience is a rear exit to the yard, making it easy for freshly-washed clothes to be hung outdoors to dry.

Before investigating the home's top level, let's study the main room on the first floor. It's a combination living-dining area, big and bright. Picture windows are featured at front and along side wall. A clothes closet is provided in the vestibule.

From the dining area, a stairway leads up a few steps to the top floor, where bedrooms and bath open off a long hall. The two corner rooms are cross-ventilated. All bedrooms have good-sized closets.

For the Brand New Home

New homes are apt to look pretty bare for several years until trees and shrubbery start to grow but they needn't if one uses plenty of spring flowering annuals, in a few weeks these will make quite a showing.

To take the place of perennial vines, we can plant scarlet runner beans, hops, morning glories or other quick growing climbers. For shrubbery — we go through the seed catalogue and select those things that grow two to five feet tall, plant marigolds or zinnias, cornos, tithonia, cyprcss, dahlias, cleomes, cleosia and cannas, are some of them. These big bushy annuals placed in clumps with ing three feet of walls and fences, will change a new house from a raw building into a real home and do it in weeks not years. In front of them, of course, we can plant smaller annual flowers of which there is an unlimited variety available and listed in detail in any good Canadian seed catalogue.

WEED KILLER

Weeds can not grow in a gravel drive that has been sprinkled heavily with a salt solution.

Beautiful Lawns Are Result Of Planning, Work and Care

A beautiful lawn that can serve double-duty as a practice putting green is the dream of most gardeners. You'll grow such lawns by replacing those dreams with hard work, loving care and intelligent planning. Here are some tips that should help:

Before you start digging, be sure your gardening tools are cleaned and sharpened. Spade, fork, rake, mower, hose and sprinkler, roller, spreader and sprayers are required tools. But remember that you can always rent (or borrow, if you're lucky) the expensive items.

Knowledge of your soil is a pre-requisite for a good-looking lawn. Check with your state agricultural experiment station, country agent or local nurseryman for a soil analysis and for help on grading, fertilizing and sowing.

It's equally important to rid your soil of grubs and other insects that destroy your turf by feeding on grass roots. An early spring spray treatment with a chlordane solution, will wipe out these surface soil insects and prevent brown spots of dead grass from ruining your lawn this summer. The Antrol concentrate comes bottled as a complete unit that attaches easily to any ordinary garden hose.

And the experts advise soaking your grass to a depth of at least eight inches when you water. A light sprinkling of the lawn surface will do more to encourage growth of weeds than grasses.

As for mowing procedure, it's a good idea to check with your nurseryman to determine the best method for your particular kind of grass. A cutting height of 1 1/2 inches or more is a general rule of thumb, because cliping too short will help crabgrass and other weeds thrive.

Carpeting is chosen for wearing quality as well as design. To add both appearance and life to the covering, make sure the floor is smooth; if not, cover it with fir plywood to make a new surface.

Spring Check-up of Your Roof May Cut Repair Bills

Battening down a roof against the elements is a job for experts. Here roofers level out old roof surface with furring strips and then apply roofing felt and new shingles.

Your roof — the first line of defense between you and the weather — is worth taking a look at in early spring after winter's storms have done their worst.

If your roof is less than ten years old, a simple visual inspection from the ground should be sufficient. Look for faulty flashings, gutters of defective chimney masonry. These are actually the major causes of roof leaks. Also look for loose or split shingles, missing shingles or bare spots on the roof.

Symptoms of roof trouble to look for inside the house are:

1. Stains or discolorations of ceilings, walls, plaster or wallpaper.

2. Warping of floor boards or window frames.

3. A persistent feeling of dampness in one or more rooms.

If your roof is ten years old or over, an annual spring check-up by a qualified local roofer is recommended. By detecting minor leaks, he can put things right with inexpensive repairs.

If it proves necessary to re-roof your house, use the project as a means of beautifying and modernizing your property as well as protecting it. In deciding on the roofing material you will use, consider the color, texture and design that will best enhance the attractiveness of your home.

Among the most poular roofing materials from which you may choose are these:

Asbestos — cement shingles combine portland cement with asbestos fibre. They are durable and practical, and come in a variety of colors; sometimes have a wood-like texture.

Wood shingles are still one of the most popular roofing materials. They are often stained with bituminous dyes or paints which improve their appearance and lengthen the life of the shingle. They are widely used to create attractive architectural effects.

Asphalt shingles are available in wide range of solid colors or blends in varied patterns. They can be laid quickly and easily over old shingles. Before the new roofing is applied, loose or curled shingles should be nailed down and missing shingles replaced to make the old roof as smooth as possible.

Composition roll roofing is made of heavy felt with asphalt coating on both sides with mineral granules embedded in the upper surface.

New Siding Makes Old House Look Years Younger

AS IT IS NOW: After remodelling this home hardly resembles its original self. Two rooms were added, and new windows and chimney dress up the house.

Finishing touch was the application of red cedar shingles to roof and sidewalls. Wall shingles are stained white and add much to the beauty.

AS IT WAS: Before remodeling, the home pictured below looked like this. The expansion of the home to solve a space problem became a complete "face lifting" operation as well.

Many Families Launch Plans for Stepping-up Livability of Homes

As the new year gets under way, the subject of home improvement takes the spotlight of attention in family circles throughout the length and breadth of the nation. This is no sudden upsurge of interest but rather an acceleration of a movement that has been gathering momentum over the past several years.

In 1957 a stumping $15 billion was spent enlarging, remodelling, modernizing or restyling American homes. While all the figures for 1958 are not in yet, it will be remembered that sustained home improvement activities were one of the bright spots of the year in the building and related industries.

Now, with the whole economy moving forward steadily, more and more families will take steps to improve their homes, with results which bid fair to push the year's over-all activities in this field to a new high.

To express the basic motivation for home improvement in the simplest possible terms, it might be said to represent the urge for "more of something."

The desire for more space, more convenience, more comfort, more utility, more livability, and/or more beauty is the mainspring of the plans for home improvements now being formulated in countless family circles, the country over.

First step in embarking on a program of home improvement is take a long, close look (in which all members of the family should participate) at your house as it now is. Decide what's right with it and what's wrong with it, what you do like about it and what you don't like about it, and finally, just what is needed to bring your house more closely in line with our family's needs (present and future) and desires.

Since it may well be impossible to launch all of the indicated improvements at the same time, a schedule of priorities should be set up in which those projects most urgently needed will be undertaken first, with the others following along in a pre-determined order as financial and other factors may permit.

The important thing is to make a start. There is probably no greater error than to postpone doing anything about your house until you can do everything that you would like to do.

Even the simplest and least expensive home improvement can make an immediate contribution to the well-being of the family and can be enjoyed to the fullest while other projects in the program await their scheduled "target dates."

By adhering closely to a well-conceived long-term plan, you can be sure that each project undertaken will be co-ordinate with the others and the final result will embody all of the advantages which you envisioned at the outset.

After deciding what you will do first, the next step is how to go about it. If, for instance, you decide that what you need most urgently is more living space, your next move is carefully to appraise all the possibilities which your home affords for achieving this end. Should the basement or attic be finished off to provide an extra room? Or would it be better to enclose a porch, or perhaps to build an additional wing to your home? And in each case, what will it cost? How much if any of the work can you advantageously do yourself, and how much of it should be left to professionals?

Depending on the scope of your project, you will probably employ either a specialized contractor (such as plumber, mason, electrician, roofer, etc.) or a general contractor, who will do all the carpentry and sub-contract the masonry work, heating, plumbing, wiring, roofing or whatever else is required.

In the latter case, you will make one over-all payment to the general contractor, covering the work he does, together with that done by the sub-contractor.

How can you go about choosing the general or specialized contractors required for your project? Many of them advertise in the newspaper. Practically all of them are listed in the classified pages of the phone directory. You can also check with your local bank or local home loan company. Often too, you will find that a lumber company or building supply company has its own list of contractors and estimators whom it recommends.

Once you have selected your general or specialized contractors, you will find their practical advice of great assistance

In planning your project wisely and well.

In any event, be sure to get written estimates covering in detail just what work is to be done and what it is to cost.

DESERONTO

Education Bd., Parents Iron Out Difficulties

DESERONTO — A meeting of the members of the Board of Education and the parents of the pupils of the school was held on Thursday night. The meeting was called as the result of individual complaints by members of the board regarding conditions at the school. The board had sent word to the parents regarding the meeting via the pupils and there were some 30 in attendance.

The discussion covered discipline and the results of the teaching and ranged to the possibility of joining an area school and the difficulty of obtaining suitable teachers.

All members of the board were present and to the best of their ability answered the questions and complaints of the parents. They advised that they had no way of knowing the calibre of the teachers until after they were hired because of the present system of recommendations now in effect. It seems the Teachers' Federation almost control the inspectors, who furnish these recommendations.

READS REPORT

The secretary read the last report of the High School Inspector which showed an enrolment of some seventy pupils. There was no individual report on the teachers but the report did say there was poor preparation and presentation.

One of the board members asked if it was the desire of the parents to close the school and join a school area. The figures presented showed that such a move would cost the town several thousands more per year plus the cost of transportation. Many parents were opposed to this move because the pupils would be away from home so much.

Another suggestion brought forward was to add grades 9 and 10 to the public school and send the senior grades to out-of-town schools. The board advised that this was not feasible because of salary schedules and teachers' regulations. The board now pays between three to four thousand dollars a year for the local students who attend out-of-town schools.

The outcome of the meeting was one of better understanding between board and parents. The board is to ask the inspector to attend another meeting of the board and if possible the parents will be asked to attend.

All were of the opinion that conditions at the school should be improved but are not anxious to close the school because of the severe loss to the town both financially and otherwise.

WELLINGTON

Neighbors, Friends Make Farewell Gift

WELLINGTON — On Thursday evening 22 neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Young and family on Second Street, for a surprise party prior to their moving into their new home at East Wellington.

Contests provided entertainment for the first part of the evening with prizes being won by Mrs. W. Nelson, Mrs. A. Morden, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Lucy Joyce.

After the contests, Mrs. Wright read an appropriate address to the Young family and presented them with a beautiful table lamp on behalf of all those present.

Mrs. Young thanked her friends for the lovely gift and invited all to see her at their new home.

Refreshments were served by the sponsors of the party, Mrs. Barbara Wannamaker, Mrs. Doris Lavender and Mrs. Lucy Joyce.

Boiler Explodes

PINAR DEL RIO, Cuba (AP) — The main boiler of the Greek freighter Aghios Spyridon exploded Wednesday night, killing the ship's carpenter, and the vessel grounded on a reef off Cuba's northwest coast.

A Cuban navy communique said the navy launch Yemaya had taken the ship's captain, Elias Scinitis, and the 28 surviving crew members off the vessel.

Fire was reported raging out of control on the 7,214-ton ship.

Nationalist Rebellion Going On in Many Forms in Tibet; Lhasa Silent, Gloomy City

BOMBAY (CP) — A heavy silence has descended on Tibet.

Even the famed "rumor markets" along the Himalayan border are left guessing as to what is happening in the land of the thousand emerald Buddhas, but indications are that it is waning like the nationalist rebellion is going on in many forms.

While armed Khambs warriors are literally fighting with their backs to the Himalayan wall in southern Tibet, the 60,000 citizens of Lhasa, the capital city, are reported to have resorted to Gandhi-type strategy to counter Red rule.

Reports reaching India describe Lhasa as a sullen, gloomy city. Few people are seen in the streets. The citizens are reported to have embarked on a near-unanimous "passive resistance" campaign. Small strikes and slowdowns have appeared, appealing to the Buddhist sympathies of workers and withholding all kinds of co-operation from the Chinese in their efforts to clean up the rubble left in destruction which the city has suffered.

Tibetans in India believe that the Chinese are making a big effort simultaneously to "pacify" the population and weed out troublesome elements. The massive propaganda campaign has been launched to tell the people about the "benefits" of Communist rule. To demonstrate this graphically, the Chinese military command has is reported to have ordered the distribution of thousands of Chinese-type bush-shirts and pants among the people. Village heads have been told by drum-beat that fresh seeds are on the way, that the present food shortage has been created by the rebels and will end soon.

Reports suggest that the Chinese have undertaken the biggest-ever screening of the inmates of the monasteries and convents in order to "isolate" the pro-Dalai Lama elements.

Since the end of March it is reported that about 25 monasteries with a strength of more than 50,000 lamas have been investigated. Priests suspected of anti-Chinese sentiments have been either arrested or moved to safer areas in the distant north and west of the country.

The pro - Peiping Panchen Lama's role has been one of which what the Chinese press has described as "meritorious and patriotic" service in helping them to weed out trouble-makers. According to one report published in India, the Panchen Lama's 2,000-strong bodyguard force has been assigned the special task of what one New Delhi newspaper calls "lama - hunting" in southwest Tibet.

The Panchen Lama's forces are reported to have been ambushed at many centres by Khamba guerrillas. In one such ambush at Gyantse Tse Dzong, not far from the Tibetan capital, both sides are reported to have suffered heavy casualties.

One Tibetan refugee arriving in the border Kingdom of Bhutan is quoted by the correspondent of a New Delhi newspaper as saying: "The Chinese Communists are setting Tibetans against Tibetans. In the countryside the private army of the Panchen Lama has been flung into the battle against the Khambas."

A Calcutta Bengali - language newspaper's correspondent, reporting from the Himalayan border, says that he has received "eyewitness" accounts of the thoroughness with which the Chinese are "pushing communism down the throats of the gasping Tibetans."

Writes the correspondent: "Those Tibetan refugees whom I have met express the view that Peiping is really glad to be rid of the Dalai Lama, who was a stumbling block to the full-blooded communization of Tibet's land. Now that the god-king is out, say these refugees, Peiping needs no pretence of going slow or respecting the 'autonomy' of the Tibetans."

All the typical aspects of Communist government have appeared in Lhasa and the other Tibetan towns, according to reports received in India. A number of "people's courts" have been set up in Lhasa and other towns for meting out summary justice. Many favorite target is Kashodok, a lamas, merchants and the tiny educated minority which has always been a thorn in the side of the Communists.

There have been suggestions from Chinese leaders that there should be "free intermarriages between Tibetans and other Chinese." The underlying idea is believed to be that the Tibetans with the Communist Chinese press has described as the "purity" of Tibetan racial purity, under the Tibetans half - Chinese. In the opinion of Tibetans in India, this drive is doomed to failure. It is said that the number of intermarriages between the Tibetans and the Hans, as the Chinese are known in Tibet, in the last seven years is not more than a handful, and most of them involve Tibetan youths sent to Peiping for Red indoctrination.

Govt. Will Not Hold Inquiry on Insurance Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government will not yield to demands for an independent inquiry into unemployment insurance before changing its insurance legislation, informants said Thursday.

Before the industrial relations committee of the Commons, organizations of employers and employees have been pressing for such an investigation before passage of Labor Minister Starr's controversial bill amending the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Well-informed sources said Mr. Starr has been advised by experts to go along with the inquiry ideas in a mounting storm of protest but has said a firm "no."

SEE LONG DELAY

If he sticks by this stand, his measure could well have a long delay in its last stages of passage through the Commons as it has been having before the committee—and might wind up with only a piece of legislation to be passed before prorogation.

When and if it gets through the committee, the Liberals and the CCF likely will tackle it again in the House on third reading, which could take some time. It still has to go to the Senate.

The fund has shrunk in recent years close to the $500,000,000 to less than $500,000,000. The government proposes to replenish it through government and employee contributions amounting on the average to some 30 per cent.

THREATENS APPEAL

Another of the daily squabbles in the committee. Paul Martin (L—Essex East) threatened Thursday to appeal to the Commons for papers which the Progressive Conservative majority on the committee has refused to ask for.

These are the minutes of a meeting last August of the government's unemployment insurance advisory committee, which recommended against the employer - employee contributions favored boosting government contributions.

MONKEYS RIDE IN MISSILE — This Army-Jupiter missile roars aloft carrying two monkeys and several specimens of vegetable matter in the nose cone. The monkeys survived the 1,500 mile flight in the ballistic missile, were the first animals to travel through space and return alive. Ships cruising in the impact area near Antigua recovered the nose cone and monkeys. (AP Wirephoto)

Monkey Able, an American-born Rhesus, was one of two monkeys carried in the nose cone of the Jupiter-intermediate Range Ballistic Missile launched by the Army at the Atlantic Missile Range, Cape Canaveral, Fla. The missile carried bio-medical experiments in support of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's space programs. This is one of several monkeys from which Monkey Able was selected.

Trade Minister Says U.K. Action 'Welcome Step'

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill Thursday described Britain's further removal of restrictions on imports from dollar areas as "an important real welcome step."

Commenting in the Commons on the British action, announced in London by R. A. Butler, he said it is further major step towards the eliminating of restrictions on purchases of U.S. and other countries in the dollar area."

Produced in reduced imports before Sept. 1 of last year, breakfast cereals, macaroni, canned soups and vegetables, fruits, jellies and leather manufactures including footwear, domestic electric appliances, automobiles tires and tubes.

Mr. Churchill said discrimination will still remain against "quite a number of Canadian products."

Coroners Want Post Mortems

TORONTO (CP) — Coroners attending at an Ontario Medical Association panel discussion Thursday night condemned the practice of issuing death certificates without an autopsy being carried out.

Said chairman Dr. David Gemmell of Brantford: "A death certificate signed without a post mortem isn't worth the paper it's written on."

He said many Ontario coroners refuse to perform autopsies due to heart ailment when, in fact, they didn't know the cause.

"This practice has magnified slightly the statistical incidence of heart disease as the cause of death."

Eric Silk, assistant deputy attorney general, told the panel that a coroner cannot order an autopsy until an inquest has been directed. Only the attorney-general, local Crown counsel or the province's supervising coroner can order an autopsy before a coroner's inquest.

Dr. Gemmell replied that in some areas of the province the local crown attorney failed to cooperate with the coroner and would not order an autopsy.

Laotian Army Has No Desire To Tangle With Red Hordes

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The complaints by Communist China and North Viet Nam that aggression against them is being contemplated by the government of Laos can be likened to similar accusations in a elephant against a mosquito.

The charge, if true, would conflict a modern army with a fighting on 597,000,000 Chinese and 13,500,000 Vietnamese in a relatively cheerful disregard of the 300-to-1 odds. In fact, the Laotian Army is already fighting an unofficial undeclared 600 insurgent troops of the Communist Pathet Lao organization.

Since the three provinces of French Indochina went their separate and independent ways in 1955, each has followed a different path. Cambodia has steered a resultant course, Viet Nam is divided into two states, fraught Communist in the north, vigorously pro-Western in the south.

In Laos, there was prolonged guerrilla warfare between the government and the Pathet Lao faction, with the latter firmly entrenched in the northern provinces and the former maintaining tight control over the rest of the country.

WESTERN MISGIVINGS

In 1954, Western misgivings, the warring factions agreed to end the fighting, to integrate the rebel forces into the Royal Laotian Army and permit political activity by the Communist-led Patriotic Front.

Soon, intervening 18 months, the agreement died of neglect, with each side accusing the other of treachery.

More than 1,000 Pathet Lao members came out of the jungle to join the army, which disarmed them and deposited them in an intermediate camp, at first to be dealing with Western fears that they planned to set up a fifth column.

The remaining rebels, estimated at 4,000, either slipped away to their homes or stayed in their hideouts to carry on desultory actions against the government. Gradually their numbers dwindled. Meanwhile, the Patriotic Front manoeuvred itself into a position of power in a coalition that threatened to gain control of the Laotian parliament.

EFFORTS FRUSTRATED

Last January their efforts were frustrated when a pro - Western prime minister, Phoui Sananikone, was returned to power in a relatively neutral government and gave himself special powers to deal with the Communist threat and to straighten the country's finances.

There was considerable accusations that the rebels were being reinforced by the North Viet Nam government had sought American aid. Before them, China and North Viet Nam sought the return of the three-power commission of India, Canada and Poland which supervised the armistice after the Indochinese war.

Meanwhile, the government troops quietly have continued to fight their own battle against the Pathet Lao. Their latest contingent, numbering 1,200, they are well on the way to disposing of the problem without outside help.

Welcome Delegation Says Ambassador

KEMPTVILLE (CP)—Russian Ambassador Amazasp Arouhanian said Thursday he will be happy to welcome a delegation of agricultural specialists and farmers of Canada to our country."

In an address Thursday to the Canada Club of Ottawa, the Armenian-born Arouhanian recalled that two Soviet farm delegations have toured Canada, the most recent one in 1956.

He urged an increased exchange of information on agriculture between the two countries.

HEADS CROWN ZELLERBACH

VANCOUVER (CP) — George H. Gooding, 48, of San Francisco was elected president and director of Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited Thursday.

Dionne Quints Meet Quietly On Birthday

MONTREAL (CP) — The four remaining Dionne quints met briefly to celebrate their 25th birthday Thursday.

Philippe Langlois, TV technician and husband of Cecile, told reporters that his wife had arranged to meet her other sisters in Montreal for a small get-together and they exchanged small gifts.

"We have had many, many telegrams and messages from all over the world," he said.

"But only wife has not heard from the Canadian government—but that is not unusual. Among our cards is one from Cecile's mother and father. They stay out of town."

Added Mr. Langlois: "There may be a little get-together later in the week as a result of today's meeting. I do not know yet. But I will be taking my wife out to celebrate privately."

QUINTS ARE SPOILED

The quints have retreated largely from the world spotlight switched on them every marriage, birth and birthday. Their home telephones are not listed.

Their parents who live in Callander, told reporters "we cannot manage to get to Montreal for health reasons. But we have sent the quints our gifts and cards."

Cecile and Marie are neighbours. Both are married. Cecile has a son, Claude, Annette, now Mrs. Germain Allard, a son, Jean-Francois.

Yvonne, still single, is a nurse. The fifth quint, Emilie, died at the age of 20, in a rest home north of the city.

The quints can be silent in comfort. At the age of 21 each came into a $250,000 trust fund.

Anti-Coagulants Most Important Medical Tools

TORONTO (CP)—Anti - coagulants are one of the most important therapeutic tools available to physicians today, says Dr. W. Ford Connell, professor of medicine at Queen's University in Kingston.

He told the Ontario Medical Association's convention Wednesday that of 203 coronary patients treated at Kingston General Hospital, 92.2 per cent were protected against major coronary accidents by their use.

Dr. Connell said anti-coagulants, which help prevent heart attacks by preventing blood from forming clots, have been used in prolonged therapy centres around the world for about 19 years.

A rare disease known as chronic ulcerative colitis was described by W. A. Jones of Kingston General Hospital and Queen's University.

The disorder, which makes its victims appear as cherubs in childhood and sufferers in adolescence and disappears in adulthood with scarcely a trace, was first reported by Dr. Jones in 1931.

At that time he called it familial multilocular cystic disease of the jaws, but later appended it to the name cherubism.

Only about 20 cases have been reported in the world — one in Canada, he said, its cause is unknown.

Dies of Injuries

TORONTO (CP)—Henry Faide, 25, died Thursday from injuries suffered May 19 when his car collided with a truck on Queen Elizabeth Way near Port Credit.

Rates Require More Study Says Commissioner

OTTAWA (CP) — Some forthright criticism of railway financially accustomed Crowsnest Pass freight rates and other transportation matters have been expressed by a retiring member of the Board of Transport Commissioners.

While he was at it, Howard B. Chase also took a wallop in an interview at rail firemen for trying to hang on to all their jobs on diesel locomotives, an issue that resulted in two strikes on the CPR and a recent near-walkout on the CNR.

Leaving the board on superannuation at the age of 75 after serving on it for 10 years, he told a reporter about some things he could not talk about as a commissioner.

RAN LOCOMOTIVES

Mr. Chase, who used to drive a locomotive, is one of the few people a couple of years ago by saying in a speech that the decision that the West's Crow rates should be looked over carefully by the government.

As he sees it, the recent federal-provincial royal setting up the royal commission on railway transportation is "too fuzzy."

He trusts that the report urges grain moving through the West will be the 1925 parliamentary statute at pre-1900 levels.

His figure, even in the fine print, whether this commission is even allowed to look at the Crow rates," Mr. Chase said.

MUST BE TACKLED

He added: "This royal commission has to be tackled and it's not worth a damn."

On the long haul whether firemen should be used on diesels, Mr. Chase was direct:

"They certainly do not needed on freight and yard diesels generally," he said. He did add, though, there's the odd job in some yards — Toronto Junction where the firemen might be needed."

"Otherwise," said the one-time throttle - puller, "they're useless."

Think Russians Hope Elections Will Spoil West

By BRACK CURRY

GENEVA (AP)—Some Western officials believe the real Berlin crisis will come in 1961, not this year or the next.

They believe the Russians will accept some interim agreement at the Big Four foreign ministers conference that will preserve the uneasy Allied occupation of West Berlin.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in their view, hopes that elections in 1961 in the United States and West Germany will bring in new governments which will weaken the united Allied front on German issues.

Chief among the summer pilgrimage to the Big Three to get out of West Berlin as its mission is considered by these officials as primarily a probing action to test the unity of the Allies.

They stress that the Soviet leader, announcing the eventual termination to remain in the diplomatic garrisons of East Berlin. In return, he got the virtual promise of the summit meeting he apparently wants so badly.

A new phase of Soviet probing for Allied weaknesses will start taking place in the ministers conference, these officials say. But they also believe Premier Khrushchev Andrei Gromyko has coilled rope enough for the Communist-surrounded city.

Like the Russians, according to this view, will settle for some temporary arrangement rather than slice off little of the West's position in Berlin.

Hundreds Killed Or Injured in Train Accident

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters)—Hundreds of persons were reported killed or injured when a crowded passenger train into a ravine in the East Priangan regency of West Java, Antara news agency reported today.

Antara said the accident was the worst in Indonesian railway history.

A communications ministry communique said the accident occurred on May 26 at Bondongan.

A coupling between the engine and the rest of the train snapped and passenger cars left the rail and hurtled into a ravine.

Antara quoted the communique as saying "the number of persons killed and wounded in the accident is very great."

The agency said the reports placed the total as "running into

High Blood Pressure Disease Of Civilization and More Common in North America

TORONTO (CP) — Medical heads insurance companies and corporation of poorly-trained doctors," a noted United States surgeon says.

Another highlight of the fourth day of the Ontario Medical Association convention Thursday, was a series of lectures on high blood pressure.

Dr. Herman A. Pearse, professor of surgery at the University of Rochester (N. Y.) medical school in a luncheon address to OMA members said that in the U.S. medical health insurance is having clinic patients into private patients and creating a serious problem for the medical profession.

CITES DIFFICULTIES

"In so doing, the number of clinic patients available for necessary surgical demonstrations is being greatly depleted to the detriment of medical school students research."

Dr. Pearse said he felt it was "highly dishonest" for doctors to allow their private patients to be used for examination and teaching methods by medical students.

Dr. Ansel Brunk, chairman of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission said the commission was working on the problem as regards Ontario difficulties.

EXPERTS SPEAK

Dr. Hans H. M. Morrow, specialists in cardiology at Toronto General Hospital and Sunnybrook Hospital said high blood pressure — hypertension — is the cause of about 40 per cent of aging. Also there was "very little relationship of hypertension to persons in a particular field of business."

Dr. C. Collins, assistant professor of surgery at the University of Toronto said that "High blood pressure is a disease of civilization and is more common in North America than in India or China." He estimated the disease would run into the course of death of between 10 and 20 per cent of the Canadian population."

SUGGESTS CONFLICTS

Professor Oswald Hall, University of Toronto sociologist, said there is increasing conflict over problems faced by doctors who become administrators.

Problems included expansion of hospitals and medical fields, and the wide range of specialized medicine, Dr. Hall said.

CRITICIZES PILLS

Dr. R. J. Imrie, head of the poison control centre at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto asked pharmaceutical manufacturers to discontinue manufacturing brightly - colored pills.

Dr. Imrie said it had been found that children often mistake them for candy," he said.

Twelve Firms Invited to Bid On Stations

TORONTO (CP) — Britain's further relaxation of import controls should offer interesting new opportunities for Canada to produce any sudden flood of new imports from Canada, a spokesman for the Canadian Manufacturers' Association said Thursday.

Effects of the relaxations would not be harmful to Canadian manufacturers had an opportunity to test their products in the market for acceptability and competitive prices.

Shortage Critical

OTTAWA (CP)—The shortage of stenographers in the federal civil service is so critical that 1,000 jobs could not get jobs the very day they apply.

Instead of holding periodic competitions for stenographic jobs, the Civil Service Commission holds a "continuous competition," commissioner Paul Pelletier told the Commons estimates committee Thursday.

A girl who walks in off the street can get a job almost immediately and if she passes "gets the job that afternoon."

No Details

WENDOVER, Ont. (CP)—Robert John Lee, 54, of nearby Curran, was killed Thursday night when two cars collided head-on here on the trans-Canada highway. No details were available.

Wendover is about 90 miles

House Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes confirmed in the Commons Thursday that the destroyer Nootka was dispatched from Saint John, N.B., Wednesday to investigate an apparently reliable report of an unidentified submarine being sighted off the east coast. He did not give the result of the search but indicated it was negative.

Consideration still is being given by the federal government to the question of disallowance of Newfoundland's contentious labor legislation, Prime Minister Diefenbaker stated. The federal government has a year to disallow any provincial bill against which it decides to take such drastic action.

In a drive to wind up sessional business, the Commons sat till longer hours. Starting next Wednesday, morning sittings from 11 a.m. EDT to 1 p.m. will be added to the Wednesday and Thursday schedules and the House will also begin Friday night sittings, from 10 to 12. This will add six hours to the Commons work week, which now totals 25½ hours.

Informants said Thursday night the government is unlikely to proceed with Prime Minister Diefenbaker's bill of rights at this session of Parliament. They said the government is aiming at closing the session by the end of June and that it feels now there would not be enough time to give the bill full consideration and debate.

Indian Donates Skins to Great White Mother

NORTH BAY (CP) — Gabriel Anashinabi, 78-year-old patriach of the Nipissing Indian reserve, brought in two bear skins Wednesday for new ceremonial hats for Buckingham Palace guards.

"I hunted them for the Great White Mother," he said. The bigger skin measures 70 by 72 inches.

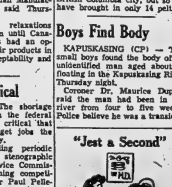
He added that he had killed 100 bears in his lifetime.

Gabriel could have sold the skins for $125 to $175 each to dealers here but preferred to donate them for the guards.

Mayor Leo Del Villano of Timmins started the bear hunt some time ago after he read reports the gaurdsmen's hats were getting shabby. He promised to provide enough skins to re-hat the guards. The ceremonial count now is about 25 skins.

Tuesday a 150-pound bear was shot near Kirkland Lake by two hunters and its skin was added to the rapidly growing pile to be sent to England.

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) With hunters here lagging behind expectations, to see can supply the most bearskins to outfit Buckingham Palace guards with new hats, it is learned a search party have launched an all - out bear hunt.



Fifteen Jayexes now are combing the bush near their northern British Columbia city, but so far have brought in only 14 pelts.

Boys Find Body

KAPUSKASING (CP) — Two small boys found the body of an unidentified man aged about 50 floating in the Kapuskasing River Thursday night.

Coroner Dr. Maurice Dupont said the man had been in the river from four to five weeks. Police believe he was a transient.

STIRLING

9th Consecutive Year of Sacred Praise Festival Has Many Entrants

By MRS. PETER MacMULLEN

MORNING SESSION

The Stirling Festival of Sacred Praise convened on Monday in St. Paul's United Church, in Stirling, for the ninth consecutive year, with approximately 200 entrants in the music competition.

A large number of music supervisors, school teachers, mothers, relatives and friends were in attendance at the various sessions from as far away as Napanee, Picton, Belleville, Trenton and other nearby points.

The secretary, Mrs. Albert Fraser, was in charge of the registration which began at 8.45 a.m. Monday and continued through five sessions.

The church was decorated with a lovely basket of white chrysanthemums, interspersed with many-colored tulips.

The various trophies and shields were on display in the Sunday School room and these will be presented at the "Stars of the Festival Concert."

ADJUDICATOR

The Reverend Paul B. Field, Bachelor of Music, Islington, B.A., was the adjudicator for the music and singing classes.

The Reverend A. Packman, pastor of St. Paul's Carmel Church, conducted the opening devotional. Mrs. Packman and Mrs. T. W. Speers of Trenton, and Mrs. Paul Field, Islington, presented the silver and bronze awards. The secretaries were: Mrs. George Carlisle, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Robert Patterson, and their assistants.

At nine o'clock class No. 2 was scheduled and 15 boys and girls under eight years sang "Can a Little Child Like Me," with the gold medallist, Philip Spencer, of Trenton, (90); silver medal, with two tying, with 86 points each, Wayne Kemp, of Frankford, and Billy Pierson, of Picton. Bronze medallist, Sharlene Hughes, Frankford (84). Others who won honor awards of 83, 82 and 81, respectively, were: Nancy Johnson, Stirling; Murray Whitmore, Corbyville, and Paul Scott of Frankford.

Class 27: piano solo, under 16 years, "Little Dance" with ten competing; gold, Isabel Williamson, Trenton (91); silver, Teddy Mcleod, Codrington (88); bronze, Claire Smithrim, Trenton (86); honors went to Patricia Rose, Belleville (84); Sandra Ireland, Trenton (83); Sheila Dymond, Trenton (81).

Class 10: piano solo under 12 years, "Humpty Dumpty," by Darwin; gold, Gordon Whitely, Picton (90); silver, Diane Thompson, Trenton (89); bronze, Susan Brown, Trenton (88); and honors to Dianne Francis, Stirling, and Warren Smith, Trenton, each with 83 points.

PIANO SOLO - 14 YEARS

Class 16: piano solo under 14 years: "Allegro," gold medal, two contestants, each with 92 points, Jane Bowen, Wadsworth and Isabel Williamson, of Trenton. There were two silver awards of 91 points each, Lois Morton of Wellman's, Rawdon, and Nellie McColl of Wooler. Two bronze awards with 90 points each, Margaret Fleischer and Norma Cohen, both of Trenton, Myrna Sine, Frankford; Karen Sheppard, Trenton and Nancy Williams, Belleville, had 89 points each. Three had 88 points, Shirley Potts, Mount Pleasant-Rawdon; Janet Fletcher, Rawdon circuit, and Barbara Steinburg, Trenton.

Those receiving 87 points were: Sandra Wannamaker, St. Paul's, Stirling and Wilma Baker, of Trenton. Nancy Hicks, Trenton and Anne Beach of Frankford, received 86, and 85 points, respectively.

Class 7: solo, boys' or chapel voices, "All Glory, Land and Honor"; gold, Bill McDonald, of Trenton, 92 points; silver, Fred McAdam, Mount Pleasant-Rawdon, 90 points, and bronze, Chris Spencer, and Stephen Wightman, both of Trenton with 89 points.

OTHER AWARDS

Other awards included Barry Pyear, Frankford; Hames Faschduck, of Trenton, with 87 points each; Brian Morgan, Frankford, 85; Eric Lawson, Wooler and David Julian, Corbyville; Sid Paul Corbyville, Stirling and Carl Green, Plainfield, 81 points each.

This concluded the morning session.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session opened with class No. 3 when 29 girls under 19 years of age sang "When Morning Gilds the Skies".

Gold medallist was Katherine Smitarin, Trenton, with 92 points. Jean Sharpe, Mount Pleasant Rawdon and Susan Chase, Frankford, tied for the silver awards with 91 points each. Sherrill Taylor, Belleville, and Anne Beach, Frankford, tied with 90 points each for the bronze medals.

Eight others were given honor marks as follows: 85 points — Mary Williamson, Trenton and Raelene Rowe, Frankford; 84 points — Sharon Wright, Trenton; 83 points — Carolyn Johnson, Mount Pleasant Rawdon, Barbara Girdwood, Frankford, and Sue Ann Bariedo, St. Paul's, Stirling; 81 points — Eleanor Sherrit, Stirling; 80 points — Gale Dawson, Plainfield.

There were three entries in the class No. 12 Sunday School solo competition, rural only. The awards were won as follows: gold award, 91 points, Mount Pleasant Rawdon Sunday School choir; silver, 86 points, Wellman's Rawdon Sunday School choir; bronze, 82 points, Zion-Frankford Sunday School choir. This class sang "This Is My Father's World."

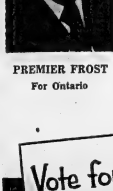
Class No. 28, soprano solo, Lord Correct Me," with five contestants. The awards were won as follows: gold, Linda Wellman, Roseview; (92); silver, Noreen Brooks, Belleville (91); honors, Betty Else, Belleville (90). Honor awards went to Sandra Allen, Lonadale (89) and Donna Blue, Belleville (88).

Class No. 29, contralto solo: "Consider In the Lord," Mendelssohn. Gold award was won by Bonnie Bowe, Frankford. Two awards were won as follows: gold, Marilyn Eastcott, Belleville; silver, Lorraine St. Pierre, Belleville, and bronze, Donald Heath, Bethel-Rawdon. As the competition was so difficult to adjudicate, several were asked to repeat a verse of their selections. The adjudications closed at 6 p.m. Tuesday evening.



A partial list of accompanists included: H. Keefer, Mrs. Harry Harrison Mrs. Craig Watson, Mrs. Harold Elliott, Mrs. Robert Sanderson, Mr. R. A. Kendall, Mr. Egerton Boyce, Fraser, was a very busy pet-son and she was assisted by members of the Festival committee in compiling the results for the final report at the Stars of the Festival Concert, Tuesday evening.

The adjudications secretaries for Tuesday were Meadames Patterson, Brown, and Brasford. Mrs. Thorn Speer, Trenton, and Mrs. A. Parkman, presented the silver and bronze medals at the close of each adjudication.

This closed a very successful two days of Festival adjudication.

Sunday School Lesson

Great Souls Have Bad Days

By ROY L. SMITH

It is not the little people only who have big troubles. Some of the greatest souls among us suffer from the worst of days. But it rarely happens that the common people ever know anything about the restless nights through which their leaders live.

There is an Old Testament story of a king which illustrates the principle. At one time in the little nation's history the defenders of the capital were reduced to desperation. Their arms were weary and wounded, the walls of the city were breached and the situation had every appearance of desperation.

In that moment their king moved about among them arrayed in his royal robes, apparently unscathed. And then there was much murmuring among the desperate defenders. But suddenly something happened which proved more than the king could endure, and tearing his royal robes as a symbol of his heartbreak, the people discovered that under his regal robes he was wearing a hairshirt—one of those torturing garments that would not allow him to rest either day or night. All unknown to them, he had worn the terrible garment throughout the seige that he might never be allowed to forget their sufferings. When the people saw the hairshirt, they saw his great heart of their king.

We like to think of prophets on mountain tops, on the walls of the city, at the altars in the temple, or riding in triumph at the head of the forces of righteousness. But the truth is that they are sometimes to be found in caves. Like Elijah who, tortured by a vast sense of tendency, took refuge in a hideout, there are times in the lives of even the bravest when it seems that the battle is lost and that all hope is gone.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 31: "Elijah, God's Warrior". 1 Kings 18:39 hrough 19:21.

Regardless of the politics of the party in the White House, the leaders in the nation have a right to expect the prayers of the people. The problems of government in such an hour are such that only a united nation, under God, can meet the issues and survive.

CONCERN OF FEAR

There is something about the spirit of fear that is apt to make us cowardly. We assume that all criticism is aimed at us, that everyone is thinking about us that we are the most important people on earth.

Elijah was not believe that anyone in the kingdom had suffered as he had. And while it must be admitted that he was the key to the situation, it was a part of the prophet's conceit that he believed the cause was lost if he were lost.

A young preacher, having much trouble with his congregation, consulted a veteran pastor. "The cause is the thing", the old man said. "Don't worry about yourself. I noticed many years ago that when I stuck my finger into a bucket of water and then pulled it out, it left a very small hole."

Every man is entitled to a certain amount of self-respect, and God pity the man who cannot believe in himself. But some of us need to learn the simple truth that the cause may triumph even though we are not elected; righteousness may prevail, even though we do not march at the head of the procession.

Elijah was in the cave, but God was still out on the field directing the forces of righteousness.

The pastor of a large church in the west who found himself under continual harassment, because of the demands on his time, finally bought a little shack up in the mountains, to which he could repair for the purpose of recomposing his soul. A woman of the congregation, afraid of him one day, "I can always tell when he has been up on his mountain, and I can often sense the fact that he needs to go up there."

There is a ministry of silence to which all of us need to expose ourselves from time to time. The crowd exerts a tall from all of us — so heavy a toll that there is no recovery except in silence. He only is strong who is poised, and when poise has gone it is time to go to the mountain.

It is not only our leaders, but also the masses who need quiet. We are living in a period of distraction. Trying to talk in a voice above the noise of the jukebox, one man said. "Another man's nickel has started it. If we could only stop it, 50 cents would be a low price for just ten minutes of silence."

Pop, Mom, Kids Find New Way To Have Fun

Families are learning to have their fun together. It used to be that dad disappeared with his friends over the weekend while mom and the kids were resigned to remain at home. Now, the entire family have discovered the tremendous pleasure to be found in boating together.

Boating goes with camping. There are dozens of lakes within driving distance of Belleville just waiting to be explored on any weekend — and inexpensive trailers let you take your boat where ever you can drive your car. Fishing . . . water skiing . . . or just exploring all add up to hours of summer pleasure for all the family from the youngest to the oldest members.

Here is a sport in which the whole family can participate completely and—get the cost is reasonable. At Booth Marina, 32 Scott Street St. Belleville, you can buy a good used boat, motor and trailer on even a limited budget. There's no down payment required and only small weekly payments for an entire summer of fun. We're open evenings 'til nine, so drop in and talk it over.

Bobcats Struck, Purred Away Lea But Oozed 11-10 Win From Trent

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Bobcats survived a six-run eighth inning by the Trenton Garrette at Bayshore park last night to squeeze out an 11-10 victory and run their undefeated string in the Belleville and District Softball League to three games.

Trenton, trailing the powerhitting Bobcats 11-4 going into the eighth frame, took advantage of errors, walks and a couple of scratch hits to pull within one run before accepting their third loss in as many starts.

It took a strong relief chore by Bobby Green, taking over from Lou Smirke in the eighth, to save the win for the Bobcats. And he too had trouble as the 'Cats appeared to be trying to give back some of the runs, by loose play.

Smirke issued a free pass to open the bottom of the eighth. Crawford's error and Ron Smith's scratch single off Smirke's finger-tips loaded the bases with none out. Smirke walked the next two batters to force in the first run.

Opposing pitcher Howard Cole plasted two more with a double and Green replaced Smirke with the score 11-8, two on and two down. Austin grounded to third and Laminade threw home with Cousins touching the base instead of the runner, thinking that the bases were still loaded. Second baker Green tossed third strikes by two batters only to fire a wild pitch allowing Cole to score Trenton's tenth marker. Mitts drew his second walk of the inning and a popout ended it with two on base.

Smirke received credit for the win. He gave up all nine hits while fanning six and issuing four. Green whiffed three and walked two during the eighth and ninth frames.

Starter Cord Maroney, with two runs and nine hits against him, was the loser in five innings pitched. He struck out two and walked three. Howard Cole threw two-hit ball over the first five frames, giving up one run, tripping three on strikes and passing one. He two batters.

Belleville scored three in the second to open the scoring. Laminade singled, Cousins doubled and Fiori Goegan's liner to centre bounced by the fielder for a three-run homer.

Trenton got four in the third on Don Cole's infield hit, a walk, doubles by Laurance and Burns and Billy Mitts' triple. The lead was short-lived however as the Cole boys did a trio in the fourth. Goegan walked and Casey singled to left. Ted Batchelor's fly plating one run to tie. "Wiener" Brown drove a long bomb run to left field for a 6-4 lead.

Bobcats tied it four in the fifth on three errors, a walk and safeties by Cousins and Smirke plus Batchelor's sacrifice's choice. That was all for Maroney. Cole gave up a run in the seventh on hits by Casey and Brown, a hit batter and a walk.

"Wiener" Brown slammed his circuit blast and got credit for pace the Bobcat attack. Lou Smirke and Earl Cousins had a double and single apiece while Casey two singles while Goegan homered and J. P. Laminade singled.

Bobby Burns with a double and single led Trenton while Billy Mitts tripled and Doug Alexander and Howard Cole doubled. Base knocks went to Guy Austin, Ron Smith, Bill Jones and Don Cole singled.

City Commercials Softball League

Plane's Construction came from behind twice last night with a couple of three-run innings to defeat Reed-Sportsmen 6-4 in a City Commercial Softball League affair.

Meed - Sportsmen collected single runs in the first, third and fifth to lead 3-2 but Plane's tied the count in the bottom of the fifth. The latter made it 4-3 in the top of the sixth but once again Reed potted three for the 6-4 win. A bad error in each of the innings hurt the losers.

Levque hurled for Plane's and gave up six hits over six innings. He whiffed nine and walked one batter. Young went the route for the losers, tagged for five hits while fanning eight and walking five.

Boomhower starred for Plane's with two hits including a great running catch in left in the fifth inning. He end up in CNRA Park strength, still chasing the ball. Plane, Empey and Dillon also had two hits.

E. Moynes had two hits in defeat with one each for Muirhead, Thompson, Wordand Vandervoort.

Bob Friend Wins First in 8 As Bucs Shut Out Milwaukee; Tribe Tamed, Yanks Blanked

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Bob Friend, who has been tagged with "good-bess that's over" boss" label, has been snake bit for six scoreless innings.

Such was the relief of Bob Friend Thursday as he recorded his first pitching victory of the National League season for Pittsburgh Pirates. He had suffered seven straight defeats — a sad indictment for the husky right-hander who chalked up 22 victories against 14 setbacks last season.

Friend tossed a four-hitter that gave the Pirates a 3-0 win over the league - leading Milwaukee Braves.

In salvaging the final game of the series that opened with Harvey Haddix pitching 12 perfect innings last Tuesday night, the Pirates maintained third place, 4½ games behind the Braves. They also kept Milwaukee's lead to two games over San Francisco Giants, who beat St. Louis Cardinals 5-4.

FOURTH POSTED DROP

Chicago Cubs battled from behind to beat Los Angeles Dodgers 7-5 in the ninth inning, sinking the Dodgers into a fourth last-place Philadelphia Phillies, who spoiled Cincinnati's bid to split a second division by beating the Reds 4-3.

Friend was backed by four Pirate blasts and had to pitch out of a jam in the fourth inning to preserve the shutout.

Two singles in the fifth inning by Jay (2-2), who had a one-hitter until the ninth single by Dee and Dick Groat, a walk and Bill Mazeroski's double scored the first two runs.

Daley drove in three runs for the Athletics in their victory over Detroit Tigers. Bill Tuttle also drove in three runs, two with his third homer, as the Cards pounded the hurlers for 14 hits.

SINGLES ONLY

Wilhelm (7-0) gave up nothing but singles while striking out six and walking five. The Orioles scored twice in the first inning against loser Ralph Terry (2-5). Gene Woodling's sacrifice fly drove home for the Orioles, who had six hits off Terry and Bobby Shantz.

All of the runs were unearned as Washington won the Red Sox breaking a 1-1 tie on Vic Wertz' two-run homer in the eighth after a two-out error. Pete Ramos (1-1) was the loser, although giving up just four hits in a ninth-inning stint with Sullivan (2-3).

Johnson, Valdez Fight Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Nino Valdez, an old familiar face in the heavyweight ranks, will put young Alonzo Johnson of Pittsburgh to the test tonight in the event tonight. It will be the first Madison Square Garden main event fight for Valdez.

On the strength of experience gained in 26 pro fights dating back to 1951, Valdez is favored at 2-1 or better. However, the giant Cuban suffers occasional distressing lapses that prompt screams of anguish from his manager, Bobby Gleason.

Johnson has won 11 straight and owns a 15-1 record.

Leafs Shade Richmond 6-5; Royals Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals are hurting today down in the International League's cellar — and the pangs came from a fellow-countryman.

Tom Burgess, a London, Ont., native, did them in Thursday night as Columbus Jets edged the Royals 3-2. Toronto defeated Richmond 6-5 in the only other game scheduled.

Burgess, in his sixth IL campaign, drove in all three Columbus runs with a two-run, eighth inning homer, and a run-scoring double in the fourth. He also had a single.

Burgess, who came to Columbus from Rochester Red Wings during the off-season, has a reputation for being a "sticker." He batted .278 for the Rochester last year, and led the team in homers with 19. His best year was 1953 when he batted .346 for Rochester.

THREE TIED FOR SECOND

His homer was No. 5 this season and helped Joe Gibbon to his fourth victory in seven decisions. Ed Rakow (2-3) lost. The victory boosted Columbus into a three-way tie for second place with Rochester and Buffalo, a half game behind Miami.

Darrell Johnson's failure to wait until pinchhitter Wilmer Shantz' by ball was caught before trying to score from third base cost Richmond the game. His run would have tied the score in the ninth inning.

Richmond came from a 6-3 deficit in the ninth on two runs on four consecutive walks and an infield single.

Frank Leja hit a solo homer for Richmond while Tim Thompson had two singles. Toronto's Jim Johnson (3-4) was the winner and Ed Dick (2-1) lost.

'Free' China Tossed Out Of Olympics

MUNICH, Germany (AP)— Nationalist China was kicked out of the International Olympic Committee Thursday because the federation's name for all of China, and almost immediately the cold war department in Washington cautiously censured the IOC for its action.

The watchdog, who occupy only the island of Formosa (Taiwan) still keep the door open for re-admission as the Taiwan Olympic Committee or some similar name.

The Communist Chinese had cut the IOC earlier, because the committee had failed to oust the Nationalists. The reds were told they could regain their IOC berth as soon as they joined the international federations controlling five different sports, a basic IOC requirement.

The action closed the current IOC session early, because it will meet again next February in San Francisco, following the winter games in Squaw Valley, California.

At Washington, department press officer, Lincoln White, said the department believes such a political decision on the part of the committee "would be totally inconsistent with its non-political traditions."

The committee is headed by an American, Avery Brundage.

Imlach, Rocket To Lunch With Queen

TORONTO (CP) — George Punch' Imlach, manager-coach of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has been invited by the Queen to a private luncheon aboard the royal yacht Britannia in Toronto harbor June 29.

He will represent the Toronto area's sporting fraternity at the luncheon which will include a representative 50 guests.

It will be similar to a formal dinner scheduled for Ottawa which Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens will attend.

Imlach added coaching to his duties as manager half way through last season when he led his team from last place into the Stanley Cup final.

Indianapolis Race Drivers To Use Old-Fashioned Start

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Officials of the Indianapolis motor speedway and United States Auto Club today called together the 33 drivers in Thursday's 500-mile auto race to establish the "old-fashioned" start.

The traditional formation will be retained after two hectic and costly prologues to the world's richest auto contest.

Under the old system, the 33 cars were lined up at the starting line with dead engines. Then the engines were started and the racers slowly followed the pace car, until they were in proper position. If the alignment was good, the race was on when they hit the starting line.

Saturday there will be an extra lap—two in all.

PITS MOVED BACK

A car plunged into the pits in the 1956 race, badly injuring a crew member. The speedway then moved the pits away from the track edge and into the infield, separated from the track by a concrete wall and an access strip.

Speedway cars do not have safety-starters and it was thought the problem of moving portable starters off the track would make the old start impractical. For two years, the cars have stayed in the pits, with drivers expected to drive onto the track and take positions behind the moving pace car.

Two years ago, two cars tangled last year.

Bobcats Struck, Purred Away Lead But Oozed 11-10 Win From Trenton

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Bobcats survived a six-run eighth inning by the Trenton Garretts at Bayshore park last night to squeeze out an 11-10 victory and run their undefeated string in the Belleville and District Softball League to three games.

Trenton, trailing the power-hitting Bobcats 11-4 going into the eighth frame, took advantage of errors, walks and a couple of scratch hits to pull within one run before accepting their third loss in as many starts.

It was a strong relief chore by Bobby Green, taking over from Lou Sarnke in the eighth, to save the win for the Bobcats. And he too had trouble as the Cats appeared to be trying to give back some of the runs, by loose play.

Sarnke issued a free pass to open the bottom of the eighth. Crawford's error and Ron Smith's scratch single off Sarnke's finger-tips loaded the bases with none out. Sarnke walked the next two batters to force in as many runs.

Opposing pitcher Howard Cole plated two more with a double and Green replaced Sarnke with the score 13-8, two on and none down. Austin grounded to Smith and Lamirande threw home with Cousins touching the base instead of the runner, thinking that the bases were still loaded. Seconds later Green teased third strikes by two batters only to fire a wild pitch allowing Cole to score Trenton's tenth marker. Mitts drew his second walk of the inning but a popout ended it with two on base.

Sarnke received credit for the win. He gave up all nine hits while fanning six and passing four. Green whiffed three and walked two during the eighth and ninth frames.

Starter Gord Maroney, with ten runs and nine hits against him, was the loser in five innings pitched. He struck out two and walked three. Howard Cole threw the two-hit ball over the last four frames, giving up one run, slipping three on strikes and passing one. He hit two batters.

Belleville scored three in the second to open the scoring. Lamirande singled, Cousins doubled and Paul Goegan's liner to centre bounced by the fielder for a three-run homer.

Trenton got four in the third on Don Cole's infield hit, a walk, doubles by Alexander and Burns and Billy Mitts' triple. The lead was short-lived however as the Cats netted a trio in the fourth. Goegan walked and Casey singled with Ted Batchelor's fly plating one run to tie. "Wiener" Brown drove a long home run to left field for a 6-4 lead.

Bobcats scored four in the fifth on three errors, a walk and safeties by Cousins and Sarnke plus Batchelor's fielder's choice. That was all for Maroney. Cole gave up a run in the seventh on hits by Casey and Brown, a hit batter and a walk.

"Wiener" Brown slammed his circuit blast and two singles to pace the Bobcat attack. Lou Sarnke and Earl Cousins had a double and single and John Casey two singles while Goegan homered and J. P. Lamirande singled.

Bobby Burns with a double and single led Trenton while Billy Mitts tripled and Doug Alexander and Howard Cole doubled. Base knocks went to Guy Austin, Ron Smith, Bill Jones and Don Cole singled.

City Commercial Softball League

Plane's Construction came from behind twice last night with a couple of three-run innings to defeat Mead-Sportsmen 6-4 in a City Commercial Softball League affair.

Mead – Sportsmen scored single runs in the first, third and fifth to lead 3-0 while Plane's tied the count in the bottom of the fifth. The losers made it 4-3 in the top of the sixth but once again Plane's posted three for the 6-4 score. A bad error in each of the big innings hurt the losers.

Levque hurled for Plane's and gave up eight hits over the distance. He whiffed two and walked one batter. Young-Young went the route for the losers, lagged for five hits while fanning eight and walking a pair.

Boomhower starred for Plane's with two hits and a pair running catch in left field which saw him make over in the CNRA Park stream, still clutching the ball. Ron Emery also outrid also hit safely.

Mike Negreas had two hits in defeat with one each for Bill Muirhead, Thompson, Worsley and Vanderveerde.

KNUCKLES RAPPED

LONDON (CP)—Montreal-born Eddie Gray, joint-voted outside right for Norwich City in the Third Division club's drive to the Football Association Cup semi-final last March, has been given a rap on the knuckles by the FA's disciplinary committee. It censured and warned "for making an unpalliemarily remark to the referee" at the end of a Third Division match with Swindon Town April 25.

Cage Champs Won't Play in Pan-American

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Southern Alberta Chinooks, Canadian senior men's basketball champions, have decided not to attend in their bid to carve out a way in the manner in which the Canadian representatives to the Pan - American Games are chosen.

Chinooks, in a telegram from Al Irwin of Montreal, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, were given until Thursday to take the CABA's terms of organization or step aside for another club. They chose to step aside.

Chinooks had contended they were entitled to have a say in who should be picked to the team, both from their roster and from across Canada. The CABA would not accept this request.

In their reply to Irwin, the Chinook executive expressed hope that the rift will not affect the selection of Chinook players when another Canadian team is picked to play at the games in August.

Petes Trounce Brampton 13-7

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—The Petes trounced Brampton 13-7 Thursday night to take the lead in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series with two wins in the three tries.

The game was rugged from the start, Bob Pulford of Brampton Excelsiors and Carl Brioux of the Peterborough club drawing majors and match penalties for fighting and continuing to fight after the initial brawl was broken up.

Rock Bailey hit for three Peterborough tallies, Lou Nickle and Bob Curtis for two each. Good Hand, Larry Ferguson, Fresh Farley, Cy Coombes, Paul Parnell and Bobby Allan sank one each.

Bill McLaughlin and Bill Castator scored two goals each for Brampton. Singles from Clark Pulford, Bert Nustell and Louis Riel.

Wins British Women's Title In Playoff

ASCOT, England (CP)—Elizabeth Price won the last two holes in regular play to tie and then went on to win the British women's amateur golf championship in the first extra hole Thursday.

The 36-year-old veteran, twice a runner-up, appeared to have lost the match to Scotland's young star, Belle McCorkindale, with two holes to play in the 36-hole final.

But the 22-year-old Miss McCorkindale sliced into a patch of heather on the 35th, giving Miss Price a chance to cut her deficit to one hole. On the decisive 36th, Miss McCorkindale hit into a bunker and the match was tied.

On the 37th, the Scottish international dove to the edge of a wood, partly recovered, but then hit her third shot into a deep ditch. She was unable to play it out, and had to take a penalty. Meanwhile Miss Price was battling out to win the match.

Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, winner in 1953, was eliminated in the first round and six other Canadians fell during the tournament. Rae Milligan, 23, from Calgary, was the last to go, reaching the quarter-finals.

Pan Trials Pushed Ahead

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Pan - American track and field trials, originally set for Winnipeg July 24 and 25, have been pushed forward one week.

Jim Daly of Winnipeg, chairman of the Manitoba committee, said today the new dates of July 17 and 18 were set so the meet wouldn't conflict with the Royal Visit to Winnipeg.

The decathlon part of the trials will be held July 24 and 25. It was originally scheduled a week earlier.

Adams Will Spend $100,000 On Red Wings

DETROIT (AP) — Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings' management is ready to spend a total of $100,000 in the National Hockey League draft as a start toward rebuilding the club.

The Wings finished last in the 1958-59 season.

The NHL meeting will be held June 8, 9, 10 in Montreal with draft action on the final day.

"Detroit gets two of the first three choices in the draft because we finished last in the 1958-59 season," Adams said. "We get the first and third choices, will probably have New York getting the second and fourth choices."

Adams said "some spare change" is a lot of possibilities." Adams said. "We might acquire players to use as trading material."

Bruins, Rangers Back From European Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers and Boston Bruins are back from their European training camps and Milt Schmidt of Boston and Muzz Patrick of New York called it an artistic success but a financial failure.

"I know that the promoter lost money," Patrick said Thursday. "The prices were too high. In most cases they were $4 and $5."

"However, the promoter (Othmar Delton of Switzerland) invited us to come back next year and I think we'd be interested in going over again. I suggested that to get better crowds we should play exhibition games of the European national teams."

Rangers won 11 of the 21 games. Three ended in ties.

"Most of the games were as hard fought as those we play in the National Hockey League," said Patrick. "There were some good fights and our Eddie Shack took on Fern Flaman of Boston in a real rough one. And both coaches, Phil Watson of New York and Milt Schmidt of Boston yelled and waved heck with referee Red Storey many times.

"I feel that we may have come up with a good, frontline player in Bill Sweeney. He was with our Buffalo club last year and as far as I'm concerned he has got himself a job with us. He played very well."

Sweeney, a centre who is native of Guelph, broke into professional hockey with the AHL Providence Reds two years ago. He was an amateur with Guelph Biltmores of the OHA junior A series.

Peace Quietens Fight Front, Bout Will Be Held in Gotham

NEW YORK (AP)—Peace, at last, has settled on the troubled front between Challenger Johnston heavyweight title fight promotion.

How long the peace treaty will remain in effect, considering the volatile characters involved, remains to be seen.

Manager Cus D'Amato says his champion positively will risk his crown against Johansson, the undefeated challenger from Sweden, at Yankee Stadium June 26.

The word from the wandering, maybe orbiting manager, was delivered personally by messenger to news offices Thursday afternoon. The mysterious manager had disappeared from his home and usual haunts for about 24 hours after promoter Bill Rossenshon had blasted him in the newspapers and on radio and television.

Rosenshon had charged that D'Amato told him he was thinking of moving the fight out of New York. The manager was to appear at the New York Athletic Commission's action in rejecting luncheonette owner Harry Davidow's application to become the "10 per cent" manager of Johansson.

ACCEPTS DECISION

"I feel that the commission acted perspicuously, but in the public interest I feel obliged to abide by this decision," said D'Amato in his two-page statement.

"At no time did I state that the fight would be held elsewhere than in New York," D'Amato said.

"I'm happy it's all settled," said Johansson at his Grossingar, N.Y., training camp.

"Cus does the talking and the business," said the poker-faced Patterson at his Chatham, N.J., camp. "I'll do the fighting."

Then he gave a sparmate a clop on the ear to prove his point.

Three Americans Briton Left In Amateur

SANDWICH, England (CP)—A tall, veteran Englishman was Britain's last hope today of preventing an all-American final in the British men's amateur golf championship.

Three Americans swept through two rounds Thursday to join Guy Wolstenholme, current English amateur champion, in today's 36-hole semi-final.

Another two rounds are scheduled for Saturday to determine the champion.

Wolstenholme, who stands six feet, four inches, tees off in today's first match against 21-year-old Deane Beman, a member of the victorious U.S. Walker Cup team. Two Americans — Walker Cupper Bill Hyndman and Lieut. Bob Magee—face each other in the second semi-final.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester, Minn.—Jimmy Hegerle, 165, St. Paul, stopped Jim Sargent, 161, Peoria, Ariz., three rounds.

Richmond, Calif.—Chico Santos, 137, Portugal, stopped Jimmy Smith, 137, Oakland, Calif., 3.

AT THE McCARTHY — Juanita Moore comforts Lana Turner when the latter loses her first chance at a stage role in "Imitation of Life." The modern version of Fannie Hurst's challenging novel also stars John Gavin, Sandra Dee, Susan Kohner, Dan O'Herlihy, Robert Alda and Mahalia Jackson. In color, the Universal-International production is now showing at both the Odeon McCarthy Theatre and the Belleville Drive-In Theatre.

Realistic Set for "Al Capone"

Among the spectacular sets built for Allied Artists' "Al Capone," the story of Chicago's gangland of the 1920's, starring Rod Steiger, Fay Spain and Martin Balsam, which opens at the Park, Belleville, and Century, Trenton, was a replica of the Randolph Street underpass in Chicago during the nineteen-twenties.

Art director Hilyard Brown supervised construction of the gigantic set for the Rod Steiger starring picture. It finally occupied parts of all Stages 2 and 3 at Allied Artists, but also the street between them.

More than 700 yards in length the subway served as the setting for a sensational killing, when two gunmen stalked a newspaperman believed guilty of infidelity to Capone. Martin Balsam of the New York stage portrayed the defective newsman.

Brown's subway set was one of only 37 he had, built for the exciting gangland picture which Richard Wilson directed for producers John H. Burrows and Leonard Goldstein. The special children's show Saturday starting at 12.00 p.m. Doors open at 11.45 a.m.

AT THE PARK — Rod Steiger, who stars in the Burrows-Ackerman production of "Al Capone" for Allied Artists, is seen in an oil painting by Reynolds Brown. Fay Spain vo-stars. The film is held over until Saturday at the Park, Belleville and Century, Trenton. Both theatres are air conditioned for your comfort.

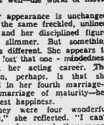
Four Wonderful Years Says Joan Crawford of 4th Union

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "A day never went by without his telling me how much I meant to him. That's memory enough for me. What more could a woman want in life?"



This was a sad, serious Joan Crawford speaking of her life with soft drink magnate Alfred Steele, who died suddenly April 19. She is back in the haunts she knows well—the world of movie sets.

Her appearance is unchanged with the same freckled, unlined face and her disciplined figure even slimmer. But something seems different. She appears to have lost that one - mindedness about her acting career. The reason, perhaps, is that she found in her fourth marriage—her marriage of maturity—her greatest happiness.

"They were four wonderful years," she reflected. "I can't tell you how much they meant to me.

"Alfred respected me and what I had done. Always in press conferences he would refer to me as 'Miss Crawford.' Others might call me 'Stecle,' and, of course, he would in private. But he said I deserved to be called by my own name in public for what I had achieved."

They traveled 300,000 miles together, promoting Pepsi Cola throughout the world.

AT THE BELLE — The Belleville favorite Deborah Kerr, is co-starring with Yul Brynner and James Mason in "Anastasia, the Mystery Woman", a dramatic story of adventure, romance and suspense enhanced with beautiful MetroColor, playing tonight and Saturday at the air conditioned Belle Theatre.

She is carrying on, having been elected to the Pepsi Cola board of directors, and may go alone on a tour to the Orient. Meanwhile, she is back to make her first film here in four years, The Best of Everything.

"It's a small part—four scenes, only," she said. "But I'd rather have four good scenes in an important picture than appear throughout a mediocre one."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, May 30

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Quietly and reverently spend this day thanking the Lord for the privilege of living and enjoying life in this country of peace and plenty. Lend a helping hand wherever possible in appreciation and good fellowship.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Be in the company of other patriotic friends and comrades and do something that proves your allegiance to America and Flag. March in a parade and do your duty. P. M. have a jolly time with kin and family, allies.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Giving support to some civic leader who has proven his worth would be the best way to spend this memorable day. Be outdoors among the people and all get into the spirit of camaraderie. Be smiling, happy and proud.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Great day to do something constructive that will add to well - being of ties and make you a better citizen. Good ideas will occur to you. Be very broadminded and have brotherly love in your heart. Shake hands with many people.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You know exactly what you must do today, so let your heart and mind guide you properly. Thus you are an inspiration to all, one whom others can come to for advice, assistance when most needed. P. M. put financial matters in order.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Fine opportunity to be with those persons with whom you wish to be allied in some fine activity away from home. Be grateful for past favors and you get further support. Begin a definite uptrend in your affairs.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Follow that hunch to do some fine public service. Use that special technique of yours for best results. Let nobody stop you, for it will be of great benefit to you in the future.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Here is one day you always have many fine ideas just how to make others happy. Don't forget the shut - ins, those who are ill, and particularly the Veterans. Tonight is then a fine evening for you and you get unexpected happiness.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — While there is a good deal to do at own residence, think more of getting out and doing something for those who fought to make our country a safe place in which to live. Do your part and joyfully.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Write fine, expressive letters today. Give vent to your inner feelings of patriotism and send a few dollars flying here and there where most needed. Get into some civic organization, too, and do your bit.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Let the fine standards under which you were raised, and the good service that your ancestors gave, activate you today. You can also make great strides in a financial way so that you know real abundance, true wealth.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Be your most friendly, smiling self today and lend a helping hand where most needed. Later, be off with loved ones to a most delightful time which should extend far into the evening. Make this a wonderful day.

If your child is born today... The fine child born today not only realizes the laws and importance of being practical and ethical, but has an inner feeling for God's Creativeness. Hence, give a good education, for your progeny will go far, since the tendency is to think big and therefore the chances are he or she will be big. Penny ante stuff simply is not in this youngster's makeup. Good ear for music, and artistic talent here, too.

BRISK

election showed clearly in the final listings. In 84 ridings it is a three-way contest. There are 4 ridings with two candidates and the rest have four and five.

At Brantford veteran Harry C. Nixon qualified for his 12th provincial general election. The 64-year-old former Liberal premier has represented Brant riding for 40 years.

WOMEN CANDIDATES

Only one of the nine women who took part in the 1955 election returned to the fight. Mrs. Ruth Miller, mayor of Greenburst, is making another bid to win Muskoka for the Liberals. All of the rest are new. Conservative R. J. Boyer who had 5,256 votes to her 4,721.

The Liberals have three other women candidates—Mrs. Lillian Allison, Toronto-Dundas; Mrs. Ruth Donohue, Lambton West, and Mrs. Alex Moore, Toronto-St. George.

Two women are running with CCF backing. They are Miss Jean Ellis, Elgin; Mrs. Alice Kaitol, Welland. Miss Ellis ran in Toronto St. George, and Mrs. Marjorie Clarke, York West. Mrs. Katool ran in Grey South in 1948 and lost to Farquhar Oliver, then provincial Liberal leader.

Other women in the field are Miss Alice Bickerton, for the Progressive Conservatives in York South; Mrs. Jessie Jackson, Communist candidate in Toronto Dovercourt, and Miss Dorothy Cureatz, running as Social Credit in Toronto St. Andrew.

TWO LIBERAL-LABOR

Two Liberals in northwestern Ontario are running as Liberal-Labor candidates. Albert Wren in Kenora and Jack McLaren in Raley River are backed by party organizations which have been known as Liberal-Labor for 40 years.

Some official CCF candidates are campaigning as the CCF-Labor. These include L. G. Sherman in Kenora, Joseph Porkert in Leeds and Mrs. Ruth Gorrie in Port Arthur.

The lack of acclamations wasn't surprising. It is 30 years since a seat was decided that way in an Ontario general election.

Start Canning Surplus Pork

OTTAWA — Canning of some of the 70,000,000 pounds of pork held in cold storage by the Agricultural Stabilization Board has already started, a senior Canada Department of Agriculture spokesman told a Toronto meeting.

R. K. Bennett, chief of merchandising in the Livestock Division, said foreign markets are also being explored, although any such sales would be at a loss to the board.

Normal storage at this season is around 18,000,000 pounds of pork.

Speaking at a pork promotion luncheon, Mr. Bennett said the best market for pork is the home market. Per capita consumption of pork in Canada last year was 53.1 pounds, although in 1951 it was 58.6 pounds.

"An increase of five pounds per capita would work out the stocks on hand, and 10 pounds would eliminate the surplus for the year," said Mr. Bennett.

Production of hogs tends to follow rhythmic cycles, and this year, with record or near-record marketings, could be the the peak of the present hog cycle.

Farmers cannot turn production off and on like a water tap and nothing can be done about the small pigs now on feed but continue to prepare them for marketing in the next six months.

An outstanding job has been done in the distribution of pork said Mr. Bennett. Domestic consumption is up.

In March Canadians ate an average of 145,000 hogs per week.

The weekly average for all of last year was only about 110,000 and actually there were several months when it fell to less than 98,000 hogs.

This, he said, was a tribute to what has been accomplished by the food industry with respect to pork.

were reinforcing manway timbering in what the company described as "a stope full of broken ore." Stope is a mining term for a large excavation in which ore is blasted from the ceiling.

Wagner said the rockburst, a sudden fall of rock which displaces air and causes a concussion, has also caved in the 2,500-foot level ahead of them. Immediately they were called to the lower level.

"It was a broken mass of timber, loose rock and muck," Wagner said.

Uramowski told them as they carried him out that one of the other two men "was working not far away from where the rock fell."

When other rescuers arrived they were faced with the problem of timbering the walls and roof of the manway to hold loose rock in place.

USING GREAT CARE

William Sampson, underground mines superintendent, issued a statement saying rescue work was progressing "as quickly as possible but with extreme care so as to avoid any injuries to the rescue parties.

Only four men could work at rock removal at any one time because of the narrow space, he said. Twelve others and four supervisors were standing by.

"The most experienced miners are being used in the rescue work," said Mr. Sampson.

The man were moving the rock by hand and dumping it behind them into a vertical tunnel connecting the levels of the mine. The lowest level is 8,900 feet below the surface.

The company said no blasting had taken place for "six or seven weeks" in the area where the rockburst occurred, sending a tremor through this community which has five other operating gold mines.

Told of the accident when he came home from school at noon Thursday, Morra's son Peter called his teacher and asked classmates to pray for his father. It was six years ago that the last accident hit the mine. Rockbursts then trapped and killed two men nearly a mile below the surface.

Frank Buckle, the mine manager, was in Montreal on business but was to fly here today.

Singapore Votes to Select First Self-Rule Government

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Nearly 600,000 inhabitants of this British colony on the South China Sea voted today to elect a government to replace the British colonial administration in everything but foreign affairs and defence.

Most observers predicted victory for the left-wing People's Action Party in the balloting that will decide control of the internal administration for the next five years.

A total of 12 parties and 190 candidates were contesting the 51 seats in the New Legislative Assembly. Voting was compulsory.

The three parties capable of forming a government were the P.A.P., the Moderate Party and governing Singapore People's Alliance and the rightist Liberal-Socialist party.

But the two moderate parties have been torn by internal strife.

In the event of a P.A.P. victory, the first prime minister under the new constitution was expected to be Lee Kuan Yew, a 36-year-old Chinese lawyer who was educated at Cambridge University.

GLOOMY FORECAST

Lim Yew Hock, chief minister and chairman of the People's Alliance, said in a final appeal that the election choice was between "either a democratic government or one which would be the first stage of totalitarianism which will help destroy Singapore."

But Lee Kuan Yew said Britain had "given us a free run of Singapore" because she is paying a long - term game against communism.

They know that the People's Action party is non-Communist," he said.

Mayors Convene At North Bay For Sessions

NORTH BAY (CP)—Municipal politicians from across Canada are assembling here in hopes they will find the elusive solution to mounting financial problems.

The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities was established 22 years ago to help arrive at an equitable distribution of tax revenues among municipal, provincial and federal governments.

During the four - day annual meeting starting Sunday, the municipal officers see a possibility of taking a big step toward this goal.

TO HEAR DIEFENBAKER

The uncertainty will not be relieved until Tuesday night when Prime Minister Diefenbaker addresses them. There may be other hints in speeches Monday night by Ontario Premier Frost and Wednesday noon by Premier Flemming of New Brunswick.

The federation has long advocated a top-level get-together of federal, provincial and municipal leaders.

Last October Mr. Diefenbaker convened what he called an informal federal-municipal conference. But the federation's executive in a statement in April made it clear that mayors, reeves, councillors and aldermen are not satisfied. They have yet to receive major concessions in their demands for unconditional grants or additional tax fields from the higher levels of government.

Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton will get the ball rolling Monday. A serious begin is earnest with a talk on federal-municipal relations.

Finance will not be the mayors' only concern. They also will dig into problems of industrial fire protection, urban renewal and housing, civil defence, welfare, municipal co-operation and unemployment.

The social side of life will include receptions, luncheons and dinners slated for each of the four days, as well as a "mayor's fishing derby" and an RCAF aerobatic display Tuesday.

National Energy Board Bill Has Week in House

Final Approval Nearly at Hand

OTTAWA (CP) — This has been national energy board week in the Commons.

Debate on the governments' proposed board wound through its eighth day Friday, having reached the detailed study stage. The bill will take up more time next week as the government presses for its final approval.

On the general principle of such a board, the Liberals have agreed with the Progressive Conservatives while the CCF opposed it. But on details, the Liberals and many suggestions for changes as the CCF—if not more.

Both Opposition Leader Pearson and Paul Martin (L—Essex East) argued that the board didn't direct the board to guard against unwarranted profits by natural gas and oil pipeline companies as Prime Minister Diefenbaker had claimed the bill does.

The bill gives the board regulatory power over oil and gas pipelines and export of gas and electricity.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, tried unsuccessfully to amend the bill to insert the stipulation that the board could not issue pipeline certificates only to companies 51 per cent Canadian-owned stock was held by residents of Canada or Canadian-controlled companies.

Trade Minister Churchill said the bill was not necessary for the board to consider the extent of Canadian participation in any applicant company.

In one of many votes during the day, Mr. Argue suggested by the CCF, lost a vote that would have made it mandatory for the energy board to make public all reports on its studies.

The two opposition parties managed to find time for a little sniping among themselves, in the gleeful relish of onlookers like the Churchill and Works Minister Green.

Mr. Argue said the Liberals had gone hand in with the government" on the principle of the bill were completely opposed when government forced a vote on that stage and now, at the detailed study stage, were trying to show how different the Liberals are from the government.

Mr. Pearson replied that under the leadership of CCF members, he and his colleagues were proposing changes "designed to make the bill a better one."

102 Canadians Hold Tickets In Irish Sweeps

DUBLIN (CP)—A total of 102 Canadians hold Irish Sweepstakes tickets on the 27 horses entered in the Epsom Derby to be run June 3. It was announced Friday.

Three hold tickets on St. Crespin III, a joint favorite at six to one, and three have tickets on Parthia, a 33-to-one chance.

The greatest number of ticket holders on one horse, 15, drew Fidalgo, which will run at 10-to-1 odds.

Monkeys Exhibit Ho-Hum Attitude As They await Press Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two nonchalant space monkeys face their public today.

Reporters and photographers will stare and aim flash bulbs at Able and Baker. Hams that they are, the two should take it all in stride.

The female monkeys, who survived a 1,500-mile trip into space Thursday, exhibited their ho-hum attitude Friday night when they arrived here. Airport bustle left them unimpressed.

While reporters, photographers and military personnel watched from behind wire mesh, a truck transport, the monkeys just played and munched food inside their metal cages.

Navy Capt. Thomas F. Mc-Mahon, pilot of the transport, said their seeming indifference was typical of monkeys. He added during flight, for example, Baker, the smaller of the two, played in the cockpit and posed for pictures at the controls.

"He's actually a ham," Mc-Mahon said.

The space travellers' first official appearance was scheduled for today—at a press conference along with government scientists.

Soon after their arrival here, doctors began medical checks to see how well the monkeys fared on the space trip in the nose cone of a Jupiter missile.

The tests hoped to gain important clues toward maintaining the health of human astronauts when they are orbited around the earth.

Baker, seven - pound Rhesus monkey, was taken to the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, while Baker, a one-pound squirrel monkey, was taken to the Naval Medical Research Institute, Bethesda, Md.

The transport that returned the monkeys also brought back the capsules in which they made their space flight. These were also under study.

The nose cone carrying the capsules with the monkeys was recovered near Antigua Island in the Atlantic after the Jupiter missile had been fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Following their medical checks and exhibition, the monkeys will return to their laboratories here to live in retirement.

Wintermeyer Promises Probe Into Gas Stock Controversy

A Liberal government would name a royal commission to investigate the natural gas stock controversy soon after the June 11 provincial election.

The promise came Friday night from Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer who said he was not ashamed of his role in the matter and doesn't intend "to take a back seat to anyone on it."

It was Mr. Wintermeyer's first campaign reference to the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company investigations of last year. Three cabinet ministers resigned because they took part in promotion stock in the gas distribution firm.

The investigation also revealed others had bought the stock, including Mr. Wintermeyer who was then financial critic for the Liberals in the legislature.

In calling the issue, Mr. Wintermeyer said he wanted to answer critics "who throw stones from small positions."

"I am not ashamed of my particular part in this matter and I don't intend to take a back seat to anyone on it. I purchased certain shares. I did nothing wrong.

"When I became leader of the Liberal party I divested myself of these and other shares at a great personal sacrifice beyond what most people would have done."

Elsewhere in the campaign Friday, Premier Frost spent the second day of his Eastern Ontario tour visiting public school children at a dozen stops between Ottawa and Cornwall.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald told a Sault Ste. Marie meeting that he hopes Premier Frost will agree to meet him in a public debate at Sudbury Wednesday.

Use of Sloughs and Potholes Could Help More Than Dam

SASKATOON (CP)—A university professor says proper use of the sloughs and potholes in prairie farms would do more good than the $184,000,000 South Saskatchewan river project.

Dr. A. H. Laycock, assistant professor of economics at the University of Alberta, attended the meeting of the Canadian Association of Economists which concluded Friday.

Dr. Laycock said projects would be more useful, both in the long and short run, than the gigantic South Saskatchewan dam. Dr. Laycock told in an interview. He said the dam will be justified over the long term, but a number of short term problems will have to be met.

Dr. Laycock said farmers will have to find ways to live with the problems of irrigation crops under irrigation. If they are unable to grow irrigation crops profitably, they will find grain prices in competition with dry farmers ping.

the provincial government might have to subsidize them for years.

He said Ottawa favored small projects which would make better use of water from small sloughs and potholes.

The best way to use moisture in the land, he said, is to fall by contour cultivating. The surplus that ran into potholes could be used by cattle and the land itself would be soaked.

The government were told Friday by Dr. Trevor Lloyd of Dartmouth College, New Hampshire, that the Dupont of Canada Co. will decide this summer whether to go ahead with a vast iron ore development in Labrador.

If financing is proceeded with, he said, the iron ore will be taken from Knob Lake, Labrador, next summer and stockpiled at an ice-free port on the west coast of Newfoundland for year - round ship-

Woman Given Ten Years for Gambler's Death

CALGARY (CP)—Wendy Devlin, 34, charged in the murder of gambler Clyde (Jack) Baxter, pleaded guilty Friday to a reduced charge of manslaughter and was given a 10-year term "when" she was sentenced to 10 years.

The outburst came against members of her family when they approached her after the sentence was passed.

"Get away from me, all of you," she said. "I didn't want to plead guilty. I didn't kill him."

The sentence closes the files on Baxter, a 50-year-old Calgary bookmaker whose battered body was found in his luxury apartment last March.

Two other persons also charged in the murder case were released to prison terms last week on reduced charges. Ronald Barry Smith, 28, pleaded guilty before a jury found him guilty of manslaughter. Donald Taylor, 30, pleaded guilty to manslaughter and received 10 years.

Police described Baxter as the biggest gambler in Calgary and perhaps the biggest in Western Canada.

Evidence during the three trials was that Miss Devlin, Dixon and Taylor plotted to rob Baxter, a friend of Miss Devlin.

Far too Many Drives for Funds Says OMA Pres.

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. A. F. Van Wart of Fredericton, president of the Canadian Medical Association, says there are too many charity campaigns.

He told a joint luncheon meeting of the council of the CMA and the Ontario Medical Association Friday that the public is becoming resentful of so many individual campaigns.

"Each year a new group interested in another disease appears," he said in a speech.

Dr. Van Wart advocated a study of the problem with the societies concerned. As members of the medical profession we have some responsibility in bringing solve the undesirable situation which has resulted from the appearance of these societies," he suggested participation in a unified appeal as a solution.

Albania Plans To Make Itself Red Fortress

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (Reuter) — Today announced determination to convert itself with Soviet aid into an "invincible Socialist fortress" on the shores of the Adriatic.

Albanian Premier Mehmet Shehu made this pledge to visiting Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev at a reception Friday night.

The Albanian news agency reported the speeches of both Khrushchev, in reply, emphasized the need for close co-operation between the two countries.

Shehu said Khrushchev has given "invaluable help" and "precious advice" about Albania's economic development.

PEITER WARNINGS

Shehu reiterated the Soviet premier's repeated warnings on his arrival here Monday for a 12-day visit against establishing U.S. rocket bases in Italy and Turkey.

He added that Albania, in union with the Soviet Union and other countries, would "build an invincible Socialist fortress on the shores of the Adriatic."

Meantime, Soviet Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, who is accompanying Khrushchev, told a rally gathering that Albania's devotion and communism "makes it easier for you to fight, and the fight and even to give your lives."

Charges 2 Papers "Evading Law" By Running Ads

HAMILTON (CP) — A charge that two Ontario newspapers are "evading the law" by publishing liquor advertisements in weekend supplements published in the United States was heard Friday by the 35th annual session of the Ontario Conference of the United Church.

Rev Dr. J. R. Muchmore, secretary of the church's temperance board of evangelism and social service, said the supplements are run by newspapers in "a large city near Hamilton . . . are having their supplement printed in New York so that they may include liquor advertising." He did not name the papers.

"This practice is bad from the point of law enforcement, which is basic to our democratic way of life", he said.

Russian Ship Is Given Leave To Use Seaway

Vessel at New York Is Bound for Sarnia

NEW YORK (CP)—Permission to sail through the St. Lawrence Seaway is reported to have been granted to the Soviet freighter Ivan Moskvin which docked here Friday.

The 5,900-ton vessel, first Soviet ship to arrive in New York waters in 10 years, brought 850 tons of crated exhibits to be shown at the Soviet Union's exposition June 30 to Aug. 10 in the New York Coliseum.

Reporters, including a representative of the Russian news agency, were barred from the ship by the U.S. Coast Guard. However, the Moskvin's 43 crew and two stewardesses will have shore leave.

Among the 10,000 items in the cargo are a Russian-made display, automotive and industrial exhibits and a three-room Soviet apartment.

GOING TO SARNIA

The New York Times reported the 6,700-ton freighter has been granted permission to sail through the seaway and unload a sailing of the vessel is expected to be finished Monday or Tuesday.

The Moskvin is then to sail for Sarnia.

The Times said the Soviet vessel will make the 1,756-mile voyage from the Atlantic to Sarnia without a pilot on board.

It added:

The official announcement had been made by government agencies that the Soviet ship had been granted permission to traverse the $471,000,000 seaway and enter the Great Lakes. The first indication that it had been was given by the ship's master, Capt. Feyodor Gerasimov, when he was asked about his next port of call.

The Times said further:

"A state department spokesman in Washington said the Canadian and seaway authorities had been informed that the vessel would use the seaway. Permission had been granted by the treasury department, which is responsible for policing the entry of foreign flag ships in domestic ports and waters, he said."

Crump Foresees 'Limited' Change In Railway Jobs

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — CPR President N. R. Crump says technical changes in the railway industry will cause only "limited" changes in railroad jobs inevitable.

He said in an interview Friday that automation resulting from technical changes will be bound to displace some employees even though new jobs will be found to do the work formerly performed by men.

Mr. Crump said the "train of the future" is not likely to run without a human crew. It will carry widely trained men and be a highly specialized affair with "electronic brains and eyes and in thinly-populated areas — "a kind of pipeline on wheels."

Man Is Just Mobile Bag of Fluids And Sitting Is Dangerous for Him

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Man is nothing more than a mobile bag of fluids.

And when this mobile bag slows down—which is most of the time for many of us—well, that's the seat of many troubles.

That's the opinion, anyway, of Dr. Paul Dudley White, a professor who has developed a sitting-standing, reclining-and-walking chair to help keep the fluids in motion.

While watching television, sitting in an office or driving a car can be just as dangerous as sitting in collisions in Africa, says Dr. Morehouse, director of the human performance laboratory at the University of California at Los Angeles.

When man sits for a prolonged time, he says, the pressure in the blood and other fluids collect in the lower extremities. The result, he says, can be swollen feet, fatigue, drowsiness, fainting, varicose veins and perhaps weakening light girdles.

Dr. Morehouse said that many auto accidents blamed on driver "blacking out," fatigue, dizziness or slowed co-ordination might very well be traced to impaired circulation.

A possible answer to the sitting-man's problems, says Dr. Morehouse, is a self-aligning seat and sponge rubber exercise belt has been developed at the UCLA Lab. And that, he said, is why—

The chair supports the body's "six main bones"—the buttocks—at the "seat bones" and the two feet and the hands and you'll feel them," said Dr. Morehouse.

The chair's eight soft springs respond to the sitter's weight and are in constant, though barely noticeable, motion.

At the feet, Dr. Morehouse's chair is not on the market, he says, but can be made to chrome sitters:

Make certain your legs are uncrossed and that the edge of the chair or tight clothing don't cut off circulation.

On auto trips, stop as often as possible and take a short walk.

If travelling by train, bus or plane, get up frequently and pace the aisle.

And if you're an office worker, keep your feet up on the desk occasionally — even if you're not the boss.

West Expects Khrushchev Will Remove Barrier

Think Gromyko Will Get New Instructions Soon

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers today looked to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for the word that could lift the Berlin crisis and clear the way to a summit conference.

Secret talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko have so far failed to remove the Berlin issue as a barrier to the heads-of-government meeting.

But Western officials think it likely that Gromyko will get new instructions before the Big Four foreign ministers conference here ends.

Less than 48 hours after going into secret negotiations, the ministers of Britain, the United States and France were headed back today to the semi-public stage in the Palais des Nations at the request of the Russians. They expect a new demand by Gromyko for Western troops to get out of West Berlin and make it a neutral "free city."

NEW GROMYKO

A return to secret diplomacy was assured, however, for Gromyko has invited the Western foreign ministers and a handful of their chief advisers to dine with him tonight.

Two private discussions so far have generated only the slightest probing operations.

The ministers resumed on these initial secret talks said Gromyko did not budge from the position that the West must abandon the occupation of West Berlin.

But they said he inquired into Western intentions. They said a change could hardly be expected until his reports have been studied by Khrushchev and he gets new instructions.

EMPHASIZE SAFETY

"Since it is now evident that both men are dead, recovery operations will proceed with emphasis on the safety of the recovery crews," General Manager Frank Dudley said in a prepared statement.

Working four to a shift in the six-foot square manway where the sudden rock fall occurred, the miners had to break up the rock through to the bodies Friday. But the company said Friday night it is not known how long it will take to burrow into the debris 2,000 feet 610 metres to the rescue workers.

ONE MAN SURVIVES

Frank Fraser, a swell, 35, was rescued three hours after the rock fall at the 7,000-foot level of the 8,900-foot-deep mine. He suffered head lacerations.

Miners was married with an eight-year-old son. Huard, the father of a gold miner, was also 35.

Six years ago two other men died in the mine when a rock-burst injured seven nearly a mile below the surface.

Miners Risking Lives in Effort To Reach Bodies

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Rescue crews hope to recover the bodies of two miners, members of a mine rescue team overcome Friday by smoke and heat from a cubbyhole a half mile down in Lake Shore Mines.

Wright-Hargreaves Gold Mine announced Friday night it was abandoning efforts. Peter Morey, 54, and Gilles Huard, 19, had been killed in a rockburst which shook the deepest mine in North America Thursday.

The body of one of the men was sighted by miners Friday afternoon but rock and ore company said it was believed the other would be nearby. The body sighted couldn't be identified.

EMPHASIZE SAFETY

"Since it is now evident that both men are dead, recovery operations will proceed with emphasis on the safety of the recovery crews," General Manager Frank Dudley said in a prepared statement.

Hold Six Men After Walkout In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Six men, five of the brothers, were in police custody today after the killing of the commissionaire of Gilles Petit.

Petit, 71, standing nearby, was shot through the forehead in a two-shot gunfight that apparently resulted from a labor quarrel. He died in hospital Thursday.

The brothers were picked up by police, or surrendered to them, one by one. Police identified them as the "Dubois Six."

Friday night, Raymond Mireault, 25, subject of a murder charge involved in a fight with the Dubois gave himself up. He was charged with the murder and would have been laid in the shooting.

Detective Captain Eugene Arsenal said a fight in a tavern led to the shooting outside it during which Petit, an innocent victim, was shot.

The armored pistol with one spent chamber was found in a sewer nearby.

Students at BCI Draft Rules To Better Dress

After considerable discussion in class, committee and the regular council meetings, the student government of B.C.I.V.S. has passed a suggested code for improving the dress of the students attending the school next September. The council has emphasized that these are suggestions, not rules, but it hopes that students will comply so that the whole standard of school attire will be raised. Is is an accepted fact that there is significant correlation between dress, and the general "tone" of a school.

The recommendation are as follows:

BOYS AND GIRLS

1. V-Neck sweaters should not be worn without a shirt or blouse.

2. Standard collars should be turned down.

3. Rubber boots or running shoes should not be worn in class.

BOYS

1. Hair should be modestly cut.

2. Boys should be clean shaven.

3. Trousers should not be worn inside boots.

4. Shirts should be worn tucked inside the trousers and buttoned up to the top or collar button.

5. T-shirts should not be worn alone.

6. Leather jackets or windbreakers should not be worn in class.

7. Boys should not wear trousers or any other article of outer clothing obviously, more suitable for work or play, than as informal school dress (e.g. heavy blue jeans.

GIRLS

1. Shoes that are not properly soled and heeled should not be worn.

2. Girls should not wear an overabundance of crinolines or hoops.

3. Girls should not apply makeup or comb their hair in the school corridors.

The staff has endorsed these suggestions and is, of course, gratified that the whole idea was initiated by the students.

CMA Continues To Back Stand On Fluoridation

By GENE McCARTHY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Reports ranged from praise for maternal welfare on the opening day of the meeting of the Canadian Medical Association to criticism of medical profession would continue Thursday.

Delegates learned the CMA will actively participate in helping form a Canadian branch of the International Federation of Sports Medicine if terms are defined.

The CMA's Public health committee, chaired by Dr. G. E. Duff Wilson of Ottawa, said Canada's medical profession would continue to support fluoridation of programs if the exact term "physical fitness" is defined and the CMA told what is meant by "emotional or physical fitness are.

The committee said it would seek further advice and information on the program and make later recommendations. The new organized medicine could contribute.

HIGH BIRTH RATE

Dr. Thomas Primrose of Montreal, chairman of the committee on maternal welfare, said Canada has the highest birth rate in the 1,000 population of any civilized country in the Western Hemisphere.

"There has been a tremendous drop over the past decade in the decades in the number of women in Canada who die either in childbirth or from the effects of childbirth," said Dr. Primrose.

He credited doctors and more particular health officials in Toronto with initiating a thorough investigation into the cause of death of pregnant women.

FAVOR FLUORIDATION

The CMA continued to back its 1954 stand on fluoridation. It still favors fluoridating communal water supplies when proper safeguard were taken.

In a statement today, the group authorized its public health committee to collaborate with other health agencies if requested to further study the beneficial effects of fluoridation on health.

Executive secretary of the committee Dr. N. H. Gosse of Halifax said the CMA has instituted a new committee to study prepaid medical care plans.

Resurfacing of Town Bridge Will Start Midnight Sunday

TRENTON — At midnight on Sunday crews of the Tatham Construction Company will begin the task of resurfacing the town bridge it was announced by town engineer Eric Alderacy.

It will be done one-half at a time and in this way will only cut traffic to one-way on Monday and Tuesday. It is expected to be completed by Tuesday night and open again to two-way traffic on Wednesday morning.

The company will put 1 1-2 inches of asphalt over the concrete deck after they have raised the expansion joints to eliminate any dip after the paving has been done. The asphalt will be hauled to Trenton by Methot trucks, but the work will be done by the Tatham Construction Company.

Last fall a concrete deck was laid on the bridge but during the winter and spring months it started to deteriorate and the coating of asphalt is expected to seal it off.

"It will be a short period of inconvenience," Town Engineer Eric Alderacy said yesterday, "but it has to be done and will be better to do it now than later or when traffic gets heavier."

At present the construction company's men are working on the piers of the bridge and have started to paint it, which was part of the contract they were unable to complete last fall because of the early winter.

Plan Sea Cadet Conference Here

It was announced today by Lt. J. G. Donovan, commanding officer of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps ("Quinte," that an inter-corps conference of the officers of the Sea Cadet Corps from Picton, Trenton, Port Hope, Oshawa, Peterborough, and Belleville would be held in this city on Saturday, June 6th.

The agenda will consist of a discussion of the possibilities of various inter-corps activities, throughout the summer months. Church parades, rifle competitions, "initiation drill" inspections, and joint cruises or excursions will be discussed with the view of arranging a schedule of these activities to include all corps if possible.

It is presumed that each corps should have a round-robin of visits with the other Sea Cadet unit in the area. These visits are usually conducted on a Saturday, when some time is lasted over a weekend. The Belleville unit has a very large annual competition in drill, marksmanship, and seamanship which is held in the spring meeting in Belleville for a weekend will also be discussed.

The conference will be held at the Sea Cadet barracks on South Front Street.

Market Crowded By Both People And Flowers

This morning's market was crowded indeed, by both people and flowers, as business was brisk under sunny skies. Flowers of many varieties were on sale. The lilacs, from the valley, and irises were but a few of those on display. Prices ranged from 35c to a dollar a dozen. Flower bulbs were also available, priced from 25c a bunch to 50c a dozen, depending on variety.

Green onions, at 10c a bunch, and asparagus at 15c a bunch, were also available. Rhubarb were selling between 50c and 55c a basket, from $2.50 to $2.65 a 75-lb. bag and $2.25 a hamper. Navy beans were also on sale at 50c a quart.

Chicken was priced at 45c to 50c a pound. Eggs were selling at the same prices as last week, medium large at 35c and large at 45c a dozen.

Apples were still in good supply and varied in price ranging from 50c to 75c a basket. Strawberry plants were on their debut this morning at 2c apiece.

On the indoor market trade was active in home-baking products, of which there was the usual appealing display of cookies, cakes, pies, muffins and bread, all at attainable prices. Popcorn of a variety quite large in size was also on sale at 25c a bag.

An additional feature this morning was the availability of rabbits on the hoof at 50 cents for white ones and 75 cents each for those of a dappled hue.

CCF Holds First Meet in Years In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — The CCF party held its first meeting in Campbellford in several years on Thursday evening, when only a small number of people turned up at a membership meeting in the CWL rooms of the Union headquarters in the town.

Miller Stevens, of Simpson Point, ex-part-time president of the Ontario CCF Association, told the group that the scanty meeting is a clear indication of Tory lack of planning.

Mr. Stewart struck at what he termed "Tory bungling," saying that during the past winter there were 200,000 persons unemployed in Canada.

POINTS NOT READY

"It is now very evident that in a large proportion of these not-work Canadians could have been working at jobs that needed to be done — and Canada is now suffering from the fact that a single year in Ontario is ready for the expanded trade that the Seaway opening will bring to the area.

"Instead of this large scale enterprise has failed utterly to get going," Mr. Stewart said.

Mr. Stewart claimed that free trade advantage of the opportunities for the development Municipalities have made no provision for such a program and that the provincial government has been negligent in not organizing the increased trade that would take place from Cornwall to Toronto, he declared.

"Now, one of the greatest prospects in Canada's history is finished, and because of this lack of foresight, Canada will not reach one fifth of the possible results of this great engineering work for years," he said.

In a restricted economy of the CCF type, Mr. Stewart said, our governments would not only have been working on jobs that could be done, but Canada would not have suffered from the bad publicity that our lack of planning and foresight has spread throughout the maritimes.

PLAN CAMPAIGN

The greater part of the meeting was devoted to planning a vigorous campaign on behalf of Norman J. Farthing, the CCF candidate for Northumberland.

Mr. Farthing was born in Connecticut, Scotland, 37 years ago. His father is English and his mother Scottish. His mother entered Canada with Scotland at the age of 17 and at the age of 21 she was elected to the county council, the first woman ever to hold the position. Both the father and mother served in World War I.

"I was raised in Canada," he said in 1921, under the Soldier Settlement Board, on a farm at Leask, Sask., "near where Mr. Diefenbaker comes from."

There are five boys and three girls in his family. Mr. Farthing served overseas with the RCE in World War II and married an English girl while serving in the army.

He settled in Peterborough after returning from the war. The Farthings now have two daughters and a son. A brother, Donald Farthing, is a detective-sergeant on the Peterborough police force.

Mr. Farthing has been active in unions where he has held seven positions with trade unions. He is secretary of Local 894 of the Port Hope, Cobourg, IBEW, secretary and union organizer for the Building Trades Council, AFL-CIO, Port Hope, delegate to the Cobourg Labor Council, CLC, and member of the executive of the CLC in Cobourg. He is, at the first time as candidate in an election.

Voters Approve Agreement With Hydro Electric

CAMPBELLFORD—On Monday, May 25th, the ratepayers of Campbellford voted overwhelmingly to enter into an agreement with the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario for a supply of electrical energy on a contract basis.

This was done after some months of publicity and meetings with representatives of Hydro, the Public Works Commission, the council and the holding of a public meeting.

The meeting was lively and only a little more than 32 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls.

The final count of the votes showed 284 yes votes, and 94 no.

Harold Youth, George Mumby, Hurt in Crash

IN MEMORIAM

SANDFORD. — In loving memory of Marjorie Sandford, who passed away May 30th, 1955.

Sadly missed by everyone we cannot see,
Of the loss of one we loved so well;
And while we live, we shall remember,
As we travel on life's journey,
Wherever we may be.
By her husband and family.

POPE. — In loving memory of a dear brother, Norman, Victor Pope, who passed away May 10th, 1954.

I had all the world to give,
I'd give it, yes and more;
To hear his voice and see his smile,
And greet him at my door.
But all I can do, dear brother,
Is go and tend your grave;
And place flowers, as a token of love,
While memories linger on.
I like to think when life is done,
Wherever there may be,
That he'll be standing at the door,
To welcome me home.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by his sister Ruth.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to Dr. Fisher Fraser Murphy, the nurses and staff of Second West, and Dr. Ferguson and Dr. Wood while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

"You are being mobilized on a mission of the highest order," His Excellency, Most Reverend F. A. Marrocco, D.D., Auxiliary Bishop of Toronto, told a large group of campaign workers for the new Nicholson Catholic College at a special dinner meeting in St. Michael's Auditorium Thursday evening. "The mission on which you are embarking involves one of the highest possible objectives that possibly can be presented to human being. You must be motivated not just by the physical need for a high school building or facilities, but with the realization that you are about to build a home, a cradle in which present and future young men and women will be made great Christians; people with high, noble, Christian ideals. Therefore you are, in a sense, an emissary of Christ Himself as you knock on each door, for who else most wants our boys and girls to be educated Christians?"

May 31 had been chosen as campaign day for all Catholic homes in the city in order to raise funds for the new high school, and Bishop Marrocco emphasized that Belleville should make their calls remembering that "if Christ were knocking on each door, He would approach people with grace, love and kindness, and a sense of urgency that the idea of what they are about to do is one of the greatest things this world will ever see. You are doing it with Christ and for Christ," he said. "Education prepares people, not only for this world, but for the next world."

His Excellency pointed out that a genuine and complete Christian education would not hold ideals which would put into the hearts and minds of students those beliefs and standards which square with Christian principles. "Learning or knowledge is not enough," he said, "if educational institutions fail to produce great men and women, they must be alive with and permeated with the moral code of God. Without this code there cannot be peace, justice, or social welfare."

NATURE OF TASK

One of things that gave a man courage and made him competent for a particular job was the nature of that job. "There is no question that people look to research as the glamorous project with apathy," the Bishop remarked, "but with a project that is near and dear to their hearts, that implies an objective and a goal, you will find that people suddenly come alive and respond magnificently to the challenge. They develop qualities of leadership, aptitudes and potentialities most people never dreamed they had. Even in the ordinary aspects of living if you tell a person he matches an ideal you have of him, he will usually doesn't come up to that ideal, from the moment he is told he does, he tries to live up to it.

This is an appropriate reason why in the City of Belleville, every last Catholic should become enthusiastic and get behind the campaign. What is at stake is not just the construction of a building. We find monuments of stone and of brick, but any time a building goes up, it is what that building represents and what it is about to do that really makes it a great achievement or a ridiculous white elephant."

Bishop Marrocco believed there was no institution that was so synonymous with either good or bad human beings, with either high ideals or low, than our educational institutions. He stated that within the Church there never had been an era when its leaders and people failed to demonstrate the importance to educate. "Catholic educational institutions are of prime concern to all Catholic people," he emphasized. "If today we are proud of the educational institutions which man possesses, the world owes a great debt to religious leaders, for in the ages past education was fostered and maintained through the interest of religious communities and organizations in all parts of the world.

TAKES OVER EDUCATION

"It is not so many years since education became an enterprise of government on every level", His Excellency continued. "The state gradually took over education since it was of such tremendous importance to civilization. However long before the state became responsible for education, religion had fostered it in every phase; for example, it was suitably a family affair, and through the efforts of the religious, it was amalgamated from the home gradually to classrooms, and so to the first schools. As man's efforts to teach developed and became more demanding, it was only with the state entering in on every level that education became as it ought to be.

"These days, are our stepping into the world must have a good education if he hopes to mingle with fellow men, from the domestic to the international level. No longer can a man take his proper place in the world without having to use their possessions to see to it a high school training is made available to more and more young persons. Never before have people been asked to spend more of their private possessions, or to spend their community possessions, than they are expected to do now for the advancement of higher education.

"From Belleville's point of view, I did not believe there was need of a visiting guest speaker to inspire those of you who are engaged in a campaign for a new high school; I have heard conspicuously from the people of this city of their desire for such an institution. When, therefore, there is such a demand and such aspirations, the last thing I would expect is that people who have waited so long need any encouragement or urging.

SHOW DETERMINATION

"The fact that so many of you are here from all three parishes, men and women of distinction, shows you already are determined to do a great job. My task is more one of congratulation—well done so far — let's see you carry your enthusiasm to its ultimate fulfillment. In this archdiocese anything you have tackled you have done well; you have finished what you started. With this record who can doubt you are launching out on a campaign that is bound to succeed? This is a night of rejoicing, particularly since your gathering is graced by the presence of your Archbishop, who is here to add his encouragement."

Another special guest at the dinner, His Excellency The Most Reverend J. A. O'Sullivan, D.D., Archbishop of Kingston, added his congratulations to those of Bishop Marrocco's to all who were responsible for the organization of the campaign. The archbishop expressed his great interest in the new school, and commented that the existing high school had produced some wonderful graduates; of particular interest to him was the fact that the school had proved such a fertile field for sacerdotal vocations, and that if this spirit alone was fostered, Belleville's Catholic would be investing their money in a wonderful enterprise.

Very Reverend Dean L. R. Garvin, pastor of St. Michael's parish, briefly thanked those who had set up the campaign organization. "Others have been working at this project for weeks, and I am sure all the treasurer will do their part nobly and well," he said. "It is an inspiration to see so many here; I have complete assurance our objective will be met."

MANY HAVE PART

Other speakers included Mayor Gerald Hyde of Belleville; Robert Seagrave, president of the St. Michael's High School Students' Council; Rev. P. Murphy of St. Michael's, general secretary of the campaign; Fran Domenico, general chairman; Rev. J. J. V. Beasley, pastor of St. Joseph's, who introduced the speaker and Rev. M. Simson, O.F.M. Conv., Holy Rosary, who thanked Bishop Marrocco on behalf of the whole gathering.

Those seated at the head table were Rev. W. J. Lynett, secretary to the Archbishop; Rev. W. McGee of St. Michael's parish, chairman of the speaker's committee; Rev. Father Loneiin, superior of St. Michael's Convent; Rev. Sister Mary Leonore, principal of St. Michael's High School; W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P.; Frank Ryckman, past Treasnler, vice-chairman of the campaign; Leo Redmond, treasurer of the campaign; Sister Mary Kevin, Sister Mary Lenore, Sister Mary Gertrude, Sister Mary Barrett, chairman of the building committee; Mrs. Ross Boss, chairman, special contributions; Carl Casey and Robert Hamilton, auditors; James Callighan, A. Meagher, George O'Brien and T. Reale, directors of organization; Harry O'Neil, Mrs. A. B. Collins, honorary lay chairmen; Mrs. T. Logan, and Mrs. H. Brown, president of St. Michael's Catholic Women's League.

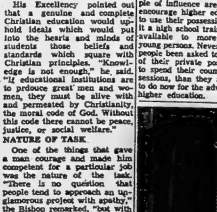
The dinner was convened by Mrs. Logan, assisted by members of St. Michael's C.W.L.; all food was donated by St. Michael's parishioners. Those attending the dinner were served by students from St. Michael's High School.

Jack McFarlane, 41, Killed As Tank Truck Rolls Over

The Belleville driver of a Liquifuels Ltd. tank truck was instantly killed early this morning when his transport went out of control on a turn in Foxboro, knocked over a tree and rolled against a house.

Killed in the accident when the heavily-loaded truck overturned was Jack McFarlane, aged 41, 25 St. Paul Street. The driver was thrown from his cab as the heavy vehicle loaded with 4,000 gallons of fuel oil rolled over.

Employed by Liquifuels Ltd. for the past two years he is survived by his wife Ina. He formerly drove for Smith's Transport.



The Belleville Fire Department was called to the scene as fuel oil seeped from the overturned tank. Fortunately the truck did not catch fire.

LOST CONTROL

Provincial police said the heavy oil truck was northbound from Belleville on its way to Peterborough when he lost control at the north end of Foxboro village, as he attempted to make the turn toward Stirling at the intersection with the Madoc Road.

Nearby residents heard the screech of brakes as the truck approached the corner, then the sound of the vehicle slamming into the tree. The wheel of the overturned truck came to rest within inches of the home of Mr. Ernest Hubble.

Police and firemen kept the ground level fuel oil spilled from the truck from igniting.

A dump truck was pressed into service hauling sand to soak up the oil in the Hubble front yard, in this way lessening the fire danger.

OIL TRANSFERRED

At mid-morning the damaged truck was righted and the remaining oil was pumped from its tank into another tank truck.

"I heard the screech of the tires as the truck passed but paid no particular attention as this is a common occurrence," stated G. V. Ducette, Foxboro barber, whose shop is almost directly across the street from the accident scene.

"It was only when I heard the sound of the truck crashing through the tree that I realized there had been an accident."

Award $119,620 To 2 Workers Struck by Car

TORONTO (CP) — The Supreme Court of Ontario Friday awarded a total of $119,620 to two Toronto Transit Commission workmen struck by a car two years ago while repairing a street car rail at night.

Mr. Justice McLennan awarded $78,185 to Wm. Pincevero, age 34, and $41,444 to George Shepherd.

Pincevero will never be able to do manual work again and suffers from total capital more than a yea with injuries. A third man in the group was killed in the accident.

Defendants were Carman's Car Rentals Limited, the registrar of motor vehicles and Frank Stanley Hall, driver.

The men were struck in spite of 65 lighted red lanterns guarding the work. The car was found abandoned a short time later.

Mr. Justice McLellan found that the car had been hired from Carman's Limited by Joseph Pryer of Winnipeg. Pryer explained that Hall hired the car for his friend Kennedy who was the driver at the time of the accident.

National Flag Issue Talked Out in House

OTTAWA (CP)— An impassioned plea for inclusion of the Union Jack in any distinctive national flag for Canada was made Friday by a 56-year-old Canadian-born Conservative.

Nicholas Mandziuk (PC-Marquette) told the Commons that Canada should have a flag as a flag as a symbol of the freedom and opportunity his immigrant father and mother found on their arrival in Canada.

"I want the Union Jack" he asked.

"I would throw away the likes of Her Majesty being our Queen? Why not throw away all the parliamentary institutions we have inherited from the Mother of Parliament? Why not throw away all our freedom?"

Mr. Mandziuk spoke during debate on a private bill sponsored by Samuel Boulanger (L-Drummond — Athabasca) for adoption of a distinctive national flag for Canada. Under the bill, the government would design a flag and submit it to Parliament.

The bill was still being discussed when the hour for private members' business expired. It is unlikely it will be debated again this session.

Margaret Aitken (PC-York West-Humber) said a national flag is not a matter of party and emblems but a tracing of history. The Union Jack was part of Canadian history and should be ready in the longest in the world.

Les Boyle Honored by Local Scouters

By Christ Leggat

On Wednesday evening in Tabernacle Church Hall, Scouters gathered to pay honor to Les Boyle, assistant district commissioner, preparatory to his departure, next fall, to take up his new duties as principal of the high school at Madoc. The meeting was of an informal nature and consisted of the various associates of Mr. Boyle in Scouting, recalling the contributions which he had made during his stay here in the last four years. These expressions were interspersed by the ever-popular Scout songs and certainly demonstrated how Scouters can sing when they get together.

Scouter Harry Smith, who has been very closely associated with the guest of honor, spoke in glowing terms of his association and what it had meant to him personally and also to Scouting in particular. Another member of his staff, District Cub Master Earl McClelland, spoke of the inspiration which he had received through his association and in his work in charge of Cubbing in the north and west districts of Belleville Scouting.

Mr. F. Fairfield, county president of the Belleville Local Association, brought the greetings of this group to the meeting and complimented Mr. Boyle on his appointment to Madoc and expressed the opinion that both in Scouting and in his educational career it was felt that he was only just starting. He paid tribute to the achievements in both of these activities of the late Provincial Field Commissioner, Art Jackson, was also present and stated that he had made many friends during his stay in Belleville and that he played a prominent part in Tabernacle Church and also was a very diligent Sunday school teacher in the Sunday school.

Commissioner Phil Allcorn, chairman of the meeting, spoke of perhaps the most rewarding phase of Mr. Boyle's work to Scouting, namely the establishment of acting Scoutmaster of the Sea Scout Troop. He called upon one of his patrol leaders to make a presentation on behalf of the Sea Scouts of the Belleville Scouters' executive and group.

Mrs. Boyle accompanied her husband and was presented with a corsage by the Belleville Scouters at the hands of another patrol leader of the troop to express a deep feeling of appreciation for the quality which she must have made with their young family in allowing her husband so much time to spend so much time in Scouting.

The meeting drew to a close with an expression of "God Speed" to Mr. Boyle along the fertile path of service to boys in the great movement of Scouting.

FINAL MICRO - WAVE STAGE

W. E. "Sandy" Sandercock, P.C. candidate for election in Hastings West, discusses the current election campaign with Mrs. Effie Leach of Trenton and Eggiville. Although in her 90th year Mrs. Leach is very active in her support of the P.C. party and community projects.

Conservatives Have Kept Promises Says Premier Frost At Reception Held in City

"When we have promised to do things we have done them," stated Premier Leslie Frost as he spoke to several hundred people from the "heartland of old Ontario" who were present at an informal reception sponsored by the Progressive Conservatives at Sir Winston Churchill School yesterday evening. The chief head for Ontario reminded those present that he had made several promises during his last campaign speech in this same area two years ago, and that all these promises had been carried out.

"Give us again your confidence to go ahead with Ontario," continued Mr. Frost as he outlined his party's "platform of progress" which has carried on throughout the past ten years with the expansion of population and population. In "this great empire of land which is known as Ontario." This platform for progress in the future has some "planks which some- has alleged the old mast stole from someone else's lumber pile" but it was built long before the election was announced stated the Premier.

Speaking on the history of the Conservative party from its inception some 100 years ago with John Alexander MacDonald, Mr. Frost described it as a "people's party" which embraced men and women from every walk of life and of every creed and race. This election gives the opportunity of rededicating it as the "people's party" commented the speaker. He spoke of the enthusiastic and friendly reception which people across Ontario appear to be giving his government and its actions. "This is no reason for complacency" added Mr. Frost as he described the election as being a tough campaign and saying he never had an "easy election."

He introduced the candidates from this area — W. E. "Sandy" Sandercock for West Hastings, Norris Whitney for Prince Edward-Lennox, Clark Rollins for East Hastings, and Lloyd Simmonett for Frontenac and requested the present to vote for them as members for the provincial government.

Mr. Frost also commented briefly on the proposed development of uranium as a source of power for industry in this province and commented that "government is a matter of common sense . . . and good business."

PEARKES OVER-OPTIMISTIC?

If there is one field in which experts are open to question, it is in respect to matters military.

The history of recent years shows that too often generals are fighting the last war. The war that is coming is different.

We would have thought Mr. G. R. Pearkes to be free from this criticism, but the Honorable Minister of National Defence who addressed the Senate external affairs committee sounded uncomfortably like General Pearkes. Although he dropped the title when he became a minister of the Crown, he may not have been able to discard the spirit signified.

Mr. Pearkes told the Senators that any Russian attack on North America with the equipment the Soviets now are known to have would be a "complete failure." Now this is most comforting news - - or would be if we could be sure it was an accurate estimate of the situation.

Mr. Pearkes' own words cast some doubt on its accuracy.

He says that the Russians have "very few" long range missiles and that these are "inaccurate and unreliable."

But supposing just one missile flew straight and landed on its target - - Detroit, or Pittsburgh, or New York, or Los Angeles. With a whole city gone, could an attack be said to be "a complete failure?"

Mr. Pearkes said that he did not mean "that a few bombers might not get through." Just how many bombers are a "few?"—And how few bombers must there be for an attack to remain "so costly it would be considered a complete failure." If "few" is a mere half dozen, and if a half dozen major cities disappear, would the cost be considered too heavy by Russian military men?

Mr. Pearkes' reassuring statement would not have seemed out of place in the last war, when a few bombers and a few bombers could be endured.

But that was before the H-bomb.

CASTRO BATTLES REDS

Amongst all the talk about Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba having Communist leanings, or at least being partially dependent on Communist support, little attention appears to have been given to the results of elections in Cuba unions durings the past several weeks.

R. Hart Phillips in the New York Times reports that the Castro movement has scored a virtually complete victory over the Communists in all union elections.

That hardly suggests that Castro and the Reds are working hand in glove.

If additional proof were needed, it would be supplied by a report that labor groups at a national sugar workers congress in Havana on Monday threatened to burn down the plant of the Communist paper Hoy, because it had called the procedure of the congress "anti-democratic" and similar to that of labor meetings under the Batista regime.

Police were thrown around the Hoy plant, a procedure which further suggests that Castro is attempting to follow the democratic path by protecting the rights of his opponents to criticise his regime.

None of this, of course, justifies the reprehensible shooting aquads which dealt with supporters of Batista in such summary fashion, after trials which can not by any stretch of the imagination be called adequate.

But if there is no proof that Castro is as lily-white as some of his admirers would have us think, there is equally no proof that he is as Red as some of his detractors try to make out.

The habit of calling any man with radical tendencies a Communist is dangerous, and nowhere more so than when we are attempting to judge the true nature of regimes in lands of revolution, which we know little, either with respect to past conditions or present tendencies.

POOR CHILD

Perhaps you too spotted that story from London, England - - that one about the father of an 11-week-old baby who is going to take the baby to Ireland, feed him on raw beef and goat's milk? His ambition is to make the child the strongest three-year-old child in the world, able to tear telephone books, bend nails, and so help his father win a $1,400 challenge offer.

Sounds like a good case for the Humane Society to take up. —(Fort William Times-Journal.)

THE TEST

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The-time to judge a man is not,
When he is in the public eye;
Nor when he stands before you all
In stern review, as you pass by.
He may be only feigning, then,
The smile that seems so good to see,
The pleasant things he says to you
May be no more than flattery.

Not when he has an axe to grind
Or when a public office seeks,
For then his manners at his best
And in his kindest manner, speaks.

Not at the banquet or the feast
When he is striving for applause,
For then a man will seem to be
What best may serve his selfish cause.

But judge him by his conduct when
There's no advantage thrust to view,
And criticized unfavorably,
The best of kindness and true worth.

However such a man may seem,
Is, after all, the way a man
Acts with his loved ones when at home.

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer

by HARRY M. ROGER

ARTICLE 20

It has been said, and it is possibly true, that a one-industry town lasts only as long as the industry. However be it said for Deseronto it was never actually a one-industry town. The founder had many and varied industries, he was the head of his own railway, his own steamship line. There was nothing he was not tied up with, and to great advantage financially. As a matter of fact as late as 1895, when Deseronto had but 96 less population than Napanee, with 3,238 to Napanee's 3,454, the Rathbun Company had a paid in capital of $1,500,000 with offices in Napanee and Belleville, head office of course Deseronto. And what is more the Rathbun Company published the town newspaper.

Even long after the death of the founder, his son, E. W., who in time became a member of the Ontario Legislature, was to keep the various company businesses running at top speed. But of course as time went on the timber limits controlled by the company had been cut out, the company railway and steamships had to be given way for what we have today.

But even though the Rathburns sponsored the Liberal party, during their time, industries, other than the company industries, must have been operating, for in the year 1900 Dominion Match got its start, nor when the chemical company started to operate a small steel mill, but these were two key industries when we took over. The Post in early 1910. At that time the "match" was running night and day under the management of Picton-born R. J. S. Dewar, former bank manager. (Some years later when the plant was sold to the E. B. Eddy Company the plant was moved to a new location in Hull where it is still operating.) Deseronto as office manager of E. C. Metcalf's canning factory, later to move to Belleville where he was connected with the creamery and where he died a few years ago.) The steel plant, a total flop, in 1910 when the big boats brought in coal and took away the product of the plant, was soon to be nothing more than another vacant site for industry No. 1 except which never came in our time.

MISTAKES MADE

At time we can see it became more and more apparent that Deseronto must secure industries to take the place of those which had been lost to the town, industries such as the Steel-Metsh plant), and so it was up to the Chamber of Commerce to get busy. The chamber's greatest efforts were during the 1920's, we must say however it wasn't for lack of trying that new industries were not secured. However, as we see it now, now it at that time, all such efforts were doomed. There was too much for granted, for acting before investigating, and about all we had for listening to unsound advice.

For instance, there was a public meeting at the town hall that we were not to attend. A certain individual, operating out of Toronto, a man well known to us many years before although at the time we did not place him, was there to lay the business men that if they would pay him two or three hundred dollars cash on the scrutched he would guarantee new industries in no time. We were given the man's name of course and it rang a bell in our memory, but surely not, surely those hardheaded men, for every respect honorable business man we knew at that time thing such a man would have to say, that is, of course, if he were the man we had in mind.

We were in the office of the late Jack Cooper, secretary, at the time the secretary was telling of the fine meeting the night before, the fact that the town, was to be favored with a man who would get the much needed industries, that the moment a stranger was passing the post office across the street, that he is to be invited to meet.

"It's that the man you gave your hard earned money to, to secure industries for you?" we asked and the answer was, "Yes, that's the man and he knows his business."

OFTEN GULLIBLE

It is a painful fact that the most honorable people are usually the most gullible.

"Pick up your phone", we said, "call - - - - - - - - - - - - - - and - - - - and if he does not tell you he saw you and where he died on the occasion occasions, we will pay the telephone bill".

"I will not" he said firmly, "we need industries and we don't care how we get them, we'll get ways throwing a wet blanket on our efforts".

"Not wet blanket", we said, "but we don't intend to stand by and see you get stung by a rider".

Of course we were right. That individual took the money, made some pretense (so he said) to get industries, but in time was never heard from again.

We did attend a meeting of the C. of C. (that's how we got defeated the man who wouldn't take our advice in the matter of giving money to a rider), which we didn't hold that job for long. A township, we said some property for sale, hired a taxi to take him to Napanee where he would meet a capitalist. Of this his return he dropped in with the information that he had been let down on the grounds that this was private business and not the business of the C. of C. and so we quit.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article 82 contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society)

"LIFE IN THE CLEARINGS"

This is the story of the most unusual book ever written about Belleville.

It is the story of a book which, although written in Belleville more than a century ago, has only now been published for the first time in Canada.

It is the story of "Life in the Clearings" a companion-piece of "Roughing it in the Bush" by Belleville's famous author, Susanna Moodie.

Although "Roughing it in the Bush" has had three Canadian printings since its initial publication in England in 1852, "Life in the Clearings" has been relatively unknown in Canada, having been published a century ago in only Britain and the United States.

"Life in the Clearings" is therefore, in a sense, a new book, in the field of local and Ontario history.

Whereas the earlier work was a first-hand account of Susanna Moodie's attempt to establish a homestead on the Canadian frontier in the 1830's (in the Lakefield-Peterborough district), "Life in the Clearings" is a story of civilized Canada in the 1840's.

Since Mrs. Moodie lived in Belleville until 1839, her story is largely the story of civilization as she saw it. Indeed, chapter one is entitled simply "Belleville".

As Robert L. McDougall points out in his introduction to this "new" Canadian book, "This is a story whose characters are ideas and values, and it shows us how the early home became Canadian society was being built in the days when its founders lived on West Bridge Street in Belleville".

Either her earlier book, which was concerned with the trials and tribulations of backwood life, "Life in the Clearings" or the new Mrs. Moodie's changing personality. She had become mellowed in her outlook on Canadian life and social ideals since 1832, and the colony is in a much healthier condition than the one she had known in England. The improvement in society she attributed to these raising of the classes, and the "absence of convention and prejudice in the relations between the different social groups".

Mrs. Moodie is a good reporter and she has a keen sense of humor. So says McDougall, who adds, "She keeps her finger pointed upon the subject. The reader will find this eye an excellent one for detail in the description of material effect, and he will watch with interest the progress of the ingress of that lone cow down the stream of the flooded Moira". The reader will be hard to please who does not like Mrs. Moodie's "sketches of character, her sense, her tolerance, her genial and gracious manner".

The is a delightful book that will be read and re-read, particularly in the Belleville area, and the Macmillan Company of Canada is to be congratulated on its decision to publish "Life in the Clearings" in its first Canadian edition, in such an attractive format.

Next week, we'll turn to some of Mrs. Moodie's memorable passages, for example her description of the Court House as a "massy, but rather tasteless building", and her reference to an East Indian (whose name she it so request) as a "loonsy curiosity - - - great eyeballs (pointing his) ugly tower towards heaven."

Sergt. Cooper, bandmaster in charge of the Trenton RCAF band, recently received a personal message of congratulation from His Majesty King George, commending the unit upon the splendid performance of the Air Force band during the military activities in connection with the Royal visit of Their Majesties in Ottawa.

George Lee, elderly district farmer who had carried his farming on his person for years, was robbed yesterday, allegedly by a group of men who circled about him asking to bless his money and save his physical ailments. "Alas, no cure," said he, "my rheumatic is past help."

Mrs. Wilfred Shannon has returned home from Rochester, Minn., after visiting her brother there.

Mrs. Harry Shoemer of Detroit, is the guest of Mrs. Harry Vanstone.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Murphy, of Detroit, Mich., are visiting relatives in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hawbolt, Spencerwood, Wellman's, Rylstone, Cooper and Remington, Bannockburn, Edmonds and Cashel visitors were present from West Hastings.

The city fathers have decided at last to investigate the unhealthy condition of the foot bridge.

Mayor Lorne W. Marsh went to Toronto today.

Mr. William Mackintosh, Madoc, school inspector for North Hastings, was in town today.

Mr. William Seeds, an old Belleville boy who has resided in Chicago for years, is, for some time, will return shortly to this city to reside.

Dr. A. R. Hepburn and wife, of Birmingham, Alabama, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. MacDonnell, John Street. Dr. MacDonnell is another Belleville boy who has made a success in the land to the south.

The $70,000.00 school debenture by-law will be submitted to the ratepayers on 16th of July.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A BASIC VIRTUE

Jesus dwell greatly upon the necessity of purity of heart.

What did He mean by this? He meant more than mere purity. People sometimes go through life never completely exposed to sex, yet they are not necessarily pure in heart, or pure. Circumstances may keep them from evil acts. Fear may deter them. But purity of heart is something more than merely abstaining from impure acts. It is a matter of the inward motivation of the heart.

Purity of heart does not always have to do with sexual matters. It does have primarily with motives. A man may advocate a seemingly good cause for some evil or selfish motive. A person is not pure in his motives — he is not pure in heart.

But, of course, the sexual aspect of purity of heart commands our first attention. Does it mean that we simply because he does not have the opportunity to be impure or is deterred by the fear of consequences? This is not purity of heart. It is not purity of heart when the heart protests angrily and firmly against the suggestions of evil. Certain things are to be done for the simple reason that they are wrong. Certain things are out of line with God's standards. Certain things are unworthy of the highest and noblest in our lives.

The reward of purity of heart surpasses all earthly measurement. "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."

To be sure, if the blood pressure reading is too extreme in either direction, it gives your physician warning to look for the reasons — p-r when we find extreme readings, they ordinarily are found after other signs already are manifest. In some cases, the positive signs that are apparent elsewhere.

Thus, whether your pressure is 136, or "should" be 180, other factors besides just those numbers must be weighed. A reading of 180 may cause trouble in one person and none in another. For such reasons it becomes impossible to say that a given blood pressure figure is "best" for any particular age.

"Dear Dr. Molner: We have a little boy, 3 years old. His teeth are very yellow. Our friends have suggested to us that this is a sign of a heart ailment. Is this so? — M.F."

If with know-it-all "friends" would keep their mouths shut unless they know what they are talking about, there is no scientific reason at all for connecting the color of teeth with heart ailment. That's just the blabbermouths. (I assume that you are referring to your baby, the child, but your "friends" will insist on trying to worry you.)

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that drinking milk before a meal is more wholesome than drinking milk after meals?

"Is chocolate milk as good for children as white? — G. G."

First question: No. Milk's milk.

Second: Chocolate milk is milk with a little chocolate flavoring in it. Its wholesomeness is about the same as drinking a glass of milk and then eating a little chocolate candy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHERE IS GOD?

I glance into the perfect evidence of Spring, and I see God in every leaf, in the last little white and blue flowers that grow by the million and cover the earth. I see beauty everywhere, and the great trees are majestic as they reach high toward the blue of the sky and the gold of the sun.

I read a beautiful quotation from one of the small books by the late Christopher Morley. He said: "Men talk of 'finding God,' but no wonder it is difficult. He is hidden in that which is the most obvious thing in the universe."

I see God in every flower, even in the smile of a child.

Who gives us the beautiful birds to sing to us in the glorious passing California and the Gulf of Mexico. What the atomic testing ground in Nevada did to the bird regions south of it has been best examined that is left to nothing by. But more important by far are the effects of mass insecticide sprayings of crops, just at this season, across the whole breadth of the southern states for the cotton fields and huge industrialized vegetable farms of Texas and New Mexico and the fruit farms of California.

Any kind of poison that lost us our songbirds would be a poor trade, but it may be hundreds of millions of dollars versus birds. And we all know how that would be decided.

Where is God?

Then we turn now from outside thinkers to the real interpreters: those songs! I walked in my garden today and tried to talk with a beautiful bird — a bluebird, I think. Two cardinals made a call and I welcomed them to my little spring, below the gum tree, where a little wren has built its nest at her home. God watches over all His realm. Give your heart to Him!

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

BLOOD PRESSURE TENDS TO RISE AS WE GROW OLDER

"Dear Dr. Molner: What should the blood pressure of an elderly person be? I am 74. My doctor said it should be around 136, but last week another doctor said that was too low — that I could carry 180. Which one is right? — C. M. M."

Nobody can be arbitrary about what blood pressure "should" be.

Of course, if it is clearly too high, then it should be lowered. There can be instances in which pressure is too low, and medicines should be taken to bring it up a bit.

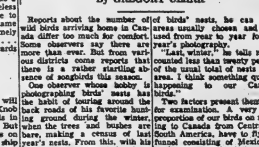
But in either type of case, you must remember that what is "right" for one person may not be suitable for another. People are individuals. Some have light hair, others dark; some are naturally calm, others excitable.

Emotions, tension under which you live, disease of the kidneys or arteries (or diet especially excessive salt) all have a bearing on blood pressure. And, of course, it tends to rise as we grow older.

If we have conditions, a relatively high blood pressure is helpful to your system in delivering it would not be wise.

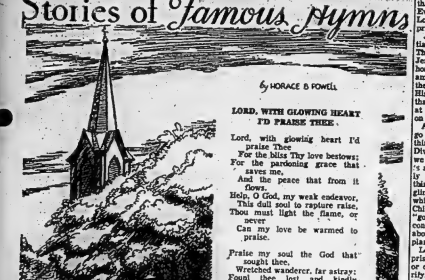
More commonly, however, it is the other extreme. Because of headaches, dizziness, fainting, certain heart ailments, and some other conditions, your doctor may consider that it is wise to take definite steps to reduce the pressure to a safer level.

Weigh reduction, and reduction of salt in the diet, are orders in this regard. Mild sedatives may help, just by relaxing you. And in recent years we have been blessed with the development of several new and then excellently useful drugs. Those of the rauwolfia, or Indian snake root, group are the most helpful indeed.



At the same time, keep this in mind: There are many people in their 70's or more whose blood pressure is far from 180 but not yet for them, all circumstances considered, is within a healthful range.

Readers of the same age have pressures of 120 or 130, yet such levels cannot be regarded as "low blood pressure." For the individuals, it is right.



Temperament, general physical health, habits and activities, and most of all symptoms are the important things. Your doctor's system is working well at whatever your blood pressure is, then you have reason to think that your system has acquired good balance.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

LORD, WITH GLOWING HEART I'D PRAISE THEE

Lord, with glowing heart I'd praise Thee
For the bliss Thy love bestows;
For the pardoning grace that saves me,
And the peace that from it flows.
Help, O God, my weak endeavor,
This dull soul to rapture raise;
Thou must light the flame, or never
Can my love be warmed to praise.

Praise my soul the God that sought thee,
Wretched wanderer, far astray;
Found thee lost and kindly brought thee
From the paths of death away;
Praise, with love's devoutest
feeling,
Him who saw thy guilt-born
fear,
And, the light of hope revealing,
Bade the blood-stained cross appear.

Lord, this bosom's ardent feeling
Vainly would my lips express,
Low, before Thy footstool kneeling,
Deign Thy suppliant's power to bless.
Let Thy grace, my soul's chief
treasure,
Love's pure flame within me raise,
And, since words can never measure,
Let my life show forth Thy
praise.

Every school boy and girl will tell you, when Francis Scott Key's name comes up, that he was the author of America's national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner". But scarcely one of them knows that Mr. Key also was a devout church man, a popular Sunday School teacher, and a talented writer of religious hymns.

He was born at Frederick, Maryland in 1779, studied for the bar, and practised law in Washington, D.C. for a number of years. Then, he was elected to the high office of United States District Attorney, a post which he held for several terms, prior to his death in 1842.

Mr. Key was a member — and a very consecrated one — of the Episcopal Church. His pastor used to call upon him to visit the sick and infirm of the parish and, in 1833, he was honored by his denomination by being invited to serve on a committee to compile a new Episcopal hymnal. Dr. William Muhlenberg, another distinguished American Episcopal churchman, served on the same committee and it was in a collection of songs which Dr. Muhlenberg brought out about that time that Key's "Lord, With Glowing Heart I'd Praise Thee" first appeared.

The hymn was written in 1817, about five years after Mr. Key composed our national anthem. Another of his hymns which is fairly popular is entitled "Before Thee, Lord, We Bow". It was turned out in 1828 for an Independence Day celebration.

Then when Jesus' methods of healing and teaching did seem to be justifying themselves by the crowds they drew, He turned His back on the avenues of popularity and announced that He would go up to Jerusalem where His enemies were lying in wait. To turn from success to certain suffering seemed so unthinkable that Peter said it must not be. Even the followers closest to Our Lord were shocked by His surprising move.

Jesus was crucified. The Christian enterprise seemed ended. The disciples started to leave Jerusalem for their former homes and tasks. And then an amazing thing occurred. The One they thought dead so convinced His followers of His resurrection that He became more of a power at Pentecost than He had been on Palm Sunday.

And the surprises of God ever go on. Who can predict what new thing will break forth from the Divine Ruler of this universe, for we are in the hands of "One that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think." In this fact we get a glimpse of the "grace of God," which Prof. Henry Wieman of Chicago once defined as the "good which God puts into such concrete situations over and above all that man can do or plan or even imagine."

Let us keep clear that the surprises of God are not whimsical or capricious. That would be terrible. We can imagine what life must have been like in Nazi Germany when a tyrannical Hitler ruled not by law but by tantrum and whim, and what life must still be like in Russia or People's China where dictators rule by personal decree.

RULES BY LAW

God is just and rules by law. But He is a Father whose law is love. His ways are higher than our ways as the heavens are high above the earth. His resources are richer than we know. When we have made our calculations, God adds something more.

Many of us have experienced this grace of God's extras. A daughter watches by her mother's bedside through long weeks of illness. When the crisis passes, she may exclaim, "I did not know it was in me to do all that." Well, it wasn't in her own strength alone; it was the gift of God's grace.

And think of the national scene. When the time based of pilgrim colonists were leaving for the untested wilderness of America, their pastor preached a sermon reminding them that God has more light and truth to break forth from His Holy Word. Who could have predicted the astounding events which those New England Pilgrims started?

It is this unpredictable power of God which strengthens my hope when diplomats get stalled in stalemates during this cold war. God is also at work "able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think."

In Honolulu a great Central Union Church the chancel carries these words of Scripture, "Love Never Faileth." The Divine Love which surprised the Pilgrims on the Atlantic may surprise us in the troubled Pacific.

Only God can write love's last surprise.

A Lift for Living

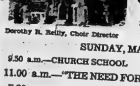
Unpredictable Grace of God

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

The last line of a letter, the last sentence of a sermon, the last note of a song all have a special importance due to their position. We feel that the close of anything should fittingly be its climax. What words then are worthy to close the book which we call the Word of God? They are: "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all."

What do we mean by the word "grace," which we hear so often in church and so seldom on the street?

Back in 1918, as World War I was drawing to a close, the late Joseph Fort Newton, then pastor of City Temple, London, wrote in his diary these words: "The great thing about Christianity is that no one can tell what it will do next."



The story of the Christian faith is filled with startling surprises. Christ broke through the calculations of men in His coming.

Many of Jesus' moves during His ministry ran counter to human predictions. It must have been a surprise to His Nazarene neighbors when the established young carpenter left his bench and was baptized of John in the Jordan.

And after He was baptized, Jesus set about His mission in a way so contrary to what the Baptist expected of a Messiah that John sent messengers asking, "Art thou He that should come or look we for another?"

Wedding

AIKEN — YANOVER

Miss Sandra June Yanover chose a blossom white gown of re-embroidered silk organza when she was given in marriage by her father by Mr. Irving John Aiken on Tuesday, May 26. Rabbi Reuben Ebanks conducted the ceremony at the King Edward Hotel. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Yanover of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aiken.

The bridal gown featured a torso bodice embroidered with organza scallops at the neck and long sleeves. The full, floor-length skirt was softly gathered in the empire line at the waist with butterfly back-bow and swept to a cathedral train edged with scallops. The fingertip bridal veil was of pure silk illusion and was carried a cascade of orchids and lily-of-the-valley.

Attending the bride were: Miss Donna Vallkoff, gowned in pink organza; Miss Jane Yanover and Miss Beverly Susan Yanover in blue organza. Their pure silk organza gowns of shirtmaker style featured pointed collars.

Mr. Robert Fish was groomsman and Mr. Wayne Tanenbaum, Mr. Murray Sulman, Mr. Sheldon Goldstein and Mr. Alan Zender ushered.

Mr. and Mrs. Aiken left for Nassau following the reception in the Sheraton Room of the King Edward Hotel. They will reside in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Danford are pictured following their recent marriage in Mount Pleasant United Church, Stirling. The bride is the former Miss Lola McConnell, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McConnell, Stirling. The bridegroom is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Danford, Springbrook. GRADUATION EXERCISES

Miss Marylen R. Fox graduated yesterday from McGill University, Montreal, with a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics. Miss Fox is the daughter of the late Herbert W. Fox, of the firm of Fairbrother Co. Ltd.

Her mother, Mrs. H. W. Fox, and brother Graeme, of West Bridge Street, attended the convocation at which the girl student received their degrees on the McGill campus.

Following the ceremonies, the 1959 graduating class in Home Economics entertained their parents and friends at a formal luncheon at the Windsor Hotel.

From 4 to 8 p.m., Principal F. C. James and Mrs. James entertained at a reception and garden party on the McGill campus.

RAISING FUNDS

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — As a means of raising funds the women's committee of the Windsor art association has arranged for six beautiful homes in Windsor to be opened to the public on June 6. During the winter the committee served free refreshments to 7,000 visitors to the city's art gallery.

White Cane Club Holds Enjoyable Meet

Members of the Belleville White Cane Club, their escorts, Field Secretary Mr. Timmins and his assistant, Don Ferguson spent an enjoyable evening when they gathered at YMCA Thursday to celebrate another of the club's regular monthly meetings.

They were welcomed by the club's president, Mrs. Violet Waite. Mrs. Rollins presided at the piano.

The business portion of the meeting consisted of reading correspondence, announcements, including birthdays, with "Happy Birthday" sung for Mrs. Waite. The president called on Don Ferguson to play the accordion selections for community singing.

Short business meeting was held and the correspondence was read. It was decided to purchase some new hymns and Mrs. Rollins was to report on them.

Next Monday evening will be the closing meeting of this season and will take the form of the usual pot-luck supper.

After the business portion of the meeting was closed, Betty Yates, study group convener, introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. Ross Gordon, the Diocesan Dorcas secretary of the W. A. Mrs. Godden gave an interesting talk on the work of the Women's Auxiliary.

Florence Lennox thanked Mrs. Godden for her enlightening talk and a social half hour was enjoyed with lunch being served by hostesses, Marg. Wiggins, Mrs. Sharpee and Doris Stevenson's art gallery.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The last meeting for the month of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose Hall on Victoria Avenue. The meeting opened with Senior Regent Gladys Ritch, presiding.

One new member was favorably balloted on. A telegram was read announcing the winners of the $50 weekly draw: 1st, Mrs. Collins, 117 Bleecker Blvd., Waterloo; 2nd, Fred R. Harris, 12 39th St., Longbranch; 3rd, Joe Pearson, Cobourg.

The new officers were nominated for the coming year.

Draw donated by Mary Peoples was won by Pilgrim.

A euchre is to be held at Gladys Ritch's early in June.

Penny lunch and refreshments, served by Mildred Priddle's committee, concluded the evening.

Newfoundland Subject of Study Guild

Newfoundland, the part of Canada which has the distinction of having the oldest and the newest, was the subject covered by the Women's Study Guild when it met on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. G. Mayhew.

Mrs. E. Risto dealt with the history of this "mysterious land" which dates back to 1497, making it the oldest known part of Canada. Early explorers were frome Ireland, England and the Channel Islands. Then this colony remained under the British Government until 1907 when it became a Dominion. In 1949 thereby making it our newest province.

The geography of Newfoundland was also covered by Mrs. Risto and Mrs. Mayhew, who vividly illustrated in the film strips which they had. Entitled "Newfoundland, Sentinel of the Atlantic," the film showed an iceberg being majestically despite the barren rocky shores and the heavily wooded interior. Although the difficulties of producing food, the small communities scattered along the coast have survived. The importance of Newfoundland as an air and radio base was emphasized.

Mrs. G. Williamson explained the economic and political situation and dealt with Premier Smallwood's efforts to secure new industry in order to supplement the fishing, lumbering and mining industries. A rather interesting sidelight to the fishing industry is that it is still operated on the barter system with no money changing hands when the fishermait returns to sell his catch. He is given credit against which his family obtains the necessities of life.

Unlike the other nine provinces in Canada, education is still under the control of the various religious denominations.

Newspapers, radio and TV have given wide coverage to the recent labor problems in the lumbering industry, Mrs. Williamson dealt with the issue involved in this strike which has still not been resolved satisfactorily.

Mrs. A. Ashley led the devotional dealing with Christian citizenship.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. G. Mayhew and plans for the coming meeting were discussed.

Tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. H. N. Varcoe and Mrs. A. Buchner.

Club Activities

CHRIST CHURCH C.G

The regular meeting of Christ Church C.G.I.T. Group was held on Monday evening. Business was discussed and the package sale was held and was quite a financial success.

A short business meeting was held and the correspondence was read. It was decided to purchase some new hymns and Mrs. Rollins was to report on them.

Next Monday evening will be the closing meeting of this season and will take the form of the usual pot-luck supper.

After the business portion of the meeting was closed, Betty Yates, study group convener, introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. Ross Gordon, the Diocesan Dorcas secretary of the W. A. Mrs. Godden gave an interesting talk on the work of the Women's Auxiliary.

Minutes Are Golden

By Alma Mason

Kipling's words which olimax his wonderful poem "If" are soul stirring and thought provoking — "If you can fill the unforgiving minute with sixty seconds' worth of distance run, yours is the Earth and everything that's in it, and which is more — you'll be a Man, my son!

What did Kipling mean when he said "sixty seconds" worth of distance run?" Surely he meant that we must make the most of every moment we are given the breath of life. Surely he meant that we must not waste time on trivial things but reach for the best and finest in life to convert it into still better and finer material.

So often one hears this remark "How do you do so much in such a little space of time?" The answer should be "I do not waste a single minute on vapid or irresolute undertakings."

Walter Foss voiced the greatest need of the modern world when he wrote — "Give me men to match my mountains. Give me men to match my plains; men with empires in their purpose; men with eras in their brains." We not only need "men with empires in their purpose and eras in their brains." We need men who will strive to meet any task that confronts them by filling "every unforgiving minute with energy and responsible determination."

Moses carried through a task that might well have staggered a lesser man. Suppose Moses had been a weakling and a waster of time? He knew there would be little rest or peace for him in his stupendous undertaking but his dauntless heart did not cringe from the task God had set him. It was Moses who made the children of Israel willing to labor and fight. It was he who "drove the Red Sea; the people only followed. It was he who patiently bore their complainings and digressions throughout the wilderness life; who shaped men of fortitude from Egyptian slaves. He "filled the unforgiving minute with sixty seconds' worth of distance run."

Because Moses filled the hours and days and years of his life with majestic power and purpose he may have bequeathed the perfect design for living in the Ten Commandments. We received from Moses the first clear, positive statement of the principles which during all their modern history, Europe and America have been striving to apply. The rights of God, the rights of man, the relationship of God to man and man to God, the relationship of men to each other; all these were held in the hands and heart of Moses and have given us our first human document. This document remains the world's most enervating masterpiece of conciseness — of merit and beauty.

"I can," said Lincoln and the slaves were freed. "I can," said Lindbergh and the distance between New York and France was conquered at air.

History abounds with examples of what has been accomplished by sheer force of will power coupled with the knowledge that every minute should be put to proper use. "People do not lack strength, they lack will," said Victor Hugo. "Nothing is impossible to the man who says "I can" said Mirabeau. "Nothing is impossible, said Pitt. Goethe said "What you can do or dream you can, begin it; bi boldness has genius power and magic in it."

Often we find we have to use a flail on a tired body and a whip on lagging spirits to increase personal momentum and to fill the precious minutes with determined effort. Often we have to exhibit self confidence we do not feel in order to inspect to others faith in our ability to obtain results.

We must remember that to make the minutes and hours and days a pathway strewn with virtuous and virile effort that will live on long after our earthly bodies are gone — we must draw on God power and God direction. If the minutes are imbued with the incense of faith and prayer we will be able to separate the dross of wasted effort from the rich gold of achievement. Then the closing words of Kipling's poem will become luminous and vivid and understandable.

"Yours is the earth and everything that's in it — and which is more — you'll be a man, my son."

Such little time is given man
To fill his poor allotted span
With honest service, worthy work;
Minutes are golden, do not shirk
The Duty you must bravely own;
The task that's yours and yours alone;
Gird on the sword and honor too,
Tackle the job that's meant for you.
Then ask the Captain of your soul
To help you strive to reach your goal,
For faith in God will ease the quest
And lead on to the topmost crest.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

How are the mosquitoes out your way? Did you ever see so many with such voracious appetites? Strontium 90 hasn't slowed them up and we are wondering if they haven't learned that the transfer to take place at Trenton. They must have their own passenger transportation because they are using the bare hides of us hitchmens for perfect landing fields. Mosquito-land must have excellent flying and gunnery schools. They aspect flying skill and excellent marksmanship is terrific, terrific in large letters.

And when did we hear becoming a long hard winter and a delayed action spring. T. Blakelee, alderman from Belleville alderman propounded some philosophy that we understand that he explained that it was his approach to our present dilemma. If we have been deformed correctly he staunchly believes that some good comes out of everything and he is optimistic that Belleville may secure great benefits from the problems the city is faced with.

If you like to do some wandering, you may be more than partly right, but there seems to be a lesson in this. What is in their right minds for instance, good comes out of the sting, the itch and the downright pesky-ness of a mosquito. As we listened at our arms, we recognize our philosophers and guides but no, we remember the alderman's philosophy and we admit that the mosquito is numerous in Ontario are synonymous. Isn't there is a lesson in that? We can't have one without the other," or words to that effect? Oh to be a mosquito, a mosquito is now that summer is here!

Maybe some of our readers will remember T and T writing a couple of summers ago about the corpse of little winged creatures. They expropriated the word "corpse" and hanging in the open garage. We can assure you that they did not but we adopted them because it is cheaper to move than to pay rent. However, they are not only thought.

longer with us. We cannot help referring to the alderman's philosophic words because if we could afford to put on the kind of dinner that he has given we would never have known our town boosters in an exhaust.

Some good you see comes out of everything even a garage open in the weather and the birds. About two weeks ago, we noticed that the hood of the car was literally plastered one morning. You will understand what we mean. We wiped the car patiently and took a look to see. Sure enough, swallows had begun to build their home over the car. With ruthless cruelty we took a hoe and scraped the wet mud from the beam. About two later, the mud hut was being re-built. Three times that day, the swallows returned to destruction, and undauntedly they started all over again. The next day after their first effort they tried the same thing and this time they went on for days. Finally, believe it or not we gave up as a hopeless case and the young married couple defeated us. Since they chatter away like old friends.

It may sound crazy as all get out but we can see something in lieu of new garage doors. Maybe we can have them during our broadcast and for the first time in my life I found myself being almost speechless. Mrs. Swallow has decided to raise a family. She is always pecking over one side of her mud hut and a tall sticking out of the other. On a visit about two feet from Mrs. Swallow's nest, Mrs. Swallow and I had a conversation they were having. He was chirping 'I'm right, I'm right dear' and she was saying 'don't leave me' and so on. Mrs. Swallow is family and affectionate scene.

Mr. Alderman we agree with you. On a wet morning we open the side door and there is Mrs. Swallow and her husband hut and a tall sticking out of the other. On a visit about two feet from Mrs. Swallow's nest, Mrs. Swallow and I had a conversation they were having. He was chirping 'I'm right, I'm right dear' and she was saying 'don't leave me' and so on. The Golden Years

A Widow, 62, With Lots of Money Finds She Still Has Problems

By THOMAS COLLINS

"I am a widow, 62. And I am not stupid. But without my husband I do not have the brains to do.

"My resources are these:

$51,000 in mutual funds
$22,000 in other savings
$500 in the bank
$2,000 in four vacant lots
$16,000 in debt-free house and furnishings

"My income is as follows:

$144 a month from mutual funds
$30 a month special income check
$300 in the bank

"I have a $1,000 life insurance policy on which I pay $54 annually. I have medical insurance on which I pay $13.10 quarterly. I pay $120 a year in taxes on my house and the four vacant lots.

The widow says she has no close relatives but would like to leave a few bequests when she dies. Her problem is to augment her income.

"I have decided to sell my house, mainly because I think that I have too much money tied up in it for just one person. I am debating the fate of the lots. A duplex for about $8,000. I would live in part, and would rent the other to a friend. I think I could get an average rental of $75 a month. That is an old—again, off-again idea. I am afraid to make a move for fear I will make a wrong one.

"For one thing how would I build the duplex? Wait until I get the money out of the house, then build the duplex? Or borrow the money to build the duplex now? Then how do I meet payments if I can't sell the house. . ."

What to do?

This widow has lots of company. There are many widows. And with $174 a month, at least through 1961, she won't starve. But she has all the old bothers her may point the way, particularly, for the widows who have less.

SHOULD GET ESTIMATES

The widow at 62 has no time to wait for a land boom and probably should be rid of the unproductive lots now. At least there is logic in selling the house, upgraded the neighborhood to stay on the same community. I doubt that the lots are worth $5,000, or that the house is worth $16,000, especially since taxes on all of it probably will be increased. Inclined to overestimate values anyway and are wise to get estimates from at least three real estate experts before deciding what property is worth.

Say the widow gets $12,000 net from the house and $4,000 from the lots. That makes it $67,000. The mutual funds make it $27,000. Invested in good mutual funds the $29,000 would yield about $1,800 a year. Adding the $960 pension would provide her a $2,760 income. She could spend the rest of her life. Just about anywhere.

But suppose she' gets the duplex. The $9,000 cost seems high. Maybe she could manage to do it at this price (after selling her house, not before), the rental income would amount to about $75 a month from mutual funds. Adding the $960 pension she'd have safe living — even if the $75 a month rent from half the duplex is spotty. And the $9,000 she'd be rich, with $230 a month safe income.

It is doubtful that a widow of 62 should get involved in the responsibilities and investment risks of having a duplex built. Maybe she could find a builder who would let her build on her own lot and then sell the duplex after selling her house, not before,

Pupils of Miss Collen Yandt Give Splendid Performance

WELLINGTON — The pupils of Miss Collen Yandt gave a splendid performance at their annual dance recital, which was held Friday and Saturday evenings in the Wellington school auditorium.

A grand crowd attended both nights.

The dancing costumes were lovely and most suitable for each dance. The pianist, Mrs. J. McNeill, and Miss Linda McKenie, played appropriate music for each number.

Mr. Beverley Gibson was the master of ceremonies for the evening.

The following program was presented: "A Petite Ballet," by th little Misses Betty Best, and Brenda Wilson, dressed in green and white dresses; "Chinatown" by Linda Wight, Jane Foster, Marlene Evelyn, Cathy Parks, Barbara Lindfield and Bobbie Tripp. These wee 'tots' dressed in Chinese costumes tapped to the music of "Chinatown"; "A Nursery Medley," by Barbara Alexander, Matilda Foster and Terry Foster dressed in blue and white dresses. This was well performed; "Six Pretty Babies," by Patricia Wight, Janette MacDonald, Sharon McNeill, Connie Allison, Linda Macdonald and Elaine Bishop in pink, blue and yellow outfits tapped gracefully to the song "Pretty Baby of Mine"; Misses Veronica Rose and Cathy Rose dressed in plaid danced the Highland Fling, after which two baton twirlers, Misses Burley and Kathy Alyea, in Scottish uniforms tapped a number of Scottish airs. "Tales of Vienna Woods," a ballet by Jeanne McKendrick looked like a little fairy in a white frilly dress with silver coronet. "An Irish Medley," was well done by Norah Hamel, Dorothy Parks, Nancy Foster an. Marlene Parks in green satin dresses with white aprons and caps; "The Rythm Steppers," who surely stepped it up were: Orlinda Best, Fay Middleton, Marion Munro, Doris Carrol, Kathy Alexander, Ann Miller and Patty Munro in pretty printed sunsuits. "The Dance of the Brownies" was given by Betty Best and Brenda Wilson in pink and white flowered dresses; "A Waltz Clog" by Barbara Pratt, Barbara Palmer, Linda Carley and Diane Palmer, all in blue, was well performed; "The Teddy Bears Picnic" by Barbara Alexander, Terry Foster and Matilda Foster dressed as little teddy bears, brought down the house with their antics.

SPECIAL TREAT

A special treat was when Miss Colleen Yandt, the dance teacher, dressed in black satin trimmed with red sequins tapped to "Nola."

After an intermission of ten minutes, dancing resumed. "The Liberty Belles," Marlene Parks, Nancy Foster, Dorothy Parks and Norah Hamel dressed in mauve and yellow uniforms gave a splendid performance in tap dancing. "Canadian Capers," by Linda Wight, Jane Foster, Darlene Grestrix, Cathy Parks, Barbara Lindfield and Bobbie Tripp in blue and white costume, red sashes and hats danced clever.

Linda Macdonald, Elaine Bishop, Sharon McNeill, Connie Allison, Jeanette MacDonald and Nancy Wight in sailor outfits, tapped to a "Medley of Navy Songs"; "The Sailor's Hornpipe" was given by Joanne McKenzie in naval outfit. "Baton Strut," by Elaine Bishop, Connie Allison and Sharon McNeill and Nancy Wight dressed in skirts and middies, "Fly High" tapped by Glee Mc-Quaid and Colleen Yandt; "Parade of Wooden Soldiers," by Orlinda Best, Fay Middleton, Marion Munro, Doris Conrad, Kathy Alexander, Anne Miller and Patsy Munro all dressed as soldiers in white and gold uniforms performed splendidly to the tune of "The Wooden Soldiers". Another baton routine by Kathy Alyea, Jeanette Macdonald, Linda Macdonald and Brenda Burley in blue and white shorts and middies was enjoyed by all.

"Coppelia," a ballet splendidly performed by Veronica and Cathy Rose dressed in full white skirts with blue net and blue and silver coronets. Kathy Alyea and Brenda Burley gave a lively tap dance to the tune of "Dark Town Strutters Ball" in pretty printed sunsuits and last on the program, a "Soft Shoe Dance" by Glee McQuaid, Barbara Pratt, Barbara Palmer and Linda Carley dressed in pretty green and orange costumes with small hats.

Miss Yandt thanked everyone for attending her recital and also her pianists for their splendid help.

Mr. Gibson, M.C., called the pianists, Mrs. McNeill and Miss McKenzie and the teacher, Miss Yandt, to the platform on Friday night and they were presented with pretty gifts by Misses, Best, Wilson, Allison and Rose on behalf of the pupils.

Much credit is due Miss Yandt on giving such a lovely dance recital.

PRECIPITATION BELOW NORMAL — Precipitation in the Prairie Provinces was less than normal for the nine months ended April 30. This map, based on figures prepared by the meteorological branch of the transport department, shows distribution of rainfall and snow across the grain-growing areas from Aug. 1, 1958 to April 30 of this year.

Precipitation Below Normal For Past Nine Months in Grain-Growing Areas of West

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In contrast with a year ago, the grain-growing areas of the Prairie Provinces show below-normal precipitation for the nine months ended April 30.

Despite occasional spring storms, the deficit from average totals up to the end of April was six per cent for all Alberta, which was 26 per cent above normal at this stage a year ago.

The current deficiency in Saskatchewan of 18 per cent compares with an average excess of one per cent at the same stage last year.

For Manitoba, the deficit at the end of April was 13 per cent, compared with normal figures a year ago, it is shown in statistics prepared for The Canadian Press by the meteorological branch of the transport department.

DRY SPOTS

The driest areas were southeastern and northwestern Saskatchewan, respectively 25 and 31 per cent below normal at the end of April. On the other hand a small area south of Medicine Hat and Maple Creek, straddling the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary, had in excess of normal precipitation.

Storms during the first week of May and again around May 10 boosted the precipitation figures above normal for a short spell. In the first two weeks of the month southern Manitoba had more than two inches of precipitation and Alberta more than an inch, but the figure remained low in Saskatchewan.

Alberta's over-all deficiency of six per cent to the end of April included a 15 - per - cent below normal figure for central Alberta, a five per cent below normal in the north central part of the provinces and deficits of four per cent in the south and two per cent in the Peace River region.

In Saskatchewan, only the southwest had an excess to the end of April, and that was one per cent. In northwest Saskatchewan the deficit was 31 per cent, with the southeast 25 per cent below normal and the northeast nine per cent below average figures.

Manitoba's figures showed a deficit of 15 per cent in the east and 10 per cent in the west, to the end of April.

DRY SPRING

Alberta had had a normal total at the end of March this year, while Saskatchewan was 15 per cent below and Manitoba's overall deficit then was five per cent.

March, while milder than normal, was an exceptionally dry month. Precipitation continued to average below normal in April except for the Peace River, southern Alberta and southwest Saskatchewan. Despite some record low temperatures in the last week of the month, April as a whole showed normal temperatures.

Then the storms in May helped to raise the precipitation figures for southern Manitoba and Alberta, but there was little change in Saskatchewan.

130 Friends, Relatives, Fete Fire Victims

JOHNSTOWN — Recent fire victims, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes, were tendered a surprise party on Saturday evening by relatives and residents of Johnstown, Glen Miller, and other nearby points.

Mr. and Mrs. Lohnes, and their children, lost their new home by fire recently. The people of the neighborhood kindly helped to rebuild the house.

As a further gesture of neighborliness, some 130 friends and neighbors gathered in Glen Miller hall to present Mr. and Mrs. Lohnes with gifts.

It was a big surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Lohnes as they had been asked to accompany a friend who said he was celebrating his birthday. When they reached the Club House the friend went on the pretext of finding out what was going on inside. It was only after a good deal of persuasion that Mr. Lohnes went inside.

Mr. Ross Reddick played accordion and Mrs. Dunbill at the piano, Mr. Anson Moore on the accordion, and Mr. Cecil Marchant on violin.

An address was read to Ruby and Walter by Mrs. Leona Bush. It read in part: "The friends, neighbors, and relatives were glad to be able to have

The only remnants of burning gas are carbon dioxide, nitrogen and water vapor — all of which are present in any pure air. And there are no ashes or fuel vapors to deposit grimy film throughout your home. A home heated with natural gas is a CLEANER, HEALTHIER HOME.

FREE 24-HOUR SERVICE

Natural Gas is ECONOMICAL

The initial cost of purchasing and installing a gas furnace is relatively low, as is the cost of the fuel itself. Maintenance costs are almost zero, since Lakeland provides free service — no more costly service-call charges. You SAVE MONEY by heating with natural gas.

CONVERT TO GAS FOR as little as $1.55 per week

Natural Gas is EFFICIENT

Natural gas is best for home-heating because you have INSTANT heat, automatically controlled . . . with no storage or delivery problems. In water heating, too, FREE hot water is on tap — no more costly service-call charges. You SAVE MONEY by heating with natural gas.

NO PAYMENTS NECESSARY 'TIL SEPTEMBER

Natural Gas is SAFE

Natural gas is non-poisonous. Another of the assuring features of modern gas appliances is the 100% shut-off when pilot light is extinguished. And natural gas has the LOWEST FIRE LOSS RECORD of all fuels. Thousands of Canadians enjoy natural gas in complete safety — SO CAN YOU!

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Jack Fitzgerald is a very versatile guy — and he has a philosophy that goes with his versatility. "It's thing is not worth doing right — don't do it at all."

Fitzgerald has done a lot of things and done them well. And he has never veered from what he thinks is right.

He can bowl a neat 240 bowling game (if he's on); piece together as neat an athletic trophy as you ever saw, or put on a topflight comedy sketch without batting an eyebrow.

And with his partners, George Pulmanier and Bill Tobin of the Belleville Bowling Club, he has applied his "Do it right" philosophy— and it is working out all right.

They dug boxing out of its ten year-doldrums and put it back into circulation. Veteran and other fans of the sport first looked askance at the operation, experiences of former beak-busting organizations crowding back into memory, likewise the aroma that accompanied them.

Came the first card of the new organization and some 900 fans gathered around to see what was going on. And —they liked what they saw.

They also liked what they saw in the second show, although some offered their opinions with reservations.

The new boxing organization has gathered under its training, cashing whip a fine aggregation of youngsters. Pulmanier and Tobin are doing a tremendous job, of dropping these born into shape and teaching them all points of the fight game.

Two have been outstanding thus far, Jack "Rocky" Lucas and youthful Barry Parsons. Both lads are fast, aggressive, hard-punching fighters who show plenty of promise. The rest of the stable is in the building process and are doing very well, thank you.

The second card was a good one and drew the blessings of AAU Commissioner Merv McKenzie of Toronto, who was here in person to see what was going on. He, too, liked what he saw with a single reservation. He disagreed with the judges on one of the decisions, but explained how such things occasionally happen.

Lucas and Parsons who won by decision in their maiden fights here, took their second home fights by more or less easy early round knockouts. He caused no more than a slight disappointment on the part of some of the fans. They figure both Lucas and Parsons should have stiffer opposition. It would be better for them, for the sport, and for the Boxing Club.

So with the $1 paid Fitzgerald has secured the services of some topnotch scrappers from the Hamilton and Toronto Boxing Clubs, who will put in an appearance here Tuesday night, June 9.

Lucas, Parsons and the rest of the Belleville stable will be up against the stiffest opposition they have encountered to date and the June 9 card should be productive of some excellent ring entertainment.

That is what the fans want to see. They like Lucas and they like Parsons. But they would like to see the up-and-coming Belleville youngsters meet foemen worthy of their steel, scrappers who will extend them to the limit and test the best they've got.

"I think the fans are in for a real treat on June 9," Jack said. "These Hamilton fighters and a couple of Toronto boys we are bringing in will give the youngsters the battle of their lives. Lucas, Parsons and Parsons particular will be up against something more in their own class— and they might get a surprise."

"We have moved into our new quarters under the grandstand at the Fair Grounds," he said. "We have bought a lot of new equipment and with the track and wide open spaces available, are getting in some fine training grinds. The boys are training hard, getting in road work, punching and boxing."

"Practically all the boys work out every night and already are showing the difference made by the change in training environment. The public is specially invited to come and watch our workouts. It would be amazed to see what these fine youngsters put into their business of boxing."

Fitzgerald hopes to obtain a ring shortly for he has visions of outdoor fights at the Fair Grounds in the not too distant future.

MONTREAL WINS

MONTREAL (CP) — Jack Kay of the Montreal Pinegrove Golf Club shot an eagle-three on the 18th hole Friday to win the Quebec spring open golf championship with an 18-hole medal score of 71. He collected $250 top prize. Bob Dean of Cornwall was 13th with a 75.

Young Mr Killebrew Sights Guns On Homer Marks

Leads Majors, Tops Ruth, 17th Blast Gives Nats Game; Adcock Hits Walk for Winner

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sport Writer

Home run statistics in May can be pretty insignificant come September, but who can ignore those 17 homers hit by Harmon Killebrew of Washington Senators?

Killebrew leads the majors in home runs, crashing a solo shot Friday in a 7-6 victory over Boston that pushed Washington up into fourth place.

With three games left in May, Washington's young third baseman, is within four of tying the major league record for home runs in a single month. The high is 16, set by Detroit's Rudy York in August, 1937. Going into the Memorial Day pair at Washington, Killebrew had 14 homers for the month.

AHEAD OF RUTH PACE

And, yes he's ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927. The Babe had hit 16 homers through a comparable period (44 games).

In the other AL games Friday, Chicago's second place White Sox lost a 9-inning game behind Mike Cleveland, losing 4-1 to Detroit; and the Yankees spilled thirdplace Baltimore 5-2.

Killebrew, congratulated before the game by President Eisenhower, was 2-for-5 and walked in the winning run in the ninth on Hal Naragon's baseless-loaded single off lefty reliever Murray Wall (1-3). Pete Ramos won in relief, although he gave up Jackie Jensen's homer, a lying three-run shot, in the top of the ninth. Ramos is now 5-5 and stars also honored.

Fourth-inning home runs by Al Kaline and Charlie Berberet gave Detroit a 2-1 lead that was all Frank Mossi (3-4) needed. He gave up five hits, allowing a run in the second and then blanking Chicago on in the second after Ernie Johnson, a starter for the first time in four years, was lifted for a pinch-hitter.

When it comes to spectacular hitting, Joe Adcock's your man.

The big Milwaukee first baseman was the last slugger to walloop four home runs in one game in the majors, joining them against the Dodgers back in Brooklyn in 1954.

His also was the only hitter ever to put a home run over the left field stands in Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, back in 1956. Three years earlier he had become the only power guy ever to reach the centrefield seats at New York's Polo Grounds, belting a 475-foot wallop.

Then, just last Tuesday, it was Billy Joe who hit the RBI, rifle-book double for the Braves' lone hit as they beat Pittsburgh and Harvey Haddix 3-0 in 13 innings.

NO WALKS, THANKS

Adcock did it again Friday night. This time, in the ninth, across the plate to hit a wide curve that Chicago righthander Gene Conley tried to give him an intentional walk in the ninth. The ball bounced off the bat of the sliding Hank Aftron to cone sidewinder Bobby Shantz to give the game Milwaukee a three - game lead in the National League race, and moved Cincinnati into second place San Francisco Giants 1½ games back, Pittsburgh third place by beating Los Angeles 9-4 after Cincinnati had spilled Philadelphia 8-5.

Conley (2-3), gave up 13 hits and was tagged for a triple by Aaron in the fourth inning, but who had triggered a four-run scoring binge by hitting the three homer with a man on, pulled off the rare turfie.

Joe Nuxhall (2-0) was the winner. Ed Bouchee's two - run homer broke the game and got rid of Milwaukee starter Carl Willey in the third.

HAY HAY BLOWS

Joe Cunningham and Hal Smith hit homers for the Cards with Smith's blow coming in the eighth clinching it. Wilmer Mizell (6-1) won his sixth with a screw, pitching to-wait shutout for seven innings. The big lefty went into the ninth inning on the hitter, but needed relief help from Lindy McDaniel. Jack Sanford (6-5) lost it.

The Cubs sent 12 men to the plate in the eight-run fourth to sing against Dodger starter Danny Schoffeld (3-4) and two relievers. Only two of the runs we earned as the Dodgers committed three of their five errors in the game. Moe Drabowsky (3-4) won it, with Bill Henry (6) and Mike Fornieles (2) the loser, and Clem Labine got the save, pitching on in the second after Ernie Johnson, a starter for the first time in four years, was lifted for a pinch-hitter.

Southpaws Help Win Ontario Pro-Amateur

TORONTO (CP)—A trio led by two portside golfers won a playoff Friday to take the Ontario pro - amateur best - ball championship.

Left-handed professional Gus Mruz of the New Whitevale club and his amateur assistants, Ken Thorpe, also a southpaw, and Jack Pinkerton, shot the event on the second extra hole over a reboubaldt course designed by Ellington pro Bill Mawhinney and amateurs Nick Weslock of Windsor Essex and Gord MacKenzie of Weston.

The threesomes were tied after the regulation 18 holes with best-ball scores of 63, eight under par.

Al Balding, Markham's touring pro, and Mawhinney tied for the low gross among the 84 competing professionals, each with two-under-par 68. Each won $100.

Phil Brownlee, relaxed 17 - year-old amateur from Scarborough, scored a hole-in-one on the par-three 12th, a 165-yard shot he dropped in with a six iron off the tee.

A pro, who asked that his name not be used, made one of the tournament's remarkable shots—belting his second shot on the 18th fairway right through the clubhouse window.

Bisons Grab First Place; Toronto Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons took over first place in the International League Friday night, routing Montreal Royals 16-9 to snap a three-game losing streak. They edged a batting game in front of Columbus Jets and Miami Marlins in the torrid pennant race.

Although he allowed 17 hits—one more than his teammates collected — Warren Hacker went the distance for Buffalo to record his fourth victory without a loss. Frank Herrera's grand-slam home run was the big blow for the Bisons.

Rochester - up Columbus, scheduled to play Richmond, was left idle by rain and moved .002 percentage points in front of the third-place Marlins, who lost 2-1 to Havana in Sugar Kings. Throwing Maple Leafs edged Rochester Red Wings 3-2 in 10 innings.

AMARO PACES BISONS

Ruben Amaro paced Buffalo's 16-hit attack with a triple and three singles. Bob Asprommonte added four hits for the Bisons. Bob Lennon counted a homer among his three hits for the losers.

Leonardo Cardenas singled home two men in the 10th inning to drive in the winning run for the Sugar Kings as the Marlins lost their fifth in succession and 10th in 12 games. Ted Wieand won his third against two losses, limiting the Marlins to seven hits. Frank Kellert homered in the losing cause.

Hector Rodriguez hit an opposite-field home run leading off the 10th inning to give Leafs their triumph.

Bob Chakales took a 2-0 Toronto Friday Shutout with him, to see Luke Easter and Billy Harrell slam homers to tie the game. Rodriguez's fourth homer of the year beat rookie Bobby Miller, now 4-3. And it won for Chakales, although Frank Funk came out of the bullpen to pitch the ninth and get credit for his 1st. After a pinch double by Joe Christopher, Jim Frey drove in the winning run with a single.

Argos Claim Riders' Ledyard On Waivers

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts have claimed Hal Ledyard on waivers from Ottawa Rough Riders as quarterback insurance in case Ronnie Knox drops out of football this season in the Big Four Football League.

Ledyard, with Ottawa for three years after playing football at University of Chattanooga, came to Argonauts for the import waiver price of $750 and has been released by them unless the Rough Riders exercise their option to get their waiver.

They can do that within 24 hours after a club claims him.

Managing director Lew Hayman said Ledyard would be given up Ledyard after he spoke to Ottawa coach telephone and was told he would be willing to come to Toronto.

Ledyard in business in Ottawa, previously indicated he might retire if Ottawa didn't want him.

PUNISHMENT FITS

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—Fire Chief G. W. Brickwell of Porirua Township was fortunate when he sees boys playing with matches or lighting scrub fires. The boys report to the fire station on Saturday to polish the fire engine.

Welland Wins Lacrosse Tilt

WELLAND (CP) — Welland Cowsland Swissons rolled to an early lead FF r i d a y night and coasted home to win their second game in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series against Long Branch Dixie Combines 12-7.

Don Baker led Swissons with four, with doubles coming from Ken Bray, Ted Howe and Mike Damico. Skip Teal and Dave Hall scored twice.

Charlie Luddlow picked up three for Combines while Roger Kelly scoring twice and Bruce Sears, Morely Keil and Jack Barnes one each. The two put Swissons in a tie for first place.

Watson Won Bout and Crown He Had Kiniski Upside-Down

By GEO. M. CARVER
Sports Editor

Three times Whipper Billy Watson was vanquished in the British Empire wrestling crown from the crew-cut noggin of one Gene Kiniski.

Three times he has failed.

Officially, that is. Three times he has won it in the ring. Three times skullduggery of various types has prevented the transfer.

The first time Bert Maxwell, referee?, ran interference for the Edmonton terror. Second time, two referees got into the act themselves. Whipper's official last the fight and Whipper the decision. Last night, it was something new.

The pride of East York dropped the first fall after some 20-odd minutes. Kiniski commenced the Fury of the Foothills in six minutes of the second canter. He won the fall a dozen times in the final chukka but found the ring was too small.

He had Kiniski's tonsils tangled with his eyeballs at times in the last heat with so many scissors holds that Gene was talking through his eyebrows.

Kiniski took no chances. He had a working agreement with Hard-Boiled Haggerty, guest in case. He didn't need him. Besides, Referee Joe Gollob was busy deciding the rule book between chokes.

Seven or eight times the Whip had his famous commando hold on Genial Gene. Seven or eight times a big Kinisk leg or arm would reach out and curl around a limb like the tentacle of a hopped-up octopus. You could almost see the ring shrink.

When the Whip did get Kiniski out into the wide open spaces, Golloh would halt proceedings and threaten Watson with many practical demonstrations how it should be done by the book.

Meanwhile Kiniski was flat on his back wheezing like an accient mare with a relapse of the heaves.

Watson eventually realized the impossible. He knew he could not jerk the crown from the Kiniski noggin, so he decided to make it a permanent fixture by driving it down around his neck.

The method was simple. But it called for mental stamina of the like only to Turkish wrestlers. Officially illegal.

The Whipper merely stood the hazy Kiniski on his head, picked him up like a ramrod and drove Kiniski squarely on his noggin.

This is known in polite wrestling circles as a "pile-driver". Under Canadian pachydermy jurisdiction it is illegal. So Pal Joey sensing a way out promptly tossed the case out of court.

Referee Maxwell, recalled it was the fourth pile-driver of thirty minutes.

See-Saw Battle Predicted In Indianapolis Race Epic

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Auto engine-tutoring, see-saw battle, with at least a dozen possible winners, was the four-hour program laid for the 43rd renewal of the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race.

Five of the helmeted men in the glossy, custom - built racers were fastest at the starter Bill Vukovich was the only driver to break the 140 mph barrier in practice.

Jimmy Daywalt of Indianapolis, one of the pace - setters, said he thought a night like 135 miles an hour to win this time— and Sam Hanks' 1957 record of only 135.601. Such a big jump in the record could come, of course, only if the race were run without serious accidents that force prolonged running under the "full course positions" caution light.

The general feeling in gasoline alley was that the men to beat were Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa., who set a one-lap qualifying record of 146.532 miles an hour the first time trial; world champion driver Jim Rathmann of Miami, and Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix, Ariz., last year's winner and three - time national champion.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — The Hagersville entry, Nathan Vanderley, driven by Hal Hadkirk, won the mile A and B fifth trot Friday night at Richelieu Raceway. The Ontario horse was timed in 2:05 for the $2,000 trot. The Quaglio entry Lord's Gun, also driven by Hadkirk, was third in the ninth, a mile, three-year-old's pace for $2,000.

HULL, Que. (CP)—Todd Byrd's Vienna, Ont. entry driven by Vern Snow won the fourth victory Friday night at Connaught Raceway.

The pacer won the mile D pace with a time of 2:12 3-5. The Shelburne horse, Kim D. Grattan, won the third mile D trot, with a time of 2:16 1-5. Bill Madill was driver.

Shrine All-Star Football Game Called off

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian football commissioner Sydney Halter said Wednesday that no Shrine all-star game will be played this year. But he said the idea has been left open for possible renewal of the classic in future years.

A joint statement Friday by Halter and the National Shrine Football Committee said the game was being abandoned "after four consecutive years of disappointment and frustration" because of bad weather.

It said the Shrine had decided it could not ask the public to support this game any further.

"Four different centres had been tried — Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton and Vancouver — and in each case bad weather kept the crowd away from the game."

The statement said a proposal to change the game from a professional all-star contest to the Canadian junior final had been considered but the present after-fall study at a recent joint meeting in Calgary.

The hope was that the junior final—which would be played in September — would have to be staged in Vancouver to assure good weather. The proposal was for the junior Shrine Game in Vancouver to act as host.

However, the people had other commitments for that time of year, making it impossible for it to accept such a responsibility.

Two Americans Enter Finals British Amateur

SANDWICH, England (AP)—Walker Cup golfers Bill Hyndman and Deane Beman of the United States went well on the 36-hole final of the British amateur championship today with another golfing problem on their minds—getting home in time to qualify for the United States Open.

Both players said they aim to catch a plane from London Sunday in the hope to qualify for the open the following day at Hyndman, a 43-year-old investment banker, reached the finals of the British Amateur after defeating Argentina's Enrique Fiorelor Bob Magee of the 36th hole in a nerve - tingling semi-final. Beman, 21, battled seven hours, eight minutes.

Hyndman, a routed English champion and Walker Cup player Guy Wolstenholme 5 and 4 in the other semi-final.

Goalby Retains Tourney Lead

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Bob Goalby had the experience of some of his rivals, but the young pro from Hot Springs River Fla., isn't one to panic when his red - hot putter becomes only lukewarm.

He just put a little more work into his 3-under-par 68 in the third round of the 72-hole, $20,000 medal play event began today.

Goalby was two strokes ahead of Don Fairfield who also shot a the second round after an opening 71. Only three of Goalby's record in the Derby open.

Amateur Ron Carpa of Dallas, Tex., fired a 75-73—148 total. Pro Gerry Magee of Toronto is 75-75—150.

SOFTBALL COSTS LIVES

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Softball games, they claimed two lives here in little more than a week. Carl F. Wise, 31, was struck Friday. He suffered a fatal heart attack Wednesday about an hour after he stumbled against another player in a church league game. Elliott, 30, suffered a ruptured spleen and died in surgery.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Why Fawcett was asked what she'd do if she retired, she answered:

"Gee whiz, I fish."

And indeed she does, with a vigor and enthusiasm matched by few, if any, women in this area, where mountain lakes and streams and the Pacific Ocean provide a fisherman's paradise.

Miss Fawcett, who prefers the streams, says she is no expert. "But I like the exercise, the scenery and the outing," she adds. "I get a thrill I'm doubly pleased and if I don't get one I don't feel bad."

CROWNED IN CALGARY'A

Miss Fawcett, who gives her age as "about 45 or a young-looking 39, whichever you choose," was born in Calgary and raised in Fort Macleod, in Southern Alberta, where her father was a lawyer and ranch owner.

She became a medical teacher, working at first in Schuler, near Medicine Hat. Schuler, she recalls, was a small and lonely spot to break the monotony she took to fishing in the nearby lakes, hooking a pike now and then.

Today she fits her schedule as best she can around fishing, to which she participates about nine or every 12 months.

Teaching was "too confining," she decided 26 years ago. She left it, moved to Vancouver and became a comptometer operator, later becoming a printing supplies salesman, which she is today.

CANYON ANGLER

Miss Fawcett's fishing fever hit the heights during the last two years. Today, in the deep canyon of Vancouver, she is the only woman regularly seen perched on a cliff top baiting hooks with worms, casting flies and scrambling about the rocks in occasional catch.

Weekends and holidays, she climbs into her small car about 8 a.m.—"I'm not so ardent that I can get up at 5 a.m. to go out," she says—and heads for a nearby lake or stream, sometimes driving to hike two or three miles on foot to reach the best fishing spot.

"I'm 60 to 70 per cent enthusiastic and 30 to 40 per cent fish," she says, advising women "to get into this fishing" because "it's good for them to get outdoors and get exercise and fresh air."

Final Chapter Robinson Story On Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson will know Tuesday whether he still will be recognized in New York as world middleweight champion.

The State Athletic Commission said Friday it would announce a decision in the Robinson case at 10:30 a.m. edt Tuesday.

The commission concluded a long series of hearings last Wednesday to determine whether the 39-year-old fighter has obeyed a commission and state court directive to sign for a title defence against Carmen Basilio.

Robinson testified he signed for a defence against Basilio in Philadelphia Sept. 11 and that Basilio received $20,000 to meet him. Basilio, however, has denied this.

Robinson was stripped of his title by the National Boxing Association March 25 after failure to defend his crown in accordance with the court order. Previously, Robinson last fought March 25, 1958, when he regained the title from Basilio.

On the Tracks

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—A field of 10 classy three - year-olds headed by Emil Darcy's Massa Maullet, has been named for today's $50,000 added, $250,000 added Jersey Stakes at Garden State Park.

It highlight of the 1½ - miler race is an effort by jockey Eddie Arcaro to ride in two major races in a day for trainer Darcy.

Arcaro, is slated to handle Claiborne's Nadir in the $100,000 - added Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont Park, off at 4:15 EDT.

Immediately after the Metropolitan, Arcaro, with the approval of stewards at the both tracks, will board a helicopter in the Belmont Park infield and fly approximately 90 miles to the infield at Garden State. He then hopes to mount Claiborne's Dunce for the Jersey Stake—off at 5:30 EDT. He won't bother to change silks.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sword Dancer, the handsome chestnut colt who overpowered in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Derby, will take on other horses today in the $100,000-added Monmouth handicap at Belmont Park.

Twelve were entered for the 66 - running of the one mile spin. Sword Dancer who will carry 114 pounds, is the only three-year-old in the field. He's opposed by Brookmeade Stable of Isabel Dodge Sloane's aged six - year - old entry with Oilgarchy, the 1958 winner.

The Claiborne Farm's Nadir and the Howell E. Jackson entry of Tick Tock and Four Fathom's round as the chief opposition to the Brookmeade entry, a slight early favorite at 2 to 1.

Johnson Whips Nino Valdes In Big Upset

NEW YORK (AP) — Alonzo Johnson, a big hungry fighter from Braddock, Pa., crashed the big time with a big bang Friday in an unanimous decision over highranked Nino Valdes of Cuba in a 10 - rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Valdes, 210½, had 24½ pounds on Johnson who weighed 185½.

Johnson, 34, kept on top of his fighting manner. Although he absorbed body punishment from the 34 - year - old Cuban he had the points with a quick flurries.

From time to time Johnson scored with a long right lead followed by a rocking hook.

All three officials had Johnson way out front. Judge Nick Gamboni scored it 6-3-1 and Judge Tony Castellano and referee Al Berl scored it 6-3-1 for Johnson. The Associated Press card was 8-1-1 for Johnson.

Still Leads Ladies' Bowling

TORONTO (CP)—Grace Kaiser of Guelph stepped into third place in the O'Connor Bowl open ladies five - pin tournament to night with an eight-game total of 1,648, including the 325 prize-winning high single of 334.

Doris Luke of Toronto, who bowled early in the tournament, is still in first place but her leading position will be in peril today as last year's winner, Rita Wergar of Toronto, takes her turn.

Point Anne Clips Bobcats' String Behind Carkner's 5-Hit Pitching

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Point Anne Cementmen backed by the five-hit hurling of big Al Carkner, snapped the Bobcats' winning streak at three games last night by downing the city squad 8-3 in a B and D loop fixture at CNRA Park.

Carkner toughed the Cats with five safeties and the backing of a ten-hit attack to give the Cementmen a one and one record on the young season.

Point Anne took a 2-0 lead in the first and made it 5-0 in the fourth. Meanwhile Carkner had allowed only one hit going into the sixth frame. The visitors plated two and another in the seventh to make it a tight 5-3 game. Point Anne wrapped it up with a pair in the eighth and a singleton in the ninth. Gene Watts went 4 for 4 for, leading to five Point Anne runs.

Bobby Green, the Bobcat workhorse, started and took the setback in pitching a creditable loss. He allowed seven runs and as many hits but had control trouble, walking seven. He also had three. Bobby Hull, just back from Peterboro Teachers' College, whiffing one and walking one and allowing a run and three hits.

Carkner pitched strong ball all the way. He was wild in the first but fanned a pair also to pull out untouched. He struck out five over the route while walking three.

Green got away to a bad start when he walked the first two batters in the game. Both scored later on John Batchelor's fly ball and a wild pitch.

Another walk started the three-run rally in the fourth inning. Gayer followed with a double past Lamirande playing wide at third base. Batchelor popped out to short one and Carkner drove in the first run with a long double to right. A throwing error helped advance Gayer to third and Vaughaugh's infield single made it 5-0.

Green's single in the third was the lone Cat safety while Brown's fly to left-centre fell for a two-base hit to open the sixth. Gorgan's bunt went for a single and Carkner raced around on Vaughaugh's throwing error on the same play.

Jackie Cousins singled, Green walked, Ted Batchelor sacrificed and Vaughaugh's infield play fly ball netted the Bobcats' third tally.

Carkner opened the first two batters in the eighth before Hull was called in to pitch. Chuck Batchelor struck out, singly to score both men while Gayer flied to Brown. Hull loaded the sacks again before Hull retired the side. John Batchelor's pop to right fell in for a triple and he came all the way on Casey's bad throw to close the scoring.

Carkner helped his own cause at the plate with a double and single as Gary Gayer bagged the same. John Batchelor tripled and Hull, while never getting on, went to Chuck Kingston, Jack Eddels, Doug Hall and Jackie Wardhaugh.

Earl Cousins, with a score of 200 and Ken Belec of the Belleville hitters, "Wiener" Brown bagged a double with Gorgan and Bobby Green getting the other base knocks.

"Killy" Didn't Disappoint Ike And Grandson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower went out to Griffith Stadium Friday to watch "my grandson's greatest hero," Ironman Killebrew. And the Washington Senators' home run slugger came through in fine style.

Killebrew, the four - bagger pacesetter of the major leagues, clouted his 14th homer of the season into the centrefield stands in the seventh inning. The sensational young third baseman's solo blast put the winning run in the ninth inning as the Senators won from Boston Red Sox 7-6.

He autographed at Eisenhower's request a baseball for the president's 12-year - old grandson, David Eisenhower. And he marked his third-inning home run ball "No. 17" and sent it to the president for David after an usher had returned it from the stands.

This was Eisenhower's first baseball game of the season. He's passed up the American League opener in April to play golf in Georgia.

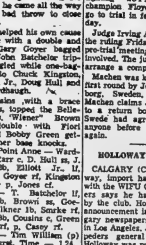
TO BATTLE IN COURT

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Machen's suit to void Swedish Ingemar Johansson from a heavyweight championship fight with champion Floyd Patterson will go to trial in federal court Monday.



Judge Irving A. Kaufman made the announcement after holding a pre-trial meeting with the parties involved. The jurist had hoped to settle the controversy.

Machen was knocked out in the first round by Johansson at Goteborg, Sweden, June 19, 1958. Machen claims Johansson agreed to a return bout after the Swede had agreed not to fight anyone before meeting Machen again.

HOLLOWAY RELEASED

CALGARY (CP)—Chuck Holloway, import halfback last year with the WIFU Calgary Stampeders says he has been released by the club. Holloway made the announcement in a letter to Calgary newspapers from his home in Los Angeles. Jim Finks, Stampeders general manager, said Holloway was put on waivers 2½ months ago but no club was willing to take him.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Many times in the last few years football fans in Canada have been bewildered by the professionals stay in business. They have pulled some strange stunts, particularly before-the-season methods of spending untold thousands of dollars in a panicky search for Americans.

The money tossed away by the last-minute desperate bids to field a winning team could have been channelled into development of Canadian talent. But the pro clubs, with few exceptions, didn't see it that way.

Last year, the eastern Big Four was complimented on all sides when it formed the Big Four intermediate league. Each club is sponsored an intermediate club and at the end of the season convener Harold Plati said it turned out to be a "satisfactory organization."

DOWN TO TWO TEAMS

This year, there are two teams left—Lake Shore athletics, sponsored by Montreal Alouettes, and Brantford Tiger-Cats, farm club of Hamilton which, incidentally, has one of the strongest Canadian benches in the country.

Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders have pulled out. Why?

General Manager Lew Hayman of Argonauts had his answer ready this week.

"We are simply changing our format. We feel we should go into the plan of development of Canadian players much more seriously than we have in the past," he said. Argonauts, he explained, are hoping to set up a six-team junior league with teams in Toronto and others from nearby Oshawa and Barrie.

"We'll help morally and financially and we'll pay out more money this year for Canadian development plan than we ever did before. Additionally, we have indicated to us that they preferred to play closer to home.

EXTENDS ASSISTANCE

"We feel it is better to help a bunch of juniors rather than put all our eggs in one basket."

Hayman estimated that Argonauts paid out "about $5,500, excluding equipment" to its intermediate team last season. A few players of that club will turn out for the Argonaut rookie school this summer but, said Hayman, "there was not one who was outstanding enough to have a real good shot at making the big team."

Hayman also noted that the junior age limit has been raised

Here's a tip to help you get the most enjoyment from your television viewing. Keep your chair directly in front of your set with the screen at eye level or slightly below. Watching TV from too sharp an angle is not only tiring to the eyes, but the picture will appear distorted and unpleasant.

Incidentally, when the TV picture ALWAYS appears distorted and out of focus, it's time to get the help of CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 264 Coleman Street. Their skilled technicians have the modern equipment to quickly locate and correctly all TV ailments. Phone WO 8-8791 (in Trenton EX 2-7669).

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

RESTING HABITS

We find it hard to comprehend how any bird or animal can really rest without lying down because we judge them by our own feelings. But we are not designed in the same way. Nature has seen to it that the perching birds, like the English sparrows we continually see just outside our windows, have no difficulty whatsoever in sitting asleep in an upright position, clinging to a tiny twig. The tendons from the toes pass around over the back of the ankle joint, so that when the bird perches, bending the joint, the tendons automatically tighten the toes around the branch.

Birds belonging to the order "Coastuckers" of which we who live in Canada east of the Rockies have two representatives, are odd in both looks and actions. One of their peculiarities, quite understandable when we learn something about the structure of these birds, is their habit of perching on a length of wire instead of crosswise. All gustuckers have small, very weak feet, and the rubber band is supplied with a series of tiny, sharp teeth like a saw, somewhat the gentle as are herons' middle toes. This whole arrangement makes it impossible for these birds to get elmped around a branch in the manner of the majority of birds.

To tell the truth, our nighthawks and whip-poor-wills look much more comfortable as they rest on a branch in a parallel position, their feet quite invisible under their very soft, fluffy feathers. As you may well imagine, the wood brown, buffs, and greys of their plumage blend perfectly into the surroundings while they lie along a branch. Both these birds are perfectly camouflaged, the environment always chosen to fit the mottled feathers as they rest.

This resting is done in daylight. The country nighthawk may sit on the top rail of a fence post, or sit on the two speckled eggs that match the grayish ground where they have been laid. The city bird and civilization has aided nighthawks to spend the day on some high ledge of a building, or even on the precious eggs that lie on the flat roof.

Its cousin, the whip-poor-will has never become stifled. Daytime finds it flattened out on a branch, if not sitting on the eggs which have been placed among dead leaves on the ground, near the woods.

Fortunate indeed is the bird student who has seen either at close range, for these birds at darkness fly about feeding while others are sound asleep.

by eight months by the Canadian Rugby Union, which means that youngsters who haven't reached their 21st birthday by Jan. 1 may play in the current season.

"We'll get better after high school graduation for our junior teams and after two or three years in the league should be pretty good ball players." Hayman said.

Two Companies Planning Film Series on New States

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The 49th and 50th states are going to get their licks on TV sets starting next fall.

Two major film companies that have leaped into television are each planning a couple of television series to feature the new states. Warners is coming up with an adventure, The Alaskans, and detective yarn, Hawaiian Eye.

Twentieth Century-Fox has its own Alaskan series, The Last Frontier, plus James A. Michener's Adventures in Paradise, and

BIG, BIG SHOW

I wandered out to the Fox Italian island to find out about the Michener series, said to be ABC's big, big show for 1959-60. It's an hour long, has a monumental budget and will come on Monday nights.

What is not the only locale for the series. It will roam all the South Pacific and subjects will range from a western about a big Hawaiian cattle ranch to a frost-bitten saga of the Antarctic.

Michener was here this week for a bale of a luau to signal the start of the filming. With 21 script writers working on stories, the question arises: What does Mincheer do?

"He has written some story outlines," a spokesman said. "He also has complete script supervision."

LAVISH MUCH CARE

I visited the set on where the second series chapter is being filmed and found the studio is lavishing almost as much care on it as a feature.

The director is Robert Aldrich, who said the first of the series went nine days. That's remarkable for TV—"but you can't shoot fast when you're dealing with wind, water and boats, as well as actors," Aldrich said.

The star of Adventures in Paradise is handsome, six-foot-five Gardner McKay, a New Yorker born. Paris-educated lad kept under wraps by the studio until now. He's a real sailor, too, and still skippers a 96-foot schooner for charter out of Newport Harbor.

CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, May 31

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Take care not to disturb an influential individual or you run up against a stumbling block. Then you can be out enjoying yourself in whatever pursuits most suit you. Meet new people, be broadminded, be happy at sports.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — It would be wise this A. M. to stop fretting over the inevitable and seek solace and advice from as fine a spiritual leader as you know, P. M. ideal time for fun or any delightful romantic repartee. Be affectionate, not so blunt.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — During A. M. you have a very strong intuition which you must follow. Confer with your elders and heed for best advice. Latter part of day pals show firm loyalty and you can impress favorably a clever associate with your abilities.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Altercation between authority and an associate should not so upset you that you cannot go to the church of your choice. After hurricane, many fine things occur for you that you had not anticipated. Show your appreciation.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you fuss and fume over insignificant matters during A.M. you lose out on attending services, which you should not do. The right people will be encountered to whom you can display your fine talents and get backing you need.

Virgo will find that you have been shooting the wrong attitude in A.M., but you are now able to be with loved ones and all is straightened out. Be very good to them. P. M. excellent for entertaining at home.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Family tie who is feeling under the weather or just nervous should not deter you from going to services today, or doing important tasks that need attention. P. M. be with comrades for fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Put aside any dull tasks and turn to reading or hearing wonderful talks on spiritual Truth or great classical writings now. Then you will be able to perform important work efficiently and make excellent plans for the future. Grow.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Being somewhat in economical straits will not be ameliorated by fretting in A. M. Think clearly so that you know what must be done in a constructive way. Keep this day holy and you can begin the coming week properly, intelligently.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Feeling somewhat morose, be careful you do not take out your PF on innocent bystanders. A family tie may utter just the right words to make you smile again. P. M. is then fine for making new contacts, getting new slant on things.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Private worry need not keep you from advancing at this time, unless you build it up to that extent which would be foolish. During latter part of day most of your pals, relatives, kin are with you and you get real support.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A gloomy friend could so depress you in A.M. with pessimistic attitude that you could remain that way for some time. Shake off the doldrums and concentrate upon standard methods for greater success. Be active, accomplish much in P.M.

If your child is born today ... The interesting child born today is the type who has to learn by burning the little fingers during early childhood. But since lessons once learned this way are never forgotten, they will stand in good stead during adult life. Very likely your progeny will find greatest opportunities and success in far-off lands and fields where culture is different. Give a good education.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — There is every opportunity now to advance your constructive plans so that they early bring fine results. However, be sure you do not enter into any serious discussions at home that could lead to argument and upsetting conditions.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Wasting time worrying about what cannot be helped could limit your activities today, if you permit. Plan your activities wisely, for this most important preeminence, then be sure to follow through without brooking any interference.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Dynamic comrades will proffer advice and information you need at this time. However, concentrate on plans and ideas rather than monetary matters, since you cannot force the latter today. Economize. P. M. meet a new friend.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Rather than expect civic leaders to devote their time to your special propositions, expend your energies now in assisting them with whatever projects they are working on. Also, be sure you give attention to pressing personal matters.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Forget about being so possessive toward others and concentrate on affairs that will help you to become more affluent and important among your fellows. Impress any new acquaintances now, but do not ask for favors till tomorrow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Instead of following the advice of big merchant who is not cognizant of your true financial position, listen to the ideas of a true comrade who would like to see you prosper. Today's economy thus insures security for the future.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Avoid overly dynamic executive who could make things rather rough for you today. But get together with good partner who will show you best way to advance in your field. Be alert.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Instead of arguing with fellow workers, step out and find a new job or a different system under which you can operate more efficiently and more to your liking. Look in your paper, read practical sources, for best results.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Take care you are not too forceful with loved one today or pretend to be too busy with financial and other affairs. A cheerful mien and a broad smile will work far greater wonders for you instead. Relax.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Avoid altercation at home, although there is a close tie who understand your viewpoints and be on your side. This could lead to an emotional scene that would be detrimental to your present stability.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It is best to consult with relatives and closest friends today for the ideas that will mean advancement careerwise. Steer clear of that fellow worker who is forever moaning about his or her bad luck, so-called.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A most pleasant day can be now! If you simply forget to bemoan the fact that your financial condition is not as good as that of your acquaintances. Relax and have fun at games, dancing. Fine, constructive ideas then occur to you.

If your child is born today ... The brilliant child born today will make friends easily but avoid any close or permanent relationships, since there is a very high degree of sensitivity here and he or she will be afraid of being hurt at some time or other. Endeavor to instil some of your wonderful warmth in this nature in order that a fine career and a happy life will be had by your extraordinary youngster.

WINTERMEYER

nesday. The premier is due there that day and Mr. MacDonald has agreed to be on hand if Mr. Frost will accept his debate challenge.

Mr. Wintermeyer spoke in his home town of Kitchener. He told an audience of 150 in a high school auditorium that the other parties were saying "Wintermeyer had better be careful what he says" about the gas issue.

He belittled it as a real issue, saying the leaders were only using it to hide the fact they were both promoting rival platforms.

CONTRASTING AIMS

"One is concerned with demonstrating that everyone except the member for York South (Mr. MacDonald) is not honest — the other with proving that the member for York South is dishonest.

"The Conservatives are running on their record and the CCF on a record that is not interested in a program as in personalities."

Mr. Frost greeted thousands of children in his swing along the St. Lawrence River. He signed autographs, patted heads and promised a school holiday when the Queen comes to Canada.

At Eastview, an Ottawa CCF candidate, Candidate Dank Kalman said he didn't think it was right that children should be let out of school to greet the premier. But local Liberal spokesmen said they had the full approval.

VISIT MacDONALD GRAVE

Along the route Mr. Frost declared in St. Andrews where he visited the grave of John Sandfield MacDonald, first premier of Ontario. Mrs. Frost placed flowers on the grave.

MacDonald devoted most of his speech to answering an attack made on him in Galt this week by Mr. Frost. He said the premier was "refusing to deal with any of the documented cases against his government."

The CCF leader ridiculed Mr. Frost's criticisms of his campaign "preposterous."

Instead of going around the province heaping abuse on me, Mr. Frost should be charged, I have made, there is a simple answer to this situation. Let Premier Frost debate the charges on a public platform."

Four motorcycle men met Mr. MacDonald when he arrived by plane from the Lakehead and a motorcade formed later led him to the meeting hall.

MARES LEAVE FOR HOME

Energy Minister Macaulay told a rally at Deep River that cancellation of the Avro Arrow was designed to wreck the federal government's tax conference slated for July.

He said the Liberals were calling the election now in an election trick in order "to make fun of us, to destroy it before it even comes together."

He argue the executive director of the Ontario Liberal party, James Scott, said the Frost government is trying to keep the campaign quiet to avoid arousing the voters.

Mr. Scott said Mr. Wintermeyer's barnstorming tour had created a startling upswing in Liberalism.

McGill University Registrar Wins Canada's Top Fiction Award With First Novel

TORONTO (CP)—Colin McDougall, registrar of McGill University, Montreal, tonight was named winner of Canada's top fiction award for his first novel.

Previously known as a writer of short stories, Mr. McDougall won the 1958 Governor General's award for fiction with Execution, in a story of a Canadian infantry battalion in the Italian campaign of the Second World War.

In announcing the Governor-General's literary awards for Canada, literature in 1958, J.J. Talman, chairman of the Awards Board, said he received 81 titles in competition in all categories, the largest number ever entered. Dr. J. Talman, chief librarian of the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont., is in his last year as chairman.

OTHER WINNERS

Four other awards:

Academic non-fiction: The History of Fanny Burney, by Prof. Joyce Hemlow, Montreal.

Creative non-fiction: Klondike, by Pierre Berton, Toronto.

Poetry: A Suit of Nettles, by James Reaney, Winnipeg.

The prize-winning novel reflects Mr. McDougall's own career as a writer. He fought in Italy as a company commander in the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, was awarded the DSO and mentioned in dispatches.

Mr McDougall has had short stories published in Canadian and United States magazines. One of them, The Firing Squad, was awarded the President's Medal of the University of Western Ontario and also won first prize in a Maclean's Magazine contest.

EARNS HIGH PRAISE

The History of Fanny Burney, by Miss Hemlow, who is a professor of English at McGi l University, was described by one of the judges as "a fine piece of research and literary work giving a fascinating picture of the manners and morals of the 18th and early 19th century".

Pierre Berton who won the creative non-fiction award is single for the Mysterious North, receives his second Governor-General's award for another story of the northland. He is well qualified to tell the story of the Klondike. His father rounded the Chilkoot and his own boyhood was spent in Dawson City. As a teen-ager he was a laborer in Klondike mining camps.

Mr. Berton now is an associate editor and co-unmist of the Toronto Star and a well-known television personality.

James Reaney, a member of the English department of the University of Manitoba, is also receiving his second Governor-General's Award. He won the award for poetry in 1949 for his collection The Red Heart. Last year he won the Stephen Leacock Medal of the University of Western Ontario for the best single poem for 1957. The award-winning book, A Suit of Nettles, is a sequence of seven short poems, one for each month of the year.

Miss Sharp won her first Governor-General's Award with her first book, the story of an Indian boy of the Iroquois tribe in what is now British Columbia.

The judges for the 1958 awards were:

Fiction: Dr. Carl F. Klinck, University of Western Ontario, London, Ont.; Prof. Malcolm Ross, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.; Bruce Peel, University of Alberta, Edmonton; W.H. Poole, London, Ont.

Academic Non-Fiction: Prof. C. A. Bennet, Da housie University, Halifax; Dr. Walter Balderston, University of Western Ontario; Dr. A.G. Dorland, Toronto; Prof. D.G. Kerr, University of Western Ontario.

Creative Non-Fiction: Maurice P. Boone, Legislative Library, Fredericton; W. Graham Allen, CBC, Ha ifax; Peter Melnikow, Winnipeg Free Press, Winnipeg.

Poetry: Dr. Ira Dilworth, Vancouver; Prof. Roy Daniells, University of British Columbia; Vancouver; Prof. George Whalley, Queen's U niversity.

Juveniles: Miss Beata M. Vanick s, St. Catharines, Ont.; Miss John Creighton, Vancouver; Mrs Grace Crooks, Ottawa Public Library, Orillia, Ont.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Miss Louise Nutt, Toronto, spent this weekend at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. William McCrea spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Laundry, East Lake. Mr. Laundry is ill and all wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Theodore Foster and Miss Norma Foster spent Friday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Baxter and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Welbanks, attended the Prince Edward County Junior Farmer dance at Tobe's on Friday evening.

Mrs. Ralph Stone and Mrs. Alan Baxter enjoyed the Robekah tea on Wednesday afternoon.

GOOD SEAMAN

Joseph Conrad, the writer of sea stories who died in 1924, held a British master mariner's certificate.

Your Car

Many Reasons Why Your Car May Overheat

By EUGENE MILMOE

Does your engine run too hot? If so, the natural suspects are the radiator, thermostat, hose, pressure cap, leakage, water pump, fan belt, engine passages. Overlooked all be blamelcss, what then?

There are many potential troublemakers. Overheating can result, for example if any of these conditions exist:

Ignition timing is off; carburetor mixture is too lean; exhaust system is blocked or restricted; manifold heat valve is sticking; distributor advance is defective; combustion chamber has hot spots; spark plugs overheat; cylinder head gasket is damaged; brakes are dragging; front wheel bearings are too tight or grease is absent; clutch is slipping; fuel gas is overloaded; engine oil transmission resistance is excessive.

* * *

A. J. writes: "Is there any truth to the story that a car parked in the hot sun with windows rolled up tightly can reach the cracked glass?"

(A.) It is possible for extreme heat build-up to bring on expansion of the glass, enough to cause shattering.

* * *

From T. O.: "The average gas mileage I get on city parks here is better than I can hope for whenever I drive on turnpikes or freeways. Yet, these are usually more tie-ups and slow-downs on the parkways which wastes gas, I am sure. Could the mileage difference be due to road surfaces?"

(A) This difference is probably due to speed limits. At 40 mph on city parkways, your gas mileage can average approximately 20 miles to the gallon more than when traveling at 60 mph speeds permitted on turnpikes and throughways.

* * *

P. F. asks: "Most of the winter my power steering was noisy when the car was first started, but during the last month or so it has quieted down. Apparently these systems are affected by cold weather—is that correct?"

(A) Cold weather can cause oil in the power steering to congeal or heavy up, straining the hydraulic system.

* * *

G. A. writes: "The horn on my daughter's car keeps blowing and couldn't be stopped until someone disconnected one of the wires. What causes a horn to stick like that?"

(A.) It happens when contacts in the horn relay stick, or if there is a ground in the wiring.

SHAKESPEARE'S ENGLISH

Although North America speaks English, we use words every day that are obsolete in England. They were current when the Pilgrims brought them over, as we are speaking Shakespearean language when we use them nowadays. An Englishman speaks of a "bonnet" of curls, while we say "deck". Shakespeare said "The king is slyly frogmarched from the deck".

The shoe which we call a "pump" is, in England, called a "Court" shoe. Shakespeare uses "pump" for "shoe" in Midsummer Night's Dream, The Taming of the Shrew, and Romeo and Juliet.

"Homesick" may sound American, but it was in use in England long before "pavement" was thought of. And there are so many more words that we have all during back to English as the Pilgrims spoke it.

When the Pilgrims came over, they made one of the longest long-distance moves ever given on record! Yes, they may have to move to another city some day, and when you do, just remember that Fox Cartage and Storage (United to "the last word in Moving and Storage. DR. AND MRS. W.J.

On May 24th an enjoyable communion luncheon was held at the Sterling Hotel for the ladies of St. James' Parish.

The Reverent J. O'Neil and 15 ladies of the parish had the pleasure of hearing an interesting talk by Reverend J. Henry, of Liverpool, England, who has recently joined the ladies by Mrs. R. Marbry, president of the W.A.

Father Henry told of how the seminary in England where he is the Reverent Lord's headmaster, was started, and of his work there.

Mrs. Stan Meeks thanked Father Henry and, on behalf of the ladies, presented him with a purse of money.

Father Henry has been in Canada for the past four weeks and has spent most of that time visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Parkinary of Stirling.

Father J. Henry left on Tuesday to return to his duties in England.

Threatened Rift Between Union, CLC Smoothed

MONTREAL (CP)—A threatened rift between the Canadian Labor Congress and one of its affiliates, the Seafarers' International Union, appears to have been smoothed over.

CLC president Claude Jodoin said here Thursday that Hal C. Banks, head of the Canadian section of the SIU has "expressed his desire and willingness to comply with all requirements of the CLC constitution."

Mr. Jodoin told the SIU's biennial convention he is happy with the outcome of talks about complaints by the National Association of Marine Engineers (CLC) that the SIU has raided its membership.

HAS BEEN WARNED

Asked later whether the CLC has lowered the SIU about raiding, Mr. Jodoin said ". . . in the past we told them time and time cease and desist certain actions."

Mr. Banks, in a prepared statement about a Canadian Press report from Ottawa Wednesday, denied that the SIU had ever raided any bona fide labor organization and said the union had never been informed it faced suspension from the CLC.

Mr. Banks said about the raiding:

"The only word we have ever heard is the word carried in Canadian Press stories. The CP has also reported that we face a 60-day suspension for this supposed raiding. I am certain that if such a decision had been reached by the CLC, we would have been informed accordingly."

THREATENED PULL-OUT

Mr. Banks had previously threatened to pull the SIU out of the CLC.

The CP reported April 30 after a closed meeting of the CLC executive council that the council had told the SIU to return stolen engineers' members within 60 days or be suspended.

On May 26, Arnold W. J. Smith of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (CLC) a member of the CLC executive council, said in a press statement the decision to suspend the SIU was taken April 27 following an exhaustive study of the raiding charges filed by the N.A.M.E.

Mr. Smith said the SIU was handed a directive that members raided from N.A.M.E. be handed back their C.D.s and that the suspension would go into effect.

Foxboro

BANQUET

FOXBORO — Lilacs and lilies made a pretty setting for a beautiful C.G.I.T. Mother and Daughter banquet in the United Church Sunday school rooms on Friday night. Thirty-eight persons were present and each mother was given a corsage when seated at the table.

The room and tables were decorated in the C.G.I.T. motif with menus and place cards at each plate.

Several guests were present and the guest speaker, Mrs. T. F. Townsend of Belleville, gave an inspiring address. She was presented with a lovely cup and saucer.

Several of the young people enjoyed a motor trip to Niagara Falls on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGee of Stirling and Mrs. Bernard Hollinger were Sunday callers of Mrs. Joe Hollinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Armstrong and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gil Thompson, Moira.

Mrs. Hubert Gay and Mrs. Bea Demille spent Wednesday visiting in Stirling with some of the former's sister, who is ill.

Several from the village attended the last races in Bewdley on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Maclean, Miss Helen Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. W. Chappelle and Sharon spent Sunday in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mitts and Dale, Stirling, were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly.

WELLINGTON

Rev. J. J. Rogers Inducted to St. Andrew's

WELLINGTON — Last Wednesday evening St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Wellington, was the scene of the institution and induction of the Rev. J. J. Rogers, B.A.

Beautiful flowers adorned the chancel and chapel. The flowers on the high altar were placed there by the choir of St. Andrew's to the Glory of God and in loving memory of Mrs. Craig Platt.

The opening prayers were given by the Rev. Canon A. B. McConnell, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville. Archdeacon J. B. Creegan of Christ Church Belleville, read the Mandate of Induction.

Following the institution by Bishop Lyons of Ontario, the church wardens presented their rector with the keys to the church and parish, on behalf of the congregations, as the archdeacon presented him as their lawful incumbent. The admonitions at the font, prayer desk, lectern, pulpit and altar were read by the Rev. L. Arthur Page, Rural Dean of Prince Edward, and responded to by the Rev. J. J. Rogers.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. R. B. Wright, rector of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Picton.

The Benediction was given by Bishop Evans. The chaplain to Bishop was the Rev. C. R. Gale, a former rector of the parish of Wellington and Hillier.

The choirs of Christ Church, Hillier and St. Andrew's joined for this special service. The organist was Mrs. Dayton Murphy.

Following the service, a reception was held in the Town Hall.
